6875a. —— Profit costs—Solicitor co-liquidator.]—One of two liquidators in the voluntary winding up of a limited co. was a solr., who acted on behalf of the other liquidator & himself in certain proceedings. The proceedings resulted in a compromise by which, inter alia, the liquidators' costs were to be paid. On taxation of the costs it was objected that as the solr. was one of the liquidators he could not charge any profit costs for the work done by him in the proceedings. The liquidators contended that profit costs should be allowed on the principle that where one of two trustees acts on behalf of himself & his co-trustee in litigious proceedings he is entitled to charge his profit costs. The registrar held that that principle did not apply to one of two joint liquidators, on the ground that it was excluded by the Cos. (Winding-up) Rules, 1929, r. 158:—Held: (1) the Cos. (Winding-up) Rules, 1929, r. 158, prohibits any arrangement for any remuneration beyond the remuneration to which a liquidator is entitled under 1929 Act, or the Cos. (Winding-up) Rules, 1929; (2) there must have been some arrangement made between the two liquidators, whereby the solr. had become entitled to some remuneration beyond that to which he was entitled under the Act or rules, & the solr. was therefore prohibited from receiving profit costs whilst acting as solr. for himself & his co-liquidator.—Re GERTZENSTEIN, LTD., [1937] Ch. 115; [1936] 3 All E. 6880a. Costs of opposing petition for compulsory winding up—Disallowed on taxation.—Allowed to voluntary liquidator.]—A co. passed a resolution for voluntary winding up Five days later a petition was presented by a creditor for a compulsory order, & a month later the usual compulsory order with the usual order as to costs was made. The voluntary liquidator appeared on the petition in opposition to it. On the taxation of costs the registrar disallowed certain items of costs incurred by the liquidator after the resolution but before the petition was heard, including the costs of consultations by the liquidator & of obtaining counsel's opinion. The solr. to the liquidator then brought in a further bill of costs, including items disallowed on the previous taxation, but allowable on a taxation between solr. & client:—Held: these costs, which were costs incurred by the liquidator in opposing a compulsory order, were properly allowed, in the discretion of the ct.—Re ADLER (WILLIAM) & CO., LTD., [1935] Ch. 138; 104 L. Resolutions of extraordinary general meetings were regularly passed & confirmed for extending the business to marine insurance. The marine business was mentioned in the annual returns to the registry office. & referred to in reports & circulars, & on one occasion a report on the marine business was sent out with the dividend warrants. A deed extending the purposes of the co. to sea risks was executed by some only of the shareholders; but it did not appear that any shareholder had objected to the marine business being carried on. About one & a half years after the commencement of the marine business the co. was wound up:—Held: (1) there was no such acquiescence by the shareholders as to entitle the holders of marine policies to prove in respect of them; (2) the premiums paid might be proved against the co.—Re PHŒNIX LIFE ASSURANCE CO., BURGES & STOCK'S CASE (1862), 2 John. & H. 441; 31 L. 6950a. —— Postponed to income tax on profits made by liquidator.]—A co. incorporated in 1907 owned & worked mines & transport facilities in Algeria under concessions from the French Govt. In Dec. 1925, the ct. sanctioned a scheme for the transfer to two French cos. of the whole of the co.'s undertaking & assets, except cash & assets sufficient to repay the co.'s preference share capital, & a resolution for voluntary liquidation was passed. The co.'s manager was appointed liquidator at a salary of £1,000 a year & its creditors were told that the liquidation was purely formal & they would be paid in full. The assets excepted from the undertakings to be acquired by the French cos. were not enough to repay the whole of the co.'s preference share capital &, under a provision in the scheme, payments on account amounting altogether to five shillings in the pound were made to preference shareholders in 1925 & 1926. Owing to various difficulties created by causes which included the general strike of 1926, the scheme could be carried out only by allowing the French cos. to work the mines & transport facilities by means of moneys which the co. provided by realising the ores. The amount of the disbursements which the co. had to make exceeded that produced by realising the ores, & from June, 1928, the liquidator could preserve the assets only by borrowing & by means of an overdraft granted by the co.'s bank. In 1929 an assessment under Sched. D of the Income Tax Act, 1918, was made on the co. for the year 1929-1930 ; in Mar. 1930, an assessment was made on it for the year 1926-1927 ; & in Oct. 1930, another assessment was made on it for the year 1929-1930. None of the amounts due under those assessments were paid. Before the liquidator had received the notice of the last assessment the co.'s mine had been closed down, & before the date of this summons the French cos. had gone into liquidation & the French liquidator on their behalf claimed & took possession of the assets in Algeria out of which the amounts due under the assessments could otherwise have been paid. Included in the disbursements made by the co. were sums which the liquidator had retained as remuneration & on account of travelling expenses. The liquidator stated in an affidavit that he had received no remuneration since 1931, that he had had no funds in hand since June, 1928, & that he had since Apr. 1931, spent all his assets to maintain himself & was practically destitute at the date of this summons :—Held : (1) income tax to which a co. has been assessed in respect of profits earned after the commencement of the winding up is not within the words " . . .

of capital.]—A clause in a co.'s memorandum of association in force at the date of a resolution for voluntary winding up provided that the co.'s preference shares should confer the right to a fixed cumulative preferential dividend & to half the surplus profits for each year after payment (or provision for the payment) of a specified dividend on the co.'s ordinary shares, & that the preference shares should rank with regard both to dividends & to capital in priority to the ordinary shares. The co.'s arts. of assocn. in force at the date of the resolution for winding up provided (inter alia) that the co.'s profits which it should be determined to divide in any year should be applied, first, in paying a fixed cumulative preferential dividend to the preference shareholders, secondly, in paying a specified dividend to the ordinary shareholders, & thirdly, as to half in paying a further dividend to the preference shareholders, & as to half in paying a further dividend to the ordinary shareholders. The arts. further provided (inter alia) that capital paid up on shares in advance of calls upon the footing that it should carry interest should not while carrying interest confer a right to participate in profits, that the co. in general meeting might declare a dividend to be paid to the members according to their rights & interests in the profits, that no larger dividend should be declared than was recommended by the directors but that the co. in general meeting might declare a smaller dividend, & that no dividend should be payable except out of the co.'s profits or should carry interest against the co.

Under clause 5 of the articles of assocn. the preference shareholders were entitled (1) to a fixed cumulative dividend at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum on their paid up capital, & after payment of 5 per cent. on the ordinary shares to an additional one-half per cent. for each 1 per cent. in excess of 5 per cent. paid on the ordinary shares, & (2) to priority in the event of a winding up both as to the cumulative dividend & return of capital.

In 1929, the co. went into voluntary liquidation, & after payment of all debts & return to the shareholders of the capital paid up on their shares there was a surplus available for distribution of £10,000:—Held: on a summons taken out by the liquidator, there being nothing in the articles to modify or exclude the normal right of the preference shareholders to share in the distribution of the surplus assets, they were entitled to rank pari passu with the ordinary shares in such distribution.—Re JOHN DRY STEAM TUGS, LTD., [1932] 1 Ch. 594; 101 L. The liquidator summarily discharged its manageress, who sued the co. for wrongful dismissal & obtained judgment in default of defence. She applied for a garnishee order on a bank account in the name of the liquidator. There was no evidence of any other claims on the co. The master refused to make the order absolute, but the judge in chambers reversed his decision. The liquidator appealed :—Held : (1) this being a members' voluntary winding up, it must be taken that the co. was solvent, as there was no evidence to the contrary. Exemption—Finance Act, 1927 (c. 10), s. 55—Issue of shares in transferee company to holders of shares in existing company—Issue to nominees.]—A new co. was formed for the purpose of acquiring from the " B." co. its property & assets. An agreement for sale was entered into on Oct. 22, 1928, by which the " B." co. agreed to sell & the new co. agreed to purchase all the undertaking & assets of the " B." co., the consideration being the allotment to the liquidator of the " B." co. or his nominees of 600,000 preference shares of the new co. of £1 each fully paid & 3,600,000 ordinary shares of the new co. of 1*s.* each fully paid. On Nov. 22, 1928, the appointment of the liquidator was confirmed, & he adopted the agreement for sale. On Oct. 22 about 26 shareholders in the " B." co. held the whole of the 120,000 shares in that co. On Nov. 22, 88,000 shares out of those 120,000 shares were held by the solrs. of the " B." co. as bare trustees for the transferors, who were, as to 45,500 shares, eight shareholders, & as to 42,500 shares, the purchaser of those shares from seven shareholders in the " B." co. Shares in the new co. were allotted to the registered holders of 11,200 shares of the " B." co. in respect of those shares. The holders of the remaining 108,800 shares of the " B." co. requested the liquidator of the " B." co. to procure the allotment of the shares in the new co. to which they were entitled to persons other than themselves, & the shares were so allotted by the new co. In the case of a considerable number of shares, exceeding 10 per cent. of the total consideration for sale to the new co. under the agreement for sale, they were allotted to persons who had agreed to purchase either shares of the " B." co. or shares of the new co. to which registered holders of shares in the " B." co. were entitled. As a consequence the first registered holders of shares in the new co. were to an extent far exceeding 10 per cent. of such shares, & far exceeding 10 per cent. of the total consideration for the sale, persons who were not holders of shares in the " B." co. The Comrs. of Inland Revenue held that the agreement for sale was liable to ad valorem duty under Stamp Act, 1891 (c. 39), s. 59 :—Held : the issue of shares to purchasers from, or other nominees of, holders of shares in the " B." co. was not the issue of shares to holders of shares in the " B." co. within Finance Act, 1927 (c. 10), s. 55, & therefore the new co. were not entitled to exemption under that sect.—BROTEX CELLULOSE FIBRES, LTD. v. INLAND REVENUE COMRS., [1933] 1 K. I. co. or their nominees of 30,000 ordinary shares in the M. co. The agreement & subsequent transfers were executed as part of a scheme for the amalgamation of the P. co. & the M. co. The I. C. (hereinafter respectively called "Dormans" & "South Durham"), provisionally agreed that Dormans should acquire South Durham's undertaking & assets. Two schemes of arrangement were prepared, one between Dormans, its 5½ per cent. debenture stockholders & its shareholders, & the other between South Durham & its debenture stockholders & shareholders, each scheme being conditional on the ct.'s sanctioning the other before the end of 1933. On June 19, the ct. ordered that Dormans & South Durham should convene separate meetings of their interested debenture stockholders & of their classes of shareholders, to consider & if thought fit approve the respective schemes, by letter enclosing a print of the scheme & a proxy in the form settled in chambers. On June 20, a circular signed by South Durham's secretary, a notice of the meetings, & forms of proxy settled in chambers, were sent to South Durham's debenture stockholders & shareholders. The circular stated (inter alia) that a revaluation of South Durham's assets had been made by its auditors & confirmed by two named gentlemen. The forms of proxy purported to appoint a certain person as proxy, leaving the donor of the proxy to write "for" or "against" before the words "the scheme." The meetings were to be held on July 19, & a note at the foot of the proxy stated that the proxy must be lodged not later than noon on July 15. On July 3 a circular signed by Dormans' secretary, notices of the meetings ordered by the ct. of its debenture stockholders & shareholders, proxies in the form settled in Chambers, & voting cards, were sent to Dormans' debenture stockholders & shareholders. The circular stated (inter alia) that the whole of Dormans' assets had been revalued upon the basis of their earning power & that the revaluation had been confirmed by two named gentlemen. These were the gentlemen who had confirmed the revaluation of South Durham's assets. The circular stated also that the trustees for the stockholders, after careful investigation, recommended the scheme for the stockholders' approval. It did not state the figures arrived at in the revaluation, nor did it state that, as was the fact, the trustees for the stockholders, who were a bank which had financed Dormans, stood to benefit by the scheme. The forms of proxy were substantially the same as those sent out with South Durham's circular, the date of the meetings being July 27, & the proxies being required to be lodged not later that 6 p.m. on July 25.

Along the side of each voting card was written in red ink "If you are voting as proxy for other holder(s), please write the name of holder(s) on the back of this card." July 3 & July 10, H., a shareholder in South Durham, wrote to its shareholders criticising the scheme & asking them not to sign proxies in favour of it but to sign proxies against it which he enclosed with his second letter. At South Durham's meetings H.'s proxies were rejected as being in a form different from that settled in Chambers, & certain proxies also were rejected as having been lodged after the time fixed for lodging proxies. The chairman reported that, if H.'s proxies were excluded, the scheme would be carried by the requisite statutory majority, & that if they were admitted there would be a majority in number, but not the three-fourths' majority in value, in favour of the scheme. On July 19, a committee of debenture stockholders in Dormans who opposed the scheme, among whom was L., sent a circular to about half the total number of holders of £200 or more 5½ per cent. debenture stock, asking them to vote against it. Many replied that they wished to revoke the proxies they had lodged & vote against the scheme, but feared that it would be too late. At the meeting of Dormans' debenture stockholders, voting cards with the red ink sidenote on them were handed to those attending, & the chairman asked that they would record their votes on them. At the meeting certain proxies were rejected on the ground that they had been lodged after the time fixed for lodging proxies. The chairman reported that at all of Dormans' meetings resolutions approving the scheme without modification were passed. Petitions asking for the ct.'s sanction to the respective schemes came on for hearing on Nov. 22, Dormans' petition being opposed by the debenture stockholders, of whose committee L. was a member, & South Durham's by H. On the hearing of Dormans' petition L. stated in an affidavit that he had no instructions with his voting card, that by request he (L.) took a vote by show of hands on the chairman's refusing to do so & declared the resolution approving the scheme lost, & that the chairman left the room. The chairman gave evidence denying that he left the meeting before the vote was taken & another witness denied that the statements in L.'s affidavit about the meeting were accurate. The confirmation of the schemes by the ct. was sought under 1929 Act, sects. 153 & 154, sects. giving power to compromise with creditors & members & providing for facilitating reconstruction & amalgamation of cos. :—Held : (1) in determining whether a compromise or arrangement should be sanctioned, the ct. must be satisfied that the resolutions in favour of it sufficient, & misleading in its reference t the approval of the scheme by the trustee for the stockholders, & should have state the amount of the revaluation; (5) th description in South Durham's circular of th auditors' report as if it were a valuation o South Durham's assets was justified only i the report was prepared solely in order to ascertain the relative values of the assets of Dormans & South Durham, the opinions of South Durham's board were justified on an optimistic view, & the board had acted reasonably & in the best interests of those concerned.—Re DORMAN, LONG & CO., LTD., Re SOUTH DURHAM STEEL & IRON CO., LTD., [1934] Ch. 635; 103 L. 7385a. Discretion of court as to acquisition of shares of dissentient shareholders—Terms must be adequate & reasonable.]—Upon a petition to sanction a scheme of arrangement & amalgamation under Cos. Act, 1929 (c. 23), s. 155, the ct. has power to determine the terms upon which the shares of shareholders who have dissented from the scheme approved by the majority shall be acquired, notwithstanding that since the original offer was made the scheme has been superseded by a later amalgamation which has absorbed the transferee co., & the fact that petitioners cannot offer to the dissentients the original shares accepted by the majority makes no difference to the jurisdiction of the ct., which is only bound to decide whether the terms offered are adequate & reasonable, & if not, to substitute such other terms of purchase as, in its discretion, are fair & just.—Re CASTNER-KELLNER ALKALI CO., LTD., [1930] 2 Ch. 349; 99 L. sf. Object of scheme—Clarification of rights.]—(1) The existence of reasonable doubts as to the rights of shareholders under the memorandum of assocn. of a co. is a ground warranting the ct. in sanctioning a scheme of arrangement the effect of which is to remove those doubts.

A limited co. consisted of three classes of shareholders, viz. A., B. & C., whose respective rights were determined by clause 5 of the memorandum of assocn. Questions having arisen as to the rights of the A. shareholders under clause 5, the co. proposed a scheme of arrangement by which clause 5 was to be replaced by a new clause, the effect of which was to determine exactly the rights of the A. shareholders :—Held : as the proposed scheme was one which would commend itself to a reasonable business man, it would receive the sanction of the ct.

7404a. —— Different classes of creditors—Meaning of.]—By sect. 2 of the Joint Stock Cos. Arrangement Act, 1870 (c. 104), where an arrangement is proposed between a co. in the course of being wound up & " the creditors of such co., or any class of such creditors," the ct. may order that a meeting of " such creditors or class of creditors " shall be summoned, & if a majority in number, representing three-fourths in value of " such creditors or class of creditors," agree to the arrangement, it shall, if sanctioned by an order of the ct., be binding on " all such creditors or class of creditors, as the case may be," & also on the liquidator & contributories of the co. The persons summoned to the meeting under the above sect. were the policy-holders of the co., & no separate meeting was summoned of those whose policies had, as distinct from those whose policies had not, matured:—Held: the insured persons whose policies had matured formed a distinct class of creditors from those whose policies had not matured; a separate meeting of such class ought to have been held under the Act in order to make the arrangement binding upon the members of that class; & the arrangement did not, therefore, operate as a release by deft. of his claim against pltfs.—SOVEREIGN LIFE ASSURANCE CO. v. DODD, [1892] 2 Q. Objections to—Should be taken on petition for sanction.]—In proceedings under 1929 Act, sect. 153, for the sanction by the ct. of a compromise or arrangement between a co. & its creditors, or any class of them, EVE, J., said that the responsibility for determining what creditors are to be summoned to any meeting, as constituting a class, is the appct.'s, & if the meetings are incorrectly convened or constituted, or an objection is taken to the presence of any particular creditors as having interests competing with the others, the objection must be taken on the hearing of the petition for sanction, & the appct. must take the risk of having it dismissed.—PRACTICE NOTE, [1934] W. Proxies not according to this form will be properly rejected.

(2) On a scheme of arrangement being sanctioned, the ct. refused to re-appoint the original trustees for the debenture-holders, it having been proved that they had refused to give information to the debenture-holders as to the trust estate, & had in fact acquired debentures from their cestuis que trust at inadequate prices, & not in their own names, but in the names of cos. controlled by them.

(3) Trustees for debenture-holders are in no different position from other trustees, except that, unlike many other trustees, they are remunerated for their services, & whether the mtgor. co. is a going concern, or whether the security is being realised for the benefit of debenture-holders, the conduct of the trustees is controlled by the same rules, subjected to the same restrictions, & measured

(2) The unsuccessful objector then moved that the co. should be found liable for his expenses, on the ground that dissentient shareholders should not be discouraged from bringing to the notice of the ct. considerations which might reasonably influence the ct. in arriving at a right decision. The ct. refused this motion, but, on consent of petitioners, found no expenses due to or by either party in connection with the discussion on the objector's note.—EDINBURGH RAILWAY ACCESS & PROPERTY CO. v. SCOTTISH METROPOLITAN ASSURANCE CO., [1932] S. Act, 1909 (c. 49), & Road Traffic Act, 1930 (c. 43), s. 42, & rules thereunder, securities to the value of £15,000 in respect of motor vehicle insurance. The securities so deposited increased in market value, & the co. sought to exchange them for other securities to the value of £15,000. The questions arose whether an application to the ct. should be made by petition or by summons in Chambers, & whether the co. had any such right :—Held : (1) if the £15,000 deposit had been made in cash, no variation could occur, &, therefore, if securities were deposited in lieu of cash, on the one hand the co. could not demand as of right to change those securities if they appreciated in value, nor, on the other hand, could the Paymaster-General demand further security in case of a depreciation in value of the securities deposited ; (2) if the application were to withdraw the securities, the application must be by petition to the ct., but if it were for a mere change of investment it must be by summons ; (3) in either case the Board of Trade must be consulted in the first place, & the ct. has discretion to pass such order as it may deem just in the particular circumstances.—Re GENERAL ACCIDENT, FIRE & LIFE ASSURANCE CORPN., LTD., [1933] Ch. 349 ; 102 L. 7551a. Winding-up of reinsurer—Claim against insuring company—Set-off.]—By a treaty of reinsurance dated Apr. 13, 1920, between two insurance cos. the reinsurer accepted a share of all insurances accepted by or renewed by the insuring co. in its fire department. By Art. VIII. of the treaty the insuring co. was entitled to retain & accumulate out of money due to the reinsurer a sum equal to 40 per cent. of the share of all premiums credited to the reinsurer in the first year, this sum to remain as a deposit to secure the due performance of the reinsurer's obligation. The insuring co. was to be entitled to retain deposit, or any balance remaining after satisfying any obligation in respect of which the reinsurer might make default, until the determination of the agreement, paying the reinsurer interest at 3½ per cent. per annum on any part of the deposit not used in manner aforesaid. By Art. IX. the agreement was immediately determinable by notice on the reinsurer going into liquidation. On Jan. 31, 1922, the reinsurer presented its own winding-up petition, & on Feb. 1, 1922, the insuring co. gave notice determining the agreement. On Feb. 14, 1922, a compulsory order was made for the winding up of the reinsurer. After all obligations under the treaty had been satisfied, there remained in the possession of the insuring co. a sum of over £8,000 out of the deposit & a sum of accrued interest. The liquidator of the reinsurer took out a summons for a declaration that the insuring co. was bound to pay over the deposit & interest in full. The insuring co. claimed to be entitled to set them off against sums due to it from the reinsurer under other treaties & policies of insurance & reinsurance :—Held : (1) the interest was a debt due from the insuring co. to the reinsurer & fell therefore within Bkpcy. Act, 1914 (c. 59), s. 31, as being one of a number of mutual credits or debts arising between the parties, & that there was therefore a right of set-off in regard to it; (2) the deposit being money handed over to the insuring co. for a specific purpose, the balance remaining after satisfying the specific purpose continued to be excluded from the course of account between the parties & could not be the subject of a set-off. —Re CITY EQUITABLE FIRE INSURANCE CO., LTD. In May, 1930, the official liquidator of the co. informed all policy-holders in the co. that the co. would not carry out its obligations under the policies. Between Jan. & May, 1930, certain policy-holders paid their premiums as they became due to the official liquidator. He placed the moneys so received in a special account. The policy-holders claimed that the moneys should be repaid to them. The liquidator now applied to the ct. for directions as to how he should deal with these moneys : —Held : the winding-up order did not determine the policies, & as by virtue of paying the premiums the policy-holders had become entitled to prove in the liquidation for the full amount insured, in the event of the policy maturing prior to repudiation they were not now entitled to the repayment of the premiums, &, therefore, the moneys should be retained by the liquidator as assets of the co.—Re FEDERAL BUILDING ASSURANCE CO., LTD. 8370 i. By issue of debentures—On completion of portion of railway—Issue before completion.]—The B. & W. Ry. Co., whose borrowing powers were not to arise until a certain portion of their line should have been open for traffic, entered into an agreement with the S. & W. Ry. Co. that, if the latter co. would advance them a sufficient sum to enable them to complete that portion of the line, they, the B. & W. Co., would, when their borrowing powers arose, issue & deliver to the S. & W. Co. a sufficient amount of debentures to enable them to repay themselves the sum which they should so advance. In pursuance of this agreement, the S. & W. Co. paid, from time to time, the contractor's accounts, until the portion of the line required by the B. & W. Co.'s special Act to be open for traffic before the borrowing powers should arise was completed. The S. & W. Co. advanced in that way £12,000. The B. & W. Co.'s borrowing powers having arisen, they issued & delivered to the S. & W. Co. debentures to secure that advance :—Held : there was nothing illegal in that contract, & the debentures were valid to the extent of £12,000, the sum actually advanced.—Re BAGNALSTOWN & WEXFORD RY. The liquidator took out a summons to determine (inter alia) the rights of debenture-holders as against unsecured creditors, & the extent of the charge created by the debentures:—Held: the tramway having altogether ceased to exist as a going concern, the debenture-holders were entitled to a charge on all the assets, including proceeds of sale of realised assets & uncalled capital, in priority to the claims of unsecured creditors.—Re GLYN VALLEY TRAMWAY CO., [1937] Ch. 465; [1937] 3 All E. 8481c. Surplus assets — Distribution between original & surplus capital.]—No provision was made in the memorandum or articles of a statutory co., which had a capital of £10,000, either for the distribution of surplus assets in the event of a winding up or for dividends, except that the directors could declare a dividend to the members in proportion to their shares. In 1902 an order, which was confirmed by statute, was made providing for an increase of the capital to £18,000 by an issue of additional shares. The order provided that the undertakers should not make a larger dividend payment than one of 10 per cent. on the original capital & one of 7 per cent. on the additional capital. There was no provision with regard to the distribution of surplus assets & there was nothing else to distinguish the two classes of capital. In 1936 the co.'s undertaking was sold & the co. was wound up. A question arose as to the distribution of surplus assets in the hands of the liquidator after payment of the debts of the co. & after paying to the shareholders the amount paid up on their shares. The surplus assets represented inter alia the proceeds of the carrying on of the undertaking since the last dividend was declared & paid:—Held: (1) as no dividend had been declared by the directors before the winding up, the surplus assets could not be distributed partly as dividend & partly as capital; (2) the surplus assets should be distributed pari passu between the holders of both classes of share capital.—Re SYSTON & THURMASTON GAS, LIGHT & COKE CO., LTD., [1937] 2 All E. 8523a. —— ——.]—A bank incorporated in Russia in 1911, with British shareholders holding a majority of the shares, established a branch in London under separate management in 1915. In 1917 the Bolshevist revolution took place, & the bank ceased to carry on any business in Russia, its last general meeting being held at Petrograd in June, 1917. In 1921 an action was commenced in the name of the bank by British shareholders to recover two sums of £100,000 & £80,000, forming part of a credit lodged by the former Russian Govt. with defts., an English bank, & alleged to have been assigned to pltfs. Pleadings were delivered, but the action lay dormant for several years, after which pleadings were amended & the A.-G. was added as a deft. At some uncertain date, either before or shortly after the action was launched, pltfs. were dissolved & ceased to exist as a corpn. at Russian law by virtue of a decree of the Soviet Government:—Held: on a procedure summons taken out by defts., the action must be stayed indefinitely, as pltfs. no longer existed either in Russia or in Great Britain.

8523d. —— ——.]—By a decree dated June 20, 1936, the Italian government purported to dissolve the Bank of Ethiopia. The Emperor Haile Selassie had left Abyssinia on May 1 or 2, 1936. In an action begun on Sept. 29, 1936, the Bank of Ethiopia made claims against the National Bank of Egypt (its correspondent in Cairo & London), & against the liquidator appointed pursuant to the Italian decree. In the action direction was made for the trial of the issue whether the Bank of Ethiopia had been dissolved or had otherwise ceased to exist by virtue of the laws of the country under the laws whereof it was incorporated, or, if it had not so ceased to exist, whether the action had been brought with its authority. On Apr. 28, 1937, the Emperor Haile Selassie, in England, signed a decree purporting to empower all cos. incorporated under Ethiopian law to hold valid meetings of their members & of their councils of administration & to carry on business outside Abyssinia. On Apr. 29, 1937, the issue came before the Ct. for trial. During the hearing there was put before the ct. a certificate from the Foreign Office showing that the British government, in Dec. 1936, recognised the Italian government as being in fact (de facto) the government of the area province on a contract made out of the province with respect to property situate outside of the province; but the pltf. foreign co. must prove its incorporation under the laws of the country in which it alleges it is incorporated.

A certificate, purporting to be under the hand & seal of the Secretary of State for a certain state of the United States of America, to the effect that the document attached thereto contains a true & correct copy of the charter of the pltf. co. is not receivable in evidence to prove that the co. is incorporated in that state. But applying K. 8527b. —— Company extinct—Judgment by default—Garnishee proceedings—Invalid.]—On Oct. 29, 1930, a writ was issued by applts. against a Moscow bank, hereinafter called the Industrial Bank, claiming £362,396 15*s.* as a debt & interest; an affidavit was sworn on which an order was made for service of notice of the writ on the Industrial Bank at Moscow. On Nov. 24, 1930, judgment was entered for applts. in default of appearance. On Nov. 28, 1930, applts. received a letter from the Soviet Embassy, dated Nov. 27, 1930, returning the notices of the writ & stating that they could not be delivered as the Industrial Bank went out of existence during the 1917 Oct. revolution. On Dec. 12, 1930, the applts. obtained a garnishee order nisi against resps., who were indebted to the Industrial Bank for a sum in excess of the sum for which applts. had obtained judgment. A copy of the order was sent on the same day to the Industrial Bank but was returned marked "unknown."

On the questions whether the garnishee order nisi should be set aside on the ground that the judgment was a nullity, having been signed against a non-existent deft., since the Industrial Bank had ceased to exist as a juristic person before the date of the writ, & further whether the order should not also be set aside on the ground that there was no proper service on defts. even if existent:—Held: (1) the English ct. recognised that the governing authority in Russia was, & had been since Oct. 1917, the Soviet State, & the Russian Soviet law, as to whether the Industrial Bank was in Oct. 1930, an existing juristic person, was a question of fact which must be proved by qualified expert evidence as to the foreign law & decided by the judge alone; the evidence compelled the conclusion that the Industrial Bank was by Soviet law non-existent in Russia in 1930, & therefore the judgment & garnishee proceedings must be set aside; (2) the discretion of the ct. ought to be exercised to set aside the order for service of the writ, & in refusing to treat the judgment as of sufficient foundation for a garnishee order, as the affidavit had not properly disclosed the position, & because no reference was therein made to the procedure provided for such cases by R. S. C., Ord. 11, r. 8, which, if it had been complied with would have resulted in the judge becoming aware of the impossibility of service of the notice of the writ; (3) at the material time the procedure under R. S. C., Ord. 11, was mandatory, the relevant words being "the following procedure shall be adopted"

& not as now permissive by the substitution since made by the Rules Committee of the word "may" for the word "shall." Accordingly, apart from the want of accuracy in the affidavit, the order for substituted service was made by an incompetent procedure & was a nullity. The judgment, therefore, based on such service & the subsequent garnishee proceedings failed.—LAZARD BROS. & Co. v. MIDLAND BANK, LTD., [1933] A. C. 289; 102 L. J. K. B. 191; 148 L. T. 242; 49 T. 8527d. —— —— Setting aside judgment.]—A Chilean co. was formed under Chilean law by the making of two decrees in Mar. & Apr. 1931. On Jan. 2, 1933, a Presidential decree was issued declaring that the two former decrees creating the co. were repealed & left without effect. On Jan. 19, 1933, a judgment in favour of the then pltfs. (the present defts.) was given in an action in the English High Ct. against the co. Pltfs. in the present action, members of a Liquidation Commission appointed to take over the assets lately belonging to the Chilean co., claimed a declaration that the judgment given in the English High Ct. was null & void:—Held: the effect of the Presidential decree was that the co., although it had had a de facto existence, never came into legal existence & was not a de jure entity, & was non-existent at the time when the judgment was given against it. The present pltfs. were therefore entitled to a declaration that the judgment against the co. was null & void as having been given against a non-existent deft.—BURR v. ANGLO-FRENCH 282; 49 T. L. In 1909 it began business in London, filed particulars with the Registrar of Cos., & registered the names & addresses of persons authorised to accept service in England on its behalf. The bank at all material times consisted of more than eight members. Petitioner claimed to be a creditor for over £23,000, & asked that the bank should be wound up. Expert evidence for him expressed the view that the bank had ceased to exist as a result of decrees made under

A similar order, subsequently made by the Supreme Ct. of Victoria, provided that the Victorian winding up should be conducted as ancillary to that in New South Wales. The Victorian liquidator had in hand £1,665, proceeds of realisation:—Held: upon the New South Wales liquidator giving security to the satisfaction of the prothonotary in the sum of £1,500 that the Victorian assets would be applied to the satisfaction of the claims of the Victorian creditors pari passu with other claims of the same class, all moneys in the hands of the Victorian liquidator, after deducting the costs of the winding-up, including the liquidator's remuneration, should be remitted to the New South Wales liquidator.—Re AUSTRALIAN FEDERAL LIFE & GENERAL ASSURANCE CO., LTD. the laws of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, which decrees had transferred its assets to the Soviet Govt., & that payment could not be demanded from any person or body of persons. Petitioner's debt was disputed & the bank opposed the petition on the ground, also supported by expert evidence, that it could not have ceased to exist as long as it had, as it claimed to have in London & Paris, branches with which the Soviet Govt. had not dealt & which it had not taken over. Pursuant to an order of the Registrar the petition had been served upon the persons registered as authorised to accept service in England, & no question was raised before the ct. as to the validity of the service :—Held : (1) the result of the Russian revolutionary legislation of 1917 & the following years was to put an end to the juristic existence of banking companies incorporated in Russia, including those which had branches established in England ; (2) apart from that conclusion, the impossibility of a branch of such a Russian bank continuing to function according to its incorporating statutes was a sufficient ground for a winding-up order ; (3) such an order might be made even if the debt of the petitioning creditor was in dispute ; (4) the Soviet decrees could not have the effect of extinguishing or transferring debts regarded in English law as being locally situate in England ; (5) the ct.'s jurisdiction was not affected by the circumstance that the Soviet Govt. which, up to the date of the judgment on the petition, had not intervened, might possibly establish a claim to some part of the assets.—Re RUSSIAN BANK FOR FOREIGN TRADE, [1933] Ch. 745 ; 102 L. —— —— —— —— ——.]—By the Lanchester Inclosure Act, 1773, the moors & commons of the manor of Lanchester, Durham, were divided & allotted. The Act provided that the lord of the manor & his assigns should have, hold & enjoy all mines & minerals within & under the allotments, with full & free liberty of searching for, draining, winning & working the mines & minerals by any ways or means then in use or thereafter to be invented as fully & freely as he might or could have had, held, used & enjoyed the same in case that Act had not been made without paying any damages or making any satisfaction for so doing; & also that the annual rental of a certain allotment to the justices should be applied in or towards the compensation of those allottees whose allotments were damnified by the exercise of the lord's mining rights, & that any deficiency should be made up by means of a rate levied upon all the allottees:—Held: (1) the case was governed by the decision of the Ct. of Appeal in Consett Waterworks Co. v. Ritson, No. 901, ante, which was a decision on the identical question arising on the construction of the same Act & in the same circumstances, & although the reasoning upon which that decision was founded had been disapproved of by the House of Lords in Butterknowle Colliery Co. v. Bishop Auckland Industrial Co., No. 905, post, the decision itself had not been overruled & was therefore binding upon the ct., & defts. had a right to work the mines so as to let down the surface of the land without paying damages or making any compensation to pltfs.; (2) (YOUNGER, L.J.) the decision at which the Ct. of Appeal had felt itself compelled to arrive in deference to authority binding upon it might quite well have been reached on the construction of the Act itself apart altogether from the decision by which it was bound.—CONSETT INDUSTRIAL & PROVIDENT SOCIETY, LTD. v. CONSETT IRON CO., [1922] 2 Ch. 135; 91 L. 133a. —— For pleasure gardens & street widening—Part used for pleasure garden—May be subsequently used for street widening.]—A local authority bought land in 1896 for the purposes of: (1) street widening; (2) making new streets; (3) providing public walks & pleasure gardens. The land was conveyed to the local authority for the purposes authorised by the Public Health Acts. A plan & specifications were submitted to the Local Government Board, & subsequently the scheme was carried out in accordance with the plan & specifications. The pleasure gardens were surrounded by railings, & were not dedicated or open to the public. In 1927 the local authority resolved to utilise one of the pleasure grounds for the purpose of street widening & providing a parking place for motor cars. Objections were raised by some of the occupiers of adjoining premises, & an action was brought to restrain the local authority from carrying out their resolution:—Held: as one of the purposes for which the land was acquired was street widening, the local authority was not acting ultra vires in using part of the pleasure gardens for that purpose.—A.-G. v. SUNDERLAND CORPN., [1929] 2 Ch. 436; 45 T. 263a. —— ——.]—By a private Act the President of the Air Council was authorised to enter upon, take & use all or any of certain lands, & also to construct a certain new thoroughfare. By sect. 2 he was authorised to stop up a portion of a certain lane known as Plough-lane. By sect. 5, "subject as hereinafter provided the Lands Clauses Acts are for the purpose of the acquisition of land under this Act incorporated with this Act." Then followed several exceptions, which did not specify sect. 68 of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, which deals with injurious affection. Lands were taken by the President under the special Act, & the said portion of Plough-lane was stopped up.

The claimant owned a dwelling-house in Plough-lane, not the part stopped up. No lands of the claimant were taken by the President under the Act, but his premises were depreciated in value to the extent of £100, through the stopping up of a portion of Plough-lane, rendering his premises less accessible in one direction. The claimant claimed compensation in respect of the stopping up of this portion of Plough-lane. On the hearing of an award in the form of a special case stated by an official arbitrator under Acquisition of Land (Assessment of Compensation) Act, 1919 (c. 57), s. 6 (1), it was contended for the President of the Air Council that the claimant had no right to claim compensation on the ground that no portion of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, was incorporated with the special Act as regards sect. 2 thereof, which was not a sect. for the purpose of the acquisition of land, but one merely authorising the closing of a thoroughfare; & also on the ground that sect. 68 of the Act of 1845 was not incorporated with the Special Act as its provisions for "injurious affection" were not for the acquisition of land. The official arbitrator asked the following question of the ct.: Was the claimant entitled to be paid compensation in respect of the stopping up of this portion of Plough-lane? The ct. answered the question in the affirmative.—WRIGHT v. AIR COUNCIL, PRESIDENT (1929), 143 L. T. 43.

284a. Reservation of water—Coupled with grant of easements & restrictions.]—By agreements made in 1904 & subsequent years a local authority agreed with the then owner of the S. estate for a supply of water from a pumping station & well on the S. estate. In 1932, S., who had become entitled to the S. estate, sold & conveyed a portion of it, not including the pumping station & well, to X. in fee simple. The conveyance to X. contained certain reservations & a covenant so framed as, if enforceable, to run with the land conveyed for the benefit of the remaining portion of the S. estate. The reservations purported to reserve all water (whether surface or underground) in or under any portion of the property so conveyed to X., & all necessary easements rights privileges advantages powers & liberties necessary for the enjoyment of that reservation. The covenant was not to do anything on the property so conveyed whereby the water supply then obtained therefrom or any part thereof or any supply thereafter to be obtained therefrom in addition to or in substitution therefor should be in any way diminished or the purity impaired. In Apr. 1934, the local authority made a compulsory purchase order under Public Works Facilities Act, 1930 (c. 50), s. 2, for the compulsory purchase of part of the property so conveyed to X. for the purpose of obtaining water therefrom & for the construction of a reservoir & certain works. This order incorporated Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845 (c. 18), s. 68.

S. claimed compensation on the ground that the S. estate & the reservations & restrictions imposed for the benefit of the S. estate by the conveyance of 1932 would be injuriously affected by the proposed works on the land comprised in the compulsory-purchase order. The parties having failed to come to terms, an official arbitrator was appointed, who subsequently acted as an agreed arbitrator under Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845 (c. 18).

In his award the arbitrator found (a) that a pumping station if erected on the portion of X.'s land comprised in the compulsory-purchase order would probably tap water which would otherwise percolate to the area tapped by the local authority's existing pumping station & well on the S. estate & might affect the quantity of water reaching such area, & (b) that a pumping station on the proposed site would not be likely to tap water which, in the absence of such a pumping station, could not be tapped by pumping at the local authority's existing works. He consequently awarded S. a certain sum by way of compensation, but made his award in the form of a special case, referring to the ct. the question whether S. was entitled to be compensated for the injurious affection of his adjoining estate & the interests easements & restrictions appertaining thereto by reason of the proposed works of the local authority & the facts so found by him: Held: (1) though the attempt to reserve percolating water out of the land conveyed by the conveyance of 1932 failed, the reservation therein contained ought to be construed as a reservation of all necessary rights to enable S. to obtain water from the land conveyed; & the covenant imposed a contractual prohibition on X. & those deriving title under him from doing anything to interfere with the existing & future water supply at the existing works on the S. estate. The claimant therefore had an interest in land which was affected by the compulsory-purchase order; (2) the injury to the S. estate arose from the "execution of the works" within Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845 (c. 18), s. 68; since the statutory powers vested in the local authority under Public Health Act, 1875 (c. 55), s. 51, authorised the construction & maintenance of waterworks for the supply of water, & in order to supply water, it was necessary to draw water from the land taken. working. Shortly after the purchase, pltfs. erected two reservoirs & three filter beds on the land purchased. Deft. co. were lessees from the lord of the manor of a seam of coal lying under & adjacent to pltfs.' land. In 1911 deft. co., in pursuance of Waterworks Clauses Act, 1847 (c. 17), & the Public Health Act, 1875 (Support of Sewers) Amendment Act, 1883 (c. 37), gave notice to pltfs. of their intention to work the coal under & within forty yards of pltfs.' waterworks. This notice was duly acknowledged, but no counter-notice was given by pltfs. of willingness to treat or to make compensation for or of their intention to prevent or interfere with the working of the coal either within or outside the forty yards area. In 1914, pltfs. purchased from the same vendors further lands adjoining the land bought in 1901 & subject to the same reservation of minerals to the lord of the manor of Wath-upon-Dearne. Pltfs. constructed on this land two further reservoirs, two more filter beds & other works. Damage to one of the reservoirs having appeared between Oct. 1926, & Jan. 21, 1929, caused, as was alleged, by the working of the adjacent & subjacent minerals by defts., pltfs. had the damage repaired. In 1930 a further notice of intention to work minerals near another part of pltfs.' lands & reservoirs was served on the pltfs. by defts., but again no counter-notice was given by pltfs. Pltfs. thereupon issued a writ claiming an injunction & damages or compensation. His Lordship having held on the evidence that the damage to the waterworks was caused by subsidence of the surface directly due to the working of the minerals by defts. & that the surface would have been damaged by subsidence if the waterworks had not been constructed on it, the question arose whether the vendors to pltfs. in 1901 & 1914, when they conveyed the land, had any right of support for the surface of those plots from the subjacent minerals & adjacent land & minerals, & if so, whether this right passed to pltfs. :—Held: (1) on the true construction of the Inclosure Act, 1810, the common law right of support was not excluded by necessary implication & the vendors to pltfs. had a common law right to have the surface supported by the subjacent minerals & adjacent land & minerals; (2) this right passed to pltfs. by the conveyances of 1901 & 1914, & deft. co. was not entitled to ignore this right although pltfs. failed to give any counter-notice under Waterworks Clauses Act, 1847 (c. 17), ss. 22, 23. Further, there was nothing in Public Health Act, 1875 (Support of Sewers) Amendment Act, 1883 (c. 37), s. 3 (2), which gives the local authority an option to extend their counter-notice to minerals outside the forty yards area to deprive the local authority of the rights they possessed outside the forty yards area, if the option conferred by that section was not exercised.—WATH-UPON-DEARNE URBAN DISTRICT COUNCIL v. BROWN (JOHN) & CO., LTD., [1936] Ch. 172; 105 L. 356a. —— —— Enfranchised copyholds.]—Under conveyances made in 1879, 1922, & 1927 deft. corpn. acquired land for the purposes of sewage works & a gas undertaking. So far as the present case was concerned, these lands were enfranchised copyholds subject to a custom whereby the lord of the manor had the right to work mines subject to making compensation for damage done including that arising from subsidence. The pltf. co. were the lessees of the minerals under such enfranchised copyholds & also under the adjoining land. In 1934 pltfs. gave the corpn. notice in writing that they desired to work seams of coal under or within 40 yds. of such enfranchised copyholds. Defts. gave no counter-notice under Waterworks Clauses Act, 1847 (c. 17), s. 23, to treat for the payment of compensation for such mines, & it became lawful for pltfs. to work the mines. In an action for a declaration as to the rights of the parties, the Vice-Chancellor of the County Palatine of Lancaster, after making a declaration of pltfs.' right to work the mines & let down the surface subject to payment of compensation for damage done including damage due to subsidence provided pltfs. did no wilful damage & did not work the mines in an unusual manner, added that defts. were not entitled to any greater protection in respect of the greater weight imposed upon the land by their sanitary works except where they had acquired a prescriptive right of support for such works: —Held: (1) defts. not having served a counter-notice, their rights in relation to the minerals were the same as those of their vendor & were therefore governed by the custom of the manor; (2) the addition to the declaration stated above could not be supported.—HARGREAVES, LTD.'S EXECUTORS v. BURNLEY CORPN., [1936] 3 All E. Part VII.—Assessment of Purchase Price and Compensation.

650. For existing paragraph & citations substitute the following:—

The Blackpool Improvement Act, 1917, s. 70, enacted that the provisions of the sect. should, unless otherwise agreed in writing, apply for the benefit & protection of a certain co. as owners of the land referred to in the section. By its terms the owners were to sell & the corpn. was to buy the land therein described at a price to be determined in default of agreement, by arbitration in th manner provided by the Lands Clauses Acts as modified by that Act, & a notice to treat was to be served by the corpn. within a defined time. It was further provided that the corpn. should not use the land so acquired for certain purposes which might cause a nuisance or annoyance to the owners. By Acquisition of Land (Assessment of Compensation) Act, 1919 (c. 57), where by any statute, whether passed before or after the passing of this Act, land is authorised to be acquired compulsorily by any local authority any question of disputed compensation is to be determined in the manner thereby provided, & the provisions of the Act by which the land is authorised to be acquired, or of any Act incorporated therewith, so far as inconsistent with this Act, shall cease to have effect. Notice to treat was served on the owners by the corpn. shortly before the coming into operation of the Act of 1919 but no arbitrator had been appointed to fix the price. A question having arisen whether the compensation was to be assessed under the Act of 1919 or under the private Act of 1917:—Held: the Act of 1919 did not apply, & the compensation was to be ascertained in the manner provided by the Lands Clauses Acts as modified by the Act of 1917; by VISCOUNT FINLAY, VISCOUNT CAVE, & LORD PHILLIMORE on the grounds, (a) that sect. 70 of the private Act embodied an agreement between the parties for the sale & purchase of the land & that the land was not "authorised to be acquired compulsorily"; (b) that the general language of the Act of 1919 ought not, in the absence of clear words, to be construed as affecting the special provisions of sect. 70 of the private Act of 1917; by VISCOUNT HALDANE on the second ground by LORD SHAW OF DUNFERMLINE (dissenting as to the second ground) on the first ground only.—BLACKPOOL CORPN. v. STARR ESTATE CO., LTD., [1922] 1 A. 650a. —— Acquisition of land & appointment of arbitrator under Public Health Act, 1875, (c. 55.)]—A land co. was the owner in fee simple of certain land through which a sewerage board, under Public Health Act, 1875 (c. 55), after duly serving on the co. notice of intention to do so, carried a sewer & a rising main. Subsequently an agreement in writing was entered into between the parties regarding what had been done. Differences having arisen regarding the compensation to be paid by the board to the co., recourse was had to arbn. The arbitrator was appointed under Public Health Act, 1875, & before entering on the arbn. made the statutory declaration under that Act. Having considered the disputes he made an alternative award in the form of a special case for the opinion of the ct. If the ct. was of opinion that compensation was to be assessed solely under Public Health Act, 1875, he awarded the co. £5,090; if the arbitration was under Acquisition of Land (Assessment of Compensation) Act, 1919 (c. 57), & the basis on which compensation was to be awarded was to be governed by the principles in s. 2 of that Act, he awarded the co. £2,148:—Held: as the land had been acquired under powers conferred by Public Health Act, 1875, before the agreement between the parties was entered into, it had been acquired compulsorily, & as there was nothing in the agreement which affected the primary basis of the value of the land nor any other matter, including the appointment of the arbitrator expressly under Public Health Act, 1875, which was inconsistent with the rules laid down by s. 2 of the Act of 1919, that Act applied to the arbn., & the co. should be awarded £2,148.—THURROCK, GRAYS & TILBURY JOINT SEWERAGE BOARD v. THAMES LAND CO., LTD. (1925), 90 J. P. 1; 23 L. G. R. 648.

650b. —— Power to purchase given to railway company—Transfer to public authority.]—Pltfs. were the estate owners in fee simple of certain land & buildings in the City of London. Defts., a public authority established in accordance with the provisions of London Passenger Transport Act, 1933, in Oct. 1935, gave notice to pltfs. to treat for the compulsory purchase of the premises, & subsequently took possession. By the Act of 1933 certain passenger transport undertakings were transferred to defts. including the C. L. Railway. It was provided by the Act that such transfer should include all lands & other property, assets, powers, rights, and privileges held or enjoyed therewith, & further that defts. might exercise all the rights, powers, & privileges which immediately before the appointed day, July 1, 1933, were vested in the C. L. Railway as one of the undertakers & should be subject to all liabilities & obligations to which the C. L. Railway were subject immediately before the appointed day. Among the powers conferred on the C. L. Railway in existence on July 1, 1933, was a power conferred by an Act of 1931 to purchase the premises of pltfs. The time for the exercise of this power was, after the passing of the Act of 1933, extended to Oct. 1937, by sect. 68 of London Passenger Transport Act, 1934. Defts. contended that being a public authority authorised to acquire the particular land in question compulsorily, the provisions of Acquisition of Land (Assessment of Compensation) Act, 1919 (c. 57), as to the compensation payable, applied.

Pltfs. denied this on the ground (a) that if the C. L. Railway (the " undertakers ") had purchased compulsorily before July 1, 1933, the purchase price must have been fixed as provided for by the Lands Clauses Acts as modified by the Act of 1931, & that this was therefore a liability or obligation of the C. L. Railway to pltfs.; (b) that by virtue of sect. 68 of the Act of 1934, the time limited for the exercise of compulsory purchase by the Act of 1931 was extended subject to the provisions for the protection or benefit of (inter alia) any co., body or person mentioned in (among others) the Act of 1931, & that the provisions of that Act with regard to the assessment of compensation in cases of compulsory purchase were provisions for pltfs.' benefit, & (c) that the provisions of the Act of 1931 were not affected by the provisions of the Acts of 1933 & 1934 in the absence of clear words showing that it was the intention of the two later Acts to abrogate the provisions of the Act of 1931:—Held: pltfs.' contentions failed because (a) as the C. L. Railway had not served any notice to treat on or before July 1, 1933, there was no liability or obligation of the C. L. Railway on that date towards pltfs. or their property to which defts. could be subjected in respect of a notice given by defts. subsequently to July 1, 1933, (b) pltfs. were not expressly mentioned as a co., body or person for whose protection or benefit provision was made in the Act of 1931, & (c) the provisions for compensation in the Act of 1931 were general provisions & accordingly the maximum " generalia specialibus non derogant " did not apply.

The compensation must therefore be ascertained under & in accordance with the Act of 1919.—DRAPERS CO. v. LONDON PASSENGER TRANSPORT BOARD, [1937] Ch. 344; [1937] 2 All E. R. 12; 106 L. J. Ch. 121; 156 L. T. 272; 53 T. L. R. 448; 81 Sol. Jo. 199.

He claimed &, before the hearing of the arbn., the President of the Air Council made an unconditional offer of £10,000. The sum awarded to claimant by the official arbitrator in respect of his interest in the land & the consequential damage thereto was £11,415. In dealing with the costs the arbitrator directed the Council "to pay £100 towards the costs of claimant." Claimant applied to the ct. by motion for the award to be remitted to the arbitrator on the ground that he had, in making the above order as to costs, not properly exercised the discretion conferred upon him by sect. 5 (4) of the above Act:—Held: in awarding the lump sum of £100, the arbitrator had in terms awarded to claimant part of his costs of the arbn. within sect. 5, & as it seemed reasonably clear from the Act that, when a sum was awarded by the arbitrator in excess of the amount offered by the authority but less than the sum which claimant had offered to accept, the arbitrator 2225f. —— Open space within London Open Spaces Act, 1893, c. lxxi.]—By London Open Spaces Act, 1893 (c. lxxi.), Hackney Marshes was vested in the L.C.C. in fee simple as & for an open space for the perpetual use thereof by the public for exercise & recreation. Sect. 12 of that Act provided that the council might from time to time exchange any lands forming part of Hackney Marshes for any other lands "adjoining." In 1935, the L.C.C., in purported exercise of their powers under sect. 65 of Housing Act, 1925 (c. 14), of appropriating for housing lands vested in them, resolved that, subject to the certificate of the Minister under sect. 103 (1) of that Act, thirty acres of Hackney Marshes should be appropriated for housing & that fifty acres of land at Chigwell, about seven miles away, should be given in exchange. Appct. having addressed a protest to the Minister against the proposed appropriation & exchange was informed that the Minister proposed to hold a public inquiry under sect. 103 (2) of Housing Act, 1925 (c. 14).

The appct. then obtained a rule nisi for a writ of prohibition to prohibit the Minister from (a) consenting to the appropriation by the L.C.C. of a portion of Hackney Marshes, (b) issuing his certificate under sect. 103 (1) of Housing Act, 1925 (c. 14), approving the giving in exchange of an area of land at Chigwell, & (c) holding a public local inquiry in relation to those matters under sect. 103 (2) of Housing Act, 1925 (c. 14):—Held : (1) prohibition would lie; (2) in exercising its powers of appropriation of land under sect. 65, a local authority need not act by an "order," & therefore the resolution of the L.C.C. was not bad merely because it was not under seal; (3) Housing Act, 1925 (c. 14), which is a consolidating Act repealing & re-enacting Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890 (c. 70), & Housing, Town Planning, etc., Act, 1909 (c. 44) (from which ss. 65 & 103 are respectively taken), did not affect an Act passed between the original enactment of sect. 57 (3) of the Act of 1890 & its re-enactment in sect. 65 of the consolidating Act. It was manifest that the council could not, immediately after the Act of 1893 had vested Hackney Marshes in them as an open space, have appropriated part of the Marshes for housing under the Act of 1890. They had no greater powers under the Act of 1925; (4) the maxim "generalia specialibus non derogant" also applied to prevent the Housing Act, 1925 (c. 14), overriding the special provisions of London Open Spaces Act, 1893 (c. lxxi.), with regard to Hackney Marshes.—R. v. MINISTER OF HEALTH, Ex p. VILLIERS, [1936] 2 K. See Public Works Facilities Act, 1930 (c. 50).

2300a. Validity of order—Inclusion of name of owner of easement.]—By a conveyance made in 1932 appct. sold land to a purchaser in fee simple subject to reservations in favour of himself & his grantees of certain rights to surface & underground water. Subsequently the local district council as water authority acting ostensibly under the Public Works Facilities Act, 1930 (c. 50), s. 2, made an order purporting to be a compulsory purchase order in the prescribed form authorising them to purchase a part of the land comprised in the conveyance, there being inserted in the schedule to the order under the heading "Owners or Reputed Owners" not only the name of the purchaser under the conveyance but also the name of appct., & under the heading "Quantity, Description & Situation of the lands" a full description of the land but no mention of appct.'s easement over it; & the council served upon appct. a notice of the making of the order purporting to be a notice in accordance with the Act & in the prescribed form, the schedule to which notice contained a full description of the lands but made no mention of the easement. Appct. gave notice of objections to the confirmation of the order by the Minister of Health, & by direction of the Minister a public local inquiry was held in regard to the matter before an officer of the Ministry, who stated that the objections raised points of law which could not be dealt with by him but must be considered by the Minister. Having considered the objections & read the report of the officer, the Minister confirmed the order. Appct. thereupon made an application to the High Ct. under Sched. I., Part III., para. 2, of the Act that the order might be set aside on the grounds: (1) that the order was not within the powers of the Act, inasmuch as, though the Act authorised only the purchase of land, the order included the name of appct. who had merely an easement over the land & therefore purported to acquire what was not land; (2) the property to be acquired was not sufficiently described in the order or the notice thereof, as no mention was made in them of appct.'s easement; &, further, that the notice of the order did not, pursuant to Sched. I., Part II., para. 3 (b), of the Act state the "effect of the order," because it did not bring home to the applicant what effect the order would have upon him or his property; & (3) that the Minister did not before deciding whether or not the order should be confirmed give appct. an opportunity of coming before him & stating his legal arguments in support of the objections:—Held : the application could not be supported on any of these grounds, & must therefore be refused.—Re SIMEON (J. 2300f. Quashing order—Order ultra vires—No prejudice.]—(1) Under Public Works Facilities Act, 1930 (c. 50), Sched. I., Part III. (2), the High Ct. has power to quash a compulsory purchase order, "if satisfied that the order is not within the powers of the Act or that the interests of the appct. have been substantially prejudiced by any requirement of this Act not having been complied with." The provision that appct. must have been substantially prejudiced applies to both the above grounds of objection to an order. Accordingly, if an order is not within the powers of the Act, by reason of the Minister having failed to act judicially in some particular or for some other cause, the order will not be quashed, unless it is also shown that the interests of appct. have been prejudiced thereby. In 1901 he married resp., an American lady, & in 1902 they went to Quebec where he carried on the business of manufacturing arms. They lived together there till 1917 with occasional visits to England. In 1917 applt. went to Washington, staying there as an expert adviser on munitions till Sept. 1918, when he stayed a certain time in Great Britain & in 1918 leased a house in London. In 1922 he took a lease of a flat in New York of which he remained tenant when these proceedings for divorce began in Dec. 1923. Up to the year 1920 there was no statement by applt. of his intention to abandon his Scottish domicil, & as late as Dec. 1920, he stated in an affidavit that he was a domiciled Scotchman. Between Dec. 1920, & the institution of these proceedings he was trying for the purposes of taxation to become a resident alien in the United States, & in Apr. 1923, succeeded. In Jan. 1924, after these proceedings he sought to be naturalised as an American citizen. He spent increasing periods of time at his Scottish estate & referred to it as his home in a letter written to resp. in Nov. Since 1920, however, he had made statements in documents & verbally that he intended to live permanently in New York, though such statements were never made to his wife, nor, with one exception, to any personal friend :—Held : the evidence of declared intention of change of domicil was not established, as such declarations must be examined by considering the person to whom, the purposes for which, & the circumstances in which they were made, & be carried into effect by conduct & action consistent with the declared intention.—ROSS v. ELLISON (OR ROSS), [1930] A. United Kingdom of Great Britain & Ireland & had no intention of permanently leaving the United Kingdom. Having divorced his wife he married in 1886 in England his second wife, a lady of English birth, & lived with his wife & children for two years in England. He then returned to Germany for two years & was there engaged on business connected with his father's firm. His wife having become an invalid, he took a house for her in Hampstead, & in it she died in 1906. In 1901 the father of the deceased, who had been the head of the firm at Cüstrin, died & was succeeded in the management of the business by the deceased, who paid frequent visits to Germany lasting for considerable periods, in attendance at meetings of the board, & made the old family house his residence when at Cüstrin on business. On the death of his mother in 1908 at Neuwied he used her house as a second residence when in Germany. Deceased died in 1915 at his house in Hampstead which he had endeavoured to dispose of, though without success:—Held: the true inference to be drawn from the circumstances under which the house in Hampstead was taken & maintained by the deceased was that it was an emergency measure dictated by the condition of his wife & not one which should be held to indicate an intention to establish a family home & thus to adopt a new domicile in this country. The evidence was wholly insufficient to establish the abandonment by the deceased of his German domicile.

Per Lord ATKIN: It is not the law either that a change of domicile is a condition of naturalisation, or that naturalisation involves necessarily a change of domicile.—WAHL v. A.-G. (1932), 147 L. T. 382, H. L.

155a. —— Material consideration.]—D.. who was born in Edinburgh in 1858, went out to Calcutta, India, in 1875 & worked in his uncle's cotton mills, becoming a partner in his uncle's firm in 1880. In 1883 he returned for a few months, but from 1883 to 1900 remained working in India, making his business his life. He seldom went into society, but was fond of Indians, & chiefly associated with them. In 1900 he returned to England & married his cousin, & took her out with him to Calcutta in 1901, but, the climate not suiting her, she returned in Nov. 1901, to England. From Jan. 1903 to 1910, he paid visits for a substantial time each year to be with his wife in England, where he had bought a house. In 1903 a child was born. From Jan. 1912 to Nov. 1915, D. remained in England, being, it was said, detained by litigation. In 1916 his wife went out to Calcutta, & she & her daughter lived with her husband in his flat over his offices. She returned with her daughter after two months. In 1917 D. followed his wife home, & until his death on July 3, 1928, remained in England, except for short visits to India in 1919, 1920, 1922, 1924, & 1925. In his will dated June 28, 1922, he made a declaration of Indian domicile. On his death, the Crown, on the ground that he was domiciled in the United Kingdom, claimed death duties on his estate, the value of which was many millions of pounds. On the question whether, as the exors. of the will alleged, he had acquired a domicile of choice in India & lost his domicile of origin:—Held: the earlier period of D.'s life up to the year 1900 could not be estimated in deciding whether he had acquired a domicile of choice in India in a compartment separate from his later years, & the declaration in his will did not decide the point, but where his wife & children had their permanent residence was material as to a man's domicile. There was a distinction between residence & domicile, & it could not be inferred from the fact of residence that domicile resulted. On the facts there was no clear evidence, as was necessary, of any manifest & concluded intention of change of domicile to overcome the domicile of origin. Therefore the onus of proof of a domicile of choice was not discharged, & D. died domiciled in the United Kingdom.—A.-G. v. YULE & MERCANTILE BANK OF INDIA (1931), 145 L. T. 9, C. A.

173a. ——.]—A husband & wife, both born in England of English parents, were married in England in 1905, where they resided together until in 1923 the husband left his wife & went to the United States of America. The husband corresponded regularly with his wife & sent her money until 1932, when she discovered that he was living with another woman as his wife. In reply to an inquiry the husband wrote that he had no thought of returning to England. The wife petitioned for divorce in England, alleging that she & her husband were domiciled in England. The husband did not enter an appearance. At the adjourned hearing, when the King's Proctor had entered an appearance in the suit to argue the question of domicil & of the ct.'s jurisdiction to grant a decree of divorce, a certificate from the U.S. Department of Labour was put in, to the effect that the husband was naturalised in New York in 1930. By the law in the United States of America, the husband in order to have obtained such a certificate must have declared on oath at least two years before his admission as a citizen of the United States that it was bona fide his intention to become a citizen & to renounce for ever allegiance to the state of which he might at the time be a citizen. He must also have stated in writing his intention to reside permanently within the United States :—Held : (1) at the time when the petition was filed, the husband was domiciled in the United States of America, & had lost his domicil in England ; (2) there was no jurisdiction in the ct. in England to grant a decree of divorce.—HERD v. HERD, [1936] P. 205 ; [1936] 2 All E. 336a. —— —— Action for declaration as to currency in which payable.]—Applts. (defts. in the action), two English cos. having their head offices in London but carrying on business exclusively in South America, were jointly liable to resps. (the pltfs. in the action) for rent in respect of premises occupied by one of them in Chile under a lease drawn in the Spanish language according to Chilean law & executed by all parties in Paris, by which also all parties elected domicil in Chile. The rent stipulated by the lease was 93,500 pesos of 183,057 millionths of a gramme of fine gold monthly, which was to be paid at the option of the lessors either in Chile or remitted to Europe according to their instructions. Disputes having arisen between the parties in view of Chilean legislation which applts. contended prevented them remitting the rent from Chile without official authorisation by the Chilean Government, which authorisation had been refused, applts. commenced proceedings in Chile, which were still pending, claiming a declaration that the rent could lawfully be paid in notes of the Banco Central de Chile. Resps. having brought the present action in England claiming payment of the rent in sterling equivalent to 183,057 millionths of a gramme of fine gold, applts. applied under sect. 41 of Jud. Act, 1925 (c. 49), to have it stayed as being vexatious & oppressive:—Held: (1) the action was a personal action, transitory in its nature, which the English ct. could competently entertain notwithstanding that incidentally it related to an immovable out of England; (2) the legal effect of the clause in the lease by which all parties elected domicil in Chile could not properly be determined upon affidavits; (3) though some inconvenience might be caused to applts. by having to call evidence as to Chilean law with regard to the mode in which the rent could be paid, this did not amount to an injustice sufficient to entitle the applts. to a stay of the action; (4) the fact that an action by applts. against resps. was pending in Chile was not in itself a ground entitling applts. to a stay.—ST. 395a. —— Floating charge on land in Scotland.]—A shipping co., registered in England, but owning heritable & movable property in Scotland, in pursuance of a previous agreement with all its secured creditors, in Mar. 1934, executed a charge in Glasgow in favour of a Scottish bank, whereby, after reciting the agreement, charged with payment of sums advanced by the bank by way of floating security its undertaking & all its property & assets both present & future. By the deed the charge was to rank as a first charge on the co.'s undertaking & all its property & assets whatsoever & wheresoever both present & future subject to specific mtges., & was to be a floating security, but so that the co. should not have power to create any further mtges. or charges ranking in priority to or pari passu with the charge thereby created. This charge was registered in England. Subsequently an agreement for sale of all the co.'s property & assets was entered into but before it was carried into effect the co. was compulsorily wound up & a liquidator was appointed. The liquidator took out an originating summons to determine whether a valid & effectual charge had been created over the heritable & movable property & assets of the co. therein specified in so far as such assets were at the commencement of the liquidation of the co. locally situate in Scotland. The bulk of the property having been sold & the proceeds of sale only left in the hands of the liquidator, the question before the ct. was whether in the distribution of the assets of the co. effect ought to be given to the charge executed in Glasgow in Mar. 1934, so far as the proceeds of sale represented heritable & movable property in Scotland at the date of the liquidation :—Held : (1) the charge must be construed according to English law & was a valid equitable security according to English law ; (2) Cos. Act, 1929 (c. 23), s. 270, does not place heritable or other property in Scotland belonging to a co. registered in England in a different position from property belonging to it in England or in any other part of the world. 417a. —— —— ——.]—The Q. Co. was a co. incorporated & carrying on business in Queensland. In Sept. 1886, the Q. Co. issued & deposited with the U. Bank, as security for moneys due & to become due, two debentures, the one for £10,000, & the other for £50,000 ; both debentures assigned the uncalled capital of the co., & were, as the ct. held, valid according to the law of Queensland. In Dec. 1886 the Q. Co. made a call of £50 a share payable in four instalments, in Feb., Apr., June, & Aug. 1887. The co. had many shareholders domiciled in Scotland & some in England. On Oct. 20, 1887, an order was made for winding up the co. in Queensland, & on June 14, 1888, a similar order was made in England. On Feb. 24, 1887, the A. Co., a co. domiciled in Scotland, commenced proceedings in Scotland to recover from the Q. Co. large sums entrusted to them for investment. Immediately after the institution of the action the call moneys due under the call made by the Q. Co. as above, from shareholders resident in Scotland, were arrested by the Scotch process called arrestment on the dependence of the action. Proceedings in this action were restrained by the High Ct. in England on Feb. 24, 1888, on the motion of the English liquidator of the Q. Co., but the order was expressly made without prejudice to the security, if any, upon the amounts payable by the Scotch shareholders in the Q. Co. which the A. Co. had acquired by their proceedings, & the amounts received from the Scotch shareholders were directed to be carried by the liquidator to a separate account. On Sept. 6, 1889, an order was made in the Queensland winding up allowing the claim of the A. Co. for £12,662 4*s.* 5*d.* The U. Bank, whose claim against the Q. Co. had been allowed for £74,000, but who had valued their security at £31,000, took out a summons claiming that the liquidator should pay over to the bank all the moneys in his hands representing proceeds of the said call. The A. Co. claimed to be paid in priority out of the money received from Scotch shareholders. The evidence stated that, according to the law of Scotland, the arrestment had the effect of attaching the fund in favour of the creditor obtaining it, & upon the decree being pronounced in the suit the security would become complete, & that such an arrestment operated as an assignment of the fund duly intimated ; that an admission of the sum due in the winding up of a co. was for this purpose equivalent to a decree ; & that, according to the law of Scotland, in order to create a competent security over incorporeal personal property, the assignment thereof must be duly intimated to the debtor :—Held : without deciding the point whether the maxim "Mobilia sequuntur personam" made the assignment of the calls by the Q. Co. domiciled in Queensland valid in Scotland, the case was governed by the principle that, if a transfer of personal property is carried out validly according to the law of the country where the property is situated, it cannot be made invalid by anything in the law of the assignor's domicil ; & as the evidence proved that the arrestment operated as an assignment by the Q. Co., completed by intimation according to the law of Scotland, that assignment could not be made invalid by the prior assignment, which could only have effect by the law of Queensland.—Re QUEENSLAND MERCANTILE & AGENCY CO., Ex p. AUSTRALASIAN INVESTMENT CO., Ex p. UNION BANK OF AUSTRALIA, LTD. v. COMR. The testatrix died as a result of the operation, & her estate was administered in England :—Held : (1) the question whether there was a valid donatio mortis causa was one arising in the administration of the estate of the deceased & must, therefore, be determined according to English law; (2) the question whether the acts relied on as constituting a parting with the dominion over the property were effective for that purpose must be determined according to the law of Monaco; (3) (both by English law & by the law of Monaco as proved), though the giving of a power of attorney was not by itself such a parting with the donor's dominion over her property as to support a valid donatio mortis causa, the subsequent instructions upon which her son acted were sufficient.—Re CRAVEN'S ESTATE, LLOYDS BANK v. COCKBURN (No. 1), [1937] Ch. 423; [1937] 3 All E. She admitted that, by the local law, the distinction between real & personal property was recognised, & that land was real estate; & also that, by that law, the devolution on intestacy of real & personal property was the same :—Held : the land in Canada did not fall to be included in computing legitim, in respect that, as it was immovable by the law of Canada, the succession to it fell to be regulated by Canadian law, & the right of legitim did not form part of that law.—MACDONALD v. MACDONALD, [1932] S. that, under the law of the Ottoman Empire as it was in 1915, the property would have passed to the Bait al-mál, the treasury of the Moslems, which would have applied the property for the relief & benefit of the Moslems, & that as the application of the property was thus limited to certain objects, it was impressed with something in the nature of a trust, & it was impossible to liken it to bona vacantia, & it claimed the property. If for any reason the Bait al-mál did not take any uninherited property, there was no ultimate right in anyone else :—Held : (i) the property was ownerless, & the limited application of the property under Turkish law made no difference to its character ; (ii) as the authority by which the Turkish govt. claimed was in substance the same as that by which the British Crown claimed, the Crown was entitled to the property as bona vacantia. —In the Estate of MUSURUS, [1936] 2 All E. A party entitled to share in the appointed assets in default of appointment relied on the effectual revocation of the will according to Italian law:—Held: in the absence of authority the policy of the ct. must lean towards giving effect to the intention of testatrix & ought not to impose upon her as necessary a compliance with English requirements as to revocation which was unknown to the law of her domicil, & the party entitled in default of appointment must succeed.—VELASCO v. CONEY, [1934] P. 143; 103 L. Included in his English estate were a large block of shares in an English private co. According to the law of Ontario the sale of the portion of these shares to which the infants were entitled could not be postponed by administrators appointed in Ontario. The English administrators were anxious to postpone the sale of the shares, & pltf. took out this summons asking whether they were entitled, by virtue of Administration of Estates Act, 1925 (c. 23), s. 33, to postpone the sale:—Held: the English administrators were entitled to exercise the power to postpone given to them by sect. 33, until they could get a good discharge for the money in their hands from the persons beneficially entitled to it.—Re WILKS, KEEFER v. WILKS, [1935] Ch. 645; 104 L. Part VII.—Contracts.

639. To the cross-reference before this case add "No. 1981a."

639a. ——.]—Pltf. was received by defts., a British co., under a contract made in Detroit, to be carried in one of their steamships from New York to Southampton. The contract contained a clause that the shipowners should not be liable for loss, damage or delay to a passenger or his baggage arising from the act of God, or from causes of any kind beyond the carrier's control, even though the loss, damage or delay might have been caused by the neglect or default of the shipowners' servants. It was further provided that all questions arising under the clause should be decided according to English law. A subsequent clause provided that no claim under the contract should be enforceable against the shipowners unless a written notice thereof was delivered to them within three days after the passenger should be landed from the steamer at the termination of her voyage. In the course of the voyage one of pltf.'s hands was injured by reason of the negligence of defts.' servants, but no written notice of any claim was given by pltf. within the time limited by the contract:—Held: the language of the contract showed that it was the intention of the parties that it should be wholly governed by English law; the clause relieving defts. from liability for the negligence of their servants, though void by the law in force in Detroit, was valid & enforceable, by English law, but, applying the ejusdem generis rule, the clause did not absolve defts. from liability for pltf.'s injury. —JONES v. OCEANIC STEAM NAVIGATION CO., LTD., [1924] 2 K. 640a. —— Inclusion of provisions of local Ordinance.]—Certain parcels of oranges were shipped at Jaffa upon an Esthonian steamship for carriage to Hull. The ship was under time charter to a British firm, who ran a line of steamships called the Jaffa Union Line. The bills of lading, which were signed by directors of a Palestine corporation, the Jaffa Union Line, Ltd., contained the following clause: "This bill of lading wherever signed is to be construed in accordance with English law." Pltfs. were Hull fruit merchants, two of whom were indorsees of certain of the bills of lading & sued as owners of the cases of fruit therein mentioned; nine others had merely paid the freight & sued on an implied contract with deft. shipowners to deliver the cases in good order & condition according to the terms of the bills of lading. The Palestine Carriage of Goods by Sea Ordinance, No. 43 of 1926, incorporated the rules relating to bills of lading adopted by the International Conference on Maritime Law held at Brussels in 1922–23, generally known as the Hague Rules. Clause 4 of the Ordinance was in the following terms: "Every bill of lading . . . issued in Palestine which contains or is evidence of any contract to which the Rules apply shall contain an express statement that it is to have effect subject to the provision of the said Rules as applied by this Ordinance, & shall be deemed to have effect subject thereto, notwithstanding the omission of such express statement." Pltfs.' action was in respect of damage &/or short delivery. Defts. set up various exceptions in the bills of lading, & pltfs. pleaded in reply that the contracts were governed by the Palestine Ordinance; that accordingly, notwithstanding the omission of a statement to that effect, the Hague Rules should be deemed to be written into the contracts, &, therefore, that the exceptions relied on were of no avail. The question whether the bills of lading were subject to the provisions of the Ordinance was set down for trial as a preliminary issue. The judge held that they were so subject, & that all pltfs. were entitled to succeed on the preliminary issue. Defts. appealed:—Held: (1) the express terms of the Ordinance, based on an international convention, could not be defeated by the insertion of a clause in the bills of lading that they were to be construed according to English law, & the bills of lading were subject to the provisions of the Ordinance & the Rules thereunder, &, with those terms read into them, should then be construed according to English law; but (2) the ct. had not sufficient information as to the facts to determine the effect of that decision on the nine pltfs. who sued on implied contracts, &, while the appeal would be dismissed, the judgment must be varied to that extent.—THE TORNI, [1932] P. 78; 101 L. 640b. Agreement for contract to be subject to foreign law—Contract cancelled by decree of foreign Government.]—In May, 1903, pltf. took out a 20 year endowment life insurance policy with defts. for 10,000 roubles payable at defts.' office in St. Petersburgh, & by the terms of the policy all premiums were to be paid in Russia. Pltf. paid all the premiums in Russia down to 1917, & then in London down to 1919. By the terms of an Imperial Decree of the Russian Empire, dated July 7, 1889, which were incorporated in the policy, it was provided (inter alia) that all disputes in connection with insurance operations should be settled according to Russian laws & in Russian cts. of justice. By a Monopolisation Decree of the Russian Soviet Govt., dated Dec. 1918, insurance in all its forms was declared a State monopoly, & in Nov. 1919, a Decree of Cancellation abolished life assurance altogether in the Soviet Republic, & all existing contracts were annulled. In those circumstances pltf., who was prevented by the above decrees of 1918 & 1919 from suing on the policy in Russia, brought an action in England for a declaration that defts. were liable to him under the policy:—Held: the proper law of the contract was, according to the policy rules, the law of Russia, & the effect of the Cancellation Decree of Nov. 1919, was that the contract, if in fact there was any contractual nexus left in existence between the parties after the Monopolisation Decree of 1918 came into force, was annulled, & pltf. could not recover on it.—PERRY v. EQUITABLE LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF U.S.A. (1929), 45 T. L. R. 468.

to reserve room for certain cottonseed for shipment to London by a steamer to be specified. Under a charterparty made between the owners of the Swedish steamship A. & pltfs. as charterers the A. loaded the cargo at Alexandria for delivery in London; & pltfs., "as agents only," issued bills of lading whereby the cargo was to be delivered in London to the order of the defts. on payment of freight by them at the specified rate. In the course of the voyage the A. came into collision with another vessel, & was so badly injured that she had to be towed to Cadiz, where she was found to be a constructive total loss. The cargo, accordingly, was discharged at Cadiz & delivery was taken there by defts. Pltfs., suing on behalf of the shipowners, claimed distance (i.e. pro rata) freight, which they alleged was payable either under the law of the flag (Swedish) or the lex loci contractus (Egypt). Defts. alleged that the law of England applied, under which pro rata freight is not payable:—Held: all the authorities showed that the best criterion of what law was to be applied was to be found in the intention of the parties, &, if the parties intended otherwise, the presumption was rebutted that a contract for the carriage of goods by sea was governed by the law of the flag; looking at the circumstances broadly, & having regard (inter alia) to the facts that all the documents were in English & on English forms, that delivery & payment were to be in England, the freight engagement notes did not specify a ship of any particular nationality, defts. were a British firm, & the British position in Egypt had for many years been predominant, the inference was that the parties, who as business people must be taken to have intended what was most convenient, intended English law to apply; & consequently the claim for distance freight failed.—THE ADRIATIC, [1931] P. 241; 100 L. 697a. —— Delivery of goods against bill of lading—Property in goods passing by contract with third party.]—In Jan. 1929, pltfs., the Government of Guatemala, purchased aeroplanes & war material from a French firm in Paris for delivery at Guatemala City. By the contract of sale the goods were to be accepted by the purchasers before departure from the sellers' works, & payment therefor was to be made as to 34 per cent. by cash with order & as to the balance of 66 per cent. by a confirmed irrevocable credit with a first-class bank. The sellers undertook to insure the goods & also arrange for their transport to Guatemala City via Puerto Barrios. For these transport services the pltfs. agreed to pay a lump sum. The sellers, by their agents in Antwerp, chartered the Norwegian steamship St. Joseph, owned by defts. for the transport of a portion of the goods from Antwerp to Puerto Barrios. By the bill of lading, which was mainly in English, the goods were to be delivered unto the "Gouvernement de Guatemala or to his/their assigns." The bill of lading contained no reference to the Hague Rules or to the article of the Belgian Code which embodied those rules. On the arrival of the ship at Puerto Barrios pltfs. presented the bill of lading & took delivery of the goods, which were then sent on by rail to Guatemala City. The goods were found to have been damaged during sea transit by reason of the bad stowage of a part cargo of patent fuel also carried in the St. Joseph, & the Guatemala Government sued the shipowners for the damage. The shipowners admitted liability, but contended that their contract with pltfs. was governed by Belgian law, which embodied the Hague Rules, & that therefore their liability was limited:—Held: that pltfs. became the owners of the goods by acceptance, & payment to the sellers, before shipment, & not as consignees or indorsees of the bill of lading within the meaning of Bills of Lading Act, 1855 (c. 111); the only contract between pltfs. & defts. was made by pltfs.' offering the bill of lading to the shipmaster & getting delivery of the goods, & it was a contract made in Guatemala, with which no Belgian had anything to do, except as agent; pltfs. were bound by the terms contained in the bill of lading & nothing more; there was nothing to show that either party intended or contemplated the application of Belgian law to the contract, & it was impossible to import into such a contract, between such parties, a term of Belgian law to which no reference was made therein; even if the contract was made in Antwerp, & pltfs., by taking delivery, incurred the same liabilities as the shipper, who took the bill of lading, they only incurred a liability to which the section of the Belgian Code had no application, for it could not be that a document which, in its inception, had nothing to do with Belgian law could afterwards become subject to it; &, therefore, there must be judgment for pltfs. on their claim, subject to a reference.—THE ST. JOSEPH, [1933] P. 119; 102 L. J. P. 49; 149 L. T. 352; 49 T. L. R. 367; 18 Asp. 375.

702a. —— Contract between foreign broker & English broker—Right of cancellation as between foreign broker & principal—Governed by lex loci contractus.]—By English law, an underwriter acknowledging in a policy of marine insurance that the assured has paid the premiums, the policy cannot be cancelled by the insurance broker on the ground that he has not received the premiums from the assured, without the authority of the assured. But where a Canadian assured instructs in the United States an American insurance broker to effect an insurance in England, which he must do through an English broker, the law applicable on this question of right of cancellation is that of the country where the relation of principal & agent is created—that of the United States. In such a case, the English broker, who is liable to the English underwriter for the premium, cannot sue the assured. but looks to the American broker, who, in turn, looks to the assured for payment:—Held: the question in such a case was one of foreign law—here, that of New York State—& therefore of fact; the ct. accordingly found that the American broker could cancel such a policy on the ground that the assured had failed to supply him with the premium, with the assent of the underwriter, but without the assent of the assured who had failed to pay the premium.—RUBY S.S. The co. had a branch in London & in most of the capitals of Europe, the branch in Paris being its head office for Europe. The general manager of the London branch had no general authority to issue policies in this country. Certain life policies signed by the president & secretary of the co. & countersigned by the general manager for Europe, were issued in London to German nationals before the outbreak of the war. The policies were not under seal. The policy moneys were expressed to be payable in London, but all premiums were payable either at the central office in New York or at the office where the insurance was payable, & proofs of death were to be furnished at the New York office. An indorsement on the policy provided that it should be construed according to English law:—Held: it was permissible & necessary to look at the terms of the contracts & to determine from them at what place the debts would be recoverable; applying that test in the present case, the debts were recoverable in London where they were expressed to be payable.—NEW YORK LIFE INSURANCE CO. v. PUBLIC TRUSTEE, [1924] 2 Ch. 101; 93 L. 705a. Insurance against loss by forged document—Governed by English law—Insurance in London—Business carried on in New York.]—Pltfs., who carried on business in New York, took out a policy of insurance in London against loss which they might incur by having acted upon any document which might prove "to have been forged." During the currency of the policy pltfs. were induced to lend money to a firm by a document containing a false statement of the firm's assets & liabilities. Before the whole of the loan had been repaid the firm became bkpt., & the pltfs. sued an underwriter on the policy. By the law of the State of New York forgery includes "a false statement of financial condition." A member of the firm had since been convicted in New York of forgery. Pltfs. contended that the word "forged" in the policy must be construed by the law of New York where the loss occurred, & that therefore it was immaterial if the document was not a forgery according to English law:—Held: even if the document was a forged document according to the law of New York the word "forged" was used in the policy merely to describe an existing state of fact & not as a term of art to be construed according to the law of the place where the loss happened, & accordingly the action failed.—EQUITABLE TRUST CO. 738a. Payment of rent by bills on London—Illegal exchange transaction.]—Resps. were jointly bound to fulfil the obligations contained in leases of premises in Santiago de Chile granted by the predecessors in title of applts. The leases provided the following way in which the rents should be payable: "Payment shall be effected monthly in advance in Santiago de Chile on the first day of each month by first class bills on London." In 1931, Chilean legislation supervened which resps. maintained prevented them from acquiring foreign exchange in Chile or from paying the rents in Chile by drafts on London without the authorisation of the committee established by the legislation to control exchanges, & that requests by them for such authorisation from time to time had been refused by the committee. The Chilean legislation established a control of international operations of exchange & the transfer of funds abroad, entrusting such control to a committee or commission. The legislation defined international exchange transactions as "the purchase & sale of all kinds of currency & gold in any form & the bills of exchange, cheques, drafts, letters of credit, telegraphic orders, & documents of any other nature requiring the transfer of funds from Chile or vice versa." Conflicting evidence by Chilean experts was given as to the meaning in Chile of first class bills on London. The evidence accepted was that "payable in Chile in first class bills on London" had a special mercantile meaning in Chile—namely, "bills drawn in Chile by one or other of a select list of bankers & mercantile houses in Chile upon one or other of a select list of bankers & mercantile houses in London" & these were known technically as F. C. L. bills. An advocate in Chile who had been Minister of Justice gave evidence that the F. C. L. bills came within the mischief of the Chilean legislation:—Held: the Chilean legislation made it impossible for the rent to be paid as directed, as the mode of payment as already interpreted would have been an international exchange transaction within the meaning of the Chilean legislation.—DE BEÉCHE v. SOUTH AMERICAN STORES, LTD., & CHILIAN STORES, LTD., [1935] A. The second deft., the South American Stores, joined in the lease as guarantor, but so as to become jointly responsible as primary obligor under the contract. The South American Stores carried on business in the Argentine. All parties by the lease elected domicil in Chile. There was evidence that there was no verbal agreement that the rental should be fixed on a gold basis. In July, 1935, the owner served a notice as follows: "Please take note, till further notice, of my option & of the following instructions," & then followed instructions for payment in sterling on a gold basis:—Held: (1) the contract must be construed according to Chilean law, even though part of the performance of it was to be in England; (2) evidence of the intention of the parties which would be admissible in a Chilean ct. to interpret the contract is admissible in England; (3) neither party had any intention other than that expressed in the contract as interpreted by experts on Chilean law; (4) the rent to be paid had been specified as an amount of Chilean money, & not as an amount of gold; (5) the rent was to be remitted from Chile, & no claim could be made to have it remitted from the Argentine by the guarantors.—ST. a i. ——— Debentures payable in particular place.]—Deft., a municipal corpn. in New Zealand, duly constituted under the Municipal Corps. Act, 1933, borrowed from pltf., a life assurance society incorporated in the State of Victoria, moneys by way of special loans, & issued to the pltf. debentures for the amount so borrowed, whereby the principal & interest was made payable in Victoria. The loan was made & secured by a special rate on rateable property in New Zealand & the debentures given under & in accordance with the Local Bodies' Loans Act, 1913 (now 1926). The loan-moneys were paid in New Zealand, the debentures were executed in New Zealand, &, in the event of default by deft., pltf. could not effectively obtain relief except in the Supreme Ct. of New Zealand. The Financial Emergency Act, 1931 (Victoria), s. 19 (1), enacted that except as therein provided every mtge. shall . . . be construed & take effect as if it were a term of the mtge. that on & from the coming into operation of Part III . . . the interest payable under the mtge. should be reduced at a rate equivalent to four shillings & sixpence for every pound of such interest. It was provided by sub-s. (2) that the provisions of the sect. or of any order made under that particular Division of the Act should not operate so as to reduce the interest payable under any mtge. to a rate less than five pounds per centum per annum. It was enacted by sect. 22 (1) that every payment of interest made in pursuance of that particular Division of the Act or of an order made thereunder should be a full discharge of the mtgor.'s liability for interest under his mtge. in respect of the period to which such payment related. Pltf. sued deft. for the difference between the amount of interest payable under the debentures & the amount actually paid by defts.—viz., the reduced amount that would be payable if the Victorian Act applied:—Held: (1) deft. was not entitled to the reduction enacted by the Victorian Act; (2) the proper law of the contract as to its nature & effect was the law of New Zealand, including the obligation to pay interest & the quantum thereof; (3) even if the law of Victoria governed the mode of performance, the Victoria Act did not relate to the mode of performance but effected a variation of an obligation imposed & of an amount payable fixed by the Legislature of New Zealand (as well as by the intention of the parties), which could not be overriden by foreign law.—AUSTRALASIAN TEMPERANCE & GENERAL ASSURANCE CORPN., LTD. v. MOUNT ALBERT BOROUGH, [1936] N. 803a. —— —— Facilities for dissolution under local law immaterial.]—Marriage is a voluntary union for life of one man & one woman to the exclusion of all others, & where a marriage in a foreign country complies with these requirements it is immaterial that under the local law dissolution can be obtained by mutual consent or at the will of either party with merely formal conditions of official registration.

A man & a woman, both domiciled Russians, entered in Russia into a contract accepted by the local law as one of marriage. The marriage could, according to the same law, be dissolved by mutual consent or at the will of one of the parties, with merely formal conditions of official registration :—Held : on an issue directed in a suit by the woman for judicial separation, that as the union so formed was of one man to one woman to the exclusion of all others, it constituted a valid marriage according to English law, notwithstanding that it could, according to the local law, be dissolved as stated above.—NACHIMSON v. NACHIMSON, [1930] P. 217 ; 99 L. .]—It is established by the cases of Armytage v. Armytage, No. 917, ante, & Anghinelli v. Anghinelli, No. 918, ante, that, according to the practice of the ecclesiastical cts., a suit for judicial separation, which is now substituted for the divorce a mensâ et thoro, can be entertained in a case where both parties are resident but not domiciled within the jurisdiction. But the ct. has no jurisdiction to maintain a suit against a resp. who at the time of his citation or of the institution of the suit is resident out of the jurisdiction. Statute of Citations, 1531 (c. 9), s. 2, which forbade the ecclesiastical cts. to cite any person out of the diocese where he was inhabiting or dwelling, must be taken to have limited the jurisdiction & not only the power of service of the ecclesiastical cts.; & Matrimonial Causes Act, 1857 (c. 85), which permits service within or without His Majesty's Dominions, cannot extend the jurisdiction.—GRAHAM v. GRAHAM, [1923] P. 31; 92 L. 903 iv a. —— —— ——.]—The law of domicil governing divorce is that the domicil of the husband is the domicil of the wife; but circumstances may arise, as a result of that rule, which will justify the intervention of the cts. so as to give a deserted wife relief from her marriage tie.—PAYN v. PAYN, [1924] 3 D. 926b. Jurisdiction dependent on domicil.]—A decree annulling a marriage on the ground of impotence is a judgment in rem altering the status of the parties, & can be pronounced only by the ct. of their domicil. A decree annulling a marriage on this ground deals with a marriage which till the date of the decree was voidable only & not void. In substance it is a decree for the dissolution of that marriage, & is thus distinguished from decrees annulling marriages for illegality or informality.—INVERCLYDE (OTHERWISE TRIPP) v. INVERCLYDE, [1931] P. 29; 100 L. In the fall of 1923 resp. went to Portland, Oregon, & after remaining there a few weeks went to Los Angeles, California, where he remained until Jan. 1925. Late in 1924 he commenced divorce proceedings in Portland & a decree of divorce was granted him in Apr. 1925. He then returned to Vancouver & in Apr. 1926, he, with another woman, went to Bellingham in Washington, where they went through a form of marriage before a magistrate & returned to Vancouver. Petitioner filed her petition herein in May, 1929. The law of the State of Oregon requires that pltf. in a divorce action must have been a resident & inhabitant of the State of Oregon one year next prior to the commencement of the suit & the Supreme Ct. of the State has defined domicil, residence & inhabitance as synonymous in relation to divorce proceedings:—Held: on the evidence, resp. did not renounce his British Columbia domicil, he was not in the ordinary meaning of the words a "resident" or "inhabitant" of the State of Oregon & did not acquire a domicil there. Domicil being the governing factor, there was no jurisdiction in the cts. of the State of Oregon to grant a decree of divorce, & petitioner herein should be granted a decree absolute.—BIGGAR v. BIGGAR, [1930] 2 D. q viii. ——.]—The cts. in Canada will recognise the binding effect of a decree of divorce obtained in a foreign country against a husband domiciled outside Canada although he was not domiciled in the country of the ct. which granted the decree, if the cts. of the country of his domicile would recognise the validity of the decree. In the present case the husband was domiciled in the English legal sense in Oregon when the wife obtained a decree of divorce in California on the ground of wilful desertion:—Held: after receiving expert evidence of the law of Oregon & of the effect of "the full faith & credit clause" of the U.S. Constitution, that under the law of Oregon the wife could not claim a separate residence from that of her husband so as to transfer jurisdiction over a divorce action between them to another state than that of his domicile unless he had given her cause by wilful desertion; &, since the question whether the wife had acquired the right on said ground to establish a separate domicile or residence in California was one going to the root of the jurisdiction of the California Ct., said "full faith & credit clause" would not compel the Oregon Ct. to recognise the California decree without inquiring whether she had acquired said right.—WYLLIE v. MARTIN, [1931] 3 W. On Mar. 4, 1920, the woman, resp. in the present suit, contracted in Germany a second marriage, in respect of which the first husband, the present petitioner, claimed relief:—Held: the German decision was a conclusive adjudication between the parties, & no marriage was at the commencement of the suit or now subsisting.—MITFORD v. MITFORD & VON KUHLMANN, [1923] P. 130; 92 L. 946a. —— —— No cohabitation.]—An Englishman married an Englishwoman in England, but there was no cohabitation, & the wife went almost immediately to Canada & the United States, and on her application a ct. in Michigan, U.S.A., granted her a decree of nullity of marriage on the ground that it was a marriage in form of law but not in legal effect. The husband had agreed to the decree being made. Thinking herself free, the wife went through a form of marriage with another man & lived with him as his wife. The first husband, who was domiciled in England, now petitioned for the dissolution of his marriage, citing the second man as co-respondent. The suit was undefended, but was referred by the Assize Comr. to the King's Proctor on the question of connivance: —Held: the American decree was invalid.—CLAYTON v. CLAYTON & SHARMAN, [1932] P. 45; 101 L. 946b. Foreign court without jurisdiction to grant decree of nullity.]—The disability of a foreigner to marry in England otherwise than in accordance with the law of his country as regards matters of form is a disability of which he can divest himself at will & therefore constitutes no objection to the validity of a marriage contracted by him in England in English form. A decree of a foreign ct. invalidating such a marriage is recognisable in England only if the foreign ct. has jurisdiction over the marriage & even then is open to examination. Want of jurisdiction cannot be cured by mere consent of the parties. A decree of a foreign ct. purporting to annul an English marriage under these circumstances is not severable, & if it is incompetent to annul the marriage, neither is it competent to award maintenance or a lump sum in lieu of maintenance.

The husband, a domiciled Cypriot, married a Frenchwoman in England in English form. Afterwards he repudiated the marriage on the ground that it was not in form in accordance with the law of his domicil. Later, on proceedings by the wife in a Cypriot ct., the marriage was declared null on the same ground by consent of the parties, & it was further declared that the husband should pay the wife a lump sum in satisfaction of all claims, including maintenance. The Cypriot ct. by the terms of its constitution had no jurisdiction to annul a marriage. Still later, the wife, finding the husband in England, took out a summons against him for neglect to maintain her under the Summary Jurisdiction (Separation & Maintenance) Acts, 1895 to 1925. The summary jurisdiction ct., upholding the marriage, ordered the husband to pay maintenance:—Held: the marriage was good & the agreement to set it aside illegal, that the decree of the ct. in Cyprus was pronounced without jurisdiction in compromising maintenance as well as in annulling the marriage, & that the order of the ct. of summary jurisdiction must stand, the measure of maintenance within the limits of the Summary Jurisdiction Act being the means of the parties at the time of the proceedings.—PAPADOPOULOS v. PAPADOPOULOS, [1930] P. 55; 99 L. 949a. ——.]—In 1935 a maintenance order was made in a ct. of summary jurisdiction in England against M., a German subject. In 1936 a decree of divorce was pronounced between M. & his wife in Germany. Both parties had submitted to the jurisdiction of the ct. & the decree was pronounced on grounds that by insulting behaviour & incompatibility of temper the wife had failed to fulfil her marriage obligations. M. then applied for a revocation of the maintenance order. The justices refused the application for the following reasons: (i) they considered that the fact that the marriage had been dissolved in Germany on grounds which would not be recognised in England was not a sufficient reason for them to discharge the order, & (ii) the wife's financial position had not changed & was such that she required the maintenance payable under the order for her support, & the justices therefore exercised their discretion in her favour. The husband appealed:—Held: (1) the decree of the German ct. was valid & binding throughout the world & the justices were not concerned with the question whether the grounds of 951a. ——.]—A husband & wife were married in 1916. In 1922 they went to America, where they settled, the husband getting employment. In 1925 the husband deserted his wife & in 1926 at the husband's request the wife visited certain lawyers in America, where she saw the husband. He said he had decided to take divorce proceedings against her & that he would pay her a certain weekly sum & give her the custody of the child of the marriage. The wife agreed to this, & a divorce petition was duly filed by the husband alleging cruelty by the wife, & alleging that he "resides in & is an inhabitant of the State of Michigan." No answer was put in by the wife, she did not take the point that the husband was not domiciled in that State, & she did not defend the case. A decree was duly made. The wife returned to England &, in order to test the validity of the American divorce, she brought a petition for divorce in England alleging adultery by the husband with the woman whom he had married since the American divorce:—Held: (1) it was clear from the evidence that the husband was domiciled in the State of Michigan when he filed his petition for divorce, & the decree granted in that State was a valid one. The wife, being a single woman, could not, therefore, bring a petition for divorce in England; (2) the American decree was not invalidated by the fact that the interview between the parties at the lawyers might in England be considered to amount to collusion.—CROWE v. CROWE, [1937] 2 All E. 952a. Decree made by mistake—Authority to appear for petitioner withdrawn.]—In this undefended suit the wife petitioned for the dissolution of her marriage on the ground of her husband's adultery in Egypt. Resp., who was engaged in business in Egypt, appeared under protest to the jurisdiction & said that he was domiciled in Egypt. An order was made for the trial of the issue prior to the hearing of the suit, but later resp. abandoned his plea to the jurisdiction. At the hearing the judge drew the attention of counsel to the fact that petitioner had in 1930 petitioned for divorce in Egypt, & had been granted in May, 1930, a decree nisi of divorce in H.M. Ct. at Alexandria; that the husband had given evidence in that suit, though it was undefended, & had given evidence that he was domiciled in Egypt. The hearing was adjourned for the production of the ct. record from Alexandria, which was forthcoming at the resumed hearing:—Held: the proceedings in Egypt amounted to nothing at all, because petitioner had withdrawn all authority from anybody to appear in the cts. of that country. The judge at Alexandria was not informed of that fact, & he proceeded with the suit on the footing that she was represented, whereas she was not. The domicile was really English. Deft. gave notice of appeal to the Privy Council &, as required by the rules of ct. of the Ct. of Appeal of Ontario, he gave security for the costs of that appeal. Pltf. co. sought to recover in England the balance of the costs payable in respect of the earlier proceedings. Deft. contended that pltf. co. could not sue upon the Ontario judgment, having regard to (i) the Administration of Justice Act, 1920 (c. 81), s. 9 (1); (ii) Foreign Judgments (Reciprocal Enforcement) Act, 1933 (c. 13), ss. 1, 6, 7, & Reciprocal Enforcement of Judgments (General Application to His Majesty's Dominions, etc.) Order, 1933; & (iii) the fact that deft. had given notice of appeal to the Privy Council & had given security for the costs of that appeal:—Held: (1) there was nothing in the Act of 1920 forbidding the bringing of an action in England on a colonial judgment; (2) as no order in council under sect. 1 of the Act of 1933 had been made specifying that the Act should extend to Ontario & the Supreme Ct. of Ontario should be deemed to be a superior ct. for the purposes of the Act, pltf. co. was not entitled to register its judgment under sect. 2 of the 1933 Act & its action was therefore not barred by sect. 6 of the same Act; (3) as deft. had not given security, as required by the Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1927, c. 86, s. 3 (d) for payment of the sums claimed if the appeal to the Privy Council were dismissed, there could be no stay of pltf. co.'s right to recover the sums claimed.—YUKON CONSOLIDATED GOLD CORPN., LTD. v. CLARK, [1937] 2 All E. On an application to have the judgment for costs of the High Ct. registered in the Supreme Ct., so that it might be enforced in New Zealand:—Held: (1) co-respondent did not voluntarily appear or otherwise submit or agree to submit to the jurisdiction of that ct.; (2) even if such entry of appearance did amount to submitting to the High Ct.'s jurisdiction, it would not be just & convenient for the judgment to be enforced in New Zealand.—REDHEAD v. REDHEAD & CROTHERS, [1926] N. sn. Reciprocal Enforcement of Judgments Act, 1925—Scope of Act.]—Reciprocal Enforcement of Judgments Act, 1925, does not permit the registration of a judgment obtained in a province or territory of the Dominion of Canada to which the Act applies unless the judgment is one which could be enforced by action thereon in Alberta. The Act does not make the judgments to which it applies any less "foreign" judgments or any more directly enforceable than before the Act was passed, & does not alter the rules of private international law as to the recognition to be given to foreign judgments. Therefore a judgment obtained in another province, under the rules thereof permitting service ex juris, against a deft. who was not resident or present in that province & did not submit to the jurisdiction of the ct. by contract or appearance is not one which is registrable under the Act. that of "ship's creditors." The ship was subsequently arrested in England at the suit of other necessaries men & sold by order of the English ct. Further claims were brought against her by a mtgee. & other necessaries men, & these, as well as the German firm, in due course obtained judgment, in default of appearance, against the proceeds of the sale of the ship. On a motion to determine priorities it was argued for the German suppliers of bunkers that the law applicable was the German Commercial Code, by which "ship's creditors" were given priority not only over other necessaries men but also over a mtgee., & also were given the equivalent of a maritime lien, which entitled them to follow the ship or her proceeds into the hands of subsequent owners: — Held: any rights possessed by the claimants under German law were of no value unless & until they were enforced by the arrest of the vessel in the German cts.; the question of priorities must be determined by the lex fori, under which the claimants as necessaries men had no maritime lien or special rights over the heads of a mtgee. or other necessaries men.—THE ZIGURDS (No. 1), [1932] P. 113; 101 L. 1325a. —— Plaintiff in England defendant abroad.]—A Greek vessel & an Argentine vessel came into collision in the River Parana; the Argentine vessel sank, &, it was alleged, became a total loss.

On Sept. 30, 1936, proceedings were instituted in the Argentine by the owners of the sunken ship, an Argentine corpn.; the owner of the Greek ship put in a counter-claim, but on Oct. 27 withdrew it. Meanwhile, on Sept. 30, he had issued the writ in the present proceedings in this country, & served it by leaving a copy at the London office of the Argentine Corpn. which had been established for the purpose of the transfer & registration of shares. The Argentine Corpn. moved to set aside the writ, or alternatively to stay the proceedings, on the grounds, amongst others, (a) that the corpn. only carried on business within the jurisdiction so far as claims connected with the share register were concerned; (b) that the proceedings were vexatious & oppressive as there was an action pending in Argentina, where all the corpn.'s witnesses as well as the chief witnesses for the Greek ship resided; & further that pltf. had no effective remedy, inasmuch as Argentine law must be applied in this country, under which, if a vessel was a total loss, liability being limited to the property available, her owners were under no liability at all. By Cos. Act, 1929 (c. 23), s. 352, the expression "place of business" includes a share transfer office:

(1) as the corpn. had a place of business within the jurisdiction it was amenable to the jurisdiction for all purposes & not merely to the limited jurisdiction suggested; (2) pltf.'s action could not be stayed merely because he was deft. elsewhere; it could not be said, as in Dawkins v. Prince Edward of Saxe Weimar (1876), 1 Q. B. D. 499; 38 Digest 79, 566, that on the facts of the declaration no cause of action was shown; & the question whether pltf.'s claim was groundless depended on facts which he was entitled to have tried, & accordingly the motion failed.—THE MADRID, [1937] P. 40; [1937] 1 All E. 1383a. — — —— ——.]—On June 13, 1922, a British steamer & a Finnish steamer were in collision in the river Maas, Holland. After the collision the Finnish owners threatened arrest in a Dutch port. The owners of the British steamer who were anxious that the litigation should take place in England, reluctantly instructed their agents in Holland to provide bail, & although no proceedings were begun, documents in identical terms in the nature of bank guarantees to provide bail if proceedings were commenced within three months were exchanged on July 29 between the owners. On Sept. 6 the Finnish vessel came within the jurisdiction of the English cts., & an action was commenced, & the ship arrested & bail given under protest at the suit of the owners of the British ship. At that time no proceedings had been begun in Holland, but on Sept. 14 an action was commenced in Holland by the Finnish owners. The Finnish owners moved that the writ & all proceedings in the action by the British owners should be stayed, on the ground that their action was oppressive because it required the Finnish owners to give bail in two cts., & was inequitable as a breach of faith of the agreement in Holland :—Held : no legal proceedings having been commenced when the writ was issued in England, & there being no arrest & no bail given prior to the writ now sought to be set aside, there was nothing to debar the British owners from carrying on proceedings in England.—THE JUNO (1922), 128 L. Part III.—Relations between the Crown and the Subject.

7a. —— In foreign parts.]—There is no legal duty on the Crown to afford by its military forces protection to British subjects in foreign parts. If, in the exercise of its discretion, the Crown decides to afford such protection, it may lawfully stipulate that it will do so only on the condition that the cost shall be borne by those asking for it.

Pltfs., an English shipping co. trading in the China seas, requested the Crown to provide armed guards to be placed on board their ships as a protection against internal piracy, which was a serious menace at the material time. Armed guards having been provided on the terms that they should be paid for by the pltfs., the latter claimed a declaration that as British subjects they were entitled to protection without payment:—Held: there was no duty on the Crown to afford military protection to pltfs. in foreign parts, & if it did afford protection it was entitled to do so on such terms as it thought fit.—CHINA NAVIGATION CO., LTD. v. A.-G., [1932] 2 K. 58a. Crown cannot seize subject's property without compensation—What amounts to seizure.]—Assuming that the Crown has no right at common law to take a subject's property for reasons of State without paying compensation, that rule can only apply, if it does apply, to a case where property is actually taken possession of or used by the Govt., or where, by the order of a competent authority, it is placed at the disposal of the Govt., & a mere negative prohibition, though it involves interference with an owner's enjoyment of property, does not, merely because it is obeyed, carry with it at common law any right to compensation.—FRANCE FENWICK & CO. v. R., [1927] 1 K. Classification Rules, 1920–24, made under sect. 96B (2) of Govt. of India Act, 1919 (c. 101), was not followed at the official inquiry which preceded the dismissal. Applt.'s employment, however, was not of a limited & special kind during pleasure with an added contractual term that the procedure prescribed by the Rules must be observed; it was by the express terms of sect. 96B held "during His Majesty's pleasure," & no right of action as claimed by the applt. existed. The terms of sect. 96B assure that the tenure of office, though at pleasure, will not be subject to capricious or arbitrary action, but will be regulated by the rules, which are manifold in number, most minute in particularity & all capable of change, but there was no right in applt., enforceable by action, to hold his office in accordance with with those rules, & he could therefore be dismissed notwithstanding the failure to observe the procedure prescribed by them. Sect. 96B & the rules make provision for the redress of grievances by administrative process.—VENKATA RAO v. SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA, [1937] A. C. 248; 106 L. J. P. C. 53; 156 L. T. 261, P. L. R. 571, 601.—NFLD.

83 iii. —— —— ——.]—If the terms of the appointment to a public office definitely prescribe a period of employment & expressly provide for a power to determine "for cause" it appears necessarily to follow that any implication to dismiss at pleasure is excluded. Qu.: whether the relations between the Crown & the holder of a public office are not, at least in respect to some offices, constituted in some degree by contract.—REILLY v. R., [1934] 1 W. 83 iv. —— —— ——.]—Apart from some special statutory provision, no action will lie against the Crown for the wrongful dismissal of a servant of Govt. This rule of law is based upon public policy & the prerogative right of the Sovereign. In Government of India Act, 1919, s. 96B, the words "subject to the provisions of this Act & of rules made thereunder every person in the Civil Service of the Crown in India holds office during His Majesty's pleasure," read together with r. 14 of the rules regarding the Civil Services in India made by the Secretary of State providing for—proper departmental inquiry, indicate that certain formalities must be observed before a civil servant can be dismissed. In so far as these formalities are alleged not to have been followed, pltf. has a cause of action.—BARONI v. SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA (1929), I. L. R. 8 Ran. 215.—IND.

83 v. —— —— ——.]—At common law, where the Crown is the employer, & the office is not an ancient office with special incidents, the employment, whether it be permanent or temporary, is during pleasure only, & the Crown servant may be dismissed at any time without notice. This right in the Crown exists, notwithstanding any provision in the contract of employment to the contrary unless, in a particular case, it is excluded by Statute. Such exclusion may be implied where a Statute prescribes special conditions for dismissal as the case may be. Where there is a suspension of an officer, this may operate not to vacate the office, but to relieve the officer from the performance of his duties whilst leaving him absolutely or conditionally entitled to his salary; or it may operate as a temporary suspension of the whole contract of employment.—BROWNE v. RAILWAYS COMR. p i. —— —— ——.]—The Crown can dismiss its servants at pleasure & without notice unless the power of dismissal has been limited by some statutory provision, the general rule being that a Government servant holds office during pleasure & is liable to be dismissed at any time without notice & without reason assigned. He was then appointed to the Commonwealth office of Director of Lands in the Northern Territory, & he continued to hold the position until 1921, when the Governor-General in Council dispensed with his services:—Held: the Crown had power to dispense, at will, with the services of pltf., who was appointed under Ordinance No. 6 of 1913, made under the above Acts, & not under Commonwealth Public Service Act.—TROWER v. THE COMMONWEALTH (1924), 34 C. f i. —— —— Effect of Government of India Act, 1919.]—Govt. of India Acts, 1919, s. 96B, does not abrogate the right of the Crown to dismiss its civil servants at its pleasure, but reiterates that right & enacts that the same is only limited in so far as there are definite & special or particular rules laying down the method by which, or the circumstances in which, that right is to be exercised.—BIMALACHARAN BATABYAL v. INDIAN MUSEUM TRUSTEES (1929), I. f ii. —— —— Failure to observe conditions precedent—Remedy.]—Where a public servant has been discharged contrary to Act 27, 1923, that is to say, where the statutory conditions precedent to his lawful discharge have not been observed, he is entitled, notwithstanding that his discharge is a nullity, to claim damages against the Crown for wrongful dismissal & is not limited to the remedy of having the irregular procedure set aside or the proper procedure enforced.

He failed to comply with a final notice to go to the latter place, & was thereupon dismissed by the Public Service Comr. In an action against the Crown for wrongful dismissal:—Held: the effect of sect. 50 of Public Service Act, 1918, is that if it is desirable that an officer be transferred from one place to another that officer has no alternative but to obey, unless he can satisfy the Comr. that the transfer should not take place. The Comr. by that sect. is made the sole judge of the sufficiency of the reasons against the transfer, & from his decision there is no appeal.—BARNES v. R., [1933] N. Z. L. R. Supp. 117.—N.Z.

On July 31, 1931, his occupancy of the position was terminated by sect. 26 of Unemployment Amendment Act, 1931. F. claimed damages for the wrongful termination of his employment:—Held: (1) the office of membership of the Unemployment Board as constituted by Unemployment Act, 1930, was abolished by sect. 26 of the Amendment Act, 1931; (2) even if the office had not been abolished, the Crown's absolute power of dismissal of a servant of the Crown at any time without incurring liability for damages or compensation was not restricted by Unemployment Act, 1930, or by the Unemployment Act, 1931; (3) there was no contractual relationship between the Crown & the suppliant as appointee to the office—he was simply gazetted as appointed to the Unemployment Board of 1930; he could resign at any time, & there was no provision for his remuneration; &, since there was no animus contrahendi, a valid claim could not be established against the Crown.—FINN v. R., [1933] N. Claim that right of administration of premises vested in Crown—Crown must be represented.]—Government House, Sydney, was built upon Crown land about 1845 as a residence for the Governor of New South Wales, &, with the stables of a former residence, was continuously so used until 1900. From 1900 to 1912, by an arrangement between the Governments of the Commonwealth & of the State, the premises were occupied by the Governor-General, & another residence was provided for the Governor of the State. In 1912, this arrangement having come to an end, the State Government threw the grounds attached to the house open to the public & took steps to convert the stables into a school of music. By the New South Wales Constitution Act, 1855 (c. 54), s. 2, all "waste lands" in the then colony were placed under the control of the local Legislature. The A.-G. for New South Wales, at the relation of residents in the State, filed an information praying for declarations that the house & grounds were vested in His Majesty, dedicated to the public purpose of a residence for the Sovereign's representative in New South Wales, & that neither the Governor of New South Wales nor the Governor in Council had power to interfere with or alter that purpose,

He was making a nuisance of himself & when told to go, got into his car and drove straight into the canal, & all were drowned :—Held : as C. had no business on the wharf on the evening of the accident & was there by tolerance, the Crown under such circumstances was under no obligation or duty to him. The jewelry was put in a locked leather bag kept in a safe at the embassy. Persons claiming to be representatives of the Soviet Govt. entered the embassy & arrested everybody, & afterwards the bag was found to have been cut open & the contents taken. In 1926 the suppliant claimed the value of the jewelry, but the Foreign Secretary repudiated liability, & the suppliant brought a petition of right. The A.-G., by demurrer, submitted that there was no ground of claim as the facts disclosed showed the absence of negligence, &, secondly, he put in an answer & plea that the claim was barred by the Indemnity Act, 1920 (c. 48) :—Held : (1) the facts stated in the petition did not negative the possibility of the proof of negligence & the demurrer must be overruled; (2) the claim was barred by the Indemnity Act, 1920 (c. 48), & there must be judgment for the Crown on the answer & plea relating to that Act.—BUCKNALL v. R. The caretaker had spread sawdust on the walk instead of the sand provided for the purpose, & this did not adhere to the ice but floated on the water :—Held : a Post Office is a public work within the statute; the act of the caretaker in spreading sawdust where water was lying when instructions had been given to put sand, was negligence on his part which bound the Crown & rendered it liable in damages.—LUDGER MARCOUX v. R., [1937] Ex. 317 i. Addition of Attorney-General—Action affecting rights of Crown—Petition of right not applicable.]—This was an appeal by the A.-G. for Manitoba from an order by which he was added as a deft. to an action brought against the University of Manitoba to enforce agreements under which pltfs. had agreed to donate certain land as a site for the University on the condition that the University expended a certain amount of money on the grounds & in the erection of buildings. Pltfs. had transferred to the University all of the land originally contemplated except 25 acres which, under an agreement with the provincial Govt., they transferred to the province as a site for a school for the deaf. The agreements with the University were confirmed by an order-in-council which also authorised the execution of the agreement made with the Crown. Pltfs. alleged that these agreements were interdependent, & that there was in reality a tri-partite bargain whereby the Govt. entered into the arrangement previously made by the Governors of the University, furnishing $500,000 for a school for the deaf as part of the general scheme for the erection of educational buildings. This contention the A.-G. denied. Pltfs. asked for specific performance & for an injunction restraining the University from doing anything at variance with its contract with pltfs., & from accepting any money from the Crown for the erection or maintenance of university buildings elsewhere than on said site. No relief was asked for against the Crown; all that was sought with respect to it was a declaratory judgment that the contracts & order-in-council were not ultra vires :—Held : the appeal should be dismissed, for the reasons : (a) the A.-G. should be a party to this action to represent 348a. —— In proceedings under Patents & Designs Acts.]—Appcts. applied by originating summons under Patents & Designs Act, 1907 (c. 29), s. 29, as amended by Patents & Designs Act, 1919 (c. 80), s. 8, for an inquiry as to the remuneration proper to be paid to them for the user by a Govt. department of the patented invention of which they were the registered owners. In the course of the proceedings, preliminary to hearing of the motion, orders were made in which the litigation was treated, with the acquiescence of both litigants, as subject to the ordinary rule as to costs, & on two occasions orders were made requiring appcts. to give security for costs. After the hearing had proceeded for some time appcts. withdrew their claim in view of a prior trial of the invention found to have been made on behalf of the Govt. which, by virtue of the proviso to Patents & Designs Act, 1919, s. 8, entitled the Govt. to make use of it thereafter without payment. On the question how the costs ought to be borne:—Held: (1) under that part of Patents & Designs Act, 1919, which authorised proceedings against a Govt. department, there was no express mention of costs, & the authority to deal with them was derived from the general jurisdiction of the ct., & the ct. had, therefore, no authority to depart from the common law rule that the Crown neither paid nor received costs, unless the special circumstances of the particular case justified it in so doing; (2) having regard to the orders that had been made before the hearing of the motion, & particularly to the two orders for security for costs, the ct. would infer an agreement between the parties that each of them should be treated as ordinary litigants as regarded liability for costs.—Re LETTERS PATENT NO. 139,207, Re CARBONIT AKT., [1924] 2 Ch. 53; 93 L. 387a. —— —— ——]—The Bank of Ethiopia was formed under the law of Ethiopia in 1931. It was a bank of issue & was the only bank in the Ethiopian Empire. In the autumn of 1935 hostilities began between Italy & the Ethiopian govt. & on May 1, 1936, the Emperor left the country. On May 5, 1936, the Italian army entered the capital & thereafter the affairs of the bank were carried on under the supervision of the representative of the Italian authorities. In Dec. 1936, the British govt. recognised the Italian govt. as being the de facto govt. of the area then under Italian control. On June 20, 1936, a govt. decree, valid according to the law as recognised & administered by the de facto govt., had placed the bank in liquidation & appointed a liquidator :—Held : (1) it was the duty of the ct. to treat the acts of the de facto govt. with all the respect due to the acts of a duly recognised foreign sovereign state, & this was not affected by the fact that the British govt. in addition to recognising a de facto govt., recognised the Emperor as a de jure monarch ; (2) the Bank of Ethiopia had been dissolved under or by virtue of the laws of the country under which it was incorporated, & had accordingly ceased to exist, except in so far as might be necessary for the liquidation of its affairs ; (3) no action could be brought in the name of the Bank of Ethiopia otherwise than by or under the authority of the duly constituted liquidator of the bank.—BANK OF ETHIOPIA v. NATIONAL BANK OF EGYPT & LIGUORI, [1937] Ch. 513 ; [1937] 3 All E. 387b. —— Decrees of Russian Soviet Government —Effect of.]—The English cts. will not inquire into the validity of acts done by a recognised foreign Govt. against its own subjects in respect of property situate in its own territory.

In 1918 a section of Russian revolutionaries took & retained possession of movables in Russia belonging to pltf. against her will. The act of those revolutionaries was subsequently adopted by the Soviet Govt. as the de jure Govt. of Russia. In 1928 the movables in question were sold in Russia by the Soviet Republic to defts., who brought them to England. In an action by pltf. to recover those movables or damages for their detention or conversion :—Held : the action failed, as the ct. could not inquire into the validity of the acts of a foreign sovereign Power which had been recognised by the Govt. of this country.—PALEY (PRINCESS OLGA) v. WEISZ, [1929] 1 K. Deft. in an action in the K. B. Div. for arrears of rent took out a summons to set aside the writ, on the ground that he was a member of the staff of the German Embassy, & filed two affidavits in support of his application. Pltf. applied for leave to cross-examine deft. upon his affidavits. The judge ordered deft. to attend for cross-examination. On appeal the A.-G. attended at the request of the Foreign Office, & on the invitation of the ct. informed them that deft. had been appointed a member of the staff of the German Ambassador under the style of consular secretary, & had been received in that capacity by the British Govt. :—Held : (1) the statement of the A.-G. was binding on the ct., & deft. was entitled to diplomatic privilege; (2) (LORD DUNEDIN) apart from that statement, the order for the cross-examination of deft. would have been justified.—ENGELKE v. MUSMANN, [1928] A. 465a. —— By order of diplomatic superior.]— Deft., who was First Secretary of the Peruvian

Legation, took out a policy of insurance against legal liability to members of the public in connection with the driving of his motor car, the policy providing that "the assured . . . shall not in any way act to the detriment or prejudice of the (insurance) co.'s interests," & that "the co. is entitled to take absolute control of all negotiations & proceedings." Pltf. brought an action for personal injuries against deft., & the latter served on the insurance co. a third-party notice claiming an indemnity. An appearance without protest was entered in the action on behalf of deft., &, as the Peruvian Minister forbade deft. to raise the plea of diplomatic immunity, no such plea was inserted in the defence. The jury found a verdict for pltf. for damages, & the insurance co. repudiated liability on the ground that deft. had broken the conditions of the policy by insisting that the plea of diplomatic immunity should not be raised :—Held : the privilege of diplomatic immunity was waived by the entry of appearance without protest.—DICKINSON v. DEL SOLAR, [1930] 1 K. On June 28, 1919, these Powers signed a treaty of peace, but they did not exchange & deposit ratifications of the treaty until Jan. 1920. sg. Calling out militia—Liability for expenses—Whether on Dominion or Province.]—The question referred to this ct. was whether the province of Nova Scotia was liable, or not, to pay to the Dominion of Canada all expenses & costs incurred by the latter by reason of part of the active militia of Canada being called out & serving in aid of the civil power in the county of Cape Breton in 1925, in a case of riot, upon a requisition, made by the A.-G. of Nova Scotia in the form prescribed by s. 85 of the Militia Act, which included an undertaking by him that these expenses & costs would be paid to the Dominion Govt. by the province :—Held : the question should be answered in the negative. Sects. 80 to 90 of the Militia Act repose certain powers in the person occupying the position of A.-G. in the province for the time being, but the exercise of these powers does not in any way depend upon the consent of the Lieutenant-Governor or of the provincial legislature. The Militia Act envisages the A.-G., not in his capacity as A.-G. to His Majesty as the Sovereign Head of the province, but as a person in whom certain powers are vested & on whom certain duties are laid by the statute. These sects. apply to every province & go into operation independently of the scope of the A.-G.'s authority to bind the province in respect of the expenditure of moneys for such purpose. Therefore these enactments do not contemplate a duty to pay, proceeding from a contract between the province & the Dominion. The revenues of the province are vested in His Majesty as the supreme head of the province, & the right of appropriation of all such revenues belongs to the legislature of the province exclusively. Semble : the A.-G., whose duties, in so far as now material, include the supervision of the administration of justice within the province, has no statutory authority to undertake the payment now demanded by the Dominion : the subject matters comprised within the supervision of the administration of justice would not embrace authority to enter into such an undertaking.—Re TROOPS IN CAPE BRETON, REFERENCE, [1930] S. Under Indemnity Act, 1920 (c. 48)—"Direct loss or damage"—What is.]—Claimants carried on business as motor garage proprietors in Dublin, where they owned & occupied extensive premises peculiarly well suited to their purposes. These premises were taken by the Govt. under powers conferred by statute for the defence of the realm. Claimants, having tried & failed to acquire premises temporarily, took the only reasonable course ; they bought other premises, fitted them for use as a garage, & transferred to them all the appliances of their business which they thus continued to carry on as well as they could. When the Govt. retired from possession of the original premises claimants sold the substituted premises. They alleged that the difference between the amount they had expended in acquiring the substituted premises & fitting them for use as a garage on the one hand, & the sum they received on the sale of the substituted premises on the other hand amounted to £3,429. They claimed this sum as an item of "direct loss or damage incurred or sustained by reason of interference with" their "property or business" within sect. 2 (1) (b) of the above Act :—Held : "direct loss or damage" may include consequential damage, & the item claimed could not be entirely excluded as indirect loss, but the amount to which claimants might be entitled in respect thereof must be assessed by the War Compensation Ct.—A. & B. 526a. Power to impose payment for licence to sell ship to foreigner—Recovery of money paid—Indemnity Act, 1920 (c. 48), s. 1 (1).]—The Shipping Controller, purporting to act in pursuance of his powers under Defence of the Realm Regulations, imposed upon suppliants as a condition of granting them a licence to sell a steamship to a foreigner the payment to him by suppliants of £30,800. By their petition of right suppliants alleged that the Shipping Controller had no lawful authority to impose a condition or to exact the payment, which suppliants had paid under protest, & that the Shipping Controller thereby became liable to repay the money to suppliants as money had & received to their use. The petition of right was not brought within one year from the termination of the war or within one year from the exaction of the money. The Crown demurred to the petition, on the ground that the case if founded on the alleged tort of the Shipping Controller was barred by the above sub-sect., & if based on an alleged breach of contract, the proceedings not having been brought within the prescribed time failed under proviso (b) of that sub-sect. A further ground of demurrer was that a petition of right would not lie against the Crown for tort, for the King could do no wrong. Suppliants contended that they were entitled to waive the tort & to sue for money had & received by the Shipping Controller & now in the hands of the Crown, & that their claim so grounded was not a proceeding for or in respect or on account of any act of the Shipping Controller, & therefore was not within the terms of the Act :—Held : the allegation that suppliants' money had been extorted from them by the wrongful act of the Shipping Controller was an essential part of suppliants' case, from which the claim for money had & received arose ; & as such act was one to which the above sub-sect. applied, the petition of right was barred by that sub-sect.—BRISTOL CHANNEL STEAMERS, LTD. v. R. 526b. —— —— ——.]—The Shipping Controller, purporting to act under the authority of Defence of the Realm Regulations, required as a condition of a licence to suppliants to sell one of their ships to a foreign firm that they should pay a percentage of the purchase money to the Ministry of Shipping, & suppliants paid the percentage. On a petition of right to recover back the money so paid :—Held : (1) the imposition of the condition was illegal, & the payment was not a voluntary payment ; (2) the petition of right was barred by the above sub-sect. ; it was not open to suppliants, by waiving the tort of the illegal exaction & suing for money had & received, to bring the case within par. (b) of the proviso to the sub-sect., for the case fell within the exception to the proviso as being one in which a claim for compensation could have been brought under sect. 2 (1) (b) ; (3) (BANKES & SARGANT, L.JJ.) suppliants failed to bring the case within the proviso upon the further ground that the contracts referred to in paragraph (b) are limited to express contracts, & do not include the fictitious contract to repay money improperly extorted, the implication of which arises upon a waiver of the tort.—BROCKLEBANK, LTD. v. R., [1925] 1 K. 526d. —— —— —— Transfer of liabilities incurred by Shipping Controller to Board of Trade—Whether action maintainable against Board of Trade.]—(1) Pltfs. in 1922 brought an action against the Board of Trade for money had & received. The money which it was sought to recover was alleged to have been wrongfully extorted from pltfs. in 1919 by the Shipping Controller under colour of his office, & it was alleged that, on pltfs. electing to waive the tort, he would have been personally liable to refund the money as having been received to their use. By Ministry of Shipping (Cessation) Order, 1921, it was provided that the office of Shipping Controller should cease to exist, & that "All . . . liabilities . . . incurred by the Shipping Controller . . . shall be transferred to the Board of Trade." The "Board of Trade" is the name given by statute to an unincorporated committee of the Privy Council. On an application to strike out the writ on the ground that the Board of Trade, as a department of the Crown, could not be sued :—Held : the intention of the Order was to transfer to the Board of Trade as a Govt. department the personal liabilities, if any such there were, of the Shipping Controller for any wrongful acts committed by him in his office, & the Board was liable to 534a. —— —— —— ——.]—A British ship lying in a neutral port & laden with a cargo of timber belonging to neutrals of another country was requisitioned during the war by the British Govt. & brought home with her cargo to England without the consent & against the protest of the cargo owners. The timber was then requisitioned by the Controller of Timber Supplies on behalf of the Board of Trade avowedly under Defence of the Realm Regulations, 2B & 2JJ. The owners of the cargo made a claim in the War Compensation Ct. for compensation & contended that it should be assessed under Indemnity Act, 1920 (c. 48), s. 2 (2) (iii.) (a), on the ground that in the circumstances they would but for the Act have had a legal right to compensation :—Held : (1) the regulations did not apply to a seizure of goods of a neutral brought into England against his will ; (2) the requisition of the timber was justifiable as an exercise of the royal prerogative right of angary & was, therefore, made " in exercise of " a " prerogative right to His Majesty " within s. 2 (1) (b) of the Act, & inasmuch as that right involved the obligation to pay full compensation to the owner of the property seized, claimants " would have had apart from " the Act a valid claim for compensation by petition of right, &, the Crown admitting that such a claim constituted " a legal right to compensation," compensation was to be assessed according to the principle laid down in s. 2 (2) (iii.) 558a. Restriction on right of action.]—Reg. 2A (2) of Defence of the Realm Regulations, which provides that " no person shall, without the consent of the Minister of Munition, take . . . any proceedings for the purpose of obtaining an order or decree for the recovery of possession of, or for the ejectment of a tenant of, any dwelling-house " in which a munition worker is living, & which is situate in an area declared by order of the Minister of Munitions to be a " special area," is not authorised by Defence of the Realm Consolidation Act, 1914 (c. 8), s. 1 (1), & is, therefore, invalid.

The only question for decision is whether this portion of the regulation is ultra vires the statute under which it purports to be made, that is to say, Defence of the Realm Consolidation Act, 1914. This depends upon whether it can be said, on any reasonable construction of the statute, to be a regulation for securing the public safety & the defence of the realm, &, particularly under sect. 1 (1) (e), whether it can be said to be a regulation to prevent the successful prosecution of the war being endangered (AVORY, J.).

It is true that the power to make a regulation to prevent the successful prosecution of the war being endangered is of a wide & sweeping character, but I decline to hold that Parliament intended by these general words to give to the executive the right to close any of the King's cts. against his subjects unless they obtained the sanction of a minister to resort thereto (SANKEY, J.).—CHESTER v. BATESON, [1920] 1 K. By virtue of Assessionable Manors Act, 1844 (c. 105), s. 54, His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, as Duke of Cornwall, was absolutely entitled to the mines & minerals within certain manors including that of C. Sect. 55 of the Act empowered the Duke, his agents & lessees, to enter upon all lands within the said manors, & all mines belonging to the Duke, & to open & work the same, & to erect all such buildings, machinery, etc., & do all such acts as should be " necessary or convenient for working the same mines," on making compensation to the surface owners. By sect. 69 it was provided that it should be lawful for the Duke, his agents & lessees, to pull down & remove all buildings, machinery, etc., no longer used for the purposes aforesaid, or to allow the same to remain, & no buildings should, by non-user or otherwise, be deemed to be abandoned, so as to vest any right or title therein in the owner of the land. Deft. was the owner by purchase of garden land adjoining two cottages at W. E. in the manor of C., & was also in possession of a house & garden at W. Z., the site of which she had purchased in 1902. This house was subsequently enlarged from one of six rooms into one of eleven rooms, with an additional wing. These alterations & some improvements to the garden cost £500, & were known to the mineral agent of the Duchy, who remained passive. The Duchy claimed that under the provisions of sects. 55 & 69 of the Act the two cottages & land at W. E. & the house & land at W. Z. had been originally erected, entered —— —— Legal effect expressly excluded.]—By successive arrangements made before 1913 between an American firm & an English co. the American firm were constituted sole agents for the sale in the United States & Canada of tissues for carbonising paper supplied by the English co. The greater part of these tissues was manufactured for this English co. by another English co. By an arrangement made between the American firm & both English cos. in 1913 the English cos. expressed their willingness that the existing arrangements with the American firm, which were then for one year only, should be continued on the same lines for three years & so on for further periods of three years, subject to six months' notice. This document, after setting out the understanding between the parties, including several modifications of the previous arrangements, proceeded as follows : " This arrangement is not entered into, nor is this memorandum written, as a formal or legal agreement, & shall not be subject to legal jurisdiction in the law cts. either of the United States or England, but it is only a definite expression & record of the purpose & intention of the three parties concerned, to which they each honourably pledge themselves, with the fullest confidence—based on past business with each other—that it will be carried through by each of the three parties with mutual loyalty & friendly co-operation. This is hereinafter referred to as the ' honourable pledge ' clause." Disputes having arisen between the parties, the English cos. determined this arrangement without notice. Before the relations between the parties were broken off the American firm had given & the first-mentioned English co. had accepted certain orders for goods. In an action by the American firm for breach of contract & for non-delivery of goods :—Held : (1) the arrangement of 1913 was not a legally binding contract ; (2) at the date of the arrangement of 1913 all previous agreements were determined by mutual consent ; (3) the orders given & accepted constituted enforceable contracts of sale.—ROSE & FRANK CO. v. CROMPTON (J. —— ——.]—Certain builders requested a firm of publishers to publish a builders' guide in connection with their estate, & by the terms of documents signed by both parties it was agreed that the publishers should prepare & publish the guide free of charge to the builders. It was further agreed that the publishers should be freed from the obligation of publishing the guide should in their opinion insufficient advertisement be obtained to justify publication. The publishers proceeded to carry out the terms of the documents thereby incurring expense. The builders then passed a resolution for a voluntary winding up, & the liquidators informed the publishers that they did not wish them to proceed with the guide. The publishers sought to be admitted as creditors in the winding up, alleging breach of the contract embodied in the above-mentioned documents, & they claimed damages in respect of the expenses incurred & loss of profits. The liquidators contended that the discretion given to the publishers by the terms of the document was so wide & of such a nature that no real obligation rested upon them, & that there was no binding contract between the parties :—Held : it must be implied in the documents that the publishers should only be freed from their obligations if in their reasonable & honest opinion insufficient advertisements were obtained & the obligations under the documents could not under this clause be arbitrarily determined by them. There was therefore a binding contract & the publishers were entitled to be admitted as creditors in the winding up.—Re BRAND ESTATES, LTD., [1936] 3 All E. R. 374.

The land proved unfit & was never used for interments, & it was never fenced off or consecrated, nor did it adjoin any burial ground. The council agreed with pltf., with the approval of the parish meeting, to exchange the land for other land suitable for use as a burial ground :—Held : (1) the land first acquired by the council had never been "set apart for the purposes of interment" & was not therefore a "disused burial ground," so as to be subject to the restriction imposed by 1884 Act, s. 3 ; (2) the council had power to effect the exchange by virtue of the powers to sell land not required for interments & to buy land for the purposes of interment conferred respectively by 1852 Act, ss. 28 & 26, as extended by 1853 Act, s. 7.—NICHOLL v. LLANTWIT MAJOR PARISH COUNCIL, [1924] 2 Ch. 214 ; 93 L. (2) A sale of a "disused burial ground" by the Admiralty under the general powers of Admiralty Lands & Works Act, 1864 (c. 57), s. 15, is not a sale under the authority of an Act of Parliament within 1884 Act, s. 5, & consequently the disused burial ground still remains subject to the building prohibitions of 1884 Act, s. 3.—LONDON COUNTY COUNCIL v. GREENWICH CORPN., [1929] 1 Ch. 305 ; 98 L. Notwithstanding the prohibition against buildings being erected thereon, imposed by Disused Burial Grounds Act, 1884 (c. 72), s. 3, the council undertaking such management & upkeep may erect & maintain a gymnasium, sheds, & lavatories or other buildings or structures which they may consider necessary for the use of the ground by children, & to this extent the London County Council (General Powers) Act, 1935, though a local Act, has impliedly repealed Disused Burial Grounds Act, 1884 (c. 72), s. 3.

The Chancellor, on a petition presented by the London County Council, directed the issue of a faculty authorising the council to manage & erect certain buildings on a disused churchyard, subject to the conditions that the use of the ground for recreation should be limited to children under 14 years of age & that no organised games were to be permitted thereon.—Re ST. 4a. —— ——.]—Defts., furniture removers & warehousemen, contracted to carry pltf.'s furniture from L. to H., the contract being subject to a condition that the contractors would not be responsible for loss or damage caused by fire. Part of the furniture, which was loaded on a motor lorry, was destroyed by fire, occasioned by the negligence of defts.' servants, the remaining portion being damaged by the fire. Pltf. sued defts. for the value of the goods damaged & destroyed:—Held: defts. were not liable, inasmuch as the condition that they would not be responsible for fire protected them from liability, since the clause would be of no effect unless it referred to fire caused by the negligence of defts., as, not being common carriers, they would not in any event be liable for loss caused by accidental fire.—TURNER v. CIVIL SERVICE SUPPLY ASSOCN., LTD., [1926] 1 K. 4b. —— ——.]—Defts., furniture removers & warehousemen, contracted to carry pltf.'s goods from L. to O., the contract being subject to a condition that defts. would not be responsible for fire. The goods, which were loaded on a motor van, were destroyed while in transit by fire, which was occasioned by the negligence of defts.' servants. Pltf. sued defts. for the value of the goods:—Held: as defts. were bailees only & not common carriers, &, therefore, not liable for an accidental fire, the condition must be construed as exempting them from liability for fire arising from their own negligence, as otherwise the condition would be of no effect.—FAGAN v. GREEN & EDWARDS, LTD., [1926] 1 K. 14a. —— Of goods accompanied by passenger.]—By London County Council (Tramways & Improvements) Act, 1911, s. 42: "Every passenger travelling upon any of the council's tramways may take with him his personal luggage, not exceeding 28 lbs. in weight, without any charge . . . all such luggage to be carried by hand" under certain conditions. In respect to luggage which did not fulfil these conditions the council were entitled to make such charge as they thought fit. Pltf., wishing to send a parcel of goods weighing some 50 lbs. to a customer, instructed his servant to convey it by one of defts.' tramcars. The servant did so, & in addition to paying his own fare paid 2*d.* for the parcel. When he arrived at his destination the servant claimed his parcel, but found that it had been lost. In an action brought by pltf. claiming damages:—Held: the provisions of sect. 42 of the private Act being inconsistent with one of the peculiar features of a common carrier, who was bound to carry all goods of the class which he proposed to carry, for all & sundry & irrespective of the fact that the goods were accompanied by a passenger, the London County Council were not common carriers of goods so as to be entitled to the benefit of Carriers Act, 1830 (c. 68).—ROSENTHAL v. LONDON COUNTY COUNCIL (1924), 131 L. 4 i. Carrying on business as carrier—Furniture remover.]—Deft., a carrier & forwarding agent, tendered for the removal of pltf.'s furniture in the following terms: "We beg to quote £120. This price includes all transit charges, including delivery to house & unpacking, also risk of breakage, the value of any one package not to exceed £10." This tender was accepted:—Held: deft. was not in this transaction a common carrier, & Mercantile Law Act, 1918, s. 19, did not apply.—WILSON v. [illegible] CO., LTD., [1923] N. Z.

h i. —— Right to reject reserved.]—A carrier who, while inviting all & sundry to employ him, reserves to himself the right of accepting of rejecting their offers of goods for carriage, whether his conveyances are full or empty, being guided in his decision by the attractiveness or otherwise of the particular offer, & not by his ability or inability to carry having regard to his other engagements, is not a common carrier.—CRUM v. BIG 4 TRANSFER & STORAGE CO., LTD., [1930] 1 W. sb. Public vehicle under Public Vehicles Act.]—A public vehicle under Public Vehicles Act, R. S. S., 1930, is not a "common carrier" within sect. 216 (84) of City Act, R. S. S., 1930, which gives a city power to make bye-laws for the licensing of "common carriers," nor, therefore, within the meaning of a city bye-law imposing a licence fee on motor vehicles operated as "common carriers."—LYNE v. CHECKER STAGE SERVICE, LTD., [1932] 1 W. 31. For existing paragraph substitute the following :—

Deft. was a barge-owner, & let out his vessels for the conveyance of goods to any customers who applied to him. Each voyage was made under a separate agreement, & a barge was not let to more than one person for the same voyage. Deft. did not ply between any fixed termini, but the customer fixed in each particular case the points of arrival & departure. In an action against deft. by the pltfs. for not safely & securely carrying certain goods :—Held : deft. in exercising this employment had incurred the liability of a common carrier, & was liable though the goods were lost without negligence on his part.

Deft. was not a common carrier nor liable as such, but was liable as a ship-owner carrying goods for hire, upon the custom applicable to him as such (per CUR.).

234a. ——.]—A carrier who regularly receives goods for carriage upon terms limiting his liability may be under the obligations & subject to the liabilities of a common carrier in so far as the limitation of liability does not extend. He does not by limiting his liability assume for all purposes the position of a bailee for reward who is liable only for negligence of himself or his servants, unless the limitation of liability is so extensive as to be inconsistent with the profession or contract of a common carrier.

A consignor who tenders to carriers for carriage goods apparently harmless but in fact dangerous, whether the carriers are common carriers bound by the custom of the realm to carry goods provided they are safe & fit for carriage or whether they are a railway co. bound by statute to afford reasonable facilities for the receiving, forwarding & delivering of goods, must give warning of the danger ; otherwise he impliedly warrants that the goods are safe & fit for carriage.

Forwarding agents delivered to a railway co. for carriage certain carboys containing a corrosive fluid & also certain bales of felt goods on the terms of consignment notes exempting the co. from liability in certain events & stating that they did not undertake to carry dangerous goods except on special conditions. The carboys were insufficient to contain the fluid, which escaped & injured the felt goods. The co. professed to carry the felt goods as common carriers. The owner of the felt goods claimed damages against the co., & the co. paid £437 in settlement of the claim. In an action by the co. against the forwarding agents to recover this sum as damages for breach of warranty :—Held : (1) the terms of the consignment notes did not prevent the co. from being, as they professed to be, common carriers of the felt ; (2) the co. were therefore liable as insurers, & without proof of negligence, to the owner of the felt goods ; (3) they were entitled to recover from the forwarding agents, as upon an implied warranty that the carboys were fit to be carried, the amount they had paid to the owner of the felt goods for the damage done to his goods.—GREAT NORTHERN RY. 491 iii a. —— ——.]—Ry. cos. have a duty to provide a reasonably adequate & safe access to their carriages for normal passengers, but they owe no special duty towards those passengers who are abnormal by reason of physical disability.

A passenger brought an action against a ry. co. for damages in respect of personal injuries sustained by him through a fall, owing to his having missed his foothold on the step of a ry. carriage while attempting to enter it at one of defenders' stations. Pursuer averred that, being of abnormal weight & advanced age, he had great difficulty in entering ry. carriages, a fact which was well known to defenders' servants as he was a regular traveller by their trains from the station in question, & that, at the time of the accident, access to the carriage was rendered difficult for a normal passenger, & dangerous to him in view of his physical disability, by reason of a concealed danger, viz., that the step of the carriage, owing to its design & to the place where the train was drawn up on the occasion in question, was at an unusual height above the platform:—Held: (1) while defenders had a duty to provide a reasonably adequate & safe access to their trains for the normal individual, they had no special duty towards abnormal passengers such as pursuer; (2) defenders were not bound to ensure that there should be an unvarying distance between step & platform; (3) pursuer's averments did not disclose any failure of duty on defenders' part, by way of concealed danger or otherwise, which brought about the accident, but the true cause of the accident was pursuer's own physical disability; action dismissed.—HENDERSON v. LONDON MIDLAND, & SCOTTISH RY. 575 i. —— Platform too low.]—Where at a railway station there is no platform, or a platform of inadequate length to permit a passenger to step from his carriage on to a platform, the duty of the carrier to supply passengers with reasonable facilities for boarding & alighting from trains is fulfilled by providing the carriages with steps. A train pulled into a station in broad daylight, the carriage in which suppliant was travelling being drawn up beyond the platform. After goods from that station had been put out & a reasonable time had elapsed, the guard, thinking that all passengers had alighted, gave the signal to start & the train moved on, with the result that suppliant, who was then alighting from the side of the carriage away from the platform & out of view of the train officials, fell & was injured : —Held : there was no obligation upon the train officials to see that all passengers had actually alighted, & was no evidence of negligence.—MUNT v. R., [1932] N. There was no artificial light in the passage, & the daylight was waning. Pltf.'s wife passed through the open doorway & immediately fell down a flight of stairs into the basement below, & was severely injured :—Held : the third doorway was a trap or concealed place of danger, & was a place to which pltf.'s wife might reasonably have been expected to go in the belief, reasonably entertained, that she was entitled or invited to do so.—KNOWLTON v. HYDRO ELECTRIC POWER COMMISSION OF ONTARIO, [1926] 1 D. But, even if failure to keep such doors locked may amount to negligence, the carrier will not be liable for an accident to a passenger where the cause of the accident was the passenger's own want of caution in proceeding beyond such a door in the dark & in a strange place.—CANADIAN NATIONAL RYS. 685b. —— —— —— Injury on journey by special train.]—Pltf. was engaged as a workman by contractors to the Ministry of Health for the construction of a road near H., & the Ministry made with deft. railway co. arrangements for a special train to take pltf. & other men from C. to H., a distance of twenty-six miles. Pltf. received from his employers a voucher which was addressed to the booking clerk & which contained these words: "On surrender of this voucher please supply the bearer with a return workman's ticket to H. by any ordinary workman's train without payment. This voucher is only available by workman's train." The voucher, on presentation at the booking office, was exchanged for a ticket. One side of the ticket had on it (interalia) the words: "See back. Workmen. By special cheap train for the 'working classes.'" On the other side were (inter alia) the words: "This ticket is issued subject to the bye-laws, rules & regulations of the Managing Committee," & "This ticket is issued subject to the conditions mentioned in the Managing Committee's Act (62 & 63 Vict. c. clxviii), & its use by the holder is to be taken as evidence of a special contract upon those conditions. The liability of the co. is limited to a sum not exceeding £100." The above-mentioned Act contained provisions as to the running of workmen's trains on the particular railway within twenty miles of London, & limited the co.'s liability to £100, subject to certain conditions. Pltf. was injured by a collision between his train & another train. In an action for damages defts. admitted negligence, but contended that the issue of the ticket created a special contract between themselves & pltf. whereby their liability was limited to £100. The ct. found that pltf. must be taken to have been aware of the conditions indorsed on the back of the ticket. On the further question whether the terms of the contract applied to the particular journey :—Held : although the ticket & the conditions on it had been drafted as applicable to a journey by a train coming under the co.'s private Act, & contained no reference to such a journey as pltf.'s by a special train to a destination beyond twenty miles from London, yet, in the case of a passenger in the position of pltf., the conditions were a plain intimation that one condition on which the contract was made was that the co.'s liability should be

In an action to recover damages for injuries during transportation, due to the negligence of the ry. co.'s servants :—Held : the fact that the attendant had not paid any fare was due to the fact that the ry. co.'s agent made no attempt to collect the fare, & the ry. co. was responsible for the omission; the attendant was a full-fare passenger & not a trespasser & was entitled to recover damages.—STEWART v. GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC RY. The contract contained a clause that the shipowners should not be liable for loss, damage or delay to a passenger or his baggage arising from the act of God, or from causes of any kind beyond the carrier's control, even though the loss, damage or delay might have been caused by the neglect or default of the shipowners' servants. A subsequent clause provided that no claim under the contract should be enforceable against the shipowners unless a written notice thereof was delivered to them within three days after the passenger should be landed from the steamer at the termination of her voyage. In the course of the voyage one of pltf.'s hands was injured by reason of the negligence of defts.' servants, but no written notice of any claim was given by pltf. within the time limited by the contract:— Held: (1) the clause relieving defts. from liability for the negligence of their servants was valid & enforceable, but applying the ejusdem generis rule, the clause did not absolve defts. from liability for pltf.'s injury; (2) as pltf. had failed to give any written notice of his claim within the time prescribed by the contract, he was not entitled to recover.—JONES v. OCEANIC STEAM NAVIGATION CO., [1924] 2 K. She called at the office of deft. co. & bought a ticket for a voyage to Australia & back on defts.' steamer O. She was under the impression that the voyage was to be a pleasure cruise & that she would have the benefit of the usual entertainments & shore excursions which are arranged on pleasure cruises, but in fact the voyage was an ordinary voyage in the regular mail & passenger service between England & Australia. She embarked on the O. in due course, & after the steamer had started she discovered that the voyage was not a pleasure cruise & she asked the purser to make arrangements for her to be put ashore & conveyed back to England. He suggested that she should go ashore at Toulon & return home by train through France, but as he could not undertake that deft. co. would refund the money which pltf. had paid for her passage she decided to stay on board, & she accordingly travelled to Australia & back. She then brought this action for damages for breach of contract. She had paid to deft. co. £140 for the return ticket to Australia & had paid a further £60 as a deposit to cover incidental expenses during the voyage, & she said that owing to the circumstances of the voyage her health had become worse & she had been put to trouble & expense at the ports of call:— Held: although originally the parties were not ad idem & there was no concluded contract, when pltf. made up her mind to remain on board for the voyage to Australia & back instead of returning to England from Toulon she elected to affirm the contract which deft. co. had in fact offered her, & as deft. co. had performed that contract the action failed.—MACMILLAN v. ORIENT STEAM NAVIGATION CO., LTD. 695a. —— —— —— Conditions ascertainable by reference to time-table.]—Pltf., who could not read, had an excursion ticket taken for her by her niece on the face of which were printed the words: "Excursion. For conditions see back"; & on the back was a notice that the ticket was issued subject to the conditions in the deft. co.'s time-tables & excursion bills. On the excursion bills excursion tickets were stated to be issued subject to the conditions shown in the company's current time-tables. The time-tables, which could be obtained for sixpence each, stated: "Excursion tickets . . . are issued subject to the general regulations & to the condition that the holders . . . shall have no rights of action against the co. . . . in respect of . . . injury (fatal or otherwise) . . . however caused." p 1. —— —— —— ——.]—In an action by a passenger against a ry. co. to recover damages for personal injury sustained by him while travelling on one of their trains, defenders maintained that, under the contract of carriage, they were exempt from liability. When the accident occurred, pursuer was travelling on a "pleasure party" ticket, issued at a fare less than the ordinary fare. The ticket bore on the front, in legible print, "See Back," & on the back, also in legible print, "This ticket is issued subject to the General Notices, Regulations, & Conditions in the co.'s current Time Tables & Bills." Defenders' current Time Tables contained a section headed "General Notices, Regulations, & Condition," which included a condition that the holder of a ticket issued at a fare less than the ordinary fare should have no right of action against the co. in respect of injury, however caused. Pursuer admitted that he knew that there was printing on the back of his ticket, & that he must have read what was printed on the back of a similar ticket when travelling on previous occasions, but deponed that what he read had conveyed nothing to him:— Held: the condition formed part of the contract, in respect that the reference of the ticket to the conditions in defenders' time tables was reasonable notice of their existence & terms, & further, as pursuer knew there was printing on the back of the ticket, & admitted that at some time he must have read the printing, he must be taken to have known that it referred to conditions. covered by the excursion ticket was due to negligence on the part of deft. co. To prevent the case going back for a new trial, the jury were asked whether the deft. co. took reasonable steps to bring the conditions to the notice of pltf. & answered "No," & awarded damages. Argument was then allowed whether the jury could so find, & it was held that as a matter of law when the ticket was accepted the contract was complete, & therefore there was no evidence on which the jury could find as they did :—Held : (1) the fact that pltf. could not read did not alter the legal position ; she was bound by the special contract made on the excursion ticket on the acceptance of the ticket ; & the indication of the special conditions by reference to the time-tables was sufficient notice of their existence & contents ; (2) the question put to the jury for the sake of convenience as to reasonable notice must be determined upon the law applicable to the conditions upon which the ticket was issued, & those conditions negatived the right of pltf. to recover damages.—THOMPSON v. LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. He was injured on the journey through the alleged negligence of defts.' servants :—Held : in the absence of proof that pltf. actually knew of this condition, defts. must show that they had taken reasonable steps to bring it to his notice, but on the facts there was no evidence for a jury that they had not done so.—PENTON v. SOUTHERN RY., [1931] 2 K. Informations were preferred against K. & G., under the bye-law set out below, charging them respectively with having unlawfully transferred & unlawfully received a partly used ticket. The bye-law provided : "No person shall . . . transfer or receive any partly-used ticket . . . to or from any other person with intent that any person shall use the same for the purpose of travelling . . . on the ry., unless the ticket shall at the time of issuing thereof purport to be transferable." The magistrate dismissed the informations on the ground that, as the bye-law was framed to cover cases where there was no fraudulent intent, it was void & ultra vires as being repugnant to the general principles of law :—Held : inasmuch as the purpose of the bye-law was to prohibit transactions which must in general be fraudulent, the bye-law was a valid one.—LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. Side entrance to—Refusal to re-open.]—In deciding an application for the provision of reasonable facilities under 1854 Act, s. 2, & of reasonable facilities & conveniences under 1921 Act, s. 16 (1), the ct. must be satisfied that in refusing such facilities & conveniences the railway co. are acting without due regard to the proper discharge of their obligations, & the facility or convenience asked for will not be ordered where it is only for the benefit of a special class of persons who form a small proportion of the travelling public. Where it is sought to restore a former convenience & conditions have changed, there is nothing in the fact that it was afforded before, & the question will be decided on its merits.

901 vi. ——.]—Action against a ry. co. for alleged shortages in thirty-seven cars of grain loaded in bulk from elevators on private sidings & delivered at private sidings. The real dispute between the parties as to each car was as to the quantity (a) shipped, (b) delivered at destination, (c) loss in transit, if any, & if any whether the shipper was to blame for the loss. The cars were all shipped under the uniform bill of lading for bulk grain :—Held : after reviewing the method of weighing & billing the grain, it was not to be assumed on that account that the grain was not carefully weighed or that the ry. was charged with any worthwhile quantity as having been put into any car which was not actually put into it, & the bills of lading largely lost their value as prima facie evidence of quantities, & in accordance with the real intention of the parties, should be considered rather as evidence only of approximate quantities shipped.—GRAIN CLAIMS BUREAU, LTD. & FEDERAL GRAIN, LTD. v. CANADIAN PACIFIC RY. In 1931 the Comrs. allowed an application to be made to rescind an order made in 1891. In 1891 the Comrs. ordered a railway co. to afford reasonable facilities for passenger traffic on a branch line which had been closed to passenger traffic. The railway co. complied with the order. In a later case between other parties it was held by the Ct. of Appeal that the Comrs. had no jurisdiction to make the order of 1891. In 1930 the railway co. again closed the line to passenger traffic. On an application by the urban council of the district for an order compelling the railway co. to obey the order of 1891, & on a motion by the railway co. to rescind the order of 1891 :—Held : the order of 1891, having been made without jurisdiction, must be rescinded. The new rate having been withdrawn, an application was made for a through rate equal to the original charge :—Held : (1) the question of rebate had been rightly excluded in fixing the amount of the through rate; (2) the Railway Comrs. had power to apportion the rate in such a way that part of it would be finally handed over to the trader. —GLENAVON GARW COLLIERIES, LTD. v. RHONDDA & SWANSEA BAY RY. 1166a. —— Wharfage.]—By its Act a canal co. was precluded from charging for wharfage in respect of private wharves constructed under provisions of the Act, which empowered adjoining owners to construct wharves on the banks of the canal. An oil co. acquired from the canal co. land adjoining the canal bank, under three conveyances, by one of which they were obliged, & by another empowered, to construct a wharf on a line beyond their boundary, so that the front part of the wharf should extend beyond the canal bank over the canal. On a wharf so erected the oil co. fixed a pipe & discharged oil in bulk from vessels lying in the canal. Competitors of the oil co. owning land that was near to but did not adjoin the canal obtained from the canal co. easements to erect valve houses on the canal bank, & discharged their oil in the same way. The canal co.'s sched. of charges contained two classes of oil. As to the one it was stated that the rate was inclusive of a charge for wharfage, as to the other, that the rate was for tolls only but that the use of the canal co.'s wharves was free. The oil co. & their competitors were charged the same rates, which were less than the maximum tolls for the use of the canal :—Held : the oil co.'s wharf was not a private wharf, to which the wharfage rate was inapplicable, firstly because it was constructed, not under the powers conferred by the Act on adjoining landowners, but under the obligations imposed as part of the consideration for which the land was acquired; secondly, because the wharf, extending over the canal, was not wholly constructed on the land of the adjoining owner; therefore, the oil co. was not unduly prejudiced by being charged the same rates as their competitors who did not own land adjoining the canal. The Commission found as a fact that the canal co. did not, in certain cases, charge for wharfage, though they charged an inclusive rate which covered the use of their wharves.—ANGLO-OIL CO. v. MANCHESTER SHIP (1929), 20 Ry. & Can. in respect of which a railway co. is bound to show no undue preference, then, if it can be shown that there is allowed out of the inclusive charge less for those services than is charged to complainants for the same services, an undue preference is made out. Therefore a cause of action was disclosed by an application which alleged that out of an inclusive charge made by the resps. for collection & delivery by water of rail-borne traffic less was retained by resps. in respect of wharfage at a wharf where goods were loaded on to railway trucks than was charged to the applicants for the same wharfage; (2) by the Ct. of Appeal such a question ought not to be tried on the pleadings because there might be disclosed at the trial material facts which had not been disclosed on the pleadings.—MASTER LIGHTERMEN & BARGE OWNERS ASSOCIATION v. SOUTHERN RY. ·]—Resps. made an inclusive charge of 3*s.* 10*d.* for collection & delivery by lighter on the Thames. This charge covered lighterage by resps.' accredited agents & also wharfage at the waterside station where the traffic was loaded & unloaded. Resps. paid their agents 2*s.* 10*d.* for the lighterage & retained 1*s.* for the wharfage. For the same wharfage the resps. charged 1*s.* 6*d.* to appcts., who were lightermen competing with resps.' agents. The Comrs. found as a fact that this discrimination, which they assumed to be a preference of resps.' agents against appcts., was necessary for the purpose of preventing the traffic collected & delivered by resps.' agents from being transferred from resps.' railway to rival carriers by road:—Held: (1) it was in the public interest that this traffic should be retained by the resps. instead of being carried by road; (2) the following facts were properly taken into account by the Comrs. in deciding that the preference was not undue, viz., that a similar system had been enforced for forty years by other railway cos. owning other wharves on the Thames; in consideration of the preference resps.' agents had submitted themselves to a system of control which was an advantage to resps.; the effect of the preference & the consequent monopoly of resps.' agents had been to augment resps.' traffic, & at the same time to render the working of it cheaper & more efficient, & to minimise delays & demurrage charges.

1166d. Rebate on sidings rate.]—Upon a complaint of undue preference it was admitted that appcts., whose works at S. were connected by a private siding with defts.' railway, paid the same rates as if their traffic used that station, while two of their competitors, whose respective works at B., ten miles from S., were also connected by private sidings with defts.' railway, received a rebate of 2½*d.* per ton off the B. station rates on traffic similar to that of appcts. Appcts. called no evidence. The railway co., while submitting that the onus of proof had not shifted on them under 1888 Act, s. 27 (1), called evidence & put in tables based on the Pidcock principle with the object of showing that the value of the private siding services rendered to appcts at S. was in excess of the amounts included in their rates for station terminals at that station & also of the value of the respective private siding services rendered to appcts.' competitors at B. after allowing for the rebate:—Held: without deciding whether the onus had shifted to the railway co., but inclining to the view that it had, the Pidcock principle had been properly applied in the dissection of the respective rates, & there was no preference of appcts.' competitors.—PRENTICE BROTHERS, LTD. v. LONDON & NORTH EASTERN RY. 1219a. —— Injunction—Rate quoted but not actually made.]—Appcts. were owners of a bonded warehouse situated in Trafford Park, Manchester, in close proximity to, but not on, the premises of the Manchester Ship Canal Co. The latter co. also owned a similar warehouse within their dock area at Manchester. A large consignment of cigarettes was conveyed over the Ship Canal to appcts.' warehouse, & was thence consigned to London over the railways of resp. cos., who charged a rate of 107*s.* per ton in two-ton lots, this being the ordinary Manchester town rate, whereas for similar traffic consigned from the warehouse of the Ship Canal Co. they quoted a rate of 54*s.* 6*d.*, the latter being the Liverpool to London rate, which was governed by competitive shipping rates. Upon a complaint that the Manchester Ship Canal Co. were being unduly preferred the above difference in rates was sought to be justified by the railway cos. on the ground that, the ports of Manchester & Liverpool being in competition, the lower rate was necessary in order to secure for Manchester in the public interest traffic which otherwise would go to Liverpool, & that the only practical way in which to distinguish between goods consigned from Manchester Town & Manchester Port respectively was to draw a line between goods on the premises of the Ship Canal Co. & those which had passed out of the control of that co. :—Held : (1) both rates were properly charged under the circumstances, & the difference between them was justified ; (2) where a railway co. quotes a rate constituting an undue preference & asserts a right & intention of charging the same the ct. has jurisdiction to interfere by injunction without waiting till such charge is actually made.—PORT OF MANCHESTER WAREHOUSES, LTD. v. CHESHIRE LINES COMMITTEE, GREAT CENTRAL RY. 1237b. —— —— ——.]—(1) A colliery co. agreed with a railway co. that in consideration of the colliery co. sinking a pit the railway co. would build a railway & would charge for the coal conveyed from the pit to the port of shipment rates as low per ton per mile as the rates for the time being charged by the railway co. for coal to or from the said port to or from any colliery in Glamorganshire. In pursuance of this agreement a charge of 6.923*d.* was made from before 1914 to Jan. 1920, when, in consequence of the imposition of a flat rate addition by the Minister of Transport the mileage rate of the said charge so increased came to exceed the mileage rate of the charges, similarly increased, for coal from more distant collieries to the same port : by the Rates Tribunal the charge of 6.923*d.* was fixed under a statutory agreement & originally fixed for valuable consideration.

(2) An assignment of the goodwill of a business " & all other protected rights & all other hereditaments, effects & things not capable of delivery by hand held relating to or enjoyed or exercised in connection with the said business " transfers the benefit of an agreement for a railway rate.

(3) An agreement which has been assigned, but incompletely for want of notice, is a subsisting agreement within sect. 34 (2) of Railways Act.

(4) The jurisdiction of the Rates Tribunal under sect. 34 (2) of the Railways Act is to continue charges, but not so as to override the repeal of agreements for charges effected by sect. 34 (1). Consequently, an agreement that a colliery co. shall have as low a rate per ton per mile as any other colliery cannot be continued.

(5) The adjustment prescribed by sect. 34 (2) means that the adjusted charge is to bear the same relation to the general charges made on the appointed day as the charge to be continued bore to the general charges made on Aug. 4, 1914.—POWELL DUFFRYN STEAM COAL CO. v. GREAT WESTERN RY. 1245g. "Extracts & essences for human food."]—A railway co. carried Virol under Class 3 as an article not specified in the classification :—Held : Virol was a mixture of different component parts rather than an extract or essence, &, as it did not come clearly within the expression "extracts & essences for human food," the railway co. must continue to carry it under Class 3 as being unclassified. —BOVRIL, LTD. & VIROL, LTD. v. GREAT WESTERN RY. Co. (1904), 12 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 151.

1245h. Alteration—When granted.]—The standard charges based on the classification are not intended to be the equivalent of the services rendered in each particular case. They are overall charges which the cos. are prepared to make in all the circumstances of all the articles in the classification. The cos. may make more profit out of one carriage than another. That alone is not a ground for transferring the article which is carried at the greater profit into a lower class.—WOOLWORTH & Co. v. AMALGAMATED RY. Cos. (1930), 20 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 149.

1245j. Publication—Addition of explanation to statutory classification.]—By 1921 Act, s. 28, the Rates Tribunal have jurisdiction to determine any question as to the class in which any article is classified, & by sect. 54 the railway cos. are required to keep for sale printed copies of the general classification for the time being in force. The railway cos. kept for sale two copies, one a literal copy, known as the Statutory Classification, in which the different articles appeared according to their class, & another, a copy known as the Working Classification, in which the different articles appeared in alphabetical order followed by the number of the class to which they belonged. In the Working Classification were numerous explanatory entries inserted by the railway cos. but not found in the statutory copy. On an application to incorporate into the Statutory Classification the explanations in the Working Classification :—Held : granting the application, that the railway cos. had not contravened the provisions of 1921 Act, s. 54.—AMALGAMATED RY. 1246a. On rejection of goods by consignee.]—A contract of carriage of goods in a co.'s wagon to a private siding does not terminate until the wagon is returned empty by the consignee to the railway co. Where a consignee rejects a consignment delivered to him in a co.'s wagon at his private siding, the services of hauling the wagon back to the station & then accommodating it while the instructions of the consignor as to its disposal are obtained, & also the service of hauling the wagon back to the private siding, where the instructions are to redeliver the consignment, are all services rendered for the convenience of the consignor within para. 5 of the Sched. to the Rates & Charges Orders. The charges for such services are therefore recoverable from the consignor, both under the contract where the consignment note provides that all charges are to be paid by the consignor & under the Rates & Charges Order.—LONDON & NORTH EASTERN RY. Co. v. BRAHAMS (1931), 21 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 1.

1246b. Services in connection with sidings—When conveyance begins & ends.]—(1) The Railway Rates Tribunal, on a modification of standard charges under sect. 35 of 1921 Act, fixed standard charges for " services performed by the co. at the beginning & end of transit " :—Held : such standard charges were applicable to services at or in connection with private sidings, & a rate or charge being thereby otherwise provided for such services the Tribunal had no jurisdiction to fix a reasonable charge for them under para. 11 (1) (i.) of Sched. V. of 1921 Act.

(2) The Tribunal having in fact fixed a standard charge for private siding services the question whether it ever had power so to do could not be entertained on an application to fix reasonable charges for private siding services.

(3) In applying sect. 40 of 1921 Act to exceptional rates for traffic which has beer transferred from one class to another, the disintegration is to be made by reference to the standard rate to which the exceptional rate is for the time being exceptional, not by reference to the standard rate out of which the exceptional rate was originally carved.

(4) A railway co. granted a rate by passenger train from private siding to private siding :—Held : conveyance began & ended, not at the private siding, but in the station at the point where the traffic was attached to or detached from the passenger train.—NESTLE & ANGLO-SWISS CONDENSED MILK Co. v. LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. 1287a. Stevedoring.]—The London & North Western Railway Co. (Rates & Charges) Order Confirmation Act, after reciting the Railway & Canal Traffic Act, confirms the Order as set out in the Sched. By para. 21 of the Sched., nothing therein contained shall affect the right of the co. to make any charges which they are authorised by any Act of Parliament to make in respect of any accommodation or services provided or rendered by the co. at or in connection with docks or shipping places, & by para. 26 of the Sched. the term " railway " means any railway or steam tramway over which the co. conveys merchandise, & in respect of which no maximum rates & charges other than those authorised in the Sched. are for the time being authorised by Parliament. By Pt. IV. of the Appendix to the Sched. the co. may charge such reasonable sums as they think fit for any accommodation or services rendered within the scope of their undertaking by the desire of a trader, & in respect of which no provisions are made by the Sched. :—Held : (1) in construing the Sched. the definition of " railway " in para. 26 of the Sched. is to be applied, & not the definition in sect. 3 of 1873 Act ; (2) the work of stevedoring is incidental to the undertaking of a dock owned by a railway co. ; (3) in doing the work of stevedoring a railway co. is not bound by the limitations of Pt. SECT. 6.—EXCEPTIONAL RATES AND FARE
(Vol. VIII., p. 207).

1323a. Under 1921 Act—Meaning of " standard " & " exceptional."]—The expression " standard " as applied to charges in Part III. o the above Act is the correlative or complementary term to " exceptional," &, there being therefore no other alternative, every chargeable rate, fare, or charge for conveyance must necessarily be included in one or other of the above categories. Railway cos. are therefore required, under sect. 80 of the above Act, to submit to the Rates Tribunal forms of schedules for standard season tickets & workmen's fares.—Re STANDARD CHARGES SCHEDULES (1923), 17 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 147.

1323b. New exceptional rates—Grounds for granting.]—The fact that equal rates were formerly charged from two competing points to a common market unequally distant from them, whereas the corresponding standard charges are unequal, is not a ground on which the Railway Rates Tribunal will grant a new exceptional rate so as to restore the equality. —DOWLOW LIME & STONE CO., LTD. v. LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. CO. (1928), 20 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 41.

1323c. —— ——.]—An application for a new exceptional rate under sect. 37 (3) of Railways Act, 1921, may be justified by showing that the rate for which it is intended to be substituted is unfair or excessive, or that the new rate will tend to augment the standard revenue. Where the existing rate in force is one which the railway co. has no legal power to charge the Tribunal will not consider whether it is unjust or excessive.

In a proper case the Tribunal will grant a new exceptional rate to relieve a trader against an undue prejudice. A trader is not unduly prejudiced by a lower rate granted to another trader who does not compete with him.—DOLE (JAMES) & CO. v. FOUR AMALGAMATED RY. COS. & LONDON PASSENGER TRANSPORT BOARD (1936), 25 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 87.

1323d. —— Validity of flat rate.]—A new exceptional rate under Railways Act, 1921 (c. 55), s. 37, must not be a flat rate irrespective of distance, but must contain a charge based on so much per ton per mile according to distance & class.—Re GREAT WESTERN RY. CO.'S APPLICATION, [1933] 2 K. B. 391, 102 L. J. K. B. 549; 149 L. T. 372; 49 T. L. R. 500; sub nom. GREAT WESTERN RY. CO. v. BRISTOL GRAIN IMPORTERS DEFENCE ASSOCN., 21 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 46, C. A.

1323e. —— Must be fixed by tribunal & entered in rate book.]—A new exceptional rate within Rys. Act, 1921 (c. 55), s. 37, requires to be "fixed," that is, sanctioned by the Ry. Rates Tribunal under the above section & it also requires to be entered in the rate book of the co. before it is "granted," that is to say, before it becomes operative as between the ry. co. & consignors of goods. Therefore where the tribunal fixed a rate of 10*s.* 9*d.*, but the ry. co. entered in its rate book a rate of 14*s.* 9*d.* there was no effective exceptional rate granted, since neither rate was both sanctioned by the tribunal & entered in the rate book.—GREAT WESTERN RY. CO. v. JAMES (HENRY R.) & SONS, LTD., [1936] 2 All E. R. 660; 80 Sol. Jo. 571; 24 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 241, C. A.

1323f. Disintegration—On continuation.]—Where an exceptional rate is referred to the Rates Tribunal for its determination under 1921 Act, s. 36, then, if the Tribunal decides to continue the rate, its duty is to disintegrate it in the manner provided for in sect. 40 of the Act, & the performance of this duty may at its discretion be postponed until some party interested in the rate applies for the disintegration.—DISINTEGRATION OF CONTINUED EXCEPTIONAL RATES (1928), 20 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 1.

1323g. —— Time for.]—A railway co. applied to the Rates Tribunal to sanction a rate, more than 40 per cent. below the standard rate, between a seaport town & the Midlands. Another seaport town competing in the same traffic, having been admitted to oppose the said rate, sought to administer interrogatories to the railway co. as to the disintegration of the existing rates between the two ports respectively & the Midlands & of the new proposed rate, with a view to showing the effect that the new rate would have on the competition, & the prejudice that would be caused to the opponents of the rate:—Held: by the Rates Tribunal, such rates are to be disintegrated by the Rates Tribunal, under 1921 Act, s. 40, at the time when they are sanctioned; it is proper for the railway co. to present the rate for sanction without any proposed disintegration, & there is no procedure for obtaining a preliminary disintegration of such a rate.—BRISTOL CORPN. v. GREAT WESTERN RY. CO. (1928), 20 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 28.

SECT. 7.—OWNER'S RISK RATES (Vol. VIII., p. 207).

1323j. Conveyance of goods by passenger train at owner's risk—Application for reduction of rate—Difference in risk negligible—Whether ground for two scales.]—Appcts. were consignors of gramophone records in the form of flat discs by passenger train. Resps. conveyed these discs at full parcels scale, but under owner's risk conditions. Appcts. claimed that since the discs were conveyed at owner's risk, a reduction should be made from the full parcels scale. It was admitted that when packed by the manufacturers the risk of breakage in transit was negligible. Resps. contended that in the case of goods carried by passenger train the difference between the owner's risk rate & the co.'s risk rate was not intended as a measure of the difference of risk:—Held: the difference in the risk to the railway cos. under the two sets of conditions being negligible, on the analogy of 1921 Act, s. 46 (3), there was no ground for directing that there should be two scales, but the discs, when properly packed, should be carried at co.'s risk, &, when not properly packed, at owner's risk. "Properly packed" means packed according to reasonable regulations made by the railway cos., the question of reasonableness to be settled by the Tribunal in case of difference.—BRITISH MUSIC INDUSTRIES FEDERATION v. CALEDONIAN RY. CO. (1922), 17 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 121.

1323k. —— —— Grounds for ordering.]—Revised scales of rates based on the "zone" principle for the carriage of parcels by passenger train at co.'s risk & owner's risk respectively were put into force by resp. cos. in Nov. 1918, & were subsequently twice increased in 1920 by uniform percentage additions in accordance with directions of the Minister of Transport. In May, 1923, new & reduced scales for the above traffic were introduced, whereby the above increases of 1920 were reduced in unequal proportions in order to remove what resp. cos. considered to be anomalies between the co.'s risk & owner's risk scales, with the result that the reductions made in the charges under the owner's risk scale were considerably less than those made in the charges under the co.'s risk scale. Upon an application under 1921 Act, s. 60, to reduce the rates for parcels containing sausages, etc., consigned by passenger train at owner's risk: —Held: looking to the circumstances in which the above percentage increases had been recommended & imposed & subsequently continued by 1921 Act, s. 60, the railway cos. were not entrusted with them for any purpose connected with the adjustment of relationships between scales of charge but for the purpose of meeting increased expenses, & in the absence of special circumstances the proper practice was to give equal reduction to all; taking the above owner's risk scale of Nov. 1918, & not that of 1914, as sought by appcts., as a basis of calculation, the owner's risk rates by passenger train on appcts.' above traffic should not exceed those in force in Sept. 1920, as reduced, by 25 per cent.—SAUSAGE MANUFACTURERS' ASSOCN. v. LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. CO., LONDON & NORTH EASTERN RY. CO., GREAT WESTERN RY. CO., SOUTHERN RY. CO., & CHESHIRE LINES COMMITTEE (1924), 18 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 59.

1323l. Delay in making claim—When relief granted.]—Where the course of business between a consignor & his selling agent made it impossible for the agent to know what consignments he ought to have received until the half-yearly stocktaking, & where in consequence no advice was given to the co. within fourteen days of the consignment being handed to them that it had not been delivered, & no claim was made within twenty-eight days:—Held: that is not the kind of impossibility contemplated by the proviso to condition 6 of the standard terms & conditions of carriage of merchandise by passenger train at owner's risk, in respect of which the Rates Tribunal may grant relief.—WAPNAH v. LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. CO. (1934), 22 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 87.

1326a. —— Charges imposed by Ministry of Transport.]—Appcts. claimed reductions in the charges made by resps. for the detention of ordinary wagons & sheets, which were in the case of wagons 3*s.* per day for the first two days after the expiration of the free periods allowed for loading & unloading & thereafter 5*s.* per day, & in the case of sheets 6*d.* & 1*s.* for the like periods. These charges had been imposed on & after Jan. 1, 1920, by an order of the Minister of Transport, made in accordance with a recommendation of the Rates Advisory Committee, with the object of diminishing wagon detention & causing traders to exercise more diligence in loading & unloading them. The charges in force in 1913 had been 1*s.* 6*d.* per day for wagons & 3*d.* per day for sheets after the free periods then given. Appcts. also claimed that in reckoning the above periods Saturday should be treated as half a day. Resps. contended that the charges complained of were reasonable, & also that it was not open to the ct. to reverse the policy of the Minister of Transport in making a differentiation between the first two days following the free periods & subsequent days:—Held: (1) the ct. had jurisdiction to modify the charges complained of; (2) having regard to the value of wagons & sheets as compared with 1913, the loss of profit to the railway cos. arising from detention, the standing & overall charges & the extra expenses of shunting & occupation of siding involved, the charges of 3*s.* per day for wagons & 6*d.* per day for sheets, while on the high side, were not unreasonable, but the additional charges of 2*s.* & 6*d.* per day upon wagons & sheets respectively after the expiration of the first two days beyond the free periods were no longer justified, & should be discontinued, & the existing arrangements with regard to Saturdays should not be interfered with.—BRITISH HAY TRADERS' ASSOCN. v. LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. 1331a. —— Congestion caused by increased traffic —Insufficiency of unloading sidings.]—Pltf. co. had on their railway system at P. a small junction station, where there was a siding with sufficient accommodation for unloading the normal goods traffic consigned to that station. Defts. were contractors who were interested in one of three local building schemes which were started about the same time, involving a large increase in the goods traffic consigned to P. Owing to the congestion brought about in P. station by this increased traffic, & the fact that the unloading siding could only accommodate a limited number of wagons at a time, a number of the wagons arriving with goods at P. on defts.' account had to be put into storage sidings, to await their turn to be taken into the proper siding to be unloaded. Great delay in the discharge of wagons was caused thereby, but all the delay occurred at the storage sidings before the wagons were put into the unloading siding. Pltf. co. claimed from defts. exceptional charges for the detention of wagons in the storage sidings, under an implied contract or for accommodation or services provided or rendered by pltfs. to defts. within the scope of pltfs.' undertaking by the desire of defts.:—Held: as, on the facts of the case, the wagons were not put into the storage sidings at the desire of defts. they were not liable to pay the exceptional charges claimed.—GREAT WESTERN RY. They made no use of the station for their traffic. SECT. 12.—REDUCTION OF RATES
(Vol. VIII., p. 217).

1377a. Who may apply for—Trader "interested"—Warehouseman & forwarding agent.]—Appcts., who were warehousemen & forwarding agents at Trafford Park, Manchester, & who had unsuccessfully applied to the Railway Comrs. in respect of an alleged undue preference founded on the same facts, applied for a reduction in a rate of 106*s.* 7*d.*, formerly 107*s.*, charged upon cigarettes consigned in two-ton lots from their Trafford Park warehouse, which was near to, but outside, the Manchester Docks, to King's Cross, London, upon the ground that the corresponding rate from Liverpool was 54*s.* 6*d.*, provisionally reduced to 50*s.* The lower rate was also charged on similar traffic consigned from Manchester Docks, while the higher rate was the ordinary Manchester town rate. Appcts. contended that where traffic as to which the conditions were in all respects alike is sent from two places A. & B. in the same district to the same destination, the same railway co. shall not charge a higher sum from A. than from B., unless the distance of the destination in the case of A. is greater than the distance in the case of B., provided that the rate in the case of A. is a productive rate. They admitted that conditions could not be treated as in all respects alike, if in the one case there was competition which did not exist in the other. Resps. objected that appcts. were not interested traders within 1921 Act, s. 60, & that the rate complained of, which was the ordinary Manchester town rate, was reasonable :—Held : (1) while something in the nature of a direct interest must be shown, the interest of appcts. in the above charges was sufficiently direct to entitle them to prosecute these proceedings ; (2) in deciding what was a reasonable rate to be charged to appcts., regard should be had to the following considerations : (a) that it was not enough for a trader to show that without a reduction in rate he could not carry on a particular branch of his business ; (b) that when railway cos. declared that in their own interests they could not grant facilities or reductions in rates, it would not be right for that ct. to compel them to adopt such a course of business unless appcts. showed that the railway cos. were mistaken ; (c) that it was not intended by 1921 Act to establish the principle of equal mileage rates for all places & the consequent adoption of exceptional rates based on competition by water or road as the standard for all rates whether such competition existed in other places or not, & therefore that the existence of a low exceptional rate, not being in fact an undue preference, while a fact to be considered, was not alone a sufficient ground for ordering the reduction of a rate for goods in competition with those having the benefit of the low rate ; (3) applying the above principles & taking all the circumstances into account, appcts. should be allowed a rate of 72*s.* 6*d* subject to any general revision of rates.—PORT OF MANCHESTER WAREHOUSES, LTD. v. CHESHIRE LINES COMMITTEE, GREAT CENTRAL RY. 1377b. Grounds for ordering—Necessity for primâ facie case.]—Confectionery in bottles & jars was carried by the railway cos. originally at co.'s risk, & subsequently under certain agreed packing conditions. In 1920 the cos., without making any reduction in rates, refused to carry confectionery packed as above except at owner's risk, owing to the heavy proportion of claims against them for damage. They continued to carry confectionery not contained in bottles & jars at co.'s risk. Upon an application for a reduction in the rates for confectionery when contained in bottles & jars :—Held : (1) an appct. for a reduction in rates must make a primâ facie case for the same ; (2) such a case had been made upon the above facts ; (3) the cos. were not precluded from making special conditions by reason of the fact that they for some time had carried the above goods without conditions ; (4) while certain losses in respect of confectionery not contained in bottles & carried at co.'s risk were borne by the cos., which losses did not arise in the case of confectionery in bottles carried at owner's risk, the saving to the cos., e.g. 4 or 5 per cent., was not sufficient to justify a reduction in rate.—MANUFACTURING CONFECTIONERS' ALLIANCE, INCORPORATED v. CALEDONIAN RY. 1377d. —— Experimental rate.]—Upon an application for an experimental reduced rate of 40*s.* per ton for flax straw in full train loads for a transit of approximately 200 miles, resp. railway cos. offered for a period of five months a rate of 45*s.*, plus siding haulage charge. The ordinary class rate was 88*s.* 2*d.*, less 12½ per cent. Similar traffic was being carried to the same destination from places forty or fifty miles away at approximately the same rate as that offered :—Held : the rate should be 45*s.* Qu. : whether the Tribunal ought to take into account the possibility that an experimental rate will result in bringing a large future traffic.—MARSH v. GREAT EASTERN & GREAT WESTERN RY. COS. (1922), 17 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 129.

1377e. —— Removal of flat-rate additions imposed by Minister of Transport.]—Upon applications to remove certain flat-rate additions to the rates on appcts.' traffic which had been imposed by the Minister of Transport in exercise of his powers under Ministry of Transport Act, 1919 (c. 50), s. 3 (1) (c) :—Held : (1) the ct. would not assume that the Minister was wrong in imposing such flat-rate additions ; (2) it was not competent to the ct. to remove such flat-rate additions on the ground that the reasons given in support of their imposition by the former Rates Advisory Committee were not applicable to appcts.' traffic ; (3) the rates on appcts.' traffic were not excessive, notwithstanding that the percentage increase resulting from such flat-rate additions was greater on traffic carried at low mileage rates than on that carried at higher mileage rates, & that larger reductions in rates had been given to blast furnace than to appcts.', i.e., coal, traffic.

(4) A rate is not necessarily excessive because a railway co. are not handing back on balance to the traders all the savings that they are making in reduced expenses.—MONMOUTHSHIRE & SOUTH WALES COAL OWNER'S ASSOCN. v. GREAT WESTERN RY. 1377f. —— Reductions granted to other interests.]—Upon an application for the removal of a flat-rate increase of 2*d.* per ton, being part of a larger increase which originally had been imposed on appcts.' traffic in coal, coke & patent fuel in accordance with a second general revision of rates directed by the Minister of Transport which had since been voluntarily reduced by resps., the following grounds were relied upon by appcts. in support of their case : (1) that a greater proportionate reduction in rates had been given to the traffic of certain admittedly necessitous industries than to their traffic ; (2) that their traffic, & in particular their short distance traffic, had increased in density since the above increase in rates, thereby producing an exceptional profit for resps. ; & (3) that they apprehended in the future an intensive foreign competition which a reduction in railway rates would assist them to meet :—Held : (1) the reductions in rates granted by resps. to the traffic of other industries were justified & did not establish a case of hardship or injustice to appcts. ; (2) while it was doubtful as to how far the increase in coal traffic had resulted in increased profit to resp. cos., the period of prosperity in appcts.' trade which was mainly due to the abnormal European political situation was passing away ; (3) in an application for a reduction of a rate under 1921 Act, s. 60, the onus lay upon an appct. to show the existence of some element of unfairness or of hardship amounting to unfairness, & appcts. had not discharged that onus by alleging that a reduction in rates would assist.—MINING ASSOCN. 1377g. —— Abolition of free storage facilities.]—Appcts., the owners of a warehouse at Trafford Park, Manchester, claimed that a rate of 10*s.* 11*d.* per ton for sugar from Liverpool to their private siding at Trafford Park, being the same amount as the corresponding rate from Liverpool to resp. co.'s Oldham Road station at Manchester, should be reduced by an amount equal to the cost incurred by resps. in providing terminal accommodation & services, including twenty-eight days' free warehousing, at their Manchester station. No sugar had been consigned by rail to appcts.' warehouse, nor was there any evidence that any trader desired to consign sugar to it. Prior to the war resps. had given fourteen days' free storage at Manchester for sugar in view of similar free accommodation provided by competing water-carriers from Liverpool to Manchester. This facility having been withdrawn by resps., they had lost as a result a large part of their sugar traffic from Liverpool to Manchester, &, therefore, as from Nov. 1923, had restored the above free storage for an extended period of twenty-eight days:—Held: the ct. had no jurisdiction to abolish the facility of free storage, there was no evidence that the 10*s.* 11*d.* rate to Trafford Park was unreasonable or excessive, & there was no presumption that the rate when compared with the corresponding rate to Oldham Road station was unreasonable, because the latter included free storage at that station.—PORT OF MANCHESTER WAREHOUSES, LTD. v. LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. Where, on Aug. 15, 1921, there was a rate for sugar & a lower rate for sugar in four-ton lots, & the railway cos. subsequently conceded a still lower rate for sugar in five-ton lots:—Held: the five-ton rate was not a new rate, & on Aug. 15, 1921, there was a rate in force for sugar in five-ton lots, namely the rate for sugar in four-ton lots.—TATE & LYLE, LTD. v. LONDON & NORTH EASTERN RY. 1377p. What agreements approved.]—General observations as to agreed charges under the Road & Rail Traffic Act, 1933 (c. 53).

Where an agreement is approved by the Tribunal statements made by the parties in the proceedings for approval form part of the agreement. It is no objection to an agreement for a charge that it does not limit the railway co. to carriage by rail.—Re CHISWICK PRODUCTS AGREED CHARGE (1934), 22 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 53.

1377q. ——.]—An agreement to carry the whole of a trader's traffic wherever required for a percentage of the purchase price may properly be made under Road & Rail Traffic Act (c. 53), s. 37. The objection that such an agreement makes it impossible for competing traders to compare their own charges with the agreed charge would be equally applicable to a tonnage or a package rate.

It is not necessary that such an agreement should contain a provision for limiting the advantage which may be expected to accrue to the trader. A comparison between a rate based on the purchase price of a certain commodity & a rate based on mileage & weight of a consignment of the same commodity is fallacious.

An agreement may be approved though it gives liberty to the parties to agree (without seeking the approval of the Tribunal) for the exclusion of certain traffics from the operation of the agreement.—Re WOOLWORTH'S AGREED CHARGE (1934), 22 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 90.

1475. —— ——.]—The fact that an appct. was a partner in a firm which used goods vehicles during the basic year is not a relevant matter to be taken into account on an application for an A licence. Since Parliament has granted to licensing authorities a discretion to grant or refuse licences, traders no longer have the right to choose the carriers they will employ.

It is not enough for an appct. for an A licence to prove that traders are willing to employ him. He must also show that there is a need for his services in the locality in which he proposes to operate.—PETRIE v. GREAT WESTERN RY. CO. (1934), 22 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 15.

(2) The fact that an appct.'s vehicle has been employed by other hauliers is some evidence of a public need for additional transport facilities.—Re FRY'S APPEAL (1934), 22 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 29.

1477. —— ——.]—An A licence should be granted where the public need for a carrier in the appct.'s district is established, even though it is not shown that that need has been brought about by any general expansion of industry. An appct.'s ignorance of the law relating to motor cars, the fact that an appct. has bought a goods vehicle without first obtaining a licence for it, & the probability that an appct. will lose money in the business of a carrier are not relevant considerations to which a Comr. should have regard in granting or refusing an A licence.—Re HUGHES' APPEAL (1934), 22 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 141.

1478. —— ——.]—The fact that vehicles were used during the basic year by a firm since dissolved of which the appct.'s son was a member is not a good ground for granting an application for an A licence intended to be exercised for the benefit of the son.—LONDON & NORTH EASTERN RY. 1479. —— ——.]—Held: by the Appeal Tribunal, distinguishing Enston's Case, railway cos. are in an exceptional position owing to their peculiar statutory obligations as to collection & delivery. If, therefore, a railway co. can show that they could carry out these statutory obligations more efficiently with the licence than without it their application should succeed, notwithstanding they will thereby abstract traffic from other carriers already engaged in carrying in the district intended to be served.—LONDON & NORTH EASTERN RY. (2) At a public inquiry held by the comr. it appeared that appct. had captured the traffic of the objectors, but it did not appear how this had been done. The comr. refused the application because there was no evidence of any need for the services of the appct. On new evidence being called before them the Appeal Tribunal were satisfied that the traffic of the objectors had been captured by appct. because of the inefficiency of the former; the appeal was therefore allowed though there was no evidence to show that the work proposed to be done by the appct. could not for some reason or reasons be done by other carriers.—STEPHENSON v. SAGAR & SON (1935), 23 Ry. & Can. 1492. —— ——.]—A carrier who was entitled to an A licence because he had been carrying during the basic year was granted an A licence under sect. 7 (1) of the Act subject to the condition that he should use his vehicle exclusively for the traffic of one co. Later part of the traffic of that co., came under the control of another person who also desired to employ this carrier. The carrier therefore surrendered his A licence with the condition attached & applied for an A licence without any condition. Sir Henry Piggott was of opinion that in ordinary justice the applicant was entitled to an A licence:—Held: by the Appeal Tribunal, appct. should not have been granted an A licence because it appeared that he was not the only carrier capable of dealing with the traffic.—SOUTHERN RY. CO. v. OWEN (1935), 24 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 36.

1493. —— ——.]—An appct. obtained an A (Contract) licence. Later he applied for an A licence, claiming that he had been mistaken as to the nature of the A (Contract) licence. He adduced no evidence that persons other than the co. with whom he was under contract would employ him:—Held: on the facts, appct. had not made a mistake, & no case had been made out. Semble: if a mistake had been made, this would have afforded equitable grounds for granting an A licence.—AXFORD v. SOUTHERN RY. 1494. —— ——.]—A haulage co. went into liquidation in Sept. In Oct. resps., two of its former drivers started business on their own account, & applied for an A licence. At the inquiry two of their customers stated that they, the customers, had employed the co., but that in the interval between the liquidation & the commencement of the new business they had employed other firms. A third customer had no complaint against applts., whom he had employed until the new business started:—Held: resps. had not established a primâ facie case that the work they proposed to do could not be done by existing operators, & were therefore not entitled to a licence.

1495. —— ——.]—An application for an A licence was refused both because appcts. failed to discharge the onus of proving the need for the service which they desired to provide & that this need could not for some reason be met by the facilities already available, & also because the grant of the licence would have created an excess of transport facilities in the district.—ORANGE (J.), LTD. v. JENNINGS (1935), 24 Ry. Can. & Tr. Cas. 195.

1496. —— ——.]—An A licence ought not to be granted to an appct. who does not prove that he is the only carrier capable of carrying the traffic he proposes to carry. It makes no difference that there are persons who desire to avail themselves of his services.—JONES v. LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. CO. (1935), 24 Ry. Can. & Tr. Cas. 208.

1497. —— ——.]—A co. engaged principally upon haulage on trunk routes applied at the close of the first currency period for a new A licence in continuation of their existing A licence. The amalgamated railway cos. objected upon the ground that suitable transport facilities were already in excess of requirements:— Held: by the Appeal Tribunal: (1) it is no part of a licensing authority's duty to have regard to a difference between road & rail rates or to take into account the railway "rates structure" set up pursuant to Railways Act, 1921; (2) there is nothing in the Act to support the view that the "status quo" should be maintained beyond the first currency period; (3) the principle laid down in Smart's Case, No. 1517, post, is not limited to applications for variations but applies equally to applications such as this. The principle is that, if an objector proves that suitable transport facilities are in excess of requirements, or would be if the licence were granted, then, generally speaking, a licence should not be granted. The Appeal Tribunal now point out that proof of the objection does not give the objector a legal right to have the application dismissed; the reason why such an application should be dismissed is that it would not be in the public interest for a licensing authority to exercise his discretion so as to create wasteful competition; (4) an established haulier on a trunk service when applying for a new A licence in continuation of his expiring licence should satisfy the licensing authority (a) that during the currency of his expiring licence the authorised vehicles have been regularly & fully employed; (b) as to his gross receipts & tonnage; (c) there has been no material change in the circumstances relating to his business. If the licensing authority is satisfied as to these matters he should grant the application unless there are overriding circumstances to the contrary. Such overriding circumstances exist if the evidence establishes beyond reasonable doubt that suitable transport facilities are, or will be, in excess of requirements; (5) transport facilities are not "suitable" within sect. 11 (2) of the Act unless they are (a) suitable for carrying the goods required to be carried, (b) suitable to the person requiring them to be carried on the occasions when he requires transport, & (c) suitable to current industrial & commercial conditions; (6) on the facts of this case, appcts. had satisfied the licensing authority as to the matters (a), (b) & (c) of (4) above, & that the objectors, though they had proved that their facilities were physically adequate, had not proved them to be "suitable." Application granted.—FOUR AMALGAMATED RY. COS. v. BOUTS-TILLOTSON TRANSPORT, LTD. (1937), 25 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 158.

1499. ——— ———.]—An old-established firm of hauliers also carried on a gravel, etc., business. In 1927 the entire business was acquired by a limited co. In 1931 a second limited co. was formed & acquired the road haulage portion of the business. This haulage co. was in 1934 granted an A licence, claimed tonnage. It now applied for an A licence in continuation of the expiring licence. Mr. Gleeson Robinson refused the application on the ground that a B licence was appropriate; otherwise any person combining a haulage business with another business could evade the disabilities of a B licensee by incorporating a separate haulage co. On appeal:—Held: although Mr. Gleeson Robinson's views might be properly applicable to many cases, they did not apply in this case where appct. co. was the successor of an old-established transport business & had been incorporated in 1931, before the Road & Rail Traffic Act was contemplated.—Re BOYER (WILLIAM) & SONS (TRANSPORT), LTD. (1937), 25 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 302.

1500. ——— For additional vehicles—When granted.]—(1) The principles on which A licences should be granted or refused during the first currency period are inter alia that the status quo should as far as possible be maintained. No increase in the number of vehicles licensed should be allowed except upon proof that such increase is really necessitated by the general expansion of industry in any particular business or district. Stabilisation of the industry should be the first aim of the licensing authorities.

(2) The mere fact that particular customers are willing to give further custom to the appct. is not by itself sufficient to justify the grant of an A licence for an increased number of vehicles.

Where an appct. seeks an A licence for an increased number of vehicles on the ground that particular customers propose to use those vehicles his proper course is to apply for contract licences under Road & Rail Traffic Act, 1933 (c. 53), s. 7 (1).

(3) An undertaking by the appct. to observe certain conditions attached to the grant of an A licence cannot be accepted as an alternative to refusing the application because such an undertaking would not be enforceable.—RIDGEWELL & Co. v. SOUTHERN RY. CO. (1934), 22 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 6.

1505. —— —— ——.]—(1) An application in part for claimed, & in part for discretionary, tonnage should be so published, & not as an application for discretionary tonnage only. Where an appct. carries partly in one traffic area & partly in another general evidence as to his operations throughout the country will not suffice to support an application for a licence for vehicles intended to be normally based in a particular traffic area.

(2) A licensing comr. should act judicially, & should not allow his mind to be influenced by mere complaints unsupported by evidence.

(3) Where the previous conduct of an appct. is brought in issue by allegations of criminal offences it is the duty of those making the allegations to furnish appct. with particulars of the offences he is alleged to have committed if he requires them. If the fact that a criminal offence has been committed comes in question even collaterally, it must be strictly proved.

(4) A licensing comr. who is required to give his reasons for a decision under sect. 6 (3) of Road & Rail Traffic Act, 1933 (c. 53), it bound to give all his reasons. He cannos reserve to himself a right to give additional reasons later.

(5) Previous offences committed by an appct. as a carrier against sect. 19 of Road & Rail Traffic Act, 1930, & the charging of uneconomic rates as a carrier do not constitute "previous conduct of appct. as a carrier of goods" within sect. 6 (2) (b) of Road & Rail Traffic Act, 1933, & a licensing comr. is not entitled in law to take such matters into consideration when exercising his discretion under that sect. But if an objection to the application is made under sect. 11 (2) of the Act, on the ground that suitable transport facilities are or, if the application were granted, would be in excess of requirements, such matters are relevant to such objection & should be taken into consideration.

(6) A road carrier who maintains long-distance trunk services, & seeks authority for additional vehicles to be used for the collection & delivery of his traffic, may justify his application by showing that such collection & delivery can be better co-ordinated with his trunk services & can be performed more efficiently with vehicles owned by him & under his control than by employing others to do the work.—BOUTS-TILLOTSON, LTD. v. DONALDSON WRIGHT, LTD. CO. v. BARNES (1935), 23 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 137.

1507. —— —— ——.]—(1) There is no right of appeal by an objector to an application for claimed tonnage where the comr.; being satisfied that the vehicle to be authorised is properly included in the claimed tonnage grants the application.

(2) Where a carrier who was established during the basic year seeks to augment the vehicles which he is authorised to use he must prove some general expansion in the business of his customers.—STUBBS (LEONARD) & CO., LTD. v. JACKSON & ELLIS (1935), 23 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 141.

1508. —— —— ——.]—(1) An increase in the business of a carrier is not the same thing as an increase in the business of his customers; & evidence of the former by itself does not justify an addition to the vehicles authorised by a carrier's licence.

(2) On an application for a variation of a licence a Comr. is entitled to take into consideration the conclusions he came to on the original application.

(3) General evidence that a carrier has had difficulty in finding other carriers to carry for him is not a special circumstance justifying the licensing of additional vehicles to enable the carrier to do his own carrying himself.

(4) A licence ought not to be granted to a carrier for services which the Comr. thinks are unnecessary.

(5) The decision of a Comr. on an application cannot create anything in the nature of an estoppel against appct.—FORRESTER v. GREAT WESTERN RY. CO. (1935), 23 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 225.

1509. —— —— ——.]—An established carrier sought an enlargement of his licence on the ground that his fruit-carrying business had increased. The Comr. having refused the application on the ground that suitable transport facilities in the district were in excess of requirements:—Held: though the evidence in support of the Comr.'s finding was very slight, the appeal should not be allowed because the Tribunal were of opinion that appct.'s fruit-carrying business had not increased, & they refused to consider whether his business of carrying vegetables had increased.—COOPER v. SOUTHERN RY. CO. (1935), 24 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 55.

1510. —— —— ——.]—A haulier holding an A licence for two vehicles applied for it to be varied by the addition of a third vehicle. His gross receipts had increased & he had been compelled to hire:—Held: such an appct. must first establish a case as laid down in Ridgewell's Case. If such a case is established the formula in Hawker's Case must then be applied to determine how many (if any) additional vehicles should be authorised. Assuming that this appct. had established the first point, he failed on the second point, for he had not proved abnormal hiring, while the increase in gross receipts, computed on a basis of ten-months as laid down in Hawker's Case, was too small to justify the extra vehicle. The formula in Hawker's Case cannot be applied to certain cases. Alternative considerations discussed. Matters to be considered when assessing evidence of increase in gross receipts discussed. 1511. —— —— ——.]—An appct. claimed an additional vehicle under his A licence on three grounds: (1) that the vehicle was to be acquired from a trader, who was then operating it under a C licence, & that the trader would thenceforth employ the applicant to do his cartage; (2) that his business was increasing; (3) that he required a heavier vehicle for certain work:—Held: operation of a vehicle under a C licence was no evidence of need for its authorisation under an A licence, & since the trader could obtain another C licence there was danger of a dual grant in respect of his work. Ground (2) had not been established by the evidence; & the evidence for ground (3) did not justify an additional vehicle, though it might have justified the replacement of an existing vehicle by a heavier one. The fact that an extra vehicle would be placed on the roads is not a ground for refusing a licence where a case has been made out. "Contracting out" of the Act, referred to. Remission to licensing authority, refused.—LONDON & NORTH EASTERN & LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. COS. v. ROBERTS (1936), 24 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 154.

1512. —— —— ——.]—Held: that the avoidance of double-shift working is not in itself a sufficient ground for authorising additional tonnage under an A licence. Meaning of "Harrogate & district" discussed.—LONDON & NORTH EASTERN RY. CO. v. PARKER (1936), 24 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 159.

—— —— ——.]—(1) The fact that a trader desires to transfer his traffic from other carriers to appct. only because appct. is in a position to help him financially is not a matter to be taken into consideration on an application to increase the number of vehicles authorised under a licence.

(2) Evidence of increase in gross receipts is not so useful as evidence of increase in tonnage of goods carried, nor so useful as evidence of increase in gross receipts & increase in tonnage of goods carried.—REECE, LTD. v. FOUR AMALGAMATED RY. COS. (1935), 23 Ry. Can. & Tr. Cas. 199.

—— —— ——.]—(1) The fact that manufacturers adopt a practice of waiting for orders before manufacturing their goods in place of manufacturing the goods first & warehousing them in anticipation of orders, if proved, is material to the question whether there is a need for additional vehicles.

General evidence that an appct. has had difficulty in hiring will not by itself justify the grant of a licence for an additional vehicle.

The evidence of a commercial clerk assistant goods manager to a ry. co. that the ry. formerly carried traffic which it has since lost, & that, so far as he knows, the ry. facilities meet the requirements of traders, does not prove that the ry. facilities are suitable with regard either to that traffic or to the persons requiring facilities for it.

General evidence of an increase in a carrier's business without evidence that the business of his customers has also increased will not justify the grant of a licence for an additional vehicle.

Evidence that one carrier has without good cause abstracted the traffic of another may be a ground for refusing a licence, but the mere fact of absence of any such evidence is not a ground for granting a licence.

1517. —— —— ——.]—(1) Objectors having submitted that if they proved suitable transport facilities to exist in the district where an appct. proposes to carry, then the application must fail:—Held: if such facilities are in excess of requirements, or would be if the licence were granted, then, generally speaking, a licence should not be granted. But there may be exceptional cases (though the Appeal Tribunal failed to visualise them) where a grant would be justified. In this context, "suitable" means more than "adequate" & "requirements" does not refer solely to the requirements of appct. & objector; both words must be considered in relation to current industrial & commercial conditions.

A haulier operating nine vehicles under A licence on a trunk service & one vehicle for collection & delivery, applied for an extra vehicle for the trunk service. The objectors contended that suitable facilities were in excess of requirements:—Held: the two questions, whether appct. has made out a case within Ridgewell's Case, & whether the objectors have proved their objection, have both to be considered. On the facts, this appct. had made out a case, & the objectors had not shown that their facilities were "suitable."

Methods of ascertaining quantum of extra tonnage discussed. When considering quantum on a trunk service, the tonnage of a collection & delivery vehicle should not be taken into consideration. Extra vehicle of 2½ tons authorised.

1519. —— —— ——.]—H. applied for the variation of his A licence by the authorisation of additional vehicles. At the inquiry in Feb. 1935 certain of his customers gave evidence of increases in their business, in their industries, in the tonnage they desired H. to carry, etc. The variation was granted. Later H. applied for another variation to authorise further additional vehicles. At the inquiry in Apr. 1936 the customers who had given evidence in 1935 were not called, but general evidence was given by H.'s accountant that there had been an increase in tonnage due partly to increased business done for these customers:—Held: additional vehicles should not be granted solely on the ground that tonnage had increased, since increased tonnage for old customers might be due not to increases in customers' businesses but to their transferring to appct. work hitherto done by other carriers. However, it is unnecessary for customers to be called to give the same evidence which they have given fourteen months previously, provided that some evidence is given to confirm appct.'s general statements. Helpful evidence would be (i) evidence of inquiries by appct. as to the cause of increases in the business of these customers, or (ii) letters from these customers containing statements as to increases in their business & as to their suffering inconvenience from appct. being unable to supply transport. Such letters would be open to challenge by objectors.

H. operated a trunk service & ancillary collection & delivery services. He based his application as to the trunk service upon increased traffic due partly to increased work for old customers, as stated above, & partly to obtaining substantial business from a new customer whose goods had hitherto been carried by rail. H. delivered these goods more expeditiously than the railway, but no reason was given why speedier delivery was necessary:—Held: it would not be in the public interest to grant H. a licence to carry goods hitherto carried by another carrier, provided that the previous carrier's facilities were suitable. The fact that the latter were slower did not render them unsuitable in the absence of evidence that more expeditious delivery was reasonably necessary to the trader. H. was not entitled to additional vehicles for his trunk service.

As to his collection & delivery service H. gave evidence that owing to reorganisation of the working of his fleet he needed further vehicles for this work, that he had been hiring these at a cost of £500 per annum, & had had difficulty in hiring suitable vehicles:—Held: special considerations apply to collection & delivery vehicles; it was reasonable for H. to use his own vehicles for this purpose; the amount paid for hire represented the work of two vehicles, & he should be authorised to use these on his A licence.

The "Hawker formula" discussed obiter. When once an appct. for a variation has established a case within Ridgewell's Case, this formula is a useful guide to determine the quantum, if any, of additional tonnage to be authorised.—HAWKER, LTD. v. GREAT WESTERN & LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. 1520. —— —— ——.]—Additional tonnage will not be authorised upon the ground that appcts. had sometimes to keep customers waiting for transport. It is inevitable that on some occasions carriers cannot meet the demands of their customers at short notice. Nor is the hiring of horse-drawn vehicles a ground, in the absence of evidence that appcts. intend to use motor vehicles in substitution for horse-drawn vehicles.

"Carrying capacity" discussed. "Static carrying capacity" distinguished from "performance capacity."—LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH & LONDON & NORTH EASTERN RY. COS. v. RICHARDS, LTD. (1936), 25 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 114.

1521. —— —— ——.]—(1) An appct. for additional tonnage performed 80 per cent. of his work for customers who refused access to their premises to motor-drivers who were not members of a trade union. For this reason appct. found it difficult to hire vehicles for this work:—Held: customers' requirements as to trade union membership were not a special circumstance entitling the appct. to additional tonnage in the absence of evidence of need.

(2) Where 80 per cent. of a haulier's work is done for three particular customers, this cannot be said to be a case in which a Contract A licence should be applied for.—PAYNE v. LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH, LONDON & NORTH EASTERN & GREAT WESTERN RY. COS. (1937), 25 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 269.

1522. —— —— ——.]—S. & Co. applied for the authorisation of additional vehicles under A licence upon the grounds that (1) they had obtained substantial new traffic from U.; (2) certain fruit traffic had increased; (3) there had been a substantial general increase in their tonnage carried; (4) they had proved a case within Ridgewell's Case; (5) they needed additional maintenance tonnage.

(1) U.'s traffic had previously been consigned by rail; S. & Co. agreed to carry this at a rate cheaper than that by rail, & to furnish warehouse accommodation. The railway cos. objected to the application on the ground that their facilities were suitable:—Held: in considering whether objectors' facilities were suitable a licensing authority ought to take into consideration neither the fact that road rates were cheaper (unless they were uneconomic), nor the fact that warehouse accommodation would be provided; that on the facts the railway cos. had proved their objections; & that no additional tonnage should be granted for carrying U.'s traffic; (2) Held: on the facts as to the fruit traffic the objectors had proved their objections.

(3), (4) Held: since S. & Co. had proved (a) that there had been an increase in their business, (b) that there had been an increase in the business of their customers, (c) that some of their customers had been inconvenienced by their inability to provide transport facilities, they had made out a case for additional tonnage within Ridgewell's Case. As to quantum, the formula in Hawker's Case (No. 1) applied; but when applying this formula (i) the increased goods tonnage carried in respect of U.'s traffic & the fruit traffic must be disregarded, & (ii) the tonnage of maintenance vehicles must be deducted from fleet tonnage in order to arrive at "effective" vehicle tonnage.

(5) By applying the "Hawker formula" it was ascertained that two additional vehicles of 8 tons each should be authorised:—Held: this was a substantial addition to S. & Co.'s fleet & they should be authorised to use further tonnage for maintenance purposes.—LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH & LONDON & NORTH EASTERN RY. But where the traffic is undirectional the effect may be to produce uneconomic competition.—SHEPHERD v. LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. CO. (1935), 23 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 173.

1544. —— —— Matters for consideration.]—(1) A distinction must be drawn between the carrier already established, who seeks to obtain back loads in order that his vehicles shall not operate an undue amount of dead mileage, & one who, having newly entered the carrying business, seeks to obtain a licence solely on the ground that he has been promised work by one or more clearing houses.

(2) Where on an appeal by an objector against the grant of a licence it appeared to the Appeal Tribunal doubtful whether appcts. base or centre was in the traffic area of the Comr. who granted the licence, the appeal was formally allowed, & the case was sent back to the Comr. for a further hearing with the suggestion that a short-term licence should be issued to resp. pending the final disposal of the matter.—LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. The Comrs. must not grant an ordinary A licence for vehicles which will be principally used for the business of a single customer, so that they are generally loaded only with the goods of that customer, even though none of the vehicles will ever be used for the purposes of a contract for the carriage of goods for a year.—SOUTHERN RY. 1547. —— —— ——.]—Held: (1) an established haulier who applies for a new A licence in continuation of his expiring licence should satisfy the licensing authority (a) that during the currency of his expiring licence the authorised vehicles have been regularly & fully employed; (b) as to his gross receipts & tonnage; (c) that there has been no material change in the circumstances relating to his business. If the licensing authority is satisfied as to these matters he should grant the application unless there are overriding circumstances to the contrary. This applies not only to trunk services but also to other facilities, although special considerations may arise in connection with collection & delivery services; (2) where an A licensee has on a prior application stated that he intended to provide facilities within certain districts or between certain places, & where it appears upon his application for a new licence in continuation of his existing licence that he has been providing, & intends to provide, facilities within other districts or between other places, then his application should be refused in the absence of evidence of need; (3) if during the currency period of an expiring A or B licence there has been a substantial break in the continuity of the licensee's haulage business, the licensee should not necessarily be treated as a newcomer when he applies for a new licence in continuation. But if the evidence proves the former business to have been abandoned, the new licence should not be granted in the absence of evidence of need. Aliter if the break was due to illness or fluctuation of business.—MODERN HAULAGE SERVICES, LTD. v. LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH & LONDON & NORTH EASTERN RY. 1548. —— To whom granted—Liquidator.]—A haulage co. holding two A licences went into liquidation. The liquidator applied for A licences in respect of the vehicles specified in the co.'s licence. Mr. Henderson granted the application, but only in respect of such vehicles as were in use at the date of liquidation & he expressed the licences to expire on the dates on which the co.'s licences would have expired:—Held: this was a proper course. There is no reason why a liquidator should not be granted a licence. Under sect. 3 (2) of the Act licences may be granted for less than the full currency period for "special reasons," & the appointment of a liquidator was a special reason. Insolvency does not by itself show that goods had been carried at uneconomic rates. The objectors had not proved that facilities would be in excess of requirements: their facilities differed materially from those of the co.

1549. —— Hiring allowance—When justified.]—A haulier applied for a new A licence in continuation of her existing A licence & in respect of the same tonnage, viz.: four vehicles in possession & one vehicle to be hired. During a fourteen weeks period the hiring allowance had been utilised three times when a vehicle was under repair & three times for work which could not be undertaken by the other four vehicles. The application was granted, & the objectors appealed against that part of the decision which authorised the hiring allowance:—Held: this was a case of the type in which the need for an additional vehicle should be dealt with by an application for temporary replacement under article 15 of the Goods Vehicles (Licences & Prohibitions) Regulations, 1936.

Urgent applications under this article are dealt with very rapidly by licensing authorities.—SOUTHERN RY. CO. v. WILKINSON (1937), 25 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 245.

1550. —— To what vehicles applicable.]—(1) Two railway cos. applied for the variation of a number of their A licences in respect of different bases by the addition of further vehicles. The majority of the applications were for vehicles to be used for the collection & delivery of rail-borne traffic; in some instances the ground of the application was that such traffic had increased, & in others it was that the vehicles were to be used in substitution for horse-drawn vehicles. The applications were granted. The objectors (applts.) contended, inter alia), that such vehicles should have been authorised under B licence:—Held: it was proper in such a case to authorise collection & delivery vehicles under A licence, & not under B licence subject to conditions restrictive as to radius, since it was necessary for the efficient working of a large transport organisation that vehicles could in an emergency be used from a base other than their normal base. If the right to unrestricted user under A licence were abused, the licensing authority could refuse a subsequent application.

(2) The ratio in which motor vehicles should be authorised in substitution for horse-drawn collection & delivery vehicles cannot be fixed & depends entirely upon the facts of each case.

(3) By reason of sects. 11 (2) & 15 of the Act objectors who are B licensees have no right of appeal against a decision to grant an A licence. Sanderson's Case explained & followed.—WATTS v. LONDON & NORTH EASTERN & LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. COS. (1937), 25 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 187.

1551. "B" licence—When granted.]—A trader who carries his own goods long distances to deliver to his customers, & on the return journey carries goods for his customers for reward, competes with carriers who only carry for reward, & it is not desirable in the interests of transport that he should do so.—COX v. GREAT WESTERN RY. CO. (1935), 22 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 161.

1552. —— ——.]—Held: (1) a B licence should not be granted to an appct. who failed to prove a need for further transport facilities in his district; (2) the principles laid down in Enston's Case do not apply to all applications for B licences any more than they apply to all applications for A licences.—THORNLEY & SON v. LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. CO. (1935), 22 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 249.

1553. —— ——.]—(1) A manufacturing co. using a fleet of vehicles to deliver their products made a practice of carrying goods for hire or reward on return journeys. They applied for a B licence to enable them to continue to do so:—Held: the carrying of return loads for hire or reward is not generally in the public interest provided that alternative transport is available. On such an application, therefore, a licensing authority has to consider whether a case for exceptional treatment is made out, & whether alternative transport is available. Letters from customers asserting a preference for road over rail transport do not assist such a case, & the existence of alternative road transport may be inferred from them. Here no case for exceptional treatment was shown, & the existence of alternative transport for the return loads was proved: the application was rightly dismissed.

Obiter, on an application for a B licence it may be material for the licensing authority to consider whether alternative transport is available for the carriage of appct.'s own goods.

(2) The licensing authority, in reaching his decision, had made use of knowledge of transport conditions acquired generally in the course of his duties:—Held: he was entitled so to do, but if during a public inquiry a licensing authority contemplates using knowledge of specific matters he should give the parties an opportunity of dealing with them.—BARRATT & CO., LTD. v. LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH, LONDON & NORTH EASTERN & GREAT WESTERN RY. COS. (1936), 24 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 127.

1554. —— ——.]—Held: the whole of the provisions of sect. 7 (3), apply only to applications for licences for the first currency period. On applications for licences for the second or subsequent currency periods the discretion to grant or refuse the licence is that given by sect. 6 of the Act.

An appct. proved that there was a need for his car to be used on a private estate where no licence was required to use a car for carriage of goods for hire or reward, & that there was a possibility that there might be a need for the car to be used on public roads where a licence would be required:—Held: no case for a licence had been made out.

Obiter, if the public are admitted to a private estate the roads on that estate are roads within 1555. —— ——.]—(1) A haulier applied for the renewal of his B licence permitting him (inter alia) to carry strawboards for a certain co. A ry. co. objector gave general evidence as to ry. facilities & argued that these facilities were suitable & that therefore the application should have been dismissed :—Held : in this case whether or not the ry. facilities were suitable depended upon whether or not the strawboards had frequently to be carried for urgent delivery. The evidence as to this was unsatisfactory ; case remitted for further inquiry.

The fact that objectors have in the past carried large quantities of certain goods does not prove that their facilities are suitable ; it is a factor to be taken into consideration, but is not conclusive.

It had been stated as one ground for granting the application the fact that conveyance of strawboards by rail would involve a 50 per cent. increase in transport charges ; he described the rail charge as " on the high side " :—Held : this finding was not justified by the evidence ; the rail rate had been authorised by the lty. Rates Tribunal & was not on the high side.

(2) Evidence tendered by objectors should be as particularised as that given by appcts.—LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. CO. v. INGLEBY (1936), 24 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 294.

1556. —— ——.]—A coal merchant who hawked coal from his motor vehicle during the winter months applied for a B licence :—Held : a coal merchant who is unable to discharge the ordinary burden of proof should nevertheless be granted a B licence if : (a) his business is genuine ; (b) he requires the vehicle for carrying goods in connection with his own business & these goods cannot satisfactorily be carried otherwise ; (c) taking the year as a whole the vehicle cannot be economically operated unless used during the off season for hire or reward ; & provided a special condition be attached preventing him carrying for hire save during the off season & preventing wasteful competition.

This principle only applies to genuine coal merchants' businesses, & it does not necessarily apply to other seasonal businesses.—SOUTHERN RY. CO. v. LAMBERT (1936), 25 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 24.

1557. —— ——.]—Furniture dealers applied for a B licence to enable them to carry out removals. They did business on the " easy payment " system, & proposed to apply this system to removals :—Held : they must raise a primâ facie case within the terms of Enston's Case ; their proposed method of collecting charges was not a matter which the licensing authority should take into consideration.—BRADSHAWS STORES, LTD. v. WALKER & LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. CO. (1936), 25 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas.

1558. —— ——.]—A wholesale fruit merchant used motor vehicles to convey fruit from London to Nottingham & Ilkeston. He applied for a B licence to enable him to continue his practice of carrying for hire or reward on the return journeys to London :—Held : he was not entitled to a licence if there were already in existence suitable transport facilities for the conveyance of (a) his goods, & (b) those of his customers.

The evidence showed that railway facilities were suitable for the conveyance of appct.'s goods to Nottingham but not to Ilkeston. The Tribunal refused to assume in the absence of evidence that suitable facilities to Ilkeston were provided by A licence-holders. There was also insufficient evidence as to facilities available for conveyance of the customers' goods ; case therefore remitted to the licensing authority for further inquiry.

Barratt's Case followed ; decision of Mr. Gleeson Robinson therein approved, save that the Tribunal doubted whether a licensing authority was entitled to take into consideration the fact that a B licensee would obtain an advantage over his competitors not similarly licensed.—LONDON & NORTH EASTERN & LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. COS. v. SMALLEY (1936), 25 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 118.

1559. —— ——.]—Sect. 6 (2) (c) of the Act requires the licensing authority to have regard to the extent to which the vehicles to be authorised will be in substitution for horse-drawn vehicles previously used by the appct. for the purposes of his business as a carrier.

Resp. co-operative society applied for a B licence for one vehicle to enable them to effect furniture removals for their members. They had hitherto done this work locally by their own horse-drawn vans, for which they had hired horses from S. Mr. Nicholson granted the application subject to a radius of twenty-five miles. On appeal it was said that S. had now himself obtained a licence on the ground of substitution of motor for horse-drawn vehicles, & that if this decision were supported there would have been a dual grant :—Held : where a van belonging to one person had been drawn by a horse belonging to another, the fact that the owner of the horse has already successfully invoked sect. 6 (2) (c) does not preclude the owner of the van from relying on it as well.

Grant upheld, subject to a reduction of radius to fifteen miles.—REED & SONS v. BRISTOL CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETY, LTD. (1937), 25 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 241.

1560. —— ——.]—The owner of a furniture depository & a furniture removal business had been authorised under B licence to carry furniture & household effects within a 100-mile radius. He applied for a new licence in continuation of his expiring licence & asked that the restrictive radius be removed :—Held : (1) in the absence of evidence to the contrary it must be assumed that removals beyond the 100-mile radius had been satisfactorily effected by other carriers & therefore that the lifting of the restriction would create an excess of suitable facilities ; but (2) it is reasonable that the owner of a depository who is also a furniture remover should be permitted to carry without radius restriction furniture & household effects stored in his depository.—BROWN v. LONDON & NORTH EASTERN RY. CO. (1937) 25 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 265.

-.]—(1) It is not by itself a ground for refusing a B licence that appct.'s own goods could be quite satisfactorily carried by existing transport & that there is no other valid & sufficient reason why he should carry them himself. But where there already exist suitable transport facilities for the carriage of the goods which appct. proposes to carry for reward the licence must be refused.

(2) In the absence of any explanation from the traders concerned it is not right to draw the inference that rail transport is unsuitable from the fact that many consignees order their goods forward by road.

(3) Where there is a finding that there are no A licensees in a certain area who are not fully employed, & this finding is based on knowledge acquired in the exercise of the duties of a licensing authority, the Appeal Tribunal have no alternative but to accept it.—LONDON & NORTH EASTERN & LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. COS. v. SMALLEY (1937), 25 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 348.

1562. —— Additional vehicles—When granted.]—Wharfingers applied for a variation of their B licence by the addition of five vehicles that they might themselves do work hitherto done for them by sub-contractors. They complained of an increasing difficulty in hiring vehicles from such sub-contractors :—Held : by Mr. Gleeson Robinson, in the case of applications by wharfingers, forwarding agents & clearing houses who had hitherto done all or part of their haulage work by sub-contractors, & in the absence of special circumstances, a licensing authority should safeguard the transport industry generally by refusing to authorise vehicles for the purpose of doing such work as was hitherto done by sub-contractors. He refused the application. On appeal, the Appeal Tribunal were disposed to agree, obiter, with Mr. Gleeson Robinson as far as concerned forwarding agents, clearing houses, & some wharfingers. In the case of these appcts., however, they found special circumstances to exist, & held appcts.' road facilities were to be regarded as collection & delivery services ancillary to trunk routes by sea, & since an increasing difficulty in hiring had been proved, the extra vehicles should be authorised.—Re LOVELL (SHAW) & SONS, LTD. 1564. —— Jurisdiction of licensing authority.]—(1) An appct. for a B licence in respect of a motor vehicle in describing the area which he intends to serve is only bound to state the district within which or the places between which he intends normally to use the vehicle. (2) In granting such a licence the licensing authority may, if he thinks fit, under sect. 8 (3) (a), attach to the licence a condition that it shall be used only in a specified district or between specified places; or he may grant the licence without imposing any restriction.

(2) In attaching conditions to a B licence granted under sect. 7 (3), which provides that no condition shall be attached which would constitute a substantial interference with the business for which the vehicles were used during the basic year, a comr. may also take into account the public interest. Hauliers with bases twelve & fifteen miles respectively from the newcomer's base objected, & appealed :—Held : on the evidence, the newcomer had made out a primâ facie case, but that it had been pro tanto rebutted by the two objectors, so far as their bases were concerned; condition amended to prevent the newcomer carrying for persons other than those residing within four miles of his base. An offer made at a public inquiry by an objector, to station a vehicle at an appct.'s base, should not be taken into consideration.

1572. —— Return loads.]—Traders had carried return loads within radii of sixty-five, forty & twenty miles under B licence, claimed tonnage. They now applied for a fresh B licence subject to the same conditions in continuation of the first licence. Objectors gave evidence of their facilities:—Held: by Mr. Farndale, in cases where appcts. had been carrying return loads since at least the commencement of the basic year, they should be permitted to continue so to do unless objectors proved beyond doubt that alternative transport facilities were commercially suitable as well as physically sufficient.

In the absence of evidence by objectors that they could deliver goods in the district in question early the morning next after dispatch, & that such delivery met the needs of consignees, Mr. Farndale found, & the Appeal Tribunal agreed, that objectors had not proved their facilities to be commercially suitable.—LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. CO. v. MITCHELL & BROADBENT (1936), 25 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 78.

1573. —— Radius.]—Appcts. applied for a B licence in substitution for their existing B licence under which they were permitted to carry for hire or reward within a 70-mile radius. They had been carrying daily return loads from points 35 to 65 miles from their base:—Held: since the return loads were not carried for "long distances" & since they formed a regular service, the decision in Barratt's Case did not apply.

Sir William Hart granted the application subject to new radii of 15 & 35 miles. He considered these to be radii within which a B licensee might reasonably be expected to operate:—Held: by the Appeal Tribunal, in fixing a radius regard should be had to the evidence of past work & future need; Sir William's decision must be reversed.—SUTCLIFFE (EDWARD), LTD. v. LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. CO. (1936), 25 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 213.

1574. "C" licence—Condition prohibiting carriage for reward—Vehicle owned by mutual benefit societies.]—An incorporated society, whose members consisted exclusively of persons employed at a colliery, had as its object the business of delivering to its members coal supplied to them from the colliery by the colliery co. For the purposes of its business the society owned a motor goods vehicle in respect of which it held "a C licence" under the above sub-sect. The society used the vehicle for making a delivery of coal at the house of one of its members, the charge for the delivery being deducted from the wage of the member payable by the colliery co. & subsequently paid by that co. to the society. On an information against the society for having failed to comply with the condition, to which the licence was subject under the above sub-sect., by using the vehicle for the carriage of goods for hire or reward:—Held: as the society was incorporated, it was a legal entity separate & distinct from its individual members; & consequently in using the vehicle for the carriage of coal to one of the members at a charge, it used the vehicle for "the carriage of goods for hire or reward" within the Road & Rail Traffic Act, 1933 (c. 53), s. 2 (4), & was guilty of the offence with which it was charged.

In another case in which the material circumstances were in all respects similar to those above mentioned, except that the society which carried on the business & owned the vehicle & against which the information was laid, was an unincorporated society:—Held: as the society was unincorporated, it had no separate existence apart from its individual members who were themselves the owners of the vehicle & the recipients of the payments made for the use of it; & consequently when the vehicle was used for the carriage of coal to the member it was not used for "the carriage of goods for hire or reward" within the sub-sect., & the society was not guilty of the offence charged against it.—WURZEL v. HOUGHTON MAIN HOME DELIVERY SERVICE, LTD., WURZEL v. ATKINSON, [1937] 1 K. 1574a. —— Breach of condition.]—Resps., as holders of a private "C" carrier's licence, were charged with having failed to comply with a condition attached to the licence, namely, that "the holder of this licence is entitled to use the authorised vehicles for the carriage of goods for or in connection with any trade or business carried on by him, but no vehicle which is for the time being an authorised vehicle shall be used for the carriage of goods for hire or reward," contrary to Road & Rail Traffic Act, 1933, s. 9 (1). The vehicles in question were used for the removal & disposal of the whole of the surplus excavations from the site of a new railway station, for the sum of 1*s.* 10*d.* per cubic yard of excavation, & it was alleged that the consideration paid, or some part of it, was paid for the carriage of the rubbish. The justices dismissed the charge, holding that the property in the rubbish passed to the respondents the moment it was loaded on to the vehicle, & that it could not be said that a person had carried his own goods for hire or reward:—Held: (1) a large part of the payment recovered by resps was paid for the carriage of the rubbish from the premises of the railway, & the offence charged was proved; (2) this was not a case of "delivery or collection by a person of goods sold, used or let on hire or hire purchase in the course of a trade or business carried on by him" within sect. 1 (5) (a) of the Act of 1933.—SPITTLE v. THAMES GRIT & AGGREGATES, LTD., [1937] 4 All E. If, therefore, he did not apply before Apr. 1, 1934, for all that he might have applied for he has no right thereafter to have his licence varied so as to include the difference between the tonnage he did apply for & that which he might have applied for.

(2) A trailer is not a specified vehicle within sect. 10 (2). Consequently, the holder of a licence for a motor vehicle & a trailer has no right to have a second motor vehicle substituted for the trailer.

1579. —— Application before licence granted.]—A carrier applied for a licence. Before his application could be heard he applied for a variation of the licence which he hoped would be granted. On hearing of the original application Mr. Chamberlain refused to entertain the application for the variation because it had not been published, & he granted the original application in part only. On the application for a variation coming before Sir William Hart he refused to authorise additional vehicles because the evidence in support of the application for a variation was the same as the evidence on the original application, but he did authorise heavier vehicles. On the matter coming before the Appeal Tribunal they approved of what had been done both by Mr. Chamberlain & by Sir William Hart.—BARLOW v. LONDON & NORTH EASTERN & LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. 1580. —— Purchase of haulier's business—Application of 1933 Act, s. 11.]—A haulier using ten vehicles under an A licence contracted to purchase the business of another haulier, operating five vehicles under an A licence. The first haulier applied to vary his licence by the inclusion of the additional five vehicles :—Held : the case did not fall within sect. 11 (3) (b) of the Act. Para. (b) of subsect. (3) applies only to applications for licences, & not to applications for variations of licences.

A haulier purchasing another haulier's business & applying to vary his own A licence by the inclusion of the purchased vehicles must prove (1) that the vendor had a business as a public carrier ; (2) that the vendor's customers are ready & willing to give their work to the purchaser ; (3) that this work should be done under an A licence ; (4) that to do this work it is reasonably necessary for the purchaser to use the vendor's vehicles in addition to his own vehicles. In this case the fourth point had not been proved & the variation was refused.—BOSTON HAULAGE CO., LTD. v. SANDERSON & LONDON & NORTH EASTERN RY. CO. (1936), 24 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 107.

1581. —— —— ——.]—A haulier contracted to purchase the business of another haulier, including two vehicles. The vendor at that time owned no vehicles. The purchaser applied for an A licence for two vehicles to be acquired. After the application but before the public inquiry the vendor bought the two vehicles, obtained A licences for them, & transferred them to the purchaser :—Held : sect. 11 (3) (b) did not apply ; therefore the licensing authority was under a duty to hear an objector & the objector had a right of appeal under sect. 15 (1) (b). For sect. 11 (3) (b) to apply the vendor's licence must be in existence at the date of the purchaser's application.

For three months prior to the contract the vendor had owned no vehicles, & evidence as to hiring was vague. The licensing authority did not investigate the vendor's books & records, but granted the application : —Held : the principles of Boston Haulage Co., Ltd. & Sanderson, must be applied. The question whether the vendor had any business to dispose of, or whether the purchase was a device intended to prevent a public inquiry, had been insufficiently investigated. Application referred back to the licensing authority for the holding of a further public inquiry.—LONDON & NORTH EASTERN RY. CO. v. BUTLER & MARSHALL (1936), 24 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 144.

1582. —— Extension of area.]—A B licence was granted for the carriage of livestock within sixty miles of a place in Anglesey. 1584. —— Additional vehicles—When granted.]—Appcts. for B licences or variations who rely on an increase in gross receipts should present figures showing separately the gross receipts earned in carrying goods for hire or reward.

A ballast merchant & road haulier held a B licence for twenty-five vehicles for the first currency period. At its expiry he obtained a second licence for nineteen vehicles, the other six being at that time unfit for use. He now applied for the addition of six vehicles to his licence. He gave evidence of an increase in the gross receipts of his business & of an increase in hiring :—Held : on the facts, it was impossible to tell what portion of the gross receipts related to carrying for hire or reward & what related to the ballast business ; & the hiring figures could not properly be assessed since they must have been affected by the fact that six vehicles were at one time laid up although authorised.

Per Mr. Gleeson Robinson: A false statement made by appct.'s assistant manager to objectors, with a view to having objections withdrawn, is "previous conduct of appct. in the capacity of a carrier of goods," within sect. 6 (2) (b) of the Act.—DRINKWATER v. LONDON & NORTH EASTERN, LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH & GREAT WESTERN RY. 1589. —— —— ——.]—A co. applied for an A licence in continuation of an existing licence issued to a carrier whose business they had acquired. Mr. Nicholson gave notice of the application in Applications & Decisions, held a public inquiry, & heard objectors. On the evidence he held that the co. had not shown a need that justified their application, & he dismissed it:—Held: on appeal, although sect. 11 (3) (b) of the Act applied to the application, the licensing authority had power to notify it. He had power to hold a public inquiry, both under sect. 11 (5) & under the principles laid down in Board of Education v. Rice, [1907] A. C. 179, & Local Government Board v. Arlidge, [1915] A. C. 120. He had power to hear objectors, not as statutory objectors, but as persons making representations to assist him. In deciding such an application he was bound to have regard to all the matters set out in sect. 6 (2) of the Act. In this case the evidence justified the finding: appeal dismissed.

It is incorrect to refer to such an application as one "made under sect. 11 (3) (b) of the Act" or as one for "transfer of licence."—EX-ARMY TRANSPORT, LTD. v. DIAMOND & CO., LTD. (1936), 24 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 303.

Although under sect. 11 (2) of the Road & Rail Traffic Act, 1933, a statutory objector may object to the grant of a licence on the ground that any of the conditions of a licence held by appct. have not been complied with, it can only be in rare cases that an objector has knowledge whether or not breaches of conditions have taken place, & in the great majority of cases this knowledge will be that of the licensing authority only acquired by him in the course of his administrative duties under the Act. Consequently any such non-compliance may be properly considered by the licensing authority ex proprio motu suo. In such a case the licensing authority is not bound to hear direct evidence of non-compliance with the conditions. Where it is intended to take such matters into consideration it is better that written notice should be given to appct., but if sufficient oral notice has been given the fact that there was no written notice will not be a ground of appeal.—MOORE v. LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH & LONDON & NORTH EASTERN RY. 1593. —— Material time.]—A licensing authority dismissed an application for an A licence in substitution for an expiring licence upon the ground, inter alia, that appct.'s previous conduct in the capacity of a carrier of goods was such as to disentitle him to a licence. This previous conduct comprised the transaction under which appct. had obtained the vehicles with which he began business as a road haulier. On appeal:—Held: since at the time of the transaction in question appct. had not yet begun to be a carrier of goods, the conduct was not such as fell to be considered by a licensing authority under sect. 6 (2) (b) of the Act. Appeal allowed.

1596. Newcomer—Who is.]—(1) An appct. is a newcomer to the carrying business notwithstanding he was a partner in a firm of carriers before the basic year.

(2) Where a newcomer applies for a carrier's licence the burden of proof is on him to meet the objection under sect. 11 (2) of Road & Rail Traffic Act, 1933 (c. 53), that, if the application is granted, transport facilities will be in excess of requirements; & he must discharge that burden even if there are no objectors.—TICKLE v. LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH, GREAT WESTERN, & LONDON & NORTH EASTERN RY. COS. (1935), 23 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 88.

1597. —— ——.]—(1) Held: (1) by the Appeal Tribunal, an appct. who had been a partner in a firm of carriers from 1918 till May, 1933, & thereafter a carrier on his own account, was a newcomer to the carrier's business for the purpose of an application for a licence which he proposed to use for a carrying business of an entirely different character; (2) the evidence of the managing director of a co. of haulage contractors that there was a shortage of goods vehicles in the district proposed to be served by appct. did not make a primâ facie case that the work proposed to be done by the appct. could not for some reason or reasons be done by other existing carriers.—LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH & LONDON & NORTH EASTERN RY. COS. v. WILLIAMS (1935), 23 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 159.

1598. —— ——.]—On an application for an A licence for a vehicle to be normally used in R. & 100 miles around an objection was lodged on the ground that transport facilities were in excess of requirements. It was admitted on behalf of the objectors that if appct. would restrict himself within the limits of a B licence the objection could not possibly be sustained. Nevertheless the objection was allowed:—Held: by the Appeal Tribunal, an appct. who had been a carrier & haulage contractor except for the period from 1929 to 1933, when he went out of business for family reasons, was a newcomer to the carrying business.—CROMPTON v. LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. 1600. —— ——.]—An appct. for an A licence had been a carrier during the basic year. He had also had a coal business which, as the Comr. found, was always a very small part of his general business:—Held: in these circumstances appct. was a newcomer to the carrying business, because it appeared from his books that over the whole period of the basic year his vehicle was not used mainly for carriage for reward; the burden of proof was on appct. to establish that no other carrier could do the work which he proposed to continue to do; &, that burden not having been discharged, the licence should have been refused, notwithstanding there was no evidence to show that transport facilities in the district were in excess of requirements.—LONDON & NORTH EASTERN RY. CO. v. HAGAN (1935), 24 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 31.

1601. —— ——.]—(1) Sect. 5 (3) requires that, in the case of A & B licences, a separate application must be made in respect of each permanent base or centre from which the vehicles will be normally used, but permits the Comr. to grant a single licence in respect of such applications. A single application having been made for a B licence for two vehicles "for goods to be conveyed within a twenty-five miles radius of Ayr & Kilmarnock, from Bus Station, Ayr, & Bus Station, Kilmarnock":—Held: by Mr. Henderson, since Ayr & Kilmarnock are only ten miles apart one application was sufficient, but two licences ought to be granted. On the matter coming to the notice of the Appeal Tribunal they gave no decision on this point because no objection was taken to the form of the application.

(2) On an application for a B licence to carry parcels an objection that suitable transport facilities in the district intended to be served were already in excess of requirements was disallowed by Mr. Henderson because it was not supported by evidence:—Held: by the Appeal Tribunal, a co. which has been engaged in carrying parcels & passengers for many years is a newcomer to the carrying business & ought not to be granted a licence except upon proof of a primâ facie case that no other carrier could carry the parcels.—FERGUSON v. WESTERN S. M. T. CO., LTD. (1935), 24 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 72.

1602. —— ——.]—(1) A haulier who had operated during the basic year applied for an A licence. He claimed to have an equitable right to a licence because his delay had been due to inadvertence & ignorance:—Held: at this late stage an appct. claiming to have operated during the basic year must produce conclusive & fully corroborated evidence. Appct. must be treated as a newcomer.

(2) Evidence of work done by vehicles operating illegally is probably not receivable in support of an application—obiter.—BARKER v. LONDON & NORTH EASTERN & LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. COS. (1936), 24 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 161.

-.]—(1) A limited co. had two separate departments, one carrying on the business of building contractor, & the other carrying on that of haulage contractor. During the basic year the haulage department carried 21 per cent. of their tonnage for the building department, & the balance for outside customers. The co. applied for an A licence (partly claimed tonnage). This application was adjourned, & in the interval a new limited co. was formed which took over the haulage business of the older or parent co. The new co. applied for an A licence:—Held: in these special circumstances the new co. was to be regarded not as a newcomer & subject to the requirements of Enston's Case, but as successor to the haulage department of the parent co., & should be granted an A licence for such vehicles as were engaged during the basic year in carrying for customers other than the building depart-

On the evidence he had done so.

1606. —— ——.]—An operator under B licence ceased to carry on any business other than that of haulier. 1608. —— ——.]—Held : (1) the burden of proving an objection under sect. 11 (2) does not lie on the objector, but the burden of disproving the objection lies on appct. ; (2) the fact that a carrier has been compelled to hire vehicles to carry his customers' goods is no evidence that either his business or theirs has increased ; (3) in determining the number of vehicles to be authorised for a seasonal business of a carrier in a small way, the comr. should not have regard to the need for providing for occasions when vehicles are withdrawn from service for overhaul or repair, as appears to be required by sect. 6 (2) (d) of Road & Rail Traffic Act, 1933.—LONDON & NORTH EASTERN RY. 1615. —— Of goods & receipts during illegal user.]—(1) Hauliers operating a service from their Devon base to London applied for authorisation of two extra vehicles. These vehicles had been operated illegally without licence for four & five months respectively. Their case was based upon an increase in the business both of their Devon customers & of a London co. for whom they carried on return journeys :—Held : evidence of customers obtained, of goods carried, & of receipts earned during a period of illegal running must be ignored ; (2) if the holder of an A licence applies for the authorisation of extra vehicles to be normally used for carrying from a particular base, he must first prove a need for these vehicles to carry goods outward from that base. If he proves that need, evidence as to return loads may be helpful, though not, strictly speaking, necessary. If he does not prove that need, evidence as to return loads will not support his application. In this case appcts. had not been able to prove sufficient increase in business outward from their base ; evidence as to return loads did not therefore need to be considered.—MOSS BROS. v. SOUTHERN RY. 1619. —— Rights of objectors.]—An appct. for additional tonnage put in letters from his customers. The texts of these were read at the public inquiry but the names of the writers were not read or disclosed to the objectors. Appct. could not give evidence as to his tonnage at the inquiry, but subsequently submitted a written statement of tonnage to Mr. Chamberlain, who then granted the application :—Held : (1) where a party relies on the contents of documents, the opposing parties are entitled to see those documents ; (2) objectors should have been given the opportunity of commenting upon the statement of tonnage. The proceedings were unsatisfactory : appeal allowed.

If important information is promised to a licensing authority, he should adjourn the public inquiry for its reception at a later hearing.—LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH & LONDON & NORTH EASTERN RY. COS. v. (1936), 25 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 37.

1620. —— Of refusal of traffic—Necessity for strict proof.]—An allegation that an objector has refused traffic should be strictly proved.

Hauliers applied for an extension of the radius prescribed in their B licence. They were employed as sub-contractors by C., a road haulier, to carry bricks for the M. Co. C. gave evidence of the M. Co.'s need, & stated that railway co. objectors were not meeting that need, as a result of which the M. Co. had had to acquire vehicles of their own under C. licence :—Held : on the facts, that need had not been proved. The relations between the M. Co. & the objectors should have been proved by some official of the M. Co. & not by C.'s evidence, which was hearsay.—LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. CO. v. BOTTERILL & SONS (1936), 25 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 72.

But where such a vehicle was handed over in part payment for another vehicle under a hire-purchase agreement, possession of the second vehicle during the basic year could confer the right to claimed tonnage.

(2) A licensing authority granted an application for an A licence in respect of two vehicles, claimed tonnage, but doubted whether the appct. was the owner of the vehicles :—Held : the objector had a right to appeal.—SOUTHERN COUNTIES ROAD TRANSPORT CO., LTD. v. HAZELL (1936), 24 Ry. & Can. 1623. Motor vehicle substituted for horse-drawn—What amounts to.]—Held : (1) where a carrier sold a barge which was towed by a horse, & bought a motor car, this was a case of a motor vehicle being substituted for a horse-drawn vehicle within sect. 6 (2) (e).

(2) Objectors who had called no evidence in support of their objection were permitted to appeal to the Appeal Tribunal under the provisions of sect. 15 (1) (b) on the grounds that the evidence given by appct. in support of his application was untrue, that the objectors had not been in a position to refute such evidence, & that appct. had made no primâ facie case that the work he proposed to do could not be done by other carriers. The Appeal Tribunal, being satisfied that the evidence of appct. had been untrue, allowed the appeal.—LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. CO. v. ABRAM (1935), 23 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 153.

(2) Mr. Henderson published the application, held a public inquiry, & heard objectors : —Held : the licensing authority was justified in taking these steps in order to ascertain whether sect. 11 (3) (b) applied. He was entitled to hear any representations made to him on that subject. 1629. Agreement to permit operation of vehicles in name of licensee—Validity.]—Pltf. who was entitled by virtue of sect. 7 (2) to obtain as of right A licences in respect of goods vehicles up to a certain tonnage, did not wish to use those vehicles himself. He entered into an agreement with defts., whereby, in consideration of a money payment by defts., defts. were to be entitled to operate the vehicles in pltf.'s name, under pltf.'s licences, which could not, by sect. 21 of the Act, be transferred or assigned by him to defts. The present action was brought by pltf. to recover the sum payable under the agreement :—Held : although the agreement did not purport to transfer or assign pltf.'s licences, it could not be carried into effect without the commission by defts. of a criminal offence under sect. 1, since defts. would be using vehicles in respect of which they had no licence. Nor could pltf., who had licences, but was not the person using the vehicles within sect. 1, comply with the requirements of sect. 16 by keeping, or causing to be kept, the records therein mentioned. If an objector does not follow that form his objection is invalid.

Objectors who were road hauliers gave no particulars of their transport facilities in the notices of objection, nor did they state what licences they held:—Held: the notices of objection were invalid, consequently the licensing authority was not bound to take them into consideration & the objectors had no right of appeal.

SECT. 2.—APPEALS.

1639. When appeal lies—Appeal from agreed condition.]—(1) The Appeal Tribunal will not entertain an appeal from a condition to which the applt. himself has agreed.

Right of audience—Officer of association—Meaning of "association."]—The Appeal Tribunal certified an assocn. to be "an assocn. representing a substantial number of persons interested in or likely to be affected by the decisions of the Tribunal," & accordingly granted right of audience to an officer of the assocn. under Road & Rail Traffic Act, 1933

(Appeal Tribunal) Rules, 1934, r. 11 (2) (a). It was subsequently ascertained that the name of the assocn. had been registered under Registration of Business Names Act, 1916 (c. 58), as the business name of the secretary of the assocn.; that the assocn. had no banking account separate from the private banking account of the secretary; & that although by the rules of the assocn. its government was vested in an executive committee of whom a president was to be a member, no president had in fact been elected. The assocn. had 182 members:—Held: the assocn. was not an assocn. in the ordinary meaning of the word. The body of persons whom the secretary represented was not an assocn. or body of persons within rule 11 (2) (a).—Re SUSSEX CARRIERS' ASSOCN. (1935), 24 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 64.

1659. —— —— ——.]—Mr. Chamberlain allowed an objection that traffic facilities in the district were in excess of requirements upon proof that the objector had four cars of which only one was in use because there was no work for the other three. On appeal, the Appeal Tribunal admitted new evidence to show that these three cars were out of use because they were mechanically unfit, but refused to admit new evidence to show that since the decision of the Comr. the traffic needs of the district had been increased by the reopening of certain quarries & the decision of the county council to proceed with a large scheme of road reconstruction. On appeal to the Appeal Tribunal he endeavoured to show that he was entitled to a B licence to carry milk from places within ten miles of Wrenbury to Manchester & other goods back from Manchester to those places. The Appeal Tribunal referred the case back to the licensing authority for re-hearing.—HARDEN v. LONDON, MIDLAND & SCOTTISH RY. CO. (1935), 23 Ry. & Can. Tr. Cas. 71.

1662. —— —— Evidence of applicant.]—An appct. carrying on a hardware & scrap business applied for a B licence to enable him to carry return loads from Leeds to Glasgow for hire or reward. At the inquiry his solr. stated that the return loads were provided by appct.'s own customers, but appct. himself stated in cross-examination that he obtained these loads from clearing-houses. Mr. Henderson accepted the solr.'s statement & granted the application. In these circumstances the Appeal Tribunal called appct. to give evidence before them. It then appeared that the return loads were carried only for one or other of two clearing-houses:—Held: the case was governed by the decision in Barratt's Case, & since no exceptional circumstances existed the application must be refused. 1670. ——.]—(1) Held: on an application by resps. to strike out applts.' grounds of appeal, on an appeal by an objector, (1) the Appeal Tribunal has jurisdiction to review a licensing authority's findings of fact; (2) an applt. may raise any point relevant to the issues as to whether suitable transport facilities exist or are in excess of requirements; (3) an applt. may argue that a licensing authority wrongly exercised his discretion because it had been established before him that suitable transport facilities existed or were in excess of requirements. In this case the grounds of appeal sufficiently indicated a case which applts. were entitled to make; (4) it is doubtful whether the Appeal Tribunal has power to strike out a ground of appeal.

(5) A haulage co. operating twenty-four vehicles under an A licence, claimed tonnage, applied for the authorisation of extra vehicles:—Held: having regard to the size of the fleet, one extra vehicle should be authorised for maintenance purposes. As to other extra vehicles, the evidence was insufficient. The failure of a pooling scheme is not evidence of need for additional vehicles. —FOUR AMALGAMATED RY. COS. v. FOSTER & CO., LTD. The German Govt. had notified its willingness to accept the legacy if it should be held to be valid; General Smuts had also expressed his willingness to accept the alternative trust should it become effective. Upon a summons asking the ct. to determine whether the devise & bequest to the German Govt. was void for uncertainty or otherwise: wise:—Held: (1) the gift did not fail for uncertainty; (2) there was no objection to the gift from the point of view of public policy; (3) the trustee being abroad, the ct. had no power to direct a scheme, & in such cases the practice was to hand over the fund to be applied according to the trusts of the will.

sb. "Wounded & disabled soldiers" —"Home for wounded sailors."]—Testatrix, by a will executed in 1921, directed her trustees to pay out of the moneys representing her net residuary estate (inter alia) "To the Wounded & Disabled Soldiers of New Zealand the sum of four hundred pounds," & "To a home for Wounded Sailors of the British Empire the sum of one hundred pounds." (All parties agreed that the latter was a good charitable gift):—Held: as the gift to "the Wounded & Disabled Soldiers of New Zealand" was not to individuals but to a section of the public, it was a charitable gift; &, although it was a gift direct, the absence of anything directly constituting a trust was immaterial as the ct. could constitute the trust; the gifts to "a home for Wounded Sailors of the British Empire" disclosed a general intention in favour of charity, & did not fail because the object of such gift might be uncertain.—Re SIMMONDS, PUBLIC TRUSTEE v. STONE, [1933] N. was to be lent in any one year, & the borrowers were to be inhabitants or residents of F. not above the age of thirty-five years. Testator directed that " all surplus money forming part of or arising from the ' Loans Fund ' over & above £500 & not required for loans shall be invested by the trustees under the direction of the committee, but all investments purchased shall be from time to time sold for the purpose of advancing the produce thereof in loans if & when required " :—Held : (1) the will displayed a general charitable intention & contained an immediate & effective gift of the whole of the residue to charity, displacing the claim of the next of kin ; (2) the question of accumulation beyond the period allowed by law did not arise, the possibility of a surplus hereafter not impairing the validity of the immediate gift to charity ; (3) the doctrine of cy-près could be at once applied, if necessary, to any surplus income after the period allowed by law for accumulation had expired. — Re MONK, GIFFEN v. WEDD, [1927] 2 Ch. 197 ; 96 L. 47a. Nursing home—Persons of moderate means—Gift charitable.]—Testator made the following gift in his will : " I give & bequeath all the residue & remainder of my estate not otherwise disposed of by this my will to : (a) such institution, society or nursing home, or nursing homes, or similar institutions as assist or provide for persons of moderate means such as clerks, governesses & others who may not be able or eligible to benefit under the National Health Insurance Act, Old Age Pensions, or other Act of a like character to have either surgical operations performed together with medical treatment or medical treatment alone on payment of some moderate contribution ; (b) the Royal National Lifeboat Institution ; (c) the Lister Institute of Preventive Medicine ; (d) & such other funds, charities & institutions as the exors. in their absolute discretion shall think fit ; & I direct that such residue shall by divided amongst the legatees named in the paragraphs (a), (b), (c), & (d) lastly hereinbefore contained in such shares & proportions as my trustees shall determine." It was admitted that the objects under (b) & (c) were charitable. On the question whether the residue was validly disposed of by the will or failed in whole or in part for uncertainty :—Held : (1) the objects included under paragraph (a) were charitable since the means of the recipients would necessitate their being unable without the bounty of testator to procure the treatment of which they might stand in need ; (2) the objects specified under heading (d) being for such indefinite charitable & non-charitable objects as the exors. should think fit were not exclusively charitable, & therefore though a trust for charitable & non-charitable indefinite purposes indiscriminately failed by reason of uncertainty, this trust being of a part of a fund for charitable purposes & another part for non-charitable indefinite purposes the ct. could ascertain what the parts were.—Re CLARKE, BRACEY v. ROYAL NATIONAL LIFEBOAT INSTITUTION, [1923] 2 Ch. 407 ; 92 L. 47c. —— Sisters of a Community & Clergy—Valid.]—Testatrix devised a freehold house to her trustees in trust to establish a Home of Rest for the Sisters of a Community, for the Clergy of the Diocese of Truro, & such persons as the Mother Superior of the Community should nominate & appoint, & bequeathed £6,000, the interest of which should be applied to repair the house & maintain & support the inmates. The Sisters of the Community were engaged on charitable work & their individual incomes were pooled. It was doubtful whether it was practicable to carry on the Home of Rest with the resources available :—Held : (1) the devise & bequest were a good charitable trust ; (2) the Sisters & the Clergy were good objects of a charity ; (3) the Mother Superior should only appoint persons who were suitable objects of a charity, & to do otherwise would be a breach of trust ; (4) there should be an inquiry in Chambers whether it would be practicable now or at any future time to establish the Home of Rest, & if so to settle a scheme ; (5) & if it was found not practicable the question must be determined whether the trust failed or should be applied cy-près.—Re JAMES, GRENFELL v. HAMILTON, [1932] 2 Ch. 25 ; 101 L. 47d. —— For means of physical & mental recuperation—Valid.]—Testator devised & bequeathed to his trustees a freehold house, its contents, & funds representing the net residue of his estate upon trust to establish & found a charity " to provide a Home of Rest that shall afford the means of physical &/or mental recuperation to persons in need of rest by reason of the stress & strain caused or partly caused by the conditions in which they ordinarily live &/or work." The same clause provided that the trustees should apply to the ct. or the Charity Comrs. for a scheme in respect of the charity & also specified testator's further wishes with regard to the charity, but provided that if the ct., the Charity Comrs., or the trustees considered those wishes in any respects impracticable or difficult to realise, in those respects they were not to be regarded as binding on or fettering the discretion of the ct. the Charity Comrs., or the trustees in the provision or alteration of a scheme. One of those wishes, expressed also in the same clause, was that in considering the suitability of a candidate for admission to the home the candidate's financial position should not be taken into account; another was that persons admitted might be required to pay according to their means for board, lodging & other benefits &, where reasonably possible, for medical attendance & treatment, for which, however, the funds of the home might be drawn upon at the trustees' discretion:—Held: these were valid charitable trusts.—Re CHAPLIN, NEAME v. A.-G., [1933] Ch. 115; 102 L. 68a. Advancement of Christian principles.]—H. died on July 12, 1922, having made his will on May 24, 1921, in which he directed that the residue of his estate, about £13,000, should be paid to certain persons to be held by them upon certain trusts as follows: "Whereas I believe in the universality of the Christian religion & that the remedy for the unrest & disorders of the body politic will be found in the application of Christian principles to all human relationships. & whereas I believe the drink traffic to be one of the most subtle & effective forces in preventing the successful application of these principles & I therefore hope & trust that active steps will be taken to minimise & ultimately extinguish this enemy of my country's welfare. Now therefore I declare it to be my wish that my general beneficiaries shall hold the whole of my residuary trust estate together with the income thereof in spreading the Christian principles before mentioned & in aiding all active steps to minimise & extinguish the drink traffic." The public trustee issued a summons to have it determined whether that gift in the will constituted a valid charitable trust or whether the gift so far as given for the minimising of the drink traffic was not charitable & therefore the whole gift was invalid & the next of kin became entitled. The judge held that the gift was a good charitable gift. On appeal by the next of kin:—Held: the first recital in the gift was the dominant clause showing that the main object was the advancement of Christian principles with a suggestion as to a particular method by which the advancement could be furthered & that method was subsidiary & ancillary, therefore the whole gift was a good charitable gift, being one for the advancement of Christian principles.

70a. Zoology—Zoological Society of London—Valid.]—The objects of the Zoological Society of London as defined by its Charter are "the advancement of zoology & animal physiology & the introduction of new & curious subjects of the animal kingdom":—Held: the first object was clearly educational & the second object, being on construction merely in aid of the first, was also educational &, semble, it was educational in itself. The Society was therefore an educational charity, although in carrying out its objects it was found necessary to provide its pupils with food & amusement. The second object necessitated & involved the upkeep & improvement of Zoological Gardens. Consequently a bequest of money to the Society upon trust to apply the income for "the upkeep & improvement of the Zoological Gardens, & for the objects of the said Society," was a good charitable gift & not void for perpetuity.—Re LOPES, BENCE, JONES v. ZOOLOGICAL SOCIETY OF LONDON-[1931] 2 Ch. 130; 100 L. 73a. —— Trust to erect national theatre—& revive English classical drama—Valid.]—(1) The Shakespeare Memorial Trust was established to erect & endow a Shakespeare Memorial National Theatre, with the object of performing Shakespeare's plays, reviving English classical drama, & stimulating the art of acting:—Held: the trust was a good charitable trust, on the ground either that the objects were for the advancement of education or that they came within the class of purposes beneficial to the community other than by way of the relief of poverty or the advancement of education or religion referred to by LORD MACNAGHTEN in Income Tax Special Purposes Comrs. v. Pemsel, [1891] A. C. 531.

(2) At the time when a donation of £70,000 was made to the charity, part of which was applied by the charity in the purchase of a site for the theatre, no annual subscription had been received, but within only nine days of that time the first annual subscription was received. On the subsequent sale of the site, the question arose whether, in those circumstances, the consent of the Charity Comrs. was required to the sale by the charity:—Held: notwithstanding that in the inception of its formation it was contemplated that the charity should be supported by annual subscriptions as well as by income from endowment, & notwithstanding that there was an interval of nine days only between the donation & the first of the annual subscriptions, the charity was not at the time when the donation was received a mixed charity within 1853 Act, s. 62; & as it was, therefore, not exempted from the jurisdiction of the Charity Comrs., their consent to the sale by the charity was required.—Re SHAKESPEARE MEMORIAL TRUST, LYTTON (EARL) v. A.-G., [1923] 2 Ch. 389; 92 L. 73b. Bequest to provide sweets—For all children within parish—Not confined to those attending school—Not valid.]—Testator by his will, after leaving money for prizes for the best-conducted school children in the parish, left money to provide "a pennyworth of sweets each for all boys & girls below the age of fourteen resident within the parish," & he directed that the income of the residue of his estate should be applied in awarding annual prizes to residents for the best-kept gardens & cottages:—Held: since there was no provision as to the gift of sweets being confined to children who had attended school, that gift was not charitable & was void, but the gift to provide prizes for the best-kept gardens & cottages was a good charitable gift as it was one for the benefit of the community.—Re PLEASANTS, PLEASANTS v. A.-G. 75a. ——.]—Testator by his will, wherein he described himself as a Clerk in Holy Orders, gave all his property to the Public Trustee upon trust for investment. He then directed that the income should be paid to the Bishops of the dioceses of St. D. & B., the rector of L. & the vicars of two other parishes & their successors, together with a layman appointed by the conference of each of those dioceses, whom he nominated administrative trustees. After stating that his wife left her interest in certain property to him to be used as he wished, but for preference for Church purposes, testator, in expressed accordance with her wish, by clause 3, devised all he should die possessed of as a fund for assisting the education of candidates for Holy Orders in the Church of England, to be administered by the trustees. Clause 12 contained the following proviso: "If for any sufficient reason, whether disendowment may or may not have taken place, the trustees decide that the interests of the Church could be better served by any changes in the method of administering, or even in the object to which the fund is applied under my will, such change or changes may be made with the several consents expressed by a majority of the Diocesan Conferences of B. & St. D.":—Held: the objects to which the trustees were, by clause 12, empowered to change the application of the fund were not other than charitable objects & were religious objects in the interests of the Church as an organisation existing for the instruction & edification of the public, & the gift in clause 3 was a valid charitable gift.—Re WILLIAMS, PUBLIC TRUSTEE v. WILLIAMS, [1927] 2 Ch. 283; 96 L. Testatrix by her will dated Sept. 7, 1903, gave the residue of all her property, after the death of G., to whom she had given a life interest, in the following terms: "To the Superior of the Jesuit Church of the Immaculate Conception, Farm Street, London, to the Superior of that Church at the moment of the legacy falling due, & failing him to any other representative Father of the Order of the Society of Jesus . . . 81a. Upkeep of chapel & school—Includes maintenance of services & Sunday school.]—A testator by his will, after giving certain specific legacies including one of £50 to the K. H. Baptist Chapel, directed that a trust be created with the remainder of his personal & real estate "for the payment from the income thereof of the following legacies, viz., £25 per annum to M. L., £100 per annum to J. L., & the balance of the income to be divided equally between my two sisters C. P. & M. H. . . . On the death of the last surviving legatee under the trust I direct that the income be devoted to the upkeep of the K. H. Baptist Chapel & school & for the provision of prizes for the scholars of both sexes." A summons was taken out to determine (i) whether the gift was a good & valid bequest of the whole of the residuary estate or whether it failed to any & what extent. The only school attached to the K. H. Baptist church was a Sunday school in connection with which book prizes were awarded. It was contended that such a school was not what testator had in mind, & that, even if it was, the upkeep of the chapel & school would not exhaust the income of the residuary estate the capital of which amounted to some £29,500, with the result that the balance of the income which was not used for that purpose must be held to be undisposed of by the will; (ii) how, in view of the fact that, at the date of the summons, the testator's two sisters, both of whom had survived the testator, had both died, the income of the testator's estate thereby set free should be disposed of until the death of the survivor of the other annuitants, M. L. & J. L.:—Held: (1) there was a good charitable bequest of the whole of the testator's residuary estate in favour of the K. H. Baptist Chapel & school & the word school included Sunday school; (2) the personal representatives of testator's two sisters were entitled to the surplus of the income, after providing for the annuities to M. L. & J. L., until the survivor of M. L. & J. L. had died; (3) "upkeep" of the chapel did not mean merely keeping the premises in repair, but included all the expenses necessarily incurred in providing the chapel services & maintaining, in a broad sense, the Sunday school.—Re STRICKLAND'S WILL TRUSTS, NATIONAL GUARANTEE & SURETYSHIP ASSOCN., LTD. v. MAIDMENT, [1936] 3 All E. 106a. —— ——.]—A Roman Catholic testator by his will bequeathed "£1,000 for Masses, foundation & others" & also devoted four houses "for one foundation Mass to be said for my soul & the souls of my parents & relatives during the space of twenty-five years," & directed that the property should revert to a named church. Evidence was given that by a "foundation Mass" was intended a Mass the saying of which was to be paid for out of the interest of an invested fund, so that unless the gift was charitable it would be void for perpetuity:—Held: a gift for the saying of Masses is charitable as being for the advancement of religion (a) because it enables a ritual act to be performed which is the central act of the religion of a large proportion of Christian people, & (b) because it assists in the endowment of priests whose duty it is to perform the act.—Re CAUS, LINDEBOOM v. CAMILLE, [1934] Ch. 162; 103 L. 213b. Provision of public recreation for working-class people—Valid.]—Testator by his will dated Apr. 30, 1929, gave the residue of his estate to trustees upon trust to make certain payments thereout &, by clause 14 of his will, directed that they should hold the ultimate residue "to be expended in some scheme or schemes to be approved by my trustees for the benefit in the cities of Vancouver, & if in the opinion of my trustees there is some equally deserving object of the nature hereinafter indicated of Nottingham or other places of the working people such as playing fields parks gymnasiums or other plans which will give recreation to as many people as possible but as regards Vancouver I would not exclude some educational purpose being considered by my trustees." By a preceding clause, clause 13, testator had made a disposition of certain moneys, in certain events, in the following terms: "Upon trust for any scheme to be approved by my trustees of a national character excluding hospitals & works of an educational character. Without binding my trusiees I would prefer a scheme which would give open-air recreation to as large a number of ople as possible." Testator died on Feb. 14, 1931, leaving ultimate residue of the value of about £35,000:—Held: (1) upon the true construction of the will, the dominant object of testator was the health & welfare of the working classes, & the benefits authorised by clause 14 were the supply of healthy recreation, mainly in the open air & in particular by providing playing fields, parks & gymnasiums; & (2) through legislative recognition indicated by Mortmain & Charitable Uses Act, 1888 (c. 42), s. 6, of the dedication of land to the public for recreation as a charitable object, the provision of means for public recreation was a charitable object within "the meaning, purview & interpretation" of the preamble to the 43 Eliz. c. 4. sk. Superannuation fund for employees.]—An incorporated trading co. had set aside certain moneys to be held by trustees with the object of providing individual personal benefits, allowances & provisions to persons who had been, were, or might become its employees. It was contemplated by the trust instrument that employees might make contributions to the fund available for these purposes. No period was fixed for the duration of the trusts, nor was any distinction drawn in the instrument between employees who were in needy or affluent circumstances. Voting power was given to members subject to the votes varying according to the amount of salary received. The deed also provided that the fund was not to be regarded as relieving members from the duty of making provision for those dependent on them : —Held : the trust was in favour of a fluctuating body of individuals & not an appreciably important class of the community, & the trust was not a valid charitable gift.—Re HARRIS SCARFE, LTD., [1935] S. (2) The general rule is clear that if you are making a will you must declare your wishes, & not leave it in wide & uncertain terms to some one else to make a will for you. Special treatment is meted out to a gift for charitable purposes, & in that case the cts. have recognised that it is open to a testator who declares a charitable purpose to leave it to his trustees to select the particular charities for whose benefit his fund is to be applied. 769b. Gift for maintenance & upkeep of masonic temple—Residue to masonic charities—Whole gift void.]—By a codicil to his will testator directed his exors., on the death of his wife, to pay from his estate to the trustees of a masonic temple, erected by him to the memory of his son, £10,000, to be invested & the interest applied by the trustees, in their full & sole discretion, to the maintenance & upkeep of the masonic temple, & the balance, if any, to be applied in favour of any masonic charities which the trustees might select. The masonic temple was to be used for masonic ceremonies, & smaller rooms for lodge meetings, business & meetings of a social but not political character. Upon a summons to ascertain whether the legacy was valid or not :—Held : (1) the decisions in the "tomb cases" were inapplicable; (2) the whole income of the fund being charged with a trust, at the discretion of the trustees, for a primary object which was invalid, the ct. was not entitled to control this discretion, & institute an inquiry at chambers as to the amount of income necessary to be applied for maintenance & upkeep of the temple, so that the gift of the balance would be valid; (3) as the primary gift was not sufficiently defined, the whole legacy was void for uncertainty.—Re PORTER, PORTER v. PORTER, [1925] Ch. 746; 95 L. 823a. —— Description not confined to charitable purposes — Description having particular meaning in religious denomination to which testator belonged.]—In construing gifts of recent date, evidence is not admissible to show that words having a clear ordinary meaning were used in a special narrower sense.

Testator, a member of the "Brethren," or "Plymouth Brethren," by his will left all his property, subject to a life interest, to his widow, to be divided into two equal parts, one for his sons, & the other for his trustees "to distribute between the various good works which I & my wife have been in the habit of assisting. . . ." After the widow's death this summons was taken out to determine whether that direction created a good charitable trust. Affidavits were tendered to the effect that among the "Brethren" "good works" was a phrase in common use to indicate works distinctly religious, i.e. Christian, & suggesting that testator had used it in that sense :—Held : there was no evidence of the significance with which the testator had used the words, & the statement as to their use among the "Brethren" was not evidence of constant use in such a sense as would exclude non-religious charitable objects.—Re How, How v. How, [1930] 1 Ch. 66; 99 L. After certain other directions the will continued, "I direct that any money left unexpended after the erection & completion of the said monument to be paid to the treasurer of the Children's Hospital, Camperdown . . ." :—Held : the special rule in the class of cases known as the "tomb cases" applied, &, therefore, the primary gifts for the erection of the monument & for the perpetual care of the ground having failed, the whole of the residuary fund was applicable to deft. charity.—POOLEY v. ROYAL ALEXANDRA HOSPITAL FOR CHILDREN (1932), 32 S. sz. " Orphanages."]—After certain gifts testator directed that " the balance of my estate shall be equally divided : Salvation Army Rescue Home ; Home for Incurables, Fullerton ; South Australian Protestant Orphanages ; Minda Home." There was one institution in South Australia whose rules provided for the care of orphans of a particular denomination ; there were also other institutions whose rules enabled them to receive not only orphans but other children whose condition needed relief. All these institutions, including the first-named, as a practice received children other than orphans :—Held : whether an institution was or was not an orphanage was a question of fact, & both the rules & practice of the institution were to be considered. An orphanage is an institution where the main or primary purpose which it is actually fulfilling is to provide & care for orphaned children. The orphanages took one-fourth of the residue of the estate, to be divided equally between them.—Re DODSON, [1931] S. A. S. R. 387.—AUS.

As to the bequest to "the Trustees of the T. 912a. —— —— —— ——.]—Testatrix by her will dated Sept. 22, 1924, directed her exors. to sell the residue of her property & to pay the proceeds to the Margate Cottage Hospital. At the time she made her will there was a hospital of that name, an unincorporated body, to the funds of which testatrix was a subscriber. About the year 1926, a fund was opened for the purpose of purchasing a new site & building a larger hospital, to which testatrix was also a contributor. At the time of testatrix's death on Oct. 19, 1930, the work formerly carried on at the Margate Cottage Hospital, including the medical & nursing staff & the patients, had been transferred to & was carried on at the new hospital, called the " Margate & District General Hospital," which had been opened on July 3, 1930. The invested funds held by trustees for the Margate Cottage Hospital & the income thereof were dealt with by the same trustees for the purposes of the new hospital:—Held: the real intention of testatrix was to add the proceeds of sale of her residuary estate to the funds dedicated to the purposes of the Margate Cottage Hospital, &, accordingly, there was a valid charitable bequest of those moneys to which the next of kin of testatrix had no title.

980a. Charity for orphans of Established Church—Effect of Welsh Disestablishment—Children of Welsh clergy entitled.]—A charity formed in 1749 was incorporated by Act of Parliament in 1809. Its object was to maintain & educate poor orphans of clergymen of the Church of England. Owing to the disestablishment of the Church in Wales doubts arose whether the corpn. had power to continue its work among the poor orphans of clergymen in Wales & Monmouthshire, & a summons was issued to obtain a decision of the ct. on the point:—Held: there was nothing in Welsh Church Act, 1914 (c. 91), or the Welsh Church (Temporalities) Act, 1919 (c. 65), that interfered with the power of the corpn. to maintain & educate poor orphans of clergymen in Wales & Monmouthshire.—Re CLERGY ORPHAN CORPN. 981d. Trust for Bishoprics in connection with Church of England—Bishopric at Cape Town.] —In 1841 certain resolutions were agreed to by the clergy & laity in this country at a meeting convened by the Archbishop of Canterbury to raise a fund for the endowment of Bishoprics in the Colonies, the fundamental object being to found & endow Bishoprics in connection with the Church of England. Among the Colonies selected was the Cape of Good Hope. In 1847 a large sum was given to the fund, & amongst the specific purposes mentioned for its application was the endowment of a Bishopric at Cape Town. In June, 1847, a Bishop's Diocese was created for the Cape of Good Hope by Letters Patent, & Cape Town was constituted a Bishop's See. The Bishop appointed was to be under the Metropolitical See of Canterbury. In 1849 part of the fund was invested on mtge. in the Colony & part laid out in the purchase of an estate in Cape Town for the use of the Bishop. In the year 1850, a representative Legislature was granted to Cape Colony, & in 1853 by fresh Letters Patent a separate See of Cape Town was created. In 1864, as the result of disputes concerning the effect of the Letters Patent of 1853, it was decided by the Privy Council in Re the Lord Bishop of Natal (1864), 3 Moo. P. C. (N. S.) 115, that as there was an independent legisative assembly in the Colony at the date when the Letters Patent of 1853 were granted, there was no power in the Crown by virtue of its prerogative to establish a Metropolitan See or Province whose status the Colony could be required to recognise. As a result in Feb. 1870, the Church of the Province of South Africa was constituted on a consensual basis. In 1882, following further disputes, the Privy Council decided in Merriman v. Williams (1882), 7 App. Cas. 484, that the Church of the Province of South Africa was not a Church in connection with the Church of England as by law established. Having regard to the fact that the present Archbishop of Cape Town was not a Bishop of the Church of England or of a Church in connection with the Church of England but was a Bishop of the Church of the Province of South Africa; & the doubt felt how the income of the fund should be dealt with, an originating summons was taken out by the present trustees of the fund raised in 1841 for the determination of the question how the income of the fund allocated to the endowment of a Bishopric at Cape Town should be applied, & whether the present Archbishop of Cape Town would be beneficially entitled to the income of the investments in this country held by the fund & set apart for the endowment of a Bishopric of Cape Town :—Held : (1) as it had been established that the present Archbishop of Cape Town was not a Bishop of the Church of England as by law established but a Bishop of the consensual Church of the Province of South Africa, which was, however, in communion with the Church of England, he was not a beneficiary of the funds in this country set apart for the endowment of the Bishopric of Cape Town. The question of a cy-près application of the fund thereupon arose; (2) therefore, as the fund in question & the trustees were in this country, & the trusts relating to it established here, the ct. had jurisdiction to order a scheme cy-près : & the proper order was first to declare that on the true construction of the resolutions, the original trusts which affected the property were for the endowment of a Bishopric of Cape Town in connection with the Church of England, & those trusts had become impracticable; & then to direct the trustees in this country to pay the income in question now in their hands to the Archbishop of Cape Town for the time being appointed & recognized by the Church of the Province of South Africa, but only so long as that Church remained, in the Archbishop of Canterbury's opinion, in communion with the Church of England.—Re COLONIAL BISHOPRICS FUND, 1841, [1935] Ch. 148; 104 L. 1041a. —— Condition subsidiary to main charitable object—Performance of condition likely to defeat main charitable object—Condition dispensed with.]—Testatrix, who died in 1889, bequeathed £1,500 towards an endowment for a proposed evangelical church at B., provided certain conditions were carried out. An action was commenced for the administration of her estate, & on the further consideration thereof on Nov. 3, 1891, it appeared that amongst other conditions, which mainly related to the conduct of the services, it was made an " abiding condition " that the black gown should be worn in the pulpit, unless there should be an alteration in the law rendering it illegal. It further appeared that in compliance with the conditions a church had been erected at B. & the other conditions laid down by testatrix fulfilled, except the condition as to wearing a black gown, which condition was held by the judge to be a continuing condition, but not an illegal one ; & accordingly, the fund was carried over to the credit of the action, the separate account of " the £1,500 endowment fund for the proposed B. church," with liberty for the incumbent & all persons interested to apply as to the capital or income thereof. This petition was presented by the present incumbent asking that under a scheme or otherwise the fund in ct. might be transferred to the Ecclesiastical Comrs. Evidence was adduced that the use of the black gown in the pulpit was practically unknown in the diocese of the new church, & that its use was calculated to alienate the congregation & to defeat the main objects of testatrix, namely, the teaching & practice of evangelical doctrine & services :—Held : the condition requiring the wearing of a black gown in the pulpit was subsidiary to the main charitable object, namely, the endowment of an evangelical church at B., & as the performance thereof had been shown to be impracticable the condition might be dispensed with & the fund be transferred to the Ecclesiastical Comrs. as part of the endowment of the church so erected as aforesaid.—Re ROBINSON, WRIGHT v. TUGWELL, [1923] 2 Ch. 332 ; 92 L. Direction for accumulation—Discretion of trustees.]—The expression in a will of a wish that " the interest upon my investments may be allowed to accumulate . . ." followed by an indication of the charitable objects to which the accumulations are to be devoted does not bind the trustees of the will. But it is a directory provision ; & the trustees ought to bear it in mind & generally to use their discretion so as to give effect to it.

A will, after certain bequests, including a bequest of residue in trust for " the Trustees of the S.M. Charities," expressed a wish of testator that " the income upon my investments may be allowed to accumulate for a period of twenty-one years or so long as the law will allow," & then set out various charitable objects in the town of S. which testator desired should thereafter benefit by such income only :—Held : the wish as to accumulation was not binding, but was in the circumstances a directory provision to which regard should be had in settling a scheme.—Re KNAPP, SPRECKLEY v. A.-G., [1929] 1 Ch. 341 ; 98 L. 1395b. Non-existence of object—Reference to "treasurer."—By her will a testatrix gave her residuary personal estate to the Berwick-upon-Tweed Infirmary, the Newcastle-upon-Tyne Infirmary, the Newcastle-upon-Tyne Nursing Home, & Doctor Barnardo's Homes London, in equal shares; & she directed that the receipt of the treasurer for the time being of the aforesaid institutions should be a sufficient discharge to her executor for payment of the aforesaid legacies.

No institution having been found which correctly answered the description of the "Newcastle-upon-Tyne Nursing Home," & doubts having arisen as to how the gift of this one-quarter share of residue should be disposed of, an originating summons was taken out by the exor. of the will for the purpose of determining (inter alia) the question whether certain of defts. (being institutions which seemed most nearly to correspond to the particular institution referred to in the will), namely, the Northumberland County Nursing Assocn., the Newcastle Private Hospital & Nurses' Home (a private nurses' home whereof two of defts., A. M. F. & S. L. P., were proprietors), the Cathedral Nursing Society for the Sick Poor of Newcastle-upon-Tyne (of which another deft., F. C. C., was treasurer) or any other body, society or institution was entitled to the particular one-fourth share in the residuary personal estate of the testatrix in question, or whether such share devolved as upon an intestacy:—Held: (1) no society or body existed which satisfied the ct. that it was the society or body meant & intended by the description "The Newcastle-upon-Tyne Nursing Home," but (2) although the objects of a nursing home are not necessarily charitable, the fact that the testatrix was dealing with the residue of her estate in equal shares, the other three named residuary legatees were charities having kindred objects, & there was a direction in the will that the receipt of the treasurer for the time being of each institution was to be a sufficient discharge showed a general charitable intention in the will, there was sufficient context to prevent a lapse of the particular share in question & therefore no intestacy. A scheme for administering the one-quarter share cy-près could therefore be properly carried out.—Re KNOX, FLEMING v. CARMICHAEL, [1937] Ch. 109; [1936] 3 All E. R. 623; 106 Ch. 97; 156 L. si. ——— ———.]—A will directed that the residuary estate be invested by the exor. & trustee & the income thereof be paid to the Winnipeg Foundation to be used by it in the support & maintenance & for the purpose of the following charities "carrying on work for the sick & poor in the City of Winnipeg & the vicinity thereof & being the . . & the Home for Fallen Girls." No question arose with respect to any of the institutions named except the "Home for Fallen Girls." There was neither when the will was made nor at the testator's death any institution in Winnipeg or its vicinity of that name. But four institutions in Winnipeg did charitable work in caring for girls who came within the ordinary meaning of the term "fallen":—Held: testatrix appeared to have been thinking of the special & particular charitable work which in fact was being carried on by each of the various institutions named in the will, & that view negatived a suggestion that she intended to assist the church of which, on the evidence, she was an active member in meeting its contributions or liabilities to the joint work carried on by it (the Church of England) & the United Church of Canada in maintaining an institution known at the time of the making of the will as the Church Home for Girls but which had later changed its name. The cy-près doctrine should be applied & the gift in question should be held intended for the benefit of the charitable work for fallen girls carried on by four institutions.—Re GILROY ESTATE, [1936] 3 W. 2330a. ——.]—An information was filed in the year 1821 against the trustee of a grammar school founded in the reign of Edward VI., praying that a new scheme might be approved of for the management of the school. Pending these proceedings, the trustees, in the year 1838, themselves made new regulations for the school, to which the usher, who was appointed previously to the filing of the information, was ordered to conform. The usher refused to be bound by such new regulations, & was consequently dismissed, & now presented a petition under Charities Procedure Act, 1812 (c. 101), alleging that the trustees of the school had no power to alter the rules, & praying that he might be reinstated :—Held : the ct. had no power, except under an information, to decide whether the trustees had power to alter the regulations of the school. Petition dismissed, with costs.—A.-G. v. EAST RETFORD GRAMMAR SCHOOL (1848), 17 L. J. Ch. 450.

2346a. —— —— After decree.]—After a decree had been made, in a suit by information & bill, for the general administration of a charity, one of the objects of which was a free grammar school, the master of the school, who was not a party to the suit, presented a petition in it, with the sanction of the A.-G., stating that, in 1832, which was five years before the decree was made, defts., the trustees of the charity, unlawfully removed him from his office, & praying to be paid the arrears of his salary :—Held : (1) the petition could not be entertained, because it was presented by a person who was not a party to the suit, & involved an important question between the petitioner & the trustees, which was not raised at the hearing of the suit ; (2) the ct. would not have had jurisdiction to determine the question, if the petition had been presented under Charities Procedure Act, 1812 (c. 101), but that a new suit must be instituted.

(3) Where the rule laid down for the management of a charity is clear, & the only question is whether the parties have acted according to that rule or not, that is a question which may be determined on petition. But, where the question has reference to the original constitution of the charity, as, for instance, whether certain persons called governors or trustees, have a certain authority, that is a question touching the original constitution of the charity, which can be decided only on information (SHADWELL, V.-C.).—A.-G. v. BRISTOL CORPN., Ex p. GOODENOUGH (1845), 14 Sim. 648 ; 14 L. 21a. —— ——.]—In Feb. 1912, three parcels of goods were shipped in a British steamship from Baltimore for Hamburg. The ship sailed & was never heard of again. The goods were insured with M., who were German nationals carrying on business in New York. The assured claimed against M., & some time before Nov. 1918, were paid by M. for a total loss; whereupon the bills of lading were handed over to M. by the assured. Actions on the contract of carriage against the ship-owners were commenced in England for the benefit of M. & other insurers by the owners of the goods & damages were recovered, of which the sum of £4,538, being that portion which corresponded with M.'s share in the insurance, was claimed by deft. to be subject in his hands to the charge created by the Treaty of Peace Order, 1919. On Nov. 18, 1918, after the outbreak of war between the United States & Germany & after proceedings had been commenced in England, pltf., in pursuance of the American Trading with the Enemy Act, 1917, & executive Orders made thereunder, made a demand upon M., the effect of which was to vest in him as Alien Property Custodian all the property, rights, claims & assets of M. within the United States. In an action by pltf. claiming payment by deft. of the said sum of £4,538, so recovered by M. & in the hands of deft. as Administrator of German Property :—Held : (1) on the crucial date, Nov. 18, 1918, M. had by subrogation anequitable interest as against the owners of the goods in the right of action which those owners had for the loss of their goods to the extent that was necessary to recoup to M. the amount paid on the policies of insurance; (2) that right of action came within the general rule that choses in action must be taken to be situate in the country where they are properly enforceable; (3) notwithstanding the fact that the bills of lading & other documents relating to the claim against the shipowners were at the material time in the hands of pltf. in the United States as Alien Property Custodian, the situs of the right of action was in England, & therefore the sum recovered for M. therein passed to deft. & not to pltf.—SUTHERLAND v. GERMAN PROPERTY ADMINISTRATOR, [1934] 1 K. Resp. carried on business as a commission agent at Indore, also at Bombay, his head office being at Indore. S. had dealings with resp. through both offices, a separate account being kept at each. On Apr. 17, 1924, a sum of nearly two lakhs was owing by resp. to S. on the Bombay account; the Indore account was about even. On that date a notice was served on resp. by order of the Indore Govt. requiring him to pay to it the sum owing to S. on the Bombay account. The debt was accordingly transferred to the Indore account without the consent of S., & on May 15, 1924, was credited to the ruler of Indore. On May 16, 1924, applts.

27a. Assignment executed abroad—Of debt payable in England.]—C., being domiciled in Guatemala, deposited a sum of money with a bank in London. Subsequently he, being then in Guatemala, assigned in writing by way of gift the money so lying to his credit at the bank to N., who was also domiciled in Guatemala, & written notice of that assignment was given to the bank. It was not disputed that if the effect of that assignment had had to be decided by English law it would have been held good. By the law of Guatemala an assignment of money made without consideration is void, unless made by a document executed before a notary on stamped paper, & signed by both parties; & by the same law an infant cannot accept a voluntary assignment himself, it must be made to & accepted by a legal representative appointed by a judge on the infant's behalf. The assignment was on unstamped paper, was not executed before a notary, & was not signed by N. At the time of the assignment N. was an infant & no legal representative had been appointed. The money lying in the bank having been claimed both by the republic of Guatemala & by N. the bankers interpleaded. In an action to determine the issue between the two claimants:—Held: the validity of the assignment to N. must be determined by the law of Guatemala, & was therefore bad:

(Per BANKES, L.J.) upon the ground that, as the republic & N. were both domiciled & resident in Guatemala at the date of their respective assignments, & as the English depositary claimed no interest in the fund, the question which, if either, of the two claimants was entitled to it must be determined by the law of their domicil & residence, & not by that of this country;

(Per SCRUTTON & LAWRENCE, L.JJ.) upon the ground that the question of a person's capacity to take an assignment of personal property is to be governed either by the law of his domicil, or by that of the country where the assignment takes place, & that, as in this case the country of N.'s domicil & that of the assignment to him were the same, it was immaterial to inquire which, had they been different, ought to prevail; but from either point of view N. was incapable, by reason of his infancy, of receiving the donation;

(Per SCRUTTON, L.J.) on the further ground that by reason of non-compliance with the formalities relating to stamp, notary, etc., the assignment was, both by the law of the place where it was made, & by that of the domicil of the parties to it, not merely inadmissible in evidence but void;

(Per LAWRENCE, L.J.). As the contract of deposit was made in England, & the money was repayable in England where the bank was domiciled, & was recoverable in England, it was an English debt having a local situation in this country, & accordingly the validity of the assignment, as distinguished from that of a contract to assign, must be governed by the lex loci rei sitæ, & not by the law of the country where the assignor & assignee were domiciled, or where the assignment took place. Consequently if non-compliance with the required formalities had been the only objection he would have held the assignment good.—REPUBLICA DE GUATEMALA v. NUNEZ, [1927] 1 K. B. 669; 96 L. J. K. 27b. —— Exercise of power of appointment over sum in England.]—An assignment, executed in a foreign jurisdiction by a person there domiciled, of a chose in action locally situate (so far as a chose in action can be) in England, is void if the assignment is void on grounds of substance according to the local law.

A document executed abroad in exercise of powers of appointment conferred by settlements executed in accordance with English law, & expressed to be intended to operate both as an assignment & as a will, may take effect as a conveyance inter vivos of the property of the person executing it.

Upon the marriage of testatrix, who was born in Italy, to an Italian, two settlements of property belonging to her, hereinafter respectively called the "A" settlement & the "B" settlement, were executed. The "A" settlement comprised proceeds of sale of English freeholds conveyed to the settlement trustees on trust for sale, & investments & other moneys, the whole fund being settled on trust to pay to the husband during the joint lives of himself & testatrix, £500 a year, & subject thereto to pay the annual income to testatrix for life without power of anticipation, &, after her death, to raise £50,000, as she should by deed or will appoint & pay the sum so raised to such persons as she should appoint. The "B" settlement comprised certain freeholds & certain moneys which were settled on trust to pay the income to testatrix for life, & after her death as she should appoint. Both were English in language & form, & the trustees were resident in the United Kingdom. By a deed of Dec. 10, 1906, to which her husband & the trustees of the "A" settlement were parties, testatrix appointed that the residue of the £50,000, which she then had power to appoint under the "A" settlement should be charged upon & raised out of the property subject to that settlement, &, after her death, should be held in trust for her absolutely as her separate estate. By a deed of May 23, 1912, between herself, her husband, & the "B" settlement trustees, testatrix appointed that, after her death, &, until then, subject to her life interest, the property comprised in the "B" settlement should be held by the trustees upon trust to pay sums which she or her husband should become liable to pay to them under certain covenants of indemnity in the deed, &, subject thereto in served on resp. an order of the High Ct., made in a suit which they had brought against S., attaching before judgment the debt in question. Applts. ha[d] obtained later a decree in their [suit] against S. sued resp. claiming to enforce the attachment:—Held: as the contract between resp. & S. did not provide expressly or impliedly that payment [was] to be solely, or primarily, at Bombay, or make the debt enforceable only there, the situs of the debt was Indore; & it had been effectively seized by the Indore Govt. before attachment by applts. It was not for the ct. to inquire whether the Indore Govt. in seizing property situate in its own territory had acted within the law of that State.—CHATURBHUJ PIRAMAL v. CHUNILAL GOMKARMAL (1933), 60 L. trust for testatrix, her heirs, administrators & assigns. Testatrix & her husband lived in Italy, & she was domiciled there at the date of her death. On July 28, 1927, being then domiciled in Italy, she executed an "appointment & assignment," expressed to be supplemental to the "A" settlement, the "B" settlement, & the deed of Dec. 10, 1906, & expressed also to be intended to operate as an assignment inter vivos & as a will. By it, she appointed & assigned the property comprised in those documents, subject to certain subsisting trusts, to the trustees of the appointment & assignment whom she appointed exors. upon trust for the payment of certain debts & legacies, & she gave the final residue to one of the trustees absolutely. After the death of testatrix leaving no other testamentary disposition, the deed of appointment & assignment was admitted to probate in the United Kingdom:—Held: (1) the deed of appointment & assignment so far as it purported to assign movable property was subject to the law of the country in which it had been executed & in which the testatrix was domiciled, i.e. to Italian law, & that, being null & void in Italian law, it did not effectually assign the remainder of the £50,000, appointed by the deed of Dec. 10, 1906; (2) the appointees of the sum of £50,000, were not persons entitled to immovable property. Their right, which was to require the trustees to pay the amount, was a chose in action in the nature of a movable; (3) the deed of appointment & assignment, as it was expressed to be intended to operate as an assignment as well as a will, could take effect as a conveyance inter vivos of the immovable property of testatrix situate in England.—Re ANZIANI, HERBERT v. CHRISTOPHERSON, [1930] 1 Ch. 407; 99 L. 67a. Assignment of part of debt—Not operative to pass legal right to part assigned.]—A firm of C., V. & Co., being owners or pledgees of certain cotton goods, which had been transferred or pledged to them by one member of the firm, insured them for £8,000 upon an open policy of marine insurance. The goods were lost at sea. The firm incurred a liability of £7,000 to one W., & in settlement of his claim it was agreed that they should assign the policy to him & that he should pay them a certain sum unconditionally & a further sum of £1,000 if, but only if, the should receive that amount or more from the insurers. W. then in his own name brought an action against the insurers to recover the value of the insured goods:—Held: an assignment of part of a debt or legal chose in action is merely an equitable assignment & is not effectual to transfer the legal right to the debt or "thing in action" under Law of Property Act, 1925 (c. 20), s. 136, & therefore pltf. suing in his own name could not recover; by SLESSER, L.J., also on the additional ground that no express notice had been given to the insurers after execution of the assignment; SCRUTTON, L.J., contra on this point, inclining to the view that, if there was an assignment valid in other respects, the pleadings gave sufficient notice of it pendente lite so as to bring the case within R. Afterwards certain payments were made by defts. to sub-contractors on M.'s direction, certain costs in the action were paid to solrs. & execution creditors of M. attached moneys in defts.' hands payable upon the contract, whereupon an interpleader issue was directed & tried :—Held : the order under which pltfs. claimed was not a legal assignment of an existing chose in action nor an assignment of the contract : it was nothing more than an equitable assignment of a fund not yet in existence.—INTERIOR TRUST CO. v. ESSEX BORDER UTILITIES COMMISSION (1928), 62 O. 204b. —— ——.]—Pltf., who had obtained judgment as first mtgee. against the proceeds of sale of a Latvian steamship, further claimed legal assignment to himself of the freight earned on the ship's last voyage. It was argued that by an agreement supplementary to the mtge. the mtgee. was given an equitable assignment, which by reason of notice to or knowledge possessed by the consignee or receiver of the cargo was converted into a legal assignment. The alleged notice consisted in the intervention by the mtgee. in an action by necessaries claimants who had arrested the ship, &/or in the terms of the mtgee.'s affidavit of interest filed in that action. The knowledge of the mtgee.'s claim was said to be proved by a letter written by the solrs. for the consignees or receivers of cargo. The material paragraphs of the supplementary agreement were as follows: "The mtgee. shall be at liberty so long as any moneys may be due under the said first mtge. & this agreement & he is hereby empowered in his own name or in the name of the shipowners . . . to demand, sue for, & receive & give receipt for all moneys due to the shipowners in connection with the said steamship & to institute such legal proceedings as he may think proper. . . ." "In relation to the matters dealt with herein, where they apply, the shipowners hereby appoint the mtgee. their attorney for them & in their name at any time during the currency of this security to collect, sue for, receive & give effective receipts for all freights . . . which may be or become due & owing to the shipowners. . . .":—Held : (1) by

Law of Property Act, 1925 (c. 20), s. 136, a legal assignment must be absolute & express notice thereof must be given to the debtor; the constructive notice upon which the mtgee. relied was not sufficient to comply with the statute & the claim to a legal assignment of the freight failed; but there was in the supplementary agreement clear evidence of an equitable assignment of the freight to the mtgee.; (2) in a case where the mtgor. was a shipowner through whose default in business the whole trouble had been occasioned, & against whom judgments had been recovered, in default of appearance, by (inter alios) the interveners, it was not a necessary condition that the mtgor. should be joined in the mtgee.'s action.—THE ZIGURDS (No. 2), [1932] P. 113; 101 L. 204c. —— ——.]—Pltfs., while acting as agents for a foreign steamship in an English port, were asked to make disbursements & incur expenses on behalf of the vessel. Before doing so they obtained the following document, addressed to the receivers of cargo, which was signed by the master with the approval & consent of the managing owner of the ship: "Please pay the freight for my vessel, the Z., & all demurrage which may be payable under the charter, to my agents, E. A. Casper, Edgar & Co., Ltd., & oblige." On June 15, 1931, on an ex parte motion, LANGTON, J., gave judgment for pltfs.' claim for necessaries, & pronounced for the validity of an assignment to them of the freight & demurrage. At the reference to assess the amount of the claim the registrar, however, reported that the document was no more than an order to pay the freight & demurrage to pltfs., who, he said, had under it nothing in the nature of a right in rem against the freight. He, therefore, disallowed several items on the ground that they were not necessaries. Interveners, who as necessaries men were interested in the fund represented by the freight, moved to set aside the judgment of June 15, 1931, on the ground that the document was merely an ordinary agent's authority to collect the freight, & that even if it amounted to an equitable assignment the action must fail because the assignor was not joined as a pltf.:—Held: on the evidence of pltfs., combined with the document itself, there was an equitable assignment of the freight & demurrage to pltfs.; where the ct. was satisfied that there was no danger of fraud or harsh treatment of the assignor it could dispense with the presence of the assignor as a joint pltf.; & pltfs. could maintain their action in rem.—THE ZIGURDS (No. 3), [1932] P. 113; 101 L. 204d. Amount recoverable by assignee limited.]—Deft. owed £285 to W., who owed money to pltf. bank, & W. assigned to the bank the debt owed to him by deft. The assignment, which was in writing, provided that "the amount recoverable under these presents shall not at any time exceed £150." Due notice of the assignment was given to deft. In an action upon the assignment:—Held: (1) the assignment was not an assignment of part only of the debt, but an absolute assignment of the whole debt with a proviso that if the bank recovered more than £150 they must hold the balance as trustees for the assignor, & it was a good legal assignment; (2) even if it was an assignment of part only of the debt it would still be a good equitable assignment, & pltfs. were entitled to recover.—BANK OF LIVERPOOL & MARTINS, LTD. v. HOLLAND (1926), 43 T. 322a. Assignment of covenant of indemnity on assignment of lease—Notice to one of two covenantors—One covenantor bankrupt.]—In 1923 a lease was granted to deft. & his brother, B. B., who were in partnership. In 1927 the partnership was dissolved, & the lease, as part of the terms of the dissolution, was allotted to B. B., who formed a limited co., B. B., Ltd., to which the lease was duly assigned. In 1930 B. B., Ltd., went into liquidation. In 1931 the liquidators sold the lease to G., the third party in these proceedings, but the assignment was made, by the direction of the third party, to R. B. B., the son of B. B. The covenant of indemnity in this assignment was given by R. B. B. & the third party to the co. & the liquidators. Both B. B. & R. B. B. were adjudicated bkpt. before 1936. In 1936 the co. acting by the liquidators assigned the benefit of the covenant of indemnity to deft., & deft. released the co. & the liquidators from the covenant "except in so far as is necessary to enable" deft. to enforce the assigned covenants. Notice of this assignment was given to the third party only & not to R. B. B. The rent under the lease falling into arrear, the lessor sued deft., as an original lessee, & deft. brought in the third party alleging a right to indemnity under the assignment of the benefit of the covenant in 1936. For the third party it was contended that (a) the assignment of 1936 was an assignment by one only of joint covenantees & could not operate to assign the benefit of the covenants, (b) notice of the assignment had only been given to one of the joint covenantors & the requirements of Law of Property Act, 1925, s. 136, had not been complied with, (c) the assignment of 1936 purported to be an assignment of a right of action sounding in damages & not of a debt, (d) on the construction of the assignment, the third party was under no liability by reason of the release of the covenant therein contained :—Held : (1) by virtue of Law of Property Act, 1925 (c. 20), s. 81, the claim for indemnity must be treated as a joint & several claim, not as merely a joint claim ; (2) by virtue of Bkpcy. Act, 1914 (c. 59), s. 118, it was not necessary to join or to give notice to a covenantee who had since become bkpt. ; (3) the claim was for a debt, not for liquidated damages ; (4) the assignment properly construed was effective to assign the benefit of the covenants.

437a. Assignment of freight.]—Among the claimants to a fund in ct., representing the proceeds of a sale of a foreign vessel & her freight, were a mtgee. of the ship & a firm of ship brokers who acted as the ship's agents & made advances on behalf of the ship. Both claimants relied upon documents which were admitted to be good equitable assignments of the freight. The mtgee.'s assignment was prior in time. The ship's agents relied upon a letter dated Mar. 2, 1931, & signed by the master of the ship with the consent & approval of her managing owner. Having received this letter, the ship's agents on Mar. 5, 1931, wrote to the receivers of cargo: "S.S. Z. We beg to give you notice that we hold captain's authority to collect the freight per this steamer's cargo, against which we have made payments." The mtgee. had given no notice of his assignment. In an action brought by the mtgee. against the owners claiming possession of the ship & her freight under his mtge., the ship's agents intervened to claim against the freight as assignees relying on their assignment, & on the letter of Mar. 5, 1931, as being notice thereof:—Held: in the circumstances the letter was a good & sufficient notice of the assignment.—SMITH v. ZIGURDS S.S. 601a. —— Assignment of debt payable in futuro.]—In 1918, C., a creditor of a firm, agreed to leave the sum constituting her debt on deposit with the firm for fifteen years from Jan. 1, 1917, upon the terms (inter alia) that interest & commission thereon should be paid to V. for his own use, & that in certain events, which subsequently happened, V. should receive a share of the firm's profits, which he in fact received during the years 1918–1921. In 1920, by C.'s direction, the debtor firm transferred C.'s debt by a book entry into the name of F., V. continuing to receive interest & commission as before, & on Feb. 24, 1926, F. made an equitable assignment of the debt to V. Notice of the assignment was given to the debtor firm on Mar. 2, 1926, whereupon the firm transferred the debt by a book entry into the name of V. At the date of the said equitable assignment by F., F. was under a liability to the debtor firm in respect of certain accommodation bills for which, as between F. & the firm, F. was liable, but such liability did not accrue due as a debt until after notice of assignment had been given, namely, when the debtor firm expended £15,000 in taking up the acceptances. On Mar. 15, 1926, the debtor firm presented their petition for a receiving order & were subsequently adjudicated bkpt. In a claim by V. to prove in the firm's bkpcy. :—Held : the assignment by F. to V. was subject to all rights of set-off which had accrued due on the part of the firm against F. at the date of the notice of assignment but was not subject to any right of set-off in respect of the £15,000 which had not accrued due at that date ; nor did the fact that the debt assigned was a debt payable in futuro, for which the assignor was not at the date of the notice of assignment in a position to sue, affect the general rule governing the assignment of a chose in action.—Re PINTO LEITE & NEPHEWS, Ex p. DES OLIVAES, [1929] 1 Ch. 221 ; 98 L. Before notice of assignment was given to deft., the latter obtained judgment against the assignor for damages for breach ot warranty on the above sale. In an action by pltf., as assignee, against deft. for payment of instalments due under the assigned agreement, deft. claimed to set off the amount of the judgment. Pltf. contended that deft.'s right to damages in respect of the breach of warranty had merged in the judgment, & that the latter could not be set off against his claim :—Held : the set-off was valid.—LAWRENCE v. HAYES, [1927] 2 K. A licence was duly granted & renewed for a further year on Mar. 1, 1933. A copy of the rules was supplied to pltf. at the time of his application, & reg. 20, para. 16, provided that the boxer's money might be stopped only when he was disqualified "for committing a deliberate foul, for not trying, or retiring without sufficient cause, or if the referee gives a no contest decision." This paragraph was altered on June 17, 1932, to read: "Boxers in case of disqualification are only entitled to receive bare travelling expenses, pending the decision of the board . . . when the board . . . may deal with the money as it thinks fit." No notice of the altered rules was given to pltf. On July 12, 1933, pltf.

sk. Bye-law — Validity —Restricting play by women members of golf club.]—A club, incorporated under the provisions of the Incorporated Societies Act, 1908, had power under its constitution to make & alter its rules, & its committee had authority to make bye-laws within certain prescribed limits. The rules provided for the admission of various classes of members, each class enjoying specifically defined rights, but in the case of ordinary members no distinction was drawn between the playing privileges of men & women. The committee, without the previous authority of a general meeting, purported to enact a bye-law prohibiting women who were ordinary members from playing on the club links on Saturdays before the hours of 3 p.m., & then only after men players had commenced their rounds. It was further provided that women playing on Saturday afternoons should give the right of way to men players. The committee, in making this bye-law, relied upon one of the rules of the club, which was to the following effect: "The committee may make bye-laws for the regulation of the club-house, grounds, & links, & for the arrangement & control of games & matches." Certain women members, who challenged the validity of this bye-law, played on a Saturday & were fined by the committee & were suspended from the exercise of their privileges as members. Upon an application by these members to have the club restrained from putting such bye-law into force & acting thereunder:—Held: the committee, in making the bye-law in question, had acted beyond the powers conferred upon it by the rules of the club, & the bye-law was therefore invalid.—O'NEILL v. PUPUKE GOLF CLUB, INCORPORATED, [1932] N. agreed to box at the White City Stadium on the terms that he should receive £3,000 win, lose or draw. At the contest pltf. was disqualified for hitting below the belt. The promoters of the contest paid the sum of £3,000 to the Board of Control at their request, & after holding an inquiry the Board withheld the money from pltf. on the ground that he had been disqualified. Pltf. brought proceedings to recover the amount against White City Stadium, Ltd., & the Board of Control:—Held: (1) the contract with the Board of Control was too closely connected with a contract as to employment that it was binding on the infant pltf. having regard to the fact that the contract as a whole was for his benefit; (2) notice of the altered rules was unnecessary in order to make them binding on pltf. in view of the terms of his application for a licence.—DOYLE v. WHITE CITY STADIUM, LTD., [1935] 1 K. 136a. —— Whether members' club is.]—The committee of management of a members' club installed in the club certain machines for the use of members only & for the purpose of giving additional pleasure to the members. The machines were operated by means of pennies inserted in a slot. The player, having first inserted a penny, depressed a handle, causing three cylinders to revolve on which were depicted bells, bars & fruits. On the cylinders ceasing to revolve the player either lost his penny or received winnings up to twenty pennies, according to the combination of fruits &/or bells &/or bars opposite a pointer. The machine automatically filled a jack pot from its winnings, & the pennies in the jack pot were returned to the player who obtained the combination of three bars. The machines were similar in type to other machines for the user of which persons had been convicted under the Gaming Houses Act, 1854 (c. 38), where the persons had used the machines in shops or places of public entertainment or in proprietary clubs. Four members of the committee of management of the club in question were charged under Gaming Houses Act, 1854 (c. 38), s. 4, for being persons having the care & management of certain premises, to wit, the club, which were then being used for the purpose of unlawful gaming being carried on therein. The contention of the members of the committee of management was that the position of a members' club was analogous to that of a private house, & that gaming upon the machines in a members' club was therefore not unlawful gaming :—Held : in order that a house should be a common gaming house within Gaming Act, 1845 (c. 109), s. 2, it was not necessary that some person should be keeping the house for his gain, lucre or living; it was sufficient that it was a house kept or used for playing at any game where the chances of the game being played therein are not alike favourable to all the players; the chances of the game played on the machines in this club were not alike favourable to all the players, & the fact that the club was a members' club did not prevent the club premises being kept or used for the purpose of unlawful gaming being carried on therein, & therefore the members of the committee of management of the club could be convicted of the offence charged under s. 4 of the Gaming Houses Act, 1854 (c. 38), s. 4.—DANIELS v. PINKS, [1931] 1 K. Members contributed ten cents apiece to the funds of the club for each half hour's play at the poker table, irrespective of whether they were winning or losing. This money was not taken from the stakes or the pot, but was collected by the applt., as steward, from the players & paid over to the club. Only members were allowed in the premises, a bye-law expressly forbidding the introduction of visitors to any part of the club property. Applt. was convicted, under sect. 226 of the Criminal Code, of unlawfully keeping a common gaming house; & the conviction was affirmed by the appellate ct.:—Held : the club was not "a house . . . kept for gain" within sect. 226 of the Criminal Code & applt. had been wrongly convicted.—R. v. BAMPTON, [1932] S. He kept the keys of the machines, deposited money of the club in them & collected the "proceeds" of their operation for the benefit of the club. The playing of the machines was a game of at least "mixed chance & skill," if not of pure chance. The secretary was convicted of keeping a common gaming house :—Held : the conviction should be sustained.—R. v. THOMAS, [1934] 1 W. W. R. 493; 61 C. C. C. 301; 48 B. C. R. 76.—CAN.

——.]—In 1902 the Crystalate Manufacturing Co., Ltd., commenced manufacturing & selling (inter alia) electrical accessories, & in 1928 sold their business to pltfs. At no time had either co. sold electric lamps. In 1933 defts. were formed & commenced selling electric lamps, & in one advertisement were inadvertently described as "British Crystalate Co., Ltd." Pltfs. commenced an action to restrain defts. from carrying on business under their name or any name containing the word "Crystalite" or any other word only colourably differing from "Crystalate." Defts. alleged that the businesses carried on by the parties were dissimilar & that there was no likelihood of confusion :—

sd. "Precision Engineering Co."—"Ou-Tone Precision Engineers."]—An application by C. & T., Ltd., for approval of a change of name to the "Ou-Tone Precision Engineers, Ltd.," was opposed by the Precision Engineering Co., Ltd. Both cos. were engaged in the engineering business. Appct. had been engaged in making what are known as "precision tools," & in what is styled "precision work." The objecting co. was engaged in manufacturing motor-plates, steel shelving, lockers, & office equipment. Appct. co. had decided to make "precision work" a prominent feature of its business, & adopted the term "precision" not as a fancy word, but as being descriptive of the kind of work in which it proposed to specialise : —Held, granting the approval sought, as the word "precision" was an ordinary English word descriptive of part of the work carried on by appct. co. in common with other engineering firms, it had not acquired a secondary or subsidiary meaning to denote only the business of the objecting co., & could not be monopolised by the latter, & its use in the form proposed was not calculated to deceive.—Re CUFF & THOMSON, LTD., [1933] N. Held: defts. had adopted their name in good faith as being descriptive of the " crystal light " sold by them, but pltfs. & defts. were both concerned in the same trade, that their names were substantially similar, & the use by defts. of their name was calculated to cause confusion between the two businesses. Each fund, with its accretions of interest, was divided up periodically among the members ratably at a period of the year which differed in each branch. The assocn. & its branches all consisted of more than twenty members. The assocn. was not registered under any Act. 439a. " Issued " to the public—What amounts to.]—A co. being in want of further capital, a document was prepared by applt., who was the managing director, & signed by the other directors, stating the position of the co., that it was proposed to issue 20,000 preference shares, & giving an estimate of the profits after the new capital was available. Attached was an application form for preference shares. A second document was also prepared by the applt., written on the co.'s paper & addressed to a fellow director, marked " strictly private & confidential," which, after setting out the amount of nominal & issued capital, stated the purposes for which the additional capital was required, & concluded thus : " I shall be very happy to discuss this proposition in all its details with any one who is really interested." Attached was a form of application for ordinary shares. Several copies of these documents were given to applt.'s fellow director, who sent a copy to a solr., with a request, in substance, that he should find some client willing to provide the capital required. The solr. sent the documents to resp.'s brother-in-law, & he in turn sent them to resp., who, on the faith of the statements they contained, subscribed for 3,000 ordinary shares in the co. Subsequently ascertaining that a considerable part of the issued capital had been issued otherwise than for cash, a fact that was not stated in either of the documents, he sued applt. for damages for the loss he had sustained through the omission by applt. to comply with the requirements of 1908 Act, s. 81 (1) (e). At the trial the jury found that the two documents were an offer of shares by the co. to the public. In answer to the question, whether they were in fact issued to the public, the jury said : " There is no proof of this." 581a. —— —— Directors without knowledge that misrepresentation basis of contract.]—Deft. co. had no knowledge, that, so far as pltf. was concerned, his application had been induced by any representations made before the co. was incorporated. In these circumstances I think pltf. fails to establish any right to have any contract to take the shares in question rescinded (LUXMOORE, J.).—COLLINS v. ASSOCIATED GREYHOUND RACECOURSES, LTD., [1930] 1 Ch. 1, 14; affd., [1930] 1 Ch. 1, 28, C. 581b. —— Contract between company & agent for undisclosed principal—Whether principal entitled to rescission.]—Shortly before the incorporation of a co. a draft prospectus, which was afterwards adopted by the co., was circulated for the purpose of obtaining underwriters of shares intended to be offered to the public by the proposed co. An investment co. entered into an underwriting agreement on Nov. 28, 1927, by which they agreed that they would within three days of the issue of the prospectus "either subscribe themselves . . . on the basis of the said prospectus for 1,164,000 . . . shares of 5*s* each or cause the same before the date aforesaid to be subscribed on the terms of the said prospectus by responsible persons," & any reasonable objection might be taken by the co. within two days to persons put forward by the investment co. On Nov. 29, 1927, M. & O. signed & remitted an offer to underwrite 12,000 shares addressed to the investment co. & also an application for the shares addressed to the proposed company, which was accompanied by a cheque for £600. On Dec. 12, 1927, the incorporation of the proposed co. took place, & the underwriting agreement & prospectus were adopted by the co. & the prospectus issued to the public. The public response was insufficient, & 8,160 shares were allotted to M. & O., the allotment letter bearing at the back a form of renunciation. M. & O. were agents for pltf., who had provided the £600. They renounced the shares in favour of pltf., who paid the further sum of £624 due on allotment & sent the allotment letter to the co., who replied stating that it had been duly registered in his name & placed his name on the register of shareholders:—Held: pltf. was not entitled to rescission, because (1) the contract between M. & O. & the co. was of such a class that M. & O. must be treated as the principals, so that pltf., as the undisclosed principal, could not sue on the contract or obtain its rescission, & (2) the contract constituted by the co.'s acceptance of pltf.'s authority under the renunciation to place his name on the register could not be treated as a contract entered into on the basis of the draft prospectus.—COLLINS v. ASSOCIATED GREYHOUND RACECOURSES, LTD., [1930] 1 Ch. 1; 99 L. 614a. ——.]—B. signed a printed form issued by the promoters of an intended co., expressing his willingness to become a member of the council of administration of the intended co. M. also wrote to the promoters promising to help the co. Soon afterwards the promoters issued a prospectus in which the co. was described as "to be incorporated under the Cos. Acts," & an extract was given from the proposed articles of assocn. to the effect that there would be a council of administration of members of the co., & a list of members of the council was appended containing the names of B. & M. In reliance on this prospectus, K. applied for shares in the intended co. On Jan. 31, three days after K.'s application, the co. was duly registered under the Cos. Act; & on Feb. 2, the directors allotted K. the shares which he had applied for, & approved a form of prospectus substantially the same as that which had been issued by the promoters. On Feb. 11, K. paid the allotment money on those shares. On June 26, K. discovered that B. & M. had both declined to take shares in the co. & to become members of the council of administration, & took out a summons to have his name removed from the list of shareholders:—Held: the effect of the statement in the prospectus was not merely that B. & M. had expressed their willingness to become members of the council of administration, but that they had authorised the publication of their names as members, & as such was a false statement of fact; the prospectus, although issued by the promoters before the formation of the co., was the basis of the contract between the co. & K. for the allotment of shares; that the misstatement in the prospectus was relied on by K., & was material to the contract, & consequently that K. was entitled to rescind the contract

& repudiate the shares. The ct., being of opinion that there had been no laches or acquiescence, ordered K.'s name to be removed from the list of shareholders, & the money paid by him in application & allotment to be returned with interest at 4 per cent.—Re METROPOLITAN COAL CONSUMERS' ASSOCN. 770a. Acceptance of sum paid into court—Effect on liability under 1908 Act, s. 84.]—Resp. applied for & was allotted debenture stock in W., C., & Co., Ltd., relying upon the statements contained in a prospectus. The first-named applts. were directors in W., C., & Co., Ltd.; the second-named applts. carried on business as merchant bankers in the name of S. & Co., who were stated in the prospectus to have purchased the whole of the debenture stock of W., C., & Co., Ltd., but who were alleged by resp. to have issued the prospectus as agents for the other applts. Resp. by his writ claimed "damages for false & fraudulent misrepresentation against all applts., & against such of applts. as were directors of W., C., & Co., Ltd., compensation under 1908 Act, s. 84, alternatively damages for conspiracy to defraud, the damages claimed in respect of the three claims being £178." The trial judge dismissed the action against the first-named applts. with costs. The action then proceeded against the second-named applts. until they amended their defence by leave & paid £130 into ct. with a denial of liability, which amount the resp. accepted in lieu of the £178 claimed, in full satisfaction of the cause of action for fraudulent misrepresentation. The Ct. of Appeal set aside the orders & judgment of the trial judge & ordered a new trial of the action as regards the causes of action under 1908 Act, s. 84, & conspiracy to defraud :—Held : (1) both on the issue of conspiracy to defraud & the issue of deceit, after the money had been taken out in satisfaction there was no cause of action & no head of damage remained unsatisfied of which there was any evidence or which could be ordered to be tried anew; (2) on the question of compensation under 1908 Act, s. 84, although the case should have been left to the jury there was nothing left to be tried after resp. had taken out in satisfaction money paid in on the issue of conspiracy only. Compensation was not, either as to the amount recoverable or the mode of measuring it something different from or even greater than damages.—CLARK v. URQUHART, STRACEY v. URQUHART, [1930] A. Sept., 1920, by deft. co., hereinafter called "the Trust," applied for & had allotted to him subject to the terms of the prospectus four £100 7½ per cent. profit sharing deposit notes of the Trust. It was stated in the prospectus that the notes would be paid off at 105 per cent. by four annual drawings, &, under the heading "Earlier payments," that the Trust retained the right to pay off at 105 per cent. all or any of the outstanding notes at any time on giving three months' previous notice in writing, but that in the event of the sale of the Trusts' R. B. estates, further referred to in that prospectus, which according to the construction placed upon the prospectus by the ct. was not confined to a sale under a certain option of purchase referred to later in the prospectus, but included a sale to anybody whomsoever, the Trust would set aside out of the proceeds of sale a sum sufficient to redeem all the notes then outstanding, & the holders would be given an option of being then paid off in cash at 105 per cent. or of retaining their notes till the date of drawing. Each of the notes, which was in the form of the specimen note referred to in the prospectus, provided that the Trust would, as & when the principal sum of £100 became payable in accordance with the conditions indorsed thereon, pay to pltf. the sum of £105, & was expressed to be subject to & with the benefit of those conditions, which repeated the provisions contained in the prospectus for the redemption of the notes by drawings & the option retained by the Trust to pay off the notes on notice, but did not refer to the promise by the Trust contained in the prospectus as to earlier payments in the event of the sale of the Trust's R. B. estates. The option to purchase referred to in the prospectus having lapsed & the Trust having contracted to sell the R. B. estates without having given notice to pltf. that his option to be paid off or to retain his notes had thereby become exercisable, & the Trust having repudiated their liability to perform their promise contained in the prospectus, pltf. brought an action to have the said liability of the Trust established & for an injunction to restrain them from dealing with the proceeds of sale without in the first place setting aside a sum sufficient to pay off the outstanding notes:—Held: pltf. was entitled to the relief claimed on either of two grounds, namely, (1) that the entire contract was contained in two written instruments, namely, the deposit the prospectus, the terms of which the ct. could reconcile by construing the promise in the prospectus as if it were inserted in the note as a proviso to come into operation, if & when the R. B. estates were sold, or (2) that the promise was a binding collateral contract, the consideration for which was the contract by pltf. to take up the notes, & that, as the terms of that promise & an animus contrahendi on the part of pltf. & the Trust had been clearly proved, the test laid down by LORD MOULTON in Heilbut, Symons & Co. v. Buckleton (see No. 1565) was satisfied.—JACOBS v. BATAVIA & GENERAL PLANTATIONS TRUST, [1924] 2 Ch. 329; 93 L. 834a i. Order under 1929 Act, s. 56 (3)—What amounts to special circumstances.]—In a petition at the instance of a shipping co. for confirmation of a reduction of capital, it appeared that the co. had no debentures or debenture stock, that the co.'s only debts, consisted of expenditure incurred by its ships in the course of their voyages, the amount of which would not be ascertained till their return; that such debts were, in practice, regularly discharged as soon as their amount had been ascertained; & that the value of the co.'s ships was ample security for its outstanding debts. On a motion for an order in terms of Cos. Act, 1929, s. 56 (3), the ct. directed that the provisions of Cos. Act, 1929, s. 56 (2), should not apply to the creditors of the co. or any class of them; & confirmed the reduction of capital simpliciter.—Re UNIFRUITCO STEAMSHIP CO., [1930] S. 834a ii. —— ——.]—In a petition at the instance of a colliery co. for confirmation of a reduction of capital, it appeared that the co. had no debentures or debenture stock; that the co.'s principal creditors were trade creditors, mineral owners in respect of lordships, employees in respect of wages, & the collectors of rates & taxes; that, during the dependence of the petition, all these creditors, with one exception, had been paid or had consented to the proposed reduction; that the remaining creditor, the Inland Revenue, whose claim was for £19,690 in respect of unascertained income tax liability had, in accordance with department practice, declined to sign any consent, but had stated no objection to the proposed reduction; & that the value of the co.'s liquid assets was ample security for its outstanding liabilities. On a motion for an order in terms of Cos. Act, 1929, s. 56 (3), the ct. found it unnecessary to apply the provisions of Cos. Act, 1929, s. 56 (2), & confirmed the reduction of capital simpliciter.—Re CADZOW COAL CO., LTD., [1931] S. C. 272.—SCOT.

with a capital of £95,000,000 consisting of cumulative preference, ordinary & deferred shares, petitioned the ct. to sanction a reduction of capital to £89,565,859 by cancellation of half the amount of each of the 21,736,564 deferred shares of 10*s.* each, & by conversion & consolidation of each four deferred shares into one £1 ordinary share carrying full dividend rights as from Jan. 1, 1935. The scheme, which was submitted by the directors for the purpose of simplifying & strengthening the co.'s financial structure, was approved by more than the statutory majority at the extraordinary general meeting, & by more than the majority prescribed by the arts. of assocn. of the co. at each of the separate class meetings of the ordinary & deferred shareholders. It was provided by the memorandum & arts. of assocn. that the special rights or privileges of any class of shareholders should not be varied or extinguished without the approval of a separate class meeting of the shareholders so affected. Apart from the scheme, the co.'s profits, in terms of the articles, were to be distributed in payment of (i) a dividend of 7 per cent. per annum on the cumulative preference shares, (ii) a dividend of 7 per cent. per annum on the ordinary shares, & (iii) out of the available balance of profits, (a) a further dividend on the ordinary shares, together with (b) a dividend on the deferred shares in such a manner that the balance so distributable in respect of the ordinary shares should be as nearly as possible twice the total amount to be distributed in respect of the deferred shares. The board sent to all shareholders a circular which contained detailed information regarding the scheme, but which made no reference to the comparative holdings of the directors in ordinary & deferred shares of the co. Meetings for the purpose of obtaining the shareholders' sanction were convened, & held on May 1, 1935. The first was an extraordinary general meeting of all shareholders, at which the chairman spoke in support of the scheme & announced that, with the approval of the shareholders, he proposed to make that one speech in relation to that meeting & to the two subsequent class meetings of the ordinary shareholders & deferred shareholders respectively, without any further speeches. The resolutions having been defeated on a show of hands, a poll was taken forthwith, & thereafter two meetings, purporting to be separate class meetings of ordinary shareholders & deferred shareholders, were held. The resolution was duly passed at the meeting of the ordinary shareholders, & it was declared lost on a show of hands at the deferred shareholders' meeting, but was subsequently carried by the requisite majority on a poll being taken. Holders of shares of classes other than deferred shares were present in the hall during the holding of the class meeting of the deferred shareholders, but there was no evidence that any shareholder other than deferred shareholders either took any part in the conduct of, or voted at, that meeting. The co.'s petition was opposed by applt. on behalf of himself & all other holders of deferred shares, on the ground that, inter alia, the reduction of capital was ultra vires the co. & was not properly sanctioned by the deferred shareholders, who, under the scheme, were exposed to unfair treatment as a class of shareholders :—Held : (1) as the arts. of assocn. empowered the co. to reduce its share capital in the ways specifically mentioned therein, " or otherwise as may seem expedient," the co. thus became entitled to reduce its capital in any way authorised by 1929 Act ; (2) the meeting of deferred shareholders was properly convened, the objection which might have been raised to the presence of holders of shares of another class was waived, the poll was duly demanded, & the extraordinary resolution was duly passed by the requisite majority ; (3) the circular issued to the shareholders disclosed sufficient information to enable them to judge of the fairness & propriety of the scheme ; (4) the proposed reduction of capital should be confirmed, as the scheme for the re-arrangement thereof did not operate unfairly in relation to the holders of deferred shares.—CARRUTH v. IMPERIAL CHEMICAL INDUSTRIES, LTD., [1937] A. 1012a. —— At date of registration of minute.]—A co., which desired to vary the constitution of its capital, petitioned the ct. for an order sanctioning a scheme of arrangement which involved the reduction & subsequent increase, subdivision & consolidation of capital. The capital was to be reduced by converting certain issued ordinary shares of 15*s.* each into ordinary shares of 12*s.* each. The capital was then to be increased by the issue of redeemable preference shares of £1 each & shares of 4*s.* each. It was part of the scheme that the unissued ordinary shares of 15*s.* each should be subdivided & consolidated into ordinary shares of 12*s.* each. It was proposed that the minute of reduction to be registered under 1929 Act, s. 58, should be approved in a form which, after dealing with the reduction, stated the amount & constitution of the share capital at the date of the registration of the minute, but did not give details of the increase, subdivision & consolidation of the capital :—Held : the scheme should be sanctioned & the suggested form of order should be approved.—Re HARRODS (BUENOS AIRES), LTD., [1936] 2 All E. 1012b. —— ——.]—A co. with a share capital consisting of preference shares of £1 each & ordinary shares of £1 each, desiring to reduce its capital, approved a scheme by special resolution whereby the issued preference shares & ordinary shares of £1 each (which were fully paid up) were to be reduced to an equivalent number of preference shares & ordinary shares of 10*s.* each. These 10*s.* shares were then to be consolidated in such a manner that every two of such preference & ordinary shares respectively should constitute one £1 fully paid preference or ordinary share as the case might be. The ct. was petitioned to sanction the scheme. The ct. sanctioned the scheme & approved a form of minute for registration.—Re HOLLAND & WEBB, LTD., [1936] 3 All E. R. 955; 80 Sol. Jo. 1014.

1019a. Passing of special resolution—& confirmation by court.]—(1) The proper form of minute in petitions for reduction of capital is not as set out in Re Salinas of Mexico, [1919] W. (2) With regard to the form of notice of registration pursuant to 1908 Act, s. 51 (3), it is a sufficient compliance with the statute to give such notice in the short form approved in Re Oceana Development Co. (1912), 56 Sol. On increase of capital.]—After this cross-reference add :—

1126a. —— When increase takes place.]—In Dec. 1927, resp. co. passed an extraordinary resolution that the capital of the co. be increased to £1,550,000 by the creation of 300,000 new ordinary shares & payment was made on the increase of the stamp duty under Stamp Act, 1891 (c. 39), s. 112. On the same day the co. passed an extraordinary resolution altering the Arts. of the co. & adding an Art. 44 (a) which provided " the directors of the company for the time being be & they are hereby authorised from time to time by resolution passed by them to increase the existing capital of the co. from £1,550,000 to £2,500,000 by the creation of 950,000 additional shares of £1 each. Such increases within the limits aforesaid may be made successively & such new shares shall have " certain priorities & rights. The Crown asserted that immediately on the creation of Art. 44 (a) there was an increase of capital within the meaning of Stamp Act, 1891 (c. 39), s. 112, & stamp duty was payable on the 950,000 new shares:—Held: under Art. 44 (a) two steps were necessary before an increase of capital was created within the meaning of Stamp Act, 1891 (c. 39) s. 112 : first the introduction of the article & then a step which might not in fact be ever taken, namely, a resolution creating the increase or some of the increase of the capital authorised by the article ; & until the directors exercised the power to increase given to them by the article there was no increase in the registered capital of the company & no duty was attracted under sect. 112.—A.-G. v. TUBE INVESTMENTS, LTD. 1358a. ——.]—The appct. was persuaded by Y. to take part in a certain transaction & to deposit with Y., as security until the transaction was completed, certain shares, of which the appct. was the registered holder. The appct. was told that these shares were to be put temporarily in the name of Y. & for that purpose the appct. signed certain documents, but in no instance was the signature witnessed. By means of a transfer purporting to be executed by the appct. & properly witnessed, the name of Y. was entered upon the co.'s register as holder of the shares. The appct. in evidence said that she had never signed a transfer of the shares & the witness to the signature admitted that she had not signed as witness in the presence of the appct. A handwriting expert gave evidence that the appct.'s alleged signature on the transfer form was more likely to be genuine than a forgery. The appct. moved to rectify the co.'s register under 1929 Act, s. 100. Certain brokers had been instructed by Y. to sell the said shares & they opposed the application on the ground that the transfer was part of a scheme " to rig the market " : —Held: (1) the jurisdiction of the ct. to rectify the register is not limited to cases where a name has been entered improperly, but extends to cases where a name stands on the register without sufficient cause; (2) there was sufficient evidence, even assuming the transfer to have been a proper one & not a forgery, that the appct.'s name had without sufficient cause been omitted from, & Y.'s name had without sufficient cause been placed upon the register, & it ought to be rectified; (3) as the brokers did not claim that they themselves or anyone with whom they had entered into any contract had a right to have their or his name put upon the register, their application must be refused, but they had rightly brought the suggestion of illegality before the ct. On the evidence the appct. was no party to any illegality.—Re IMPERIAL CHEMICAL INDUSTRIES, LTD., [1936] 2 All E. R. 463; 80 Sol. Jo. 533.

1379a. Restrictions on transfer—Deposit with bank as security—Sale by bank notwithstanding restrictions.]—S. H., the holder of shares in a private co., T. H., Ltd., was also chairman of a co., C. & Co., Ltd. The account of C. & Co. with their bankers being largely overdrawn, S. H. gave the bankers a continuing guarantee & deposited with them a certificate for 800 shares in T. H., Ltd., with a memorandum charging all shares, the certificates for which were or might be lodged with the bankers, as security for the payment on demand of all moneys due or to become due to them, &, upon default by him in paying or further securing on demand any money secured, authorising them without further notice to sell the shares.

By the arts. of assocn. of T. H., Ltd., a member could not transfer his shares until he had given notice to the secretary offering to sell the shares at a price to be fixed by the auditor, & until the secretary had offered them to the other members, one director, T. H. V. H., having a right of pre-emption. The bankers began to press for a transfer of the shares into the names of two nominees. They were aware of the arts. of assocn. of T. H., Ltd., & were warned by S. H. that such a transfer would be invalid. They also gave S. H. notice in writing demanding payment of C. & Co.'s overdraft. S. H. then gave them as further security certificates for 346 additional shares in T. H., Ltd., & executed instruments purporting to be transfers of 1,146 shares in that co., & the nominees of the bankers were placed on the register of the co. as the holders of the shares. In order to obtain a further advance for the benefit of C. & Co., S. H. executed a mtge. of other property, covenanting to pay the bankers on demand all money then or at any time due from himself or from C. & Co. Application was then made to the auditor of T. H., Ltd., to fix a price for the 1,146 shares: a price was fixed, & the shares were bought by T. H. V. H. with money borrowed from the bankers & secured by a so-called transfer of the 1,146 shares & 850 other shares to nominees of the bankers, who were placed on the register of T. H., Ltd., as the holders of 1,996 shares. Two actions were brought, one by E. H., a shareholder in T. H., Ltd., suing on behalf of herself & all other the shareholders in the co., except T. H. V. H., & claiming to have the register of shareholders rectified by restoring thereto the name of S. H. as the holder of 1,146 shares & entering that of T. H. V. H. as the holder of 850 shares on the ground that all the transfers & registrations aforesaid were made in contravention of the co.'s arts. & were void. The second action was brought by S. H., who sought the same relief & also claimed the right to redeem the 1,146 shares on the footing that the sale of the shares was void, & that his equity of redemption was still subsisting. In E. H.'s action, which was the first to be tried, an order was made for rectification of the register as prayed therein. In S. H.'s action a similar order was made, a further order that S. H. was entitled to redeem the 1,146 shares. T. H. V. H., T. H., Ltd., & the bankers & their nominees appealed against the orders in both actions. The Ct. of Appeal dismissed the appeal in E. H.'s action. From that decision there was no appeal. The Ct. of Appeal allowed the appeal in S. H.'s action, holding that S. H. was entitled to be upon the register, but that the sale of the 1,146 shares to T. H. V. H. operated as a valid transfer of the equitable interest in the shares, & ordering that S. H. should execute a declaration of trust of the shares in favour of T. H. V. H. & bankers or as they should direct. From this decision S. H. appealed, & there was a cross-appeal by T. H. V. H., T. H., Ltd., the bankers & their nominees:—Held: applt. was entitled to have the register rectified by restoring his name thereto as the holder of 1,146 shares, on the grounds: (1) Per Lord CHANCELLOR, Lord BLANESBURGH, Lord RUSSELL OF KILLOWEN & Lord MACMILLAN (Lord ATKIN doubting), that there was no effective demand for payment before the attempted sale of the shares, the demand which was made having been superseded by the security & mtge. subsequently given & executed; (2) Per Lord CHANCELLOR, Lord ATKIN, & Lord MACMILLAN, that there was no effective sale of the shares, the restrictions imposed by the arts. of assocn. of the co. not having been observed; (3) Per Lord CHANCELLOR & Lord MACMILLAN, that applt. was not estopped from claiming rectification of the register, inasmuch as the bankers were well aware, & had been informed by applt., of all the restrictions upon the sale of the shares (Lord BLANESBURGH assenting on other grounds); (4) Per Lord CHANCELLOR, Lord BLANESBURGH, Lord ATKIN, Lord RUSSELL OF KILLOWEN & Lord MACMILLAN, that the attempted sale by the bankers did not operate to pass the equitable apart from the legal interest in the shares.—HUNTER v. HUNTER, [1936] A. Act, 1899, of New South Wales, the material provisions of which Act were similar to the law as to English cos., the co. was to have power to issue with preferential rights part of the shares in its original capital thereby stated. The articles of assocn. contained no express power to issue preference shares as part of the original capital. Art. 10 provided that the shares should be under the control of the directors, who might allot them on such "terms & conditions" as they thought fit. By art. 117 the management of the "business of the co." was vested in the directors who, in addition to the powers otherwise expressly conferred on them, might do all such things as the co. might do, save those which by the articles or statute were to be done in general meeting. 1654a. —— What amounts to.]—In Jan. 1920, K. applied, on a form supplied to him by Y., for 100 shares in a co. about to be formed On Apr. 14, Y. purported to transfer to K. 100 shares, but the transfer did not specify the denoting numbers of the shares comprised therein. At a meeting of the directors held on Apr. 16, a resolution was passed purporting to allot all the shares of the co. At that date the co. had not issued a prospectus or filed a statement in lieu thereof. On Apr. 20, the statement in lieu of prospectus was filed. At a meeting of the directors held on Apr. 30, the transfer from Y. to K. came before the board, & a resolution was passed approving the transfer & directing that a share certificate should be forwarded to K. Subsequently K. was registered a member of the co. The certificate, dated May 26, was sent to, & was accepted by, K. On June 8 a bonus, declared at the meeting of Apr. 30, was paid to, & was accepted by, K. K., as purporting to be the owner of the shares, attended a meeting of shareholders on Mar. 24, 1921. Subsequently the co. went into liquidation, & K., on whose shares there was a liability of 10*s.* per share, then denied being a shareholder, contending that the allotment of shares to Y. was void under 1908 Act, s. 82:—Held: (1) although the allotment to Y. was void, K. was a member of the co. at the commencement of the winding up, there having been no agreement between him & the co. until Apr. 30, when the co. was legally in a position to allot shares; (2) in any event, in view of his subsequent conduct, he was estopped from denying that he was a member of the co.—Re BURTON (JAMES) & SONS, LTD., [1927] 2 Ch. 132; 96 L. & the secretary; & the said one director & the secretary shall sign every instrument to which the seal shall be so affixed in their presence & in favour of any purchaser or person bonâ fide dealing with the co. such signature shall be conclusive of the fact that the seal has been properly affixed." The following further facts were held to have been established at the trial: from entries in the register of members it appeared that the shares in dispute had in Nov. 1927, been issued, with other shares, to the English & Foreign Investment Trust, Ltd., & that in respect of those shares three shillings per share were paid up. There was no entry showing when that co. ceased to be a member. There were entries in the register indicating that the 2,000 shares were transferred to W., & that W. was entered on the register as a member on Apr. 30, 1928, as having acquired the shares as fully paid & as having had a certificate No. 528 issued to him. There was no record of any transfer from the English & Foreign Investment Trust, Ltd. In Apr. 1928, while the register & seal of pltf. co. were under their physical control, D. & G. made the entries in the register, &, as director & secretary respectively of pltf. co., affixed the seal of that co. to & signed the certificate issued to W., but without any authority from pltf. co. & fraudulently in the interest of the A. co.:—Held: (1) the certificate not having in truth been sealed by pltf. co.'s authority, was, in the circumstances aforesaid, a forgery & not binding upon the co; (2) W., whose ignorance of art. 105 had been proved, was, on that account, precluded from relying on that article to support the contention that pltf. co. was bound in his favour to treat the attesting signatures as conclusive evidence of the fact that the seal of pltf. co. had been properly affixed to the certificate; (3) as affixing the seal was not a matter in which normally a single director would have power to act without the authority of the board of directors, W. was not relieved from the obligation to inquire whether the formalities required by the art. had been complied with.—SOUTH LONDON GREYHOUND RACECOURSES, LTD. v. WAKE, [1931] 1 Ch. 496; 100 L. 2183a. —— Lien in respect of debt of trustee—Right of trustees to sell shares.]—Pltfs. were the trustees of the marriage settlement of one of them, who was also a beneficiary under the settlement. They claimed damages from defts. for breach of an agreement, whereby defts. undertook to purchase shares in a certain company. The pltf., who was a beneficiary under the settlement, was, in his individual capacity, indebted to the co. & the co. had, under its articles, a lien upon shares in respect of the debts of a member. In a previous action it had been held that whatever equitable interest the co. had in these shares under its lien was postponed to the interests of the beneficiaries under the settlement, other than the debtor-trustee & persons claiming under him. Defts. now contended that, as the co. would lose its lien, which was admittedly good against the debtor-trustee & persons claiming under him, if the trustees were to sell, the trustees were not in a position to sell the shares free from encumbrances, & therefore the defts. were not bound to carry out their agreement to purchase :—Held : the right of the trustees to sell the shares in execution of their trust was not affected by the co.'s lien against the debtor-trustee's personal interest, & the trustees could give an unencumbered title to a purchaser of the shares, although the co. would lose its lien thereby. Defts. were, therefore, bound to carry out their agreement to purchase.—MATHIESON v. GRONOW (1929), 141 L. T. 553 ; 45 T. L. R. 604.

2224a. —— Dividend before exercise of option to purchase—Payment postponed.]—By a contract made in Apr. 1922, it was agreed between the persons interested therein that a business forming part of a testator's estate should be converted into a private co. with a capital of £30,000, divided into £20,000 debentures bearing interest at 7 per cent. & 10,000 ordinary shares of £1 each, fully paid, which were to be allotted to the trustees of the will. One of the trustees, F., was appointed manager of the co., & was given the option, so long as he continued to be both trustee & manager, of purchasing the whole of the debentures & shares at par value. In June, 1928, the co. declared a dividend of 57½ per cent. on the ordinary shares for the year ending Mar. 31, 1928, to be paid in three equal instalments on July 1 & Nov. 1, 1928, & Feb. 1, 1929, & the first instalment was paid on July 1, 1928. On July 30, 1928, F. exercised his option to purchase the whole of the shares & debentures for £30,000. At that date there was four months' interest due upon the debentures. The purchase was completed on Nov. 5, 1928. On a summons being taken out to determine the rights of the parties in the unpaid instalments of the dividend, & the debenture interest, as between vendors & purchaser :—Held : (1) the four months' accrued interest on the debentures passed to the purchaser ; (2) the declaration of the dividend on the shares having created a debt to the trustees as the then registered shareholders, the postponement of the payment did not operate to deprive them of their rights, & therefore the remaining instalments belonged to them & not to the purchaser.—Re KIDNER, KIDNER v. KIDNER, [1929] 2 Ch. 121 ; 98 L. 2250a. —— Valid tender of stock.]—A. contracts with B. for the sale of £200 South-Sea stock, for £1,360 to be paid on or before the day of shutting the transfer books, in order to make the Christmas dividend. The money not being paid, A. brought his action upon the covenant, & in his declaration alleged, that he attended at the South-Sea house, for the space of an hour before the shutting of the books, & was ready to transfer the stock to deft., but that he was not ready to receive it. On a demurrer, judgment was given for deft., pltf. not having made a sufficient tender of the stock. In an action upon a contract for the sale of stock, it is necessary for pltf. to show, that he had made a legal tender of the stock before he can claim the money; for his attending at the office upon the day, & being ready to transfer, is not sufficient. He ought to set out in his declaration, the manner of transferring stock, & the time & place when & where it is usually transferred; these being matters which the ct. cannot judicially take notice of.—STAPLETON v. SHELBURNE (1725), 1 Bro. An action was commenced against the chairman of the board of directors & the co. in which the pltfs. claimed that he held the shares as trustee for the individual shareholders & in which they sought an injunction restraining him from voting, at any meeting of the co., as the holder of the shares:—Held: (1) on the evidence, the chairman of the board of directors held the shares, not for the benefit of the individual shareholders, but for the benefit of the co., & that he held them on trust, at his discretion, to sell them; (2) the transfer did not offend against any principle laid down by any of the decided cases, & that the transaction was not made invalid by reason of the transfer having been made to a nominee on trusts which involved an obligation on the trustee to vote in respect of the shares as the co. might from time to time direct.—KIRBY v. WILKINS, [1929] 2 Ch. 444; 142 L. 2585a. Article restricting right of transfer—Construction.]—Arts. of assocn. restricting transfer of shares must be so construed as not unreasonably to prevent shareholders from fairly & reasonably exercising their powers as members of the co.

Testator appointed his wife, a son, & two other persons exors. & trustees of his will, whereby he bequeathed his residuary estate to the trustees on trust to sell & convert & to hold the proceeds, after the wife's death, upon trust as to one-third thereof for the said son, & as to the remaining two-thirds for the other children of testator alive at testator's death. The residue included shares in the co., some in testator's name, the remainder in the name of another as his nominee or as trustee for him. The will was proved by the widow & the son only. They caused these shares to be registered in their own names without qualification, as the arts. of the co. disqualified transferees from receiving notice of or voting at meetings. Later they appointed an additional trustee of the will; & in order to vest the shares jointly in them & him, all three executed a transfer. This was presented to the co. for registration, but registration was refused on the ground that the restrictions on transfer imposed by the articles applied:—Held: the transfer could be justified under the arts.—Re HOBSON, HOUGHTON & CO., [1929] 1 Ch. 300; 98 L. The substantial question, which came before the ct. upon motion, was whether one member was entitled, under the articles, to transfer shares to another member. The material articles were as follows:—

Art. 5: "The directors may in their absolute & uncontrolled discretion refuse to register any proposed transfer of shares, & clause 20 of Table A shall be modified accordingly. No shares shall in any circumstances be transferred to any infant, bkpt., or person of unsound mind. Under the constitution of the bkpt. co. its shareholders could not sell or dispose of their shares except with the leave of the directors evidenced by a resolution of the board. All the directors of the bkpt. co. except one were indebted to it on their shares. At meetings of the directors where as a result of a prearrangement each director in turn, except the one not indebted, refrained from voting on resolutions in which he was interested, resolutions were passed, in pursuance of the prearranged scheme, which resolutions authorised the exchange of resp.'s shares in the bkpt. co. for shares in the other co. & the purchase from her by the bkpt. co. of the shares so received by her from the other co., the purchase-price being payable by crediting her with full settlement of the amount owing by her to the bkpt. co. Similar resolutions were passed with respect to the shares & indebtedness of the indebted directors. Her husband voted on the resolutions affecting her:—Held: apart from the question of the validity of the resolutions, the transaction should be set aside on the ground that it was a sham & did not fall within the cases in which it has been held that a bonâ fide out-&-out transfer of partially paid shares on the eve of insolvency of a co. will be upheld, even though made to an insolvent & for the purpose of getting rid of the liability thereon.—CLARK (R. The son attained his minority, in Scots law, in Sept. 1923. The share certificates were held by resp. until July, 1925, when he deposited them with his law agents on behalf of the son. Dividend warrants were issued regularly in the son's name. Resp., on behalf of the son, claimed repayment for the year ended Apr. 5, 1925, of the tax deducted from the dividends on the shares. The Crown contended (a) that to make a gift by a father to his son effective there must be a delivery either to the donee or to some third person for him; (b) that as the son was a pupil child at the date of the alleged gift he was incapable of acting or consenting, & that resp., as tutor of the pupil child, was the only person who could act for him; (c) that as resp. had done nothing beyond taking the title to the shares in the son's name, the shares remained under the control & at the disposal of resp. The claim was allowed by the General Comrs. who held that the shares had been effectively donated to the son & were his sole property:—Held: an effective donation of the shares had been made.—INLAND REVENUE COMRS. v. WILSON, [1928] S.C. Such notice shall constitute the co. the agent of the retiring member for the sale of such shares to any member of the co. or a person selected as aforesaid at the fair value. No sale notice shall be withdrawn except with the sanction of the directors":—Held: there was nothing in the language of arts. 5 & 6 which gave rise to the necessity of implying any restriction upon the right of a member of the company to transfer shares therein to another member.—DELAVENNE v. BROADHURST, [1931] 1 Ch. 234; 100 L. 2589a. —— —— Finance Act, 1927 (c. 10), s. 55.—What amounts to "issue" of shares]—In connection with a scheme for the reconstruction of a company a new co. was formed to enter into a sale agreement to acquire the undertaking of the existing co. The consideration for the agreement was to consist, in addition to the discharge by the new co. of certain liabilities of the old co. of the allotment of shares in the new co. to the shareholders in the old co. Letters of allotment were sent to these shareholders, accompanied by a form of renunciation. Before the original allottees were registered some of them renounced in favour of other persons, with the result that of the first registered shareholders in the new co. those who had been shareholders in the old co. held less than 90 per cent. of the shares in the new co. The question of the stamp duty payable on the sale agreement & other documents was submitted for adjudication, the co. contending that the sending of the letters of allotment constituted an "issue" of shares to the original allottees, & that the conditions of exemption from ad valorem duty laid down in the Finance Act, 1927 (c. 10), s. 55, were complied with. The Comrs. of Inland Revenue decided that ad valorem duty was payable:—Held: the allotment letter accompanied by the form of renunciation was not an issue of shares, but only notice that the allottee was entitled to demand that shares should be issued either to himself or, if he preferred it, to his nominee to be named in the form of renunciation. Therefore the Comrs. were right in claiming ad valorem duty.—OSWALD TILLOTSON, LTD. v. INLAND REVENUE COMRS., [1933] 1 K. B. 134; 101 L. J. K. B. 737; 147 L. T. 481; 48 T. L. R. 628, C. A.

2589a. —— —— ——.]—Applt. co. in 1918 acquired all the issued ordinary shares of the C. Co. for a cash consideration. In 1936, it acquired practically all the issued preference shares, in consideration of the allotment of preference shares of applt. co. It was contended that the transfers effecting the acquisition of the preference shares in 1936 were exempt from stamp duty under Finance Act, 1927 (c. 10), s. 55:—Held: the consideration for the acquisition of the ordinary shares was cash, & not the allotment of shares, & it could not be said that applt. co. had increased its capital with a view to the acquisition of 90 per cent. of the share capital of the C. Co. The transfers were not entitled to the exemption claimed, & attracted the usual ad valorem conveyance duty.—LEVER BROS., LTD. v. INLAND REVENUE COMRS., [1937] 4 All E. R. 227; 54 T. L. 2590a. —— —— ——.]—Those in control of deft. co. were desirous of converting it into a private co., & pltfs. were anxious to prevent this being done. With this purpose in view pltfs. executed 44 transfers, each being a transfer of five £1 shares for a stated consideration of £5. Each transfer was stamped 1*s.* (which is the correct duty on a transfer for £5), but bore no adjudication stamp. It was proved that no consideration money passed, & that the transfers were not transfers upon a sale of the shares. The co. refused to register the transfers for the reason that they were not duly stamped:—Held: (1) the co. was justified in refusing to register the transfers. The transfers, not being conveyances on sale, must be stamped either as voluntary conveyances, in which case Finance (1909–10) Act, 1910 (c. 8), s. 74 (2), required that the stamp duty should be adjudicated, or under Sched. to the Stamp Act, 1891 (c. 39), as conveyances or transfers of any kind not thereinbefore described, in which case that Act required them to be stamped 10*s.*; (2) following Maynard v. Consolidated Kent Collieries Corpn., [1903] 2 K. 2879a. ——— ———.]—(1) A private co. was governed partly by special arts. & partly by Table A. Table A, art. 70, fixed the qualification of a director as "the holding of at least one share." Special art. 20 empowered the directors to appoint any other "qualified person" either to fill a casual vacancy or as an addition to the board. At a full board meeting on Saturday, Nov. 14, transfers of shares to two outsiders were duly passed for registration, after which the transferees were forthwith elected directors. The transfers were registered on the following Monday:—Held: though before their appointment the transferees had acquired an absolute right to registration, they were not "qualified persons" before actual registration, & their appointment as directors was invalid.

(2) A director was due to retire by rotation at the annual general meeting on Wednesday, Nov. 11, & part of the business of which notice was given was the election of a director in his place. The retiring director's re-election was moved at the meeting, but the matter, though discussed, was not finally dealt with, & the meeting was adjourned successively to Thursday, Nov. 12, Saturday, Nov. 14, & Tuesday, Nov. 17. At the last adjournment the original motion for the retiring director's re-election was put & lost, & another shareholder was proposed & elected in his place:—Held: as the adjourned meeting was merely a continuation of the original meeting at which the question of the retiring director's re-election or replacement was considered, the proceedings were in order, & Table A, art. 82, had no application. The larger the business carried on by the co. the more numerous & the more important the matters that must of necessity be left to the managers, the accountants, & the rest of the staff.

(2) In ascertaining the duties of a director of a co., it is necessary to consider the nature of the co.'s business & the manner in which the work of the co. is, reasonably in the circumstances & consistently with the arts. of assocn., distributed between the directors & the other officials of the co.

(3) In discharging those duties, a director (a) must act honestly, & (b) must exercise such degree of skill & diligence as would amount to the reasonable care which an ordinary man might be expected to take, in the circumstances, on his own behalf. But,

11. ——.]—Two of the directors of an Alberta co. who, at the time in question, owned in the aggregate all but 40 of its 1,000 issued shares, & who managed its business virtually as a partnership, agreed to, & did, pay themselves a bonus, in cash & in shares owned by the co., as extra remuneration for their services. Under the arts. of assocn. the bonuses in question could have been authorised by the directors of the co. The only remaining director on learning of the arraugement approved of it ; & it appeared that all the shareholders had been willing that all the business of the co. should be carried on by said two directors without consultation with the shareholders. The payment of the bonuses was not, however, authorised at a directors' meeting or by a resolution signed by the directors ; nor was any shareholders' meeting held to pass on it, & it was not proven that both of the two remaining shareholders other than the directors had individually assented thereto. Subsequently under an agreement to which the co. was a party, deft. C., one of said two directors, sold his shares to the other at an agreed valuation based on the assumption that the bonuses had been legally paid. In an action by the co. to compel the return of the shares received by C. as such bonus or for damages in lieu thereof :—Held : in the absence of a directors' meeting or resolution signed by the directors, the payment of the bonuses was invalid, & the co. was entitled to judgment.—GRAY & FARR, LTD. v. CARLILE, [1931] 2 W. PART III. SECT. 28, SUB-SECT. 4.—C.

3058 i. —— Reasonable diligence.]—In discharging his duties, a director must act honestly & must exercise such degree of skill & diligence as would amount to the reasonable care which an ordinary man might be expected to take in the circumstances in his own behalf.—GOVIND NARAYAN v. RANGNATH GOPAL (1929), I. L. R. 54 Bom. 226.—IND.

(c) he need not exhibit in the performance of his duties a greater degree of skill than may reasonably be expected from a person of his knowledge & experience; in other words, he is not liable for mere errors of judgment; (d) he is not bound to give continuous attention to the affairs of his co.; his duties are of an intermittent nature to be performed at periodical board meetings, & at meetings of any committee to which he is appointed, & though not bound to attend all such meetings he ought to attend them when reasonably able to do so; & (e) in respect of all duties which, having regard to the exigencies of business & the arts. of assocn., may properly be left to some other official, he is, in the absence of grounds for suspicion, justified in trusting that official to perform such duties honestly.

(4) A director who signs a cheque that appears to be drawn for a legitimate purpose is not responsible for seeing that the money is in fact required for that purpose, or that it is subsequently applied for that purpose, assuming, of course, that the cheque comes before him for signature in the regular way, having regard to the usual practice of the co. A director must of necessity trust to the officials of the co. to perform properly & honestly the duties allocated to them.

Before any director signs a cheque, or parts with a cheque signed by him, he should satisfy himself that a resolution has been passed by the board, or committee of the board, as the case may be, authorising the signature of the cheque; & where a cheque has to be signed between meetings, he should obtain the confirmation of the board subsequently to his signature.

The authority given by the board or committee should not be for the signing of numerous cheques to an aggregate amount, but a proper list of the individual cheques, mentioning the payee & the amount of each, should be read out at the board or committee meeting & subsequently transcribed into the minutes of the meeting.

(5) It is the duty of each director to see that the co.'s moneys are from time to time in a proper state of investment, except so far as the arts. of assocn. may justify him in delegating that duty to others.

(6) Before presenting their annual report & balance sheet to their shareholders, & before recommending a dividend, directors should have a complete & detailed list of the co.'s assets & investments prepared for their own use & information, & ought not to be satisfied as to the value of their co.'s assets merely by the assurance of their chairman, however apparently distinguished & honourable, nor with the expression of the belief of their auditors, however competent & trustworthy.

(7) It is not the duty of a director of a big insurance co. to supervise personally the safe custody of the securities of the co. It would be impracticable, on every purchase of securities, for actual delivery thereof to be made to the directors, or, on every sale, for the delivery to the brokers of the securities sold to await a meeting of the board or of a committee of directors. The duty of seeing that the securities are in safe custody must of necessity be left to some official of the co. in daily attendance at the office of the co., such as the manager, accountant, or secretary.

(8) A co.'s stockbrokers, however respectable & responsible they may be, are not proper persons to have the custody of its securities except on such occasions when, for short periods, securities must of necessity be left with them; but immediately such necessity ceases the securities should be lodged in the co.'s strong room or with its bank, or placed in other proper & usual safe keeping.

(9) A director is not responsible for declaring a dividend unwisely. He is liable if he pays it out of capital, but the onus of proving that he has done so lies upon the liquidator who alleges it.

Art. 150 of the co.'s arts. of assocn. provided (inter alia) that none of the directors, auditors, secretary or other officers for the time being of the co. should be answerable for any loss, misfortune, or damage which might happen in the execution of their respective offices or trusts, or in relation thereto, unless the same should happen by or through their own wilful neglect or default respectively:—Held: (10) an act, or an omission to do an act, is wilful where the person who acts, or omits to act, knows what he is doing & intends to do what he is doing, but if that act or omission amounts to a breach of that person's duty, & therefore to negligence, he is not guilty of wilful neglect or default unless he knows that he is committing, & intends to commit, a breach of his duty, or is recklessly careless in the sense of not caring whether his act or omission is or is not a breach of his duty; (11) the immunity afforded by art. 150 was one of the terms upon which the directors held office in the co., & availed them as much on a misfeasance summons by the Official Receiver under 1908 Act, s. 215, as it would have done in an action by the co. against them for negligence; (12) upon the evidence & in accordance with the principles enunciated above, none of the resp. directors, other than the managing director, was liable.

(13) The measure of the auditor's responsibility depends upon the terms of his engagement. There may be a special contract defining the duties & liabilities of the auditors. If there is, then that contract governs the question. The arts. will, however, be looked at if there is no special agreement, because the auditors will presumably have taken their duties upon the terms, among others, set out in the arts. That is not to say that auditors can set aside a statutory obligation. No agreement or art. of assocn. can remove an imperative or statutory duty.

(14) Sect. 113 does not lay down a rigid code. The duty imposed on the auditors by it is not absolute, but depends upon the information given & explanations furnished to them, so that there is abundant scope for discretion. Art. 150 is not in conflict with the sect. The onus lies upon the auditors, who would not be excused for total omission to comply with any of the requirements of the sect., or for any consequences of deliberate or reckless indifferent failure to ask for information on matters which call for further explanation.

(15) An auditor is not justified in omitting to make personal inspection of securities that are in the custody of a person or co. with whom it is not proper that they should be left, whenever such personal inspection is practicable.

(16) When an auditor discovers that securities of the co. are not in proper custody, it is his duty to require that the matter be put right at once, or, if his requirement is not complied with, to report the fact to the shareholders, & this whether he can or cannot make a personal inspection.

Auditors should not be content with a certificate that securities are in the possession of a particular co., firm, or person unless the co., etc., is trustworthy, or, as it is sometimes put, respectable, & further is one that in the ordinary course of business keeps securities for its customers. In all these cases the auditor must use his judgment.

Where the auditors did not personally inspect the securities of the co. in the hands of the stockbrokers of the co., & accepted from time to time the certificate of the brokers that they held large blocks of such securities, & did not either insist upon those securities being put in proper custody or report the matter to the shareholders:—Held: (17) they committed a breach of duty, but, inasmuch as throughout the audit the auditors honestly & carefully discharged what they conceived to be the whole of their duty to the co., such negligence was not wilful, & art. 150 applied to exonerate them from liability.

Where the auditors after a full investigation in which they were misled & deceived, & their reports to the board suppressed, by the chairman of the co., (a) described large sums of money left in the hands of the co.'s stockbrokers & lent to the general manager of the co. as "Loans at call or short notice," "Loans" or "Cash at hand & in bank"; failed to discover that the co.'s stockbrokers, in order to reduce their indebtedness to the co. for the purposes of the audit, made purchases, on behalf of the co., immediately before the close of the co.'s financial year, of Treasury Bills which in fact never came into the possession of the co. & were sold immediately the new financial year had opened:—Held: (18) they were not guilty of any breach of duty as auditors.

The co. went into voluntary liquidation, & thereafter a director was indicted & tried for alleged fraud in relation to acts done by him as director prior to the date of the liquidation, the charges being that he had issued a fraudulent prospectus, & had fraudulently misapplied funds of the co. He was acquitted; & thereupon he lodged a claim in the liquidation for the expenses incurred by him in his defence. The liquidators rejected his claim:—Held: he was not entitled to his expenses either under the indemnity clause or at common law, in respect that expenses incurred in defending himself against an allegation that he did something, which he did not in fact do & which it was not his duty to do, were not expenses incurred by him as a director or as an agent of the co. in the discharge of his duties.—TOMLINSON v. SCOTTISH AMALGAMATED SILKS, LTD. After an order for the compulsory winding up of the co. appct. put in a proof for £950 in respect of directors' fees. The liquidator rejected the proof to the extent of £350, allowing only £600 on the ground that all directors' fees which had accrued due more than six years before the date of the winding-up order were barred by Stat. Limitations. The directors' fees due to appct. appeared from balance sheets duly signed by two directors & passed by the co. Upon a summons taken out by appct. asking that the decision of the liquidator rejecting his proof to the extent of £350 might be reversed, & that the proof might be allowed in the full sum of £950 :—Held : (1) a board of directors, acting as a board, & passing a resolution adopting a balance-sheet which includes directors' fees, does not bind the co. to pay those fees; (2) a balance-sheet so adopted & signed by directors pursuant to Cos. Special resolutions embodying that agreement were thereafter passed which provided also that the ordinary directors should have no right at directors' meetings to vote in respect of the co.'s financial affairs, & that with regard to other business they were to have only such rights of voting & control over the management as might be conferred upon them by the permanent directors. An accountant prepared a balance-sheet which showed the amount due to the co. by each of the two defts., & that balance-sheet, which was signed thus : " Peter Shaw, John Shaw, Directors," was adopted at a general meeting of the co. at which defts. were present.

permanent directors, at a meeting to which none of the ordinary directors was summoned, resolved that instructions be given for writs to be issued against defts. for the recovery of the debts owing by them, & although by a resolution passed subsequently by the shareholders at an extraordinary meeting of the co. the chairman was directed to discontinue proceedings, a writ was issued against each deft. claiming the amount as "found & admitted by deft. to be due to pltfs. as shown by pltfs.' balance-sheet." In this case, however, the ct. had not with regard to matters of fact the information necessary for deciding whether effect should be given to the objection to the competency of the actions & the objection therefore failed; (2) as to the cause of action relied upon: by the whole ct., the balance-sheet was not an account stated involving a fresh promise by defts. to pay the amounts debited to them therein, inasmuch as it was signed by them not animo contrahendi but in performance of their duties as directors.—SHAW (JOHN) & SONS (SALFORD), LTD. v. SHAW, [1935] 2 K. 3157a. —— Presumption of authority.]—Pltfs. were a firm of fruit brokers. Defts. & the P. Co. were two cos. engaged in the fruit trade. M. was a director of both cos. By art. 28 of the arts. of deft. co. the directors were empowered to "delegate any of the powers for the time being vested in the directors." The arts. also incorporated Table A. M. purported to make on behalf of defts. an agreement with pltfs. that in consideration of pltfs. advancing a sum of money to the P. Co., pltfs. should have the right to sell on commission all the fruit imported both by defts. & the P. Co., & that pltfs. should be entitled to retain the proceeds of sale of defts.' fruit as well as of that of the P. Co. as security for the advance. M. had no authority from defts. to make such a contract. Pltfs. requiring confirmation of the agreement by deft. co., the secretary of defts. wrote a letter purporting to confirm the agreement on behalf of defts., & pltfs., treating that as a sufficient confirmation, made the advance. The secretary had no authority to give such confirmation. Defts. subsequently repudiated the agreement as made without their authority. At the time that they made the advance pltfs. had no knowledge of the terms of defts.' arts. or that they incorporated Table A:—Held: whether the agreement was to be treated as having been made by M. as an ordinary "director" of deft. co., or by the secretary as "agent," or by the two combined, pltfs. were not entitled to assume that any authority to make it had been delegated to them by the board, because (1) although a person who contracts with an individual director or servants of a co., knowing that the board of directors has power to delegate its authority to such an individual, may in certain circumstances assume that power of delegation has been exercised & that he may safely deal with the individual in question as representing the co., he cannot rely on the supposed exercise of such power if he did not know of the existence of the power at the time that he made the contract; (2) there was something so unusual in an agreement to apply the money of one co. in payment of the debt of another that pltfs. were put upon inquiry to ascertain whether the person or persons making the contract had any authority in fact to make it; (3) even if pltfs. had known of the existence of the express power of delegation, they would not have been entitled to assume that it had been exercised in favour of M. or the secretary to any greater extent than was to be inferred from the positions which M. & the secretary respectively occupied or were held out by the co. as occupying.—HOUGHTON & CO. v. NOTHARD, LOWE & WILLS, [1927] 1 K. 3301 i. Estoppel of shareholders.]—Deft. brewing co. was incorporated under Dominion Cos. Act in 1924. In 1926 the C. co. was organised, also with a Dominion charter & with substantially the same incorporators & officers, to act as the agent of the brewing co. to promote the sales of its products. By an agreement between the two cos., the prices which the C. co. was to collect from customers upon sales, as well as the rates at which they were to remit when so collected, were fixed, the difference in favour of the C. co. constituting their remuneration for services to be rendered. Pltf. a shareholder & director of both cos. brought this action on behalf of himself & all other shareholders of the two cos. against the two cos. & four individual defts., who were shareholders directors & officers of both cos. to compel the individual defts. to pay back into the treasury or either or both cos. sums alleged to have been improperly paid to them by the cos. in 1927, 1928, & 1929. These sums were paid to the individual defts. for "promotion expenses" :—Held : in so far as the action rested upon the contention that the moneys paid by the brewing co. to the C. co. were improperly paid, it failed for the reason that pltf. himself received & still retained a portion of those moneys, & was not therefore in a position to complain either individually, or as a shareholder of the brewing co.—SHIESEL v. KIRSH, [1931] 1 D. At the end of the time he ceased, in accordance with sect. 141 (3) of 1929 Act, to be a director, but continued to act & to receive remuneration as a director, thus incurring penalties under sub-sect. (5). Later, he was re-appointed by the board pursuant to the co.'s arts. of assocn., retired, & was re-elected by the shareholders. He applied to the ct. by petition under sect. 372 (2) for relief against any liability which he had incurred by acting & receiving remuneration as a director after he had ceased to be a director : —Held : the ct. has jurisdiction under sect. 372 (1) to relieve a director who has acted as a director without having obtained qualification shares within the prescribed period from the penalties imposed by sect. 141.

But semble, the ct. will in general decline to relieve a director from liability to repay money to a co. or its liquidator in the absence of evidence as to the wishes of the shareholders or, if the co. is insolvent, of the creditors.—Re BARRY & STAINES LINOLEUM, LTD., [1934] Ch. 227; 103 L. 3345b. —— —— Invalid appointment of director.]—L. F. owned the greater part of the shares of J. F. & Son, Ltd. His wife was appointed director in his lifetime, & also in his lifetime one C. C. was appointed a director. The latter never took up his qualification shares, &, although he continued to act & was treated as a director, he in law ceased to be such in 1933. L. F. died in 1934, & his wife, being in bad health, then went to the South of France, it being expected that her stay there would be a temporary one, but in fact she never returned. The directors at their meeting in the autumn of 1934 proposed to recommend to the annual general meeting of the co. that she should receive remuneration at the rate of £8 per week as from Feb. 10, 1934, & that proposal was accepted & confirmed at the annual general meeting. It appeared, however, that there was not a quorum at that meeting, & payments made under the resolution were sought to be recovered from L. F.'s wife & the two persons who voted at the meeting. It was contended that this was a proper case for relief under 1929 Act, s. 372, as the persons in question had acted honestly & reasonably, & ought fairly to be excused :—Held : though the defect in the resolution was a mere technicality, the appointment of the director being invalid, this was not a case in which, in all the circumstances of the case, any of the parties ought fairly to be excused for the breach of trust in making the improper payments.—Re FRANKLIN (J.) & SON, LTD., [1937] 4 All E. 3455b. —— Failure to re-elect or replace.]—By art. 97 of a co.'s arts., "At the second ordinary general meeting in each calendar year, one-third of the directors . . . shall retire from office. A retiring director shall retain office until the dissolution of the meeting at which his successor is elected." By art. 100, "If at any meeting at which an election of directors ought to take place the places of the retiring directors or some of them are not filled up, then, subject to any resolution reducing the number of directors, the retiring directors, or such of them as have not had their places filled up & may be willing to act, shall be deemed to have been re-elected" :—Held : if a retiring director was not re-elected, & if his place was not filled up at the same meeting, he retained office until his retirement by rotation, since by art 100 he was to be deemed to have been re-elected & therefore there was no vacancy to which a successor could subsequently be elected.—HOLT v. CATTERALL (1931), 47 T. L. R. 332.

3455c. —— Construction of articles.]—Art. 85 of a co.'s arts. of assocn. provides that "at the ordinary meeting in 1925 & every subsequent year, one-third, or the nearest number next below one-third, of the whole number of directors shall retire from office," that a retiring director is to be eligible for re-election at the meeting at which he retires & shall act as director throughout that meeting, & that the directors to retire in 1925, "unless the directors agree among themselves, shall be determined by ballot" & those to retire in every subsequent year "shall be those who have been longest in office since their last election & when two or more of such directors shall have served for an equal period, then their retirement shall be determined by ballot." In 1935 the board consisted of the chairman & seven other directors. Of these the managing director was by art. 101 not liable to retire by rotation or be taken into account in determining the rotation of retirement, & two others were additional directors appointed under art. 90, which provided that any additional director should hold office "only until the next following ordinary general meeting of the co." No question arose as to the first director to retire, but if a second director had to retire a selection had to be made between the pltf. & the chairman who had held office as directors for an equal period :—Held : (1) the words "by ballot" in art. 85 meant "by lot"; (2) "the whole number of directors" under art. 85 of whom a proportion was to retire did not include the additional directors, who by art. 90 only held office until the ordinary general meeting, seeing that the directors to retire fell by art. 85 to be determined at that meeting. It followed that one director only had to retire.—EYRE v. MILTON PROPRIETARY, LTD., [1936] Ch. 244; 105 L. J. Ch. 121; 154 L. T. 120; 52 T. L. R. 208; 80 Sol. Jo. 15, C. A.

3455d. Effect on contract of service.]—Pltfs. entered into an agreement with deft. co., a private co. under 1929 Act, to act as managers, buyers & supervisors for a term of 5 years. The agreement provided that it should be ipso facto determined upon either of pltfs. at any time vacating his or her office as director, but neither of them should at any time during its continuance resign his or her directorship or disqualify himself or herself from holding such office. At the first ordinary general meeting of the co., when pltfs. would, under Table A, art. 73, which was incorporated in the co.'s articles, automatically vacate their offices as directors, but be eligible for re-election, the chairman, who was the governing director, proposed a resolution that another person be appointed director in place of one of pltfs. & that the remaining vacancy be left unfilled. This resolution was after adjournments passed. Deft. co. then treated the agreement as terminated, & pltfs. brought this action for wrongful dismissal :—Held : (1) if pltfs. had been re-elected, or not being re-elected there had been no resolution to fill up the vacated office, there would have been no vacation of their offices; (2) the provision in the agreement for its termination did not apply only to voluntary resignation, & pltfs.' offices as directors had by reason of the passing of the resolution been ipso facto determined under the first part of the clause.—WALKER v. KENNS, LTD., [1937] 1 All E. 3491a. —— —— Effect of voluntary winding-up.]—By an agreement in writing made between pltf. & deft. co. pltf. was appointed managing director of the co. for a term of 5¼ years at a fixed salary. Before the expiration of that period the co. passed a resolution, which was assented to by pltf., for the voluntary winding up of the co. on the ground that by reason of its liabilities it could not continue its business. Pltf. thereupon brought an action claiming damages for repudiation of the agreement :—Held : a term could not be implied in the agreement that if the co. should be wound up voluntarily & pltf. should vote for that course being adopted, his employment should cease so as to disentitle him to damages for breach or the agreement. Pltf. was therefore entitled to damages for breach of the agreement.—FOWLER v. COMMERCIAL TIMBER CO., LTD., [1930] 2 K. B. 1; 99 L. J. K. B. 529; 143 L. T. 391, C. A.

3497a. —— Failure to obtain qualification shares—Recovery on quantum meruit.]—Pltf. was appointed managing director of a co. by an agreement under the co.'s seal which also provided for his remuneration. By the arts. of assocn. of the co. each director was required to obtain his qualification shares within two months after his appointment. Neither pltf. nor the other directors obtained their qualification shares within two months or at all. Pltf. having done work for the co. claimed to recover the remuneration provided for in the agreement, or, alternatively, on the basis of a quantum meruit :—Held : the fact that pltf. did the work under an agreement which was in the fact void did not disentitle him from recovering on a quantum meruit.—CRAVEN-ELLIS v. CANONS, LTD., [1936] 2 K. 3500a. Power to provide for employees—Grant of pension.]—A private co., the articles of which authorised the directors to provide for the welfare of employees & their widows & children, entered into a deed of covenant by which it granted a pension of £500 a year to the widow of a former managing director five years after his death. Some three years later the co. passed a resolution for voluntary winding-up. The widow lodged a proof in the winding-up for the capitalised value of the annuity, but the liquidator rejected it :—Held : the transaction was not one for the benefit of the co. or reasonably incidental to the co.'s business. The pension did not come within the terms of the co.'s articles, as a managing or other director is not a person in the employment of a co., & the action of the directors was not confirmed by the shareholders in general meeting convened for the purpose of doing so. The grant of the pension was therefore void & ultra vires the co.—Re LEE, BEHRENS & CO., LTD., [1932] 2 Ch. 46; 101 L. J. Ch. 183; 147 L. T. 348; 48 T. L. R. 248; [1931] B. & C. R. 160.

The balance sheet of the co., for the year ending Mar. 31, 1935, showed a profit of £698 11*s.* 10*d.*, which sum the directors used for writing off preliminary expenses & in making a transfer to certain reserve accounts. 3560a. Remuneration by commission—Amount recoverable—How calculated.]—Applt., pltf. in the action, was for many years secretary of resp. co. Originally he received a fixed salary per week, but in 1916 an agreement was made between him & one A. S., managing director of resp. co., to the effect that in addition to his weekly salary he was to receive 10 per cent. on the balance of profits after payment of 12½ per cent. dividend. In 1926 applt. quarrelled with A. S. & left the service of resps., & shortly afterwards he brought this action for an account of the sums due to him as commission & for payment of the amount found to be due. It appeared that nearly all the capital of the resp. co. was held by A. S. & his family, & that he, as managing director, had entire control of the co.'s business. During applt.'s tenure of office A. S., with the connivance & assistance of applt., habitually appropriated funds of the co. to his own purposes. Applt. in framing his claim for commission contended (i) that the 12½ per cent. dividend referred to in the agreement must be a dividend subject to income-tax; (ii) that the 12½ per cent. dividend must be limited to an amount representing 12½ per cent. on the capital of the co. at the date of the agreement & had no application to subsequent increases of capital; & (iii) that for the purpose of calculating his commission he was entitled to reintroduce into the accounts all the sums which had been unlawfully applied for the benefit of A. S. personally:—Held: (1) the 12½ per cent. dividend must be a dividend subject to income-tax; the 12½ per cent. dividend must be measured on the capital as it stood in each year when the accounts were made up; & in reckoning the amount on which commission must be paid no account could be taken of the sums which ought to have been included in the profits but had been misappropriated by A. S.; (2) although applt. had been guilty of misconduct in relation to the affairs of resps., he was entitled to recover moneys which were already due to him for work done on resps.' behalf, & the remedy of resps. was an action or counterclaim for damages for breach of duty.—RAMSDEN v. SHARRATT (DAVID) & SONS, LTD. This branch manager, without having in fact received any authority from the co., & acting in fraud of the co., drew seven bills of exchange on behalf of the co. signed "S.C., Manchester manager." The bills were drawn to the order of the co., they were accepted by C. & W. & indorsed on behalf of the co. "S.C., Manchester manager." 3661 i. General rule.]—Persons who continue from year to year to assume the duties of auditors must be held to have agreed to conduct their work in a reasonably skilful & careful manner. In an action in which defts. auditors were held liable in damages for negligence in not detecting defalcations by the pltf.'s accountant, it was held that there was ample justification for the belief of pltf.'s shareholders that the report pltf. was receiving annually from defts. provided for such an audit as would reasonably catch such thefts & manipulations of the books as said employee had been guilty of. Defts. were not justified in taking directions from another employee, the manager, whom also they were required to check, as to whether it was necessary to do certain work of checking. Since defts. were aware that pltf.'s system of checking was faulty & that the danger of theft was always present, the default of pltf., or of its employees other than the accused in not remedying that situation did not excuse the continuing negligence of defts. The fact that pltf. had received from bonding cos. the greater part of the loss it had sustained was not a defence to the action. Any possible issue arising from such payment might be left to be determined between pltf. & said cos. on defts. making payment, or, alternatively, if defts. so required, the form of judgment might provide for notice to any parties, such as the bonding cos., presumed to have an interest therein.—INTERNATIONAL LABORATORIES, LTD. v. DEWAR, [1932] 3 W. 3661 ii. ——.]—The extent of the duty & liability of an auditor depends on the terms of his employment in the particular case, & on the book-keeping methods used, to the knowledge of his employer, by the latter's officials.—JAMIESON, AUSTIN & MITCHELL, LTD. v. BATTRUM, [1934] 1 W. W. R. 324.—CAN.

3668 i. As to balance sheet.]—Although an auditor of a co. is not an insurer, & does not guarantee that the books of the co. show the true position of its affairs or that his balance-sheet is accurate according to the books, it is his duty to ascertain & certify to the shareholders the true financial position of the co. at the time of the audit so far as reasonable care & skill on his part discloses it; it is not sufficient for him to ascertain that the balance-sheet corresponds to the books, he must take reasonable care to ascertain that the books themselves show the true position. It is his duty to report & comment on any item in the balance-sheet furnished by the directors which either appears or is found from investigation to call for comment or explanation. An auditor who gives shareholders means of information instead of information in respect of a co.'s financial position does so at his peril, & runs the very serious risk of being held, judicially, to have failed to have discharged his duty. When it is shown that the audited balance-sheets do not show the true condition of the co. & that damage has resulted the onus is on the auditor to show that such damage is not the result of any breach of duty on his part.—BLUE BAND NAVIGATION CO., LTD. 3704a. —— Interference by court.]—It is for the shareholders, & not for the ct., to say whether an alteration of the articles is for the benefit of the co., provided that it is not of such a character as that no reasonable men could so regard it.

The arts. of assocn. of a co. provided that pltf. & four others should be the first directors of the co., & that they should be permanent directors, & that each of them should be entitled to hold office so long as he should live unless he should become disqualified from any one of six specified events. Owing to irregularities in the accounts furnished by pltf. of sums received by him on the co.'s account an extraordinary general meeting of the co. was held & a special resolution was passed that the articles should be altered by adding a seventh event disqualifying a director, namely, a request in writing by all his co-directors that he should resign his office. Such a request was subsequently made to the pltf. There was no evidence of bad faith on the part of the shareholders. In an action by pltf. for breach of an alleged contract contained in the original articles that he should be a permanent director, & for a declaration that he was still a director of the co. :—Held : the contract, if any, between pltf. & the co. contained in the articles in their original form was subject to the statutory power of alteration & that if the alteration was bonâ fide for the benefit of the co. it was valid & there was no breach of that contract ; there was no ground for saying that the alteration could not reasonably be considered for the benefit of the co. ; therefore, there being no evidence of bad faith, there was no ground for questioning the decision of the shareholders that the alteration was for the benefit of the co. ; &, consequently, pltf. was not entitled to the relief claimed.—SHUTTLEWORTH v. COX BROTHERS & CO. Subsequently the capital of the co. was increased by the issue of preferred ordinary shares with the right to a non-cumulative preferential dividend of 10 per cent. payable in respect of each year exclusively out of the profits earned in each year & to rank after the preference shares. 3943a. ——— ——— ———.]—A co. was incorporated as a trust investment co., the objects as defined by clause 3 of its memorandum of assocn. including (a) to acquire & hold stocks, shares & securities of the classes therein specified & from time to time to change such investments for others of the like nature, & (b) to borrow on debenture stock & to redeem or pay off any moneys so borrowed. The business & accounts of the co. were conducted & kept, as required by the articles of assocn., on the footing that profit or loss on a change of investment was carried to capital account, & net receipts over expenditure were carried to revenue account & became available for payment of dividends without regard to any depreciation in the market value of the co.'s investments. In 1900 the co. issued at par debenture stock. In 1918, owing to the general fall in the value of securities, the directors were enabled to redeem some of this debenture stock at a discount, & they claimed the right to carry the whole amount of this discount to revenue account. The investments forming the assets of the co. had fallen to an extent approximately equivalent to the discount at which the debenture stock had been redeemed :—Held : (1) apart from the special provisions of the articles of assocn., the single item of gain by redemption of debenture stock could not be dissociated from the loss of capital assets, & that the amount of the discount was not distributable as dividend; (2) the issue of loan capital was not one of the objects or part of the business of the co., but was a power to be exercised incidentally to, & in furtherance of, its objects, & even if the discount was otherwise divisible as net profit, such a division would be prohibited by the fact that it did not arise out of the co.'s business.—WALL v. LONDON & PROVINCIAL TRUST, LTD., [1920] 2 Ch. 582; 90 L. The by-laws of the co. provided that the directors might before declaring any dividend set aside out of profits such sums as they should think proper as a reserve. Arrears of dividend—Distribution.]—The memorandum of assocn. of a co. provided for the payment on the ordinary shares of the co. of a cumulative dividend not exceeding 5 per cent. per annum & for any balance of profits being applied for the benefit of a garden city or its inhabitants. Art. 129 of the arts. of assocn. provided that, subject to the rights of holders of debentures & preference shares, the net profits of the co., after providing for a reserve fund & for depreciation, "shall be divided by way of dividend among the members in proportion to the amount paid on the ordinary shares held by them respectively, but so that the dividends upon the ordinary shares for any year shall not exceed the aggregate rate of 5 per cent. per annum. The surplus of the net profits of the co. after payment of such dividends & the amount necessary to make up dividends for past years to the rate of 5 per cent. per annum shall be applied" for the benefit of the town or its inhabitants as therein mentioned. The co. from time to time over a number of years issued ordinary shares. From 1904 to 1917 no dividend was paid on the ordinary shares, & it was only since 1923 that a full dividend of 5 per cent. had been paid. There were now profits available for payment of arrears of dividend, after payment of the dividend for the current year, but not sufficient to pay the whole of the arrears:—Held: the fund available should be distributed ratably among the shareholders according to the respective amounts of the arrears of dividend payable on the shares held by them respectively.—FIRST GARDEN CITY v. BONHAM-CARTER, [1928] Ch. 53; 97 L. 4023a. —— ——.]—By its memorandum of assocn. a co. as an attraction to participating preference shareholders, provided for the constitution of a reserve fund of £50,000 to be accumulated from the profits of the co. after certain dividend payments had been made. The arts. of assocn. of the co., however, also authorised the setting aside of a reserve fund out of profits, in addition to the reserve fund empowered by the memorandum, & the fund set aside under the arts. was, according to the arts., to be used to meet contingencies, or for special dividends, or for repairing, improving, & maintaining the property of the co. & for such other purposes as the directors should in their absolute discretion think conducive to the interests of the co. The arts. also provided that the reserve fund to be set aside under the memorandum should be kept invested outside the business "until required for any of the above purposes" :—Held : the memorandum & the arts. might be read together to explain any ambiguity appearing in the terms of the memorandum or to supplement it on any matter on which it was silent, but that in the present case, as there was no ambiguity, the reserve fund authorised by the memorandum having been created for the benefit & protection of the preference shareholders, the two documents could not be read together, & it was ultra vires the directors of the co. to use the memorandum reserve fund of £50,000 for any of the purposes set out in the arts. of assocn.—ANGOSTURA BITTERS (DR. 4050a. —— Under agreement—To repurchase shares—Allotted in consideration of advance to company—Lender requiring repayment of loan.]—Pltf., with the view to assist his son-in-law in obtaining the appointment of business manager of a limited co. of which the two defts. were directors & shareholders, entered into a written agreement with the co. & defts. to advance to the co. a sum of £1,500 by the purchase of 1,500 £1 preference shares of the co., the repayment of that sum being secured by the co.'s undertaking, in the event of pltf. or his son-in-law terminating that agreement, to procure the repurchase of the shares at par & to secure the purchase money therefor by accepting bills drawn by pltf.: & in that arrangement the two defts. joined as sureties guaranteeing the due performance by the co. of its part of the agreement. Pltf., accordingly, advanced £1,500 to the co., & accepted transfers from the co. of the same number of its preference shares. Upon the son-in-law desiring to withdraw from the managership, pltf. in pursuance of a power in that behalf contained therein gave the co. notice to terminate the agreement & required the co. to procure the repurchase of the shares & to accept his bills for £1,500; but the co. refused to comply with those requirements & denied liability under the agreement on the ground that the performance of it would involve a purchase by the co. of its own shares, & would therefore be ultra vires & illegal. such a requisition of the utmost importance; for, according to that section, every contract entered into by an instrument not under their common seal would be unilateral as regards them—a contract under which they would be liable, but of which they could not claim the benefit against those with whom it was entered into.

(3) There is, no doubt, an important distinction to be drawn, & it is drawn in the case of Royal British Bank v. Turquand, No. 4094, ante, between that which, upon the face of it, is manifestly imperfect when tested by the requirements of the deed of settlement of the co., & that which contains nothing to indicate that those requirements have not been complied with. Thus, where the deed requires certain instruments to be under the common seal of the co., every person contracting with the co. can see at once whether that requisition is complied with, & he is bound to do so; but where, as in the case I have last referred to, the conditions required by the deed consist of certain internal arrangements of the co. for instance resolutions at meetings, & the like, if the party contracting with the directors find the acts which they undertake to do to be within the scope of their powers under the deed, he has a right to assume that all such conditions have been complied with. In the case last supposed, he is not bound to inquire whether the resolutions have been duly passed, or the like, otherwise he would be bound to go further back, & to inquire whether the meetings have been duly summoned, & to ascertain a variety of other matters, into which if it were necessary to make such inquiry, it would be impossible for the co. to carry on the business for which it is formed.—Re ATHENÆUM LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY. Ex p. EAGLE INSURANCE CO. 4129a. —— Borrowing.]—A trading co. was by its memorandum of assocn. empowered, inter alia, to raise capital & to borrow money by deeds of hypothecation, & to act through agents. The only reference to borrowing contained in the arts. of assocn. was a provision that the directors might borrow money. There was no express power of delegation by the directors. By various powers of attorney, the co. appointed agents, not directors, who were empowered, inter alia, to borrow money on the security of the co.'s goods, railway receipts, bills of lading or other documents of title. These agents borrowed money principally upon the security of letters of hypothecation relating to goods & produce in the co.'s go-downs. The co. was free to deal with the goods & produce in the ordinary course of business, & the contents of the go-downs therefore changed frequently. In some of the printed forms of letter of hypothecation the spaces for the names of the places at which the go-downs were situated were left blank, & at the end of the form, after the signature, a list of places was set out. One of the co.'s agents borrowed sums in excess of the value of the goods. A bank which held certain letters of hypothecation, acting upon a licence to seize contained in letters from the co., seized all the goods to which it had access by the terms of such letters of hypothecation:—Held: (1) the fact that the arts. of assocn. empowered the directors to borrow, did not restrict the co.'s general power to borrow, which it could exercise through properly authorised agents; (2) in the absence of anything in the memorandum or arts. of assocn. restricting the co.'s power to borrow through agents, borrowing by such agents was within their ostensible authority, the precise limits of the agents' power to borrow being a matter of internal management into which a lender would not be required to inquire. The co. was, therefore, bound even by the excessive borrowings of the appointed agents, so long as those borrowings were within the ostensible authority of the agents; (3) the letters of 4267a. —— ——.]—Two rival cos., the N. Co. & the W. Co., formed resp. co. to take over certain branches of their business of fruit importers, the shares of the new co. being equally divided between the two old cos., & the board consisting of two directors of the N. Co., namely, M. & G. Lowe, & two directors of the W. Co. By a brokerage agreement embodied in a letter dated in July, 1924, between M. Lowe & applts., a firm of fruit brokers, it was arranged that applts. should make certain advances to the N. co. & should receive all fruit consigned either to the N. co. or to resp. co. & keep back 70 per cent. of the net proceeds in reduction of the advances, & it was stipulated that resp. co. should subscribe to this arrangement. Applts. also obtained a guarantee of the loan from the two Lowes & a third director of the N. Co., who was also the secretary of resp. co. This arrangement was not ratified by any agreement under the seal of resp. co., but the secretary wrote to applts. purporting to confirm the arrangement on behalf of his co. The directors of resp. co., other than the two Lowes, first became aware of the arrangement after it had been in operation for some months, & it was then put an end to. Applts. had obtained fruit consigned to resp. co. on board several ships without production of the bills of lading, on giving an indemnity to the ships, & they sued resp. co. for delivery of the bills of lading. Resps. counterclaimed for the proceeds of fruit belonging to them & not accounted for :—Held : (1) the arrangement contained in the agreement of July was not authorised by resp. co. ; (2) resp. co. were not estopped from denying the existence of the arrangement by the knowledge of the Lowes, inasmuch as they were parties to the wrong done to the co., or by the omission of the other directors to inspect the accounts of the co., which would have disclosed the arrangement.—HOUGHTON (J. Pltf. procured from S. the co.'s promissory note, payable to pltf., on account of pltf.'s charges & outgoings in connection with the litigation. When the promissory note fell due, it was retired upon part payment & the giving of a new promissory note for the balance, made by the co. & payable to pltf. In an action by pltf. upon this promissory note :—Held : since pltf. had failed to show, as in the circumstances he must show, that the promissory note was given by the co. for good consideration & as part of or in aid of some business transaction of the co., the co. was not liable to pltf. on the note.—WOOLF v. SNIPE S. 4239 i. Signature—Promissory note—Authority—Whether bank bound to inquire.]—The co. was incorporated by Dominion Letters Patent on May 25, 1927, & went into liquidation in June, 1929. Applt. bank filed its claim in respect of five promissory notes made by S., as president, on behalf of the co. & amounting to $28,768.02. The liquidator called upon the bank to prove its claim before the Superior Ct. The notes were signed in blank by S. alone & were handed to L., the New York buying agent of the co., to be filled in & used by L. in payment of goods bought or to be bought by the co. L. filled the blank note forms with the names of two other cos. owned & controlled by him, being also at that time the owner of all the shares of the insolvent co. The notes were indorsed to applt. bank, & it is admitted that the bank was a holder in due course. S. was the only witness at the trial ; he produced a by-law of the insolvent co. providing inter alia that "all cheques . . . notes . . . shall be signed by such officer . . . of the co. & in such manner as shall from time to time be determined by resolution of the Board of Directors," & he also produced a resolution of the directors pursuant to the by-law which provides "that all notes . . . be signed by the president & countersigned by the auditor . . .," of which resolution applt. bank had no knowledge :—Held : applt. bank, being a holder in due course, was entitled to rank as a creditor of the insolvent co. The notes were made in general accordance with the authority of the president under the by-law of the co., & it was not necessary for applt. bank to inquire into the authority of the president to sign the notes on behalf of the co. Under sect. 106*d* of the Dominion Cos. Act, the president had to be one of the directors ; &, under sect. 37, the only persons who could make notes on behalf of the co. would be those designated in the by-law. Persons dealing with a co. are presumed to have notice of what is contained in the Act under which the co. was incorporated & the Letters Patent ; &, in a case like the present, where the Act refers specifically to the by-laws as the place where the authority of an officer or an agent to sign promissory notes is to be found, the person taking a note made by an officer is under obligation to ascertain from the by-laws that the officer who signed the note might have been authorised to make such note in the course of the co.'s business ; but he is not obliged to go further & inquire whether the directors passed the resolution which would give the officer express authority. That constitutes part of the co.'s "indoor management." If the officer might, under the by-laws, have been authorised to make the note, the making of it was within his ostensible powers & was "in general accordance with his powers as such under the by-laws."—Re ALMUR FUR TRADING CO., BANK OF UNITED STATES v. ROSS, [1932] S. 4307a. Extension of objects to new trades.]—A co. incorporated for the primary object of acquiring & carrying on two businesses, one that of a private co. making & selling footwear & clothing, but with other wide powers, & the other that of a retailer of footwear, petitioned the ct. for sanction to an extension of its objects, as set out in its memorandum of association, to the carrying on of a large number of different retail trades, including that of universal stores. The extension was approved by the co. in general meeting without opposition, but the petition was opposed by certain preference shareholders: —Held : there being no evidence that the proposed alterations were necessary or proper to enable the co.'s business to be carried on more efficiently, & as the trades it was proposed to take power to work were entirely outside the original objects of the co., the ct. would refuse to sanction the petition.

On appeal additional evidence was adduced to show that a large number of the trades to which it was sought to extend the co.'s objects were already being carried on by the co., & that to this extent the object of the petition was to regularise the position, & further that during the year 1934 a small profit had been made by the co. as opposed to the loss suffered in 1933 :—Held : in view of the further evidence the alterations in the objects, when limited so as to give power to carry on only those trades which were already being carried on by the co., should be sanctioned.—Re BOLSOM BROS. It appeared that, in the course of its existing business, the co. was in the habit of purchasing hops from persons who also grew fruit, & of selling hops, malt, & barley to persons engaged in the refreshment trade; & in these circumstances, the co. maintained that it could conveniently engage in business of the character proposed. Upon petition to the ct. to sanction the consequent modifications of the memorandum of assocn.:—Held: the proposed alterations did not affect the real object of the co., which was the improvement of poultry husbandry; they were ancillary to the main object, & were alterations within the words "with respect to the objects of the co." in Cos. Act, 1929 (c. 23), s. 5 (1); they appeared to be to enable the co. 4570a. Assignment to secure personal debt of directors—Directors sole shareholders.]—As additional security for an advance to three partners, who, in addition to & apart from the partnership, were directors of a limited co., a bank accepted a document charging the co.'s interest in certain bonds which had been deposited with the bank to meet any judgment which might be obtained against the co. in then impending litigation. The document was signed by the three partners & the co.'s seal was affixed thereto, accompanied by the signature of one of the partners as president & of another as secretary of the co. No resolution was ever passed, either by the co. or by the directors, authorising the creation of the charge. The partners held all the shares in the co. except two which were held by two other directors of the co. There were also persons equitably interested in the shares. The litigation against the co. was concluded substantially in the co.'s favour, & the bank claimed the balance of the proceeds of sale of the bonds in reduction of the partners' indebtedness :—Held : as the co., acting through its directors, & not by its shareholders in general meeting, had purported to apply its property for the benefit of those directors, the transaction was unenforceable, & the ct. would not inquire whether the co. had derived any benefit from it. The bank was, therefore, bound to account to the co. for the balance of the proceeds of sale of the bonds.—E. B. M. Co., LTD. v. DOMINION BANK, [1937] 3 All E. R. 555; 81 Sol. Jo. 814, P. C.

The ct. refused the motion, as it did not appear by "credible testimony" that pursuers would be unable to pay defender's expenses if he were successful, in respect that a later balance-sheet showed that the financial depression from which pursuers had been suffering was passing off, &, further, in respect that pursuers had a responsible directorate & a profitable record in the past, & that there was no suggestion that any creditor was pressing them for payment which he was unable to get.—EDINBURGH ENTERTAINMENTS, LTD. v. STEVENSON, [1925] S. Among its objects were the formation of a guarantee fund; the receipt of subscriptions thereto from persons, whether members of the co. or not, for the purpose of carrying out its objects & defraying its expenses; & the assignation of the letters of guarantee to any corporation which might give it credit. The co. obtained an undertaking from a firm, which was not one of its members, to pay a proportion of any loss arising in connection with the holding of the exhibition. It subsequently assigned the undertaking to a bank which had given it credit. A loss having occurred, the bank sued the firm upon the guarantee. The defenders contended that the assignation was ultra vires, having been made at a time when the co. was not in liquidation :—Held : the assignation was valid, in respect that the guarantee fund was not capital of the co. within the meaning of sects. 2 & 4 (1) (v) of 1908 Act, which could only come under the control of the co. or its directors in the event of liquidation, but formed an independent fund of credit to which an assignee could make good his right on the happening of the event on which the guarantee was contingent.—LLOYDS BANK, LTD. v. MORRISON & SON, [1927] S. 4699a. Effect of section—Redemption of debenture—Remedies of liquidator.]—A co., which had become insolvent, issued to a trustee, as security for some of their debts, a debenture which was to rank as a first charge on the co.'s assets & as a floating security only. Subsequently the co. sold the goodwill of its business, & out of the proceeds paid to the trustee the amount required to discharge the debenture. Within three months from the issue of the debenture a different creditor of the co. obtained a winding-up order. The liquidator took out a summons to set aside the charge created by the debenture & to recover the money paid under it :—Held : though under 1908 Act, s. 212, the charge was invalid, the amount paid could not be recovered on the summons, but it would be open to the liquidator either to apply to set aside the payment as a fraudulent preference within sect. 210, or to question the validity of the debenture on any other ground.—Re PARKES GARAGE (SWADLINCOTE), LTD., [1929] 1 Ch. 139 ; 98 L. 4707a. "Cash paid"—Need not be unconditional payment.]—Early in 1932 a co. which was in financial difficulty & insolvent obtained a loan from its chairman, who was also a partner in a firm which supplied the bulk of its stock of goods to the co. He thought that an advance might save the co., but before making any advance ascertained from his partners that they would only consent to continue to supply the co. with goods on credit if the past debt to the firm of £1,954 was paid. He therefore advanced to the co. £3,000 on the security of a third debenture, dated Mar. 24, 1932, after arranging with the co. that out of this sum £1,954 should be applied in paying the past debt to the firm. In July, 1932, a compulsory order for the winding-up of the co. was made :—Held : the sum of £1,954 out of the total sum of £3,000 was "cash paid to the co. at the time of . . . the creation of, & in consideration for, the charge" within Cos. Fifty-four days elapsed after the first advance & five days after the last advance before the issue of the debentures on Jan. 20, 1926. The delay in the issue of the debentures was not acquiesced in by the lenders, who when they sent cheques for the advances wrote that the money was in further payment on account of debentures to be issued as arranged. The co. went into liquidation on Jan. 25, 1926. During the period in which the bulk of the advances were made the lenders were unaware that the co. was on the verge of liquidation. The debentures were issued when the co. was unable to pay its debts :—Held : the debentures were valid, the payments being made "at the time of" the creation of the charge & in consideration for the charge within 1908 Act, s. 212, & consequently the debentures were not a fraudulent preference within 1908 Act, s. 210.—Re STANTON (F. & E.), LTD., [1929] 1 Ch. 180 ; 98 L. sr. "Cash paid."]—Deft. co. was owned by S., who was its managing director. In Feb. 1930, he obtained a loan of £300 from pltfs. for his co. on the security of his own promissory note & also of deft. co.'s debenture for £300, which should have been registered within 21 days, viz., on or before Mar. 13, 1930. As S. was endeavouring to effect a flotation of his co. as a public co., he requested pltfs. not to register the debenture until the last moment, which they agreed to do. On Mar. 13, S. asked for further time, & it was ultimately agreed that in lieu of such registration pltfs. should advance S. £400 on the security of a new promissory note & a debenture for that amount, out of which sum he should forthwith repay the £300 previously borrowed with interest thereon. This was intended to give S. the additional time he required without prejudicing pltfs.' security. In pursuance of this arrangement pltfs. gave S. their own cheque for £400. W., who acted as solr. to both parties, attended with S. at the bank on Mar. 15, when the cheque was presented for payment, & when the latter received the £400 he immediately in pursuance of the agreement handed to W. the sum of £310 in payment of principal & interest on foot of the first loan, which sum the latter immediately lodged to the credit of pltf. co. The debenture for £400 was duly registered. The contemplated flotation did not materialise & the deft. co. went into voluntary liquidation :—Held : under Cos. 4730a. —— Floating charge over part of assets already charged.]—Where a debenture trust deed, creating a general floating charge over all the undertaking & assets of the co. both present & future, reserves power to the co. in the ordinary course of its business to create specific charges over any of those assets, then although a second general floating charge over all the property comprised in the first charge but ranking pari passu with or in priority to that charge, is, under the general law, incompatible with the first charge & ranks subject to it, yet there is no principle of law which forbids the creation of a second floating charge over part only of those assets ranking pari passu with, or in priority to, the earlier floating charge, so long as the later floating charge is within the limits of the power reserved.

A debenture trust deed created a general floating charge over all its undertaking & assets both present & future, but reserved to the co. power to create in priority to that charge such mtges. or charges as the co. should think proper " by the deposit of any dock warrants, bills of lading, or other similar commercial documents, or upon any raw materials, or finished or partly finished products & stock for the purpose of raising money in the ordinary course of the business of the co." In pursuance of the power & in the course & for the purposes of its business, the co. raised £12,000 & secured payment thereof by charging all the before-mentioned documents, materials & stock, both present & future, by way of a floating security to rank in priority to the floating charge created by the trust deed:—Held: the power reserved to the co., except as to subject-matter & purpose, was unlimited; it enabled the co. to choose the form of a floating charge, if required, & the second charge was valid & entitled to priority over the first charge.—Re AUTOMATIC BOTTLE MAKERS, OSBORNE v. AUTOMATIC BOTTLE MAKERS, [1926] Ch. 412; 95 L. 4739a. —— ——.]—By a lump sum building contract entered into in 1922 between S. & Co., the contractors, & defts., provision was made for interim payments on the architect's certificates, to be given monthly at the rate of 90 per cent. of the value of all work executed. The remaining 10 per cent., the retention moneys, was to be retained & deposited in a bank until the final adjustment of accounts. The contract was varied by consent, & in the events which happened the retention moneys amounted to £1,000 at the beginning of 1924; this was never deposited in a bank & remained a merely notional fund, but both parties treated it as a separate sum capable of being earmarked. It was included, without distinction, in the architect's final certificate for £1,848 10*s.* 2*d.* on Jan. 28, 1927. Meanwhile, pltfs., who were supplying cement to the contractors, found that the latter were getting into arrears with their payments, & to obtain further credit the contractors, being then indebted to pltfs. in the sum of £671 on Apr. 7, 1924, assigned to them the retention moneys by a document in these terms: " In reduction of the amount now or to be owing from us to you for goods supplied by you, we hereby assign to you all moneys now or hereafter to become due to us from the H.R.D.C. for retention moneys in respect of the G. Housing Scheme, & for which your receipt shall be a sufficient discharge. . . ." Of that assignment due notice was given by pltfs. to defts. next day. The contractors had at various dates between 1900 & Feb. 2, 1924, issued to the Manchester & County Bank, Ltd., a number of debentures charging the undertaking of the contractors & all their property, both present & future, the charge being a specific charge on the contractors' freehold & leasehold property, machinery, goodwill, & uncalled capital, & a floating charge on all the co.'s other assets, subject to a proviso that the contractors were not to be at liberty to create any mtge. or charge for any of their assets in priority to the debentures. On Oct. 13, 1924, a receiver for the debenture-holders was appointed, who duly entered into possession. On Oct. 20, 1924, a resolution was passed for the voluntary winding-up of the co. The receiver refused to recognise the right of pltfs. to payment under their assignment in priority to the debenture-holders, & on the architect's final certificate being given, in Jan. 1927, defts. declined to interplead & paid the retention moneys to the receiver for the debenture holders, & pltfs. thereupon brought their action upon their assignment:—Held: (1) the debentures only created a floating charge on the retention moneys, which the contractors could therefore assign or charge in spite of the clause in the debentures prohibiting the creation of charges in priority to the debentures; (2) pltfs. had no express notice of that clause in the debentures; (3) though the registration of the debentures affect pltfs. with constructive notice that debentures existed, it did not affect them with notice of the terms, including the limitation on prior charges, of those debentures.—EARLE (G. & T.), LTD. v. HEMSWORTH RURAL DISTRICT COUNCIL (1928), 44 T. 4785a. —— Validity—Charge given as compensation for loss of management share.]—By an agreement dated Sept. 28, 1925, after a recital that a management share of £1 of the T. Co. had been allotted to the S. Co. as manager of the T. Co. it was agreed that the S. Co. should be entitled to act as manager during the T. Co.'s operation of a certain undertaking & to receive in respect of each financial period of the T. Co. 50 per cent. of its net profits. The management share entitled the S. Co. to a majority of the voting power of the shareholders at any meeting & to a share of the surplus assets of the T. Co. in a winding-up after payment off of the preference share capital. In 1933 the rights of the management share were varied, & it became known as a reversionary share. The T. Co. having become desirous of putting an end to the management of the S. Co., a draft agreement had been prepared terminating the management in consideration of the payment to the S. Co. of £100,000 to be raised by the T. Co. by the issue of debenture stock. Incidentally the reversionary share was to be converted into an ordinary share. On the application of a shareholder of the T. Co. to test the legality of the proposed agreement:—Held: it was not ultra vires the T. Co. to enter into the proposed agreement. —— —— Due registration — Particulars of property charged insufficiently entered.]—A co. with the object of securing payment of the overdraft at pltf. bank "demised" to the bank a certain leasehold factory with all the movable "plant used in or about the premises" for a term of about 996 years. The bank sent the indenture to the registrar of companies for registration under 1098 Act, s. 93. In the particulars required to be filed pursuant to that sect. the instrument was described as a mtge. of the leasehold premises, no mention being made of the chattels. The registrar entered the description of the instrument in the register in similar terms, identifying it by its date, & omitting all mention of any charge on the chattels. Subsequently the sheriff, in execution of a judgment recovered by deft. against the co., seized certain chattels of the co. upon the mortgaged premises, including certain motor vans. The bank claimed the goods in question under their mtge., & obtained from the registrar a certificate "that a mtge. or charge dated "—specifying the date & the parties to the instrument—"was registered pursuant to Cos. On an interpleader issue to try the title of the bank as against the execution creditor :—Held : as the certificate identified the instrument of charge, & stated that the mtge. or charge thereby created had been duly registered, it must be understood as certifying the due registration of all the charges created by the instrument, including that of the chattels, & it was conclusive evidence of the due registration of the chattels none the less because the register in omitting to mention them was not merely defective but misleading.—NATIONAL PROVINCIAL & UNION BANK OF ENGLAND v. CHARNLEY, [1924] 1 K. 4944a. Assignment of goods to discount company—Financing hire-purchase agreements.]—A co. carried on a furniture business largely by means of hire-purchase agreements, & in order to provide the capital for the purpose entered into a series of agreements with a discount co. by which they assigned to a discount co. the goods comprised in the hire-purchase agreements subject to & with the benefit of the hire-purchase agreements on an immediate payment of 75 per cent. of the total purchase price, which was the same as that payable by the hirer if he continued payments of hire long enough to become the purchaser. From that 75 per cent. there was, however, deducted a percentage called the finance charge, which represented the discount co.'s profit. The balance of 25 per cent. of the purchase price was retained by the vendor co. out of the payments made by the hirer, 75 per cent. of such payments being secured collaterally to the discount co. by the issue of a series of bills of exchange which were equal in number to the instalments payable by the hirer & which were accepted by the vendors. The agreements with the discount co. provided that no notice thereof was to be given to the hirer, so long as there was no breach of the hire-purchase agreement. It subcontracted with another firm B. to do some of the work. A. fell into financial difficulty & gave B. an authority addressed to the L.C.C. to pay B. a named sum against the chief engineer's next certificate. The L.C.C. took interpleader proceedings against B. & the receiver of A., appointed by the debenture holder after the authority was given, & the Div. Ct. ordered the sum to be paid to B. The receiver appealed on the ground : (i) that the authority was a charge on the book debts of a co. &, not having been registered under 1929 Act, s. 79, was invalid ; (ii) that he ought to have credit for the expense he incurred in completing the work that was to have been done by B. : —Held : (1) the authority was an absolute equitable assignment & not a charge within 1929 Act, s. 79 ; (2) the receiver could not by any subsequent conduct alter the nature of the authority or the subcontractor's rights under it, & his remedy in respect of the expense incurred if any was by action for breach of contract.—ASHBY, WARNER & CO., LTD. v. SIMMONS, [1936] 2 All E. 4982a. —— Claim believed invalid—Notice to debenture holder—Duty to refund.]—A sole debenture holder appointed a receiver. The latter proceeded to realise the assets of the co., & paid four sums of £25, £50, £10 & £10 respectively to an agent of the debenture holder. Between the time of the first & second payment the receiver received a claim for rates in respect of certain premises occupied by the co. The receiver till then had been quite unaware that the co. had occupied these premises & he therefore inquired of the managing director of the co. & the agent of the debenture holder whether the claim was valid. Both assured him it was not. He therefore made the second payment but the claim being repeated, he stopped the cheque sent in payment & made further inquiries of the agent of the debenture holder. He was again assured that the claim was invalid but he only allowed the cheque to be paid upon the agent giving an indemnity. Ultimately the local authority sued the receiver for the amount of the rates & he joined the agent & the debenture holder as third parties. The claim of the local authority was subsequently admitted, & the action proceeded as to the liabilities of the third parties to the receiver. For the third parties it was contended that the receiver in making payments to the debenture holder without first satisfying that claim for rates had acted in contravention of 1929 Act, s. 78, & was therefore setting up his own wrong & basing his claim on his own contravention of a statute :—Held : (1) the payment to the debenture holder was not per se an illegal act but only illegal in certain circumstances, & as the agent had misrepresented the facts & induced the receiver to believe he was acting quite legally the defence of illegality failed ; (2) the agent was liable upon the indemnity to repay the receiver the amount he had paid in respect of the claim & costs ; (3) the debenture holder was liable to refund to the receiver the payments made after she had notice of the claim for rates ; (4) notice to the agent was notice to the debenture holder & the latter must therefore refund the last three payments ; (5) the receiver could not receive from the agent & the debenture holder a greater sum than the total amount he had paid in respect of the claim & costs.—WESTMINSTER CITY COUNCIL v. TREBY, [1936] 2 All E. 4982d. Preferential payment of rates—Increase in rates after taking possession by receiver.]—Where in the assessment of property relief has been claimed & in the first instance allowed in the valuation list under the derating provisions of the Local Government Act, 1929 (c. 17), but subsequently disallowed, the resulting change in the amount of a rate payable in respect of that property takes effect as from the date of the making of the rate, as if the change had been caused by a proposal for the amendment of the rateable value. Consequently, where a receiver for debenture holders has taken possession of the property of the co. which issued the debentures, an increase in the amount of the rates due at the date of taking possession, which increase has been subsequently ascertained by reason of such an alteration in the assessment, is payable by the receiver as a preferential debt.—Re AIREDALE GARAGE CO., ANGLO-SOUTH AMERICAN BANK v. AIREDALE GARAGE CO., [1933] Ch. 64; 101 L. On Oct. 31, 1927, the receiver in a debenture-holders' action entered into a conditional contract to sell land & cottages included in the debentures. The contract provided that the purchase should be completed on or before Dec. 31, 1927. By clause 14 it was provided that the contract was subject to its being approved & sanctioned by the ct., & in the event of its not being so approved it was to become void, & the purchasers were to be entitled to be repaid their deposit. The receiver took no effective steps to obtain the sanction of the ct., & on Jan. 10, 1928, the purchasers' solrs. wrote to the debenture-holders' solrs. repudiating the contract & demanding the return of the deposit money under clause 14. 5042a. Breach of price maintenance agreement.]—By certain agreements between pltfs., manufacturers of radio sets, & defts., wholesale dealers in such radio sets, it was agreed that the retail prices of the radio sets should be maintained at prices fixed by pltfs. The order form provided that the wholesalers were to be compensated for any loss that might occur through any alteration of list prices by pltfs., & that if a receiver should be appointed or pltfs. should go into liquidation, defts. should have the right to return any of the goods which they might have in stock. On Oct. 5, 1934, a receiver for the debenture holders of pltfs. was appointed & the appointment was notified to defts. on the same day. On the same day a large number of radio sets was invoiced to defts. On Oct. 9 defts. were informed that business was being carried on & that the co.'s policy of price maintenance was unaffected. Defts. thereupon ordered further goods from the receiver. On Nov. 3, 1934, a creditor presented a petition for winding up pltf. co.,

& on Nov. 20 the receiver stopped manufacture, no further goods being ordered by the wholesalers after that date. The receiver proceeded to negotiate for the sale of pltfs.' business, & on Nov. 30, 1934, an offer to purchase a large number of sets was accepted, the receiver imposing no conditions as to price maintenance. On Dec. 3 an order was made for winding up the co. & a provisional liquidator appointed, & on the same day possession of the stock was given by the receiver's agent to the purchasers, with the result that a large number of radio sets was put on the market at prices much below the list prices. Defts. wrote to the receiver referring to their right to return the goods, but no arrangement for their actual return was made. The liquidator then brought an action for the balance due on the radio sets delivered to defts., who counterclaimed damages for breach of contract, contending that the receiver had broken his contract to maintain prices. Pltfs. contended that, assuming there was such a contract between the receiver & the wholesalers, there was no breach before the winding up order on Dec. 3, & that after that date the receiver had no authority to bind the co., & that therefore the counterclaim could not be set off. The wholesalers contended alternatively that the liquidator was guilty of breach of contract in refusing or not accepting the return of the sets :—Held : (1) the agreement for the sale of pltfs.' business on Nov. 30, 1934, constituted a breach of the receiver's agreement to maintain prices ; (2) alternatively the liquidator ought to have accepted the return of the goods, as at the date of his appointment the wholesalers were entitled to return them.—TELSEN ELECTRIC CO., LTD. v. EASTICK & SONS, [1936] 3 All E. 5120a. Conduct of action—To whom given—Independent party—When desirable.]—The conduct of a debenture holder's action begun by a person whose transactions with the co. the ct. considers to require investigation, or whose interests are shown to be adverse to those of the remaining debenture holders, may be given by the ct. to an independent party.

One of the objects of the co. was to buy & let premises for use as flats & clubs. Its first directors were pltf. & his nominee, but it was in substance a "one man" co. with pltf. as managing director. It granted leases of certain premises to the S. syndicate, of which the directors were pltf. & the same nominee. The co. agreed to pay a yearly salary to pltf. & guaranteed the issue of debentures by the syndicate. The syndicate soon failed to pay rent, but pltf. took no steps either to enforce payment or forfeit the leases: &, although the co. was carrying on business at a loss, he bought a quantity of furniture with its money on its behalf. The syndicate issued debentures, pltf. becoming the holder of a number of them, & also holding debentures issued by the co. Later, a receiver & manager of the property of the syndicate charged by the debentures was appointed, & pltf. began a debenture holder's action against the co., subsequently selling the furniture which he had bought & the leasehold premises at a loss. Ultimately, he resigned his directorship: & this summons asked that the conduct of the proceedings should be vested in appct., another debenture holder, on the ground that pltf. against whom gross negligence was alleged, had an interest adverse to that of the remaining debenture holders:—Held : as the transactions of pltf. with the co. had never been investigated, & as it had so far been impossible to investigate them, it was desirable that the conduct of the action should be given to an independent person.—Re SERVICES CLUB ESTATE SYNDICATE, LTD., MCCANDLISH v. THE COMPANY, [1930] 1 Ch. 78; 99 L. 5184b. —— To enforce rights under Landlord & Tenant Act, 1927 (c. 36), s. 5.]—A co. was the lessee of certain premises under a lease expiring on June 24, 1930. In 1925 the co. issued a debenture by which it charged all its undertaking & all its property, present & future, including its uncalled capital in favour of the debenture holders. On Apr. 22, 1929, the co. gave notice to the landlords under above sect., requiring them to grant to it a new lease of the premises. In July, 1929, the debenture holders in exercise of the power on that behalf in the debenture appointed a receiver of the property & assets therein comprised. The landlords having failed to comply with the co.'s request for the grant of a new lease the receiver on Sept. 23. 1929, commenced an action in the county court in the name of the co. to obtain the grant of a new lease. On Oct. 15 a compulsory order was made to wind up the co. & a liquidator was appointed: —Held : the right to apply for a renewal of the lease under above sect. was a right given by the co. to the debenture holders as part of their security, & the receiver was entitled to enforce that right notwithstanding the liquidation of the co.—GOUGH'S GARAGES, LTD. v. PUGSLEY, [1930] 1 K. By his will C. C. appointed his three younger sons, who were employed in the business but were not members of the co., exors. thereof & bequeathed his 5,000 shares equally between them.

The arts. of the co. provided that the directors might in their absolute discretion refuse to register any transfer of shares, & without assigning any reason for such refusal, & that this power should extend to the registration of the personal representatives of a deceased shareholder. 6056c. —— —— Liquidation after Act.]—On Sept. 21, 1925, a policy of insurance was taken out by a co. insuring it against third-party risks. On Oct. 6, 1925, an accident to a third party occurred & the insurers thereupon became liable to the co. in respect of the accident. On July 10, 1930, Third Parties (Rights against Insurers) Act, 1930 (c. 25), came into operation. On Oct. 13, 1931, an order was made for the compulsory winding up of the co. On a summons taken out by the third party in the winding up of the co. asking to be subrogated to the rights of the co. against the insurers :—Held : the winding up of the co. having supervened after the Act of 1930 came into operation, sect. 1 of that Act became operative & enured to transfer the benefit of the policy of insurance from the co. to the third party.—

6195a. Particulars—In respect of what matters ordered.]—In a misfeasance summons by the liquidator of a co. against two directors it was alleged in the points of claim that certain dividends were paid wholly out of the capital of the co. & not out of profits, & that there were in fact no profits of the co. out of which the dividends could properly & lawfully have been paid. The directors asked for an order for further & better particulars of the facts relied upon in support of these allegations, contending that under R. S. C., Ord. 19, r. 6, the fullest particulars are necessary where a breach of trust is alleged :—Held : the fact that the dividends were paid wholly out of capital was a material fact within R. S. C., Ord. 19, r. 4, & the fact upon which the liquidator relied. The liquidator ought not to be ordered to give particulars of that fact, as to give any further particulars would be merely to disclose the evidence by which it was intended to be proved.—Re DEPENDABLE UPHOLSTERY, LTD., [1936] 3 All E. 6198a. Duty to give notice of intention to call witness.]—Two misfeasance summonses were called on for hearing together, appct. on each being the liquidator of the same co. It was stated that the liquidator desired to call a witness who had not made any affidavit in the proceedings, & that he had subpœnaed that witness, but had not given to resps. to either summons notice of his intention to call him. It was stated that resps. did not object to his being called. MAUGHAM, J., in allowing the witness to be called, said that misfeasance summonses were rather peculiar methods of procedure. They were summary proceedings, & brought out matters of great importance. An appct. on a misfeasance summons ought to give notice to resps. of intention to call a witness who had made no affidavit in the proceedings. Misfeasance summonses ought to be conducted with complete fairness to resps.—PRACTICE NOTE, [1933] W. N. 284.

6217a. —— —— ——.]—In the winding-up of a co., A. was placed on the list of contributories as the holder of 994 fully paid shares of £1 each out of a total capital of 1,000 shares. A. was assessed by the Comrs. under the powers given to them under Finance Act, 1922 (c. 17), s. 21, to the amount of £2,069 as his share of the profits of the co. during two assessing periods before the winding-up. On Oct. 18, 1929, a notice of assessment under the Income Tax Acts was given by the Special Comrs. of Income Tax. It was addressed to A. in the name of the co. (in liquidation). It was an assessment to super-tax of £568 19*s.* 6*d.* in respect of the £2,069. The notice contained the words :

On Nov. 30, the sum of £9,070 5*s*. was paid to A. in respect of his share of the surplus assets of the co. by the liquidator. The Comrs made an application under Cos. Act, 1908 (c. 69), s. 165, asking for an order that A. might be ordered to refund to the co. or the liquidator the sum of £568 19*s*. 6*d*. out of the £9,070 5*s*., & that that sum, being the amount of super-tax which had been assessed upon the co. under Finance Act, 1922 (c. 17), s. 21, as amended by Finance Act, 1927 (c. 10), s. 31, might be paid out of the moneys so refunded. A. disputed both the jurisdiction of the ct. & the propriety, if there were a jurisdiction, of making the order, or any part of the order, asked for :—Held : A. had properly been put upon the list of contributories, notwithstanding the definition of " contributory " in Cos. These shares being held at the date of winding-up by another co., also in liquidation & insolvent, the liquidator of the insurance co, made two calls, the first of 1*s*. a share in 1925. & the second, described as a " final call," of 1*s*. 6*d*. a share in 1927, on the B. contributories who held the shares before they had been transferred to the insolvent co. The proceeds of these calls, together with the other assets of the co., were insufficient to pay all its creditors in full, but, apart from the other assets, exceeded by some £10,000 the total amount of the debts & liabilities of the co. contracted at the date when the B. contributories ceased to be members of the co. :—Held : the surplus did not form part of the assets of the co., but must be refunded to the B. contributories. 6384a. Proof by holder against drawer—Dissolution of drawer before maturity—Limitation of action.]—In Oct. 1915, in order to rehabilitate Russian credit in London, an arrangement was made by the Bank of England, with the authority of the Treasury, under which approved Russian banks were to draw three months' sterling bills & remit them through the Banque de l'Etat, Petrograd, to London for acceptance by certain banks & accepting houses, who agreed to renew the bills until one year after the termination of the War, the Banque de l'Etat undertaking to provide to meet the acceptances on maturity. Imperial Russian Treasury Bills to the amount of the acceptances were to be lodged with the Bank of England as collateral security. No accepting house was to be liable for more than £100,000, unless otherwise agreed. In pursuance of this arrangement the Russio-Asiatic Bank in 1916 drew 151 bills of exchange on twenty-one accepting houses maturing in Feb. & Mar. 1918, which were presented through Baring Bros. & Co. as agents for the Banque de l'Etat & accepted by the banks & financial houses under a form of agreement with the Banque de l'Etat which carried out the above arrangement more completely; & authorised the issue by the Treasury of sterling Treasury Bills of the Imperial Russian Govt. to the amount of the acceptances to cover any default in payment on maturity. In Jan. 1918, shortly before maturity, all the acceptances were assigned to the Bank of England in consideration of the issue of Exchequer bonds to the accepting houses to the amount thereof. Notice of the assignment was despatched by the Bank of England to the Russo-Asiatic Bank in Petrograd, but according to the evidence never reached its destination in consequence of the Bolshevist revolution in Russia. By a decree issued by the Soviet Govt. in Dec. 1917, all private banks in Russia were abolished & the whole of their assets transferred to a State bank. The Russo-Asiatic Bank, whose head office was in Petrograd, was one of the banks so abolished. Its London branch was opened in 1908 & was ordered to be wound up by the ct. in 1926, under 1929 Act, s. 338. The Bank of England, on behalf of the Crown, lodged a proof of debt in the liquidation for £752,500, proceeds of the above named bills. The liquidator rejected the proof of the Bank of 6357 ii. —— ——.]—In Oct. 1907, R., J., I., G., & H., five directors of C. & Co., Ltd., entered into agreements under which they became employees of the co., each receiving a salary & one-fifth of the net profits. The agreements were to remain in force for ten years, unless terminated as therein provided. R., being unable to attend to the business of the co., entered into a new agreement dated June 14, 1911, whereby his prior agreement was annulled, & it was agreed that he & his personal representatives should continue to be paid one-fifth of the net profits, so long as he or they retained the share interest in the capital of the co., which he then held, in one undivided holding. The agreements with the other directors were not cancelled, but, by supplemental agreements, it was provided that if they gave up their employment with the co. they also would continue to receive their respective one-fifth shares of the net profits, so long as their respective shares in the co. were retained in one holding. H. died in 1913; G. in 1914; R. in 1919. In 1920 £3,000 was appropriated in respect of directors' shares of the net profits, payable under their agreements, & was placed to the credit of a directors' remuneration account. This sum was subsequently divided into five sums of £600 & placed to the credit of their respective deposit accounts with the co. The co. had power under its arts. of assocn. to fix the remuneration of directors, & in pursuance of a resolution passed at the annual meeting of the co. on June 11, 1920, a sum of £3,500 was placed at the disposal of the managing directors, then J. & I., & two others, as a bonus for the year 1919-20. Of this sum £1,300 was allotted to J. & I. respectively. These amounts were not paid out, but were retained by the co. & placed to the credit of their deposit accounts in 1925. The co. having become insolvent, went into voluntary liquidation, & up to that time the five sums of £600 & the two sums of £1,300 had not been paid to the persons who claimed them:—Held: (1) the sums of £600 claimed by the personal representatives of H., G., & R., were sums due to members of the co. in their character of members by way of dividends, profits, or otherwise, within Cos. Act, 1908, s. 123 (1) (vii), & accordingly the persons claiming these sums were not entitled to compete with the ordinary creditors of the co. in respect thereof; (2) J. & I., having continued their employment with the co. until after June 11, 1920, the sums of £600 claimed on their behalf were payable to them under their contracts of employment, & not in their character of members of the co., & so did not come within Cos. Act, 1908, s. 123 (1) (vii); (3) the sums of £1,300 due to I., & to the personal representatives of J., were sums given to them, not by agreement, but under the arts. of assocn., & so were not payable to them in their character of members within Cos. Act, 1908, s. 123 (1) (vii).—Re CINNAMOND PARK & CO., LTD., [1930] N. I. 47.—IR.

England on several grounds, the most important being that the claim was barred by the Statutes of Limitation :—Held : (1) the bills had been assigned to the Bank of England with the authority & on behalf of the Crown, & had passed to the bank an equitable title to all the rights under the agreements made with the acceptors, including the right of action for breach of contract, if the bills were not paid at maturity ; (2) the obligation being to pay in sterling in London at maturity the debt was located in England & not in Russia, & therefore English law must be applied ; (3) the Russian Imperial Treasury bills were only a collateral security & being of no value at any material time were not a discharge of the debt ; (4) on the evidence of experts & documents, the Russo-Asiatic Bank ceased to have any corporate existence in Russia as the result of decrees of the Soviet Govt. made on or before Jan. 26, 1918, a date before the bills matured, & as from that date there was no debtor who could be sued. The Statute of Limitations therefore was no defence to the application, & the Bank of England was entitled to be admitted to prove for the debt in the winding up of the London branch of resp. bank. There being no evidence, however, that notice of the assignment had reached the drawers, the assignors must be joined in the application.—Re RUSSO-ASIATIC BANK, Re RUSSIAN BANK FOR FOREIGN TRADE, [1934] Ch. 720 ; 103 L. Under the trust deed, entered into by the society with trustees for the stockholders, an amount equal to 7½ per cent. on the par value of the stock was to be paid to the trustees, for apportionment to the interest & to a fund for the bonus. At the date of an order for the winding up of the society, most of the stockholders had received payment in full of interest at 7 per cent. on the amount of loan stock issued, up to & including a date seven months before the order. The trustees lodged with the liquidator a proof stated to be for cash advanced on loan ; & this summons asked (i) whether the proof should be rejected to the extent of interest proved for above 7½ per cent. up to the date of the commencement of the winding up ; (ii) whether interest should be calculated, at 5 per cent., to the date of the order or to the commencement of the winding up ; & (iii) whether Bkpcy. Act, 1914 (c. 59), s. 66 (2) (b), had any application to proof or dividend in respect of the loan stock :—Held : (1) the amounts proved for by the trustees were to be computed only to the date of the commencement of the winding up ; (2) Bkpcy. Act, 1914 (c. 59), s. 66, was not incorporated by 1908 Act, s. 207, so as to apply in the winding up of an insolvent co., & that the trustees' proof was therefore calculable at the rate of 7½ per cent.—Re AGRICULTURAL WHOLESALE SOCIETY, [1929] 2 Ch. 261 ; 98 L. 6457a. Lump sum compensation payable to workman—" Rights capable of being transferred."] —An injured workman received weekly payments of compensation from his employer, who was a limited co. insured with a mutual indemnity co., until the date of commencement of winding it up. The indemnity co. was only liable under its contract of insurance to indemnify the employer for six weeks after it commenced to be wound up, & accordingly only paid compensation to the workman for a further six weeks, when its liability to the employer under the contract ceased. The workman took out a summons in the winding-up of the employing co. claiming to all other debts for the lump sum for which, at the commencement of the winding-up his weekly payments could have been redeemed to the extent to which the liability of the insurers to the workman was less than the liability of the co. to the workman. He claimed that that was the combined effect of sect. 264 of Cos. Act, 1929 (c. 23), & sect. 7 of Workmen's Compensation Act, 1925 (c. 84). The contract between the indemnity co. & the employer was such as was mentioned in sect. 7 of 1925 Act, though the rights of the employers capable of being transferred to & vested in the appct. were in fact less than his rights against his employers, in other words, his employer was not fully insured. Sect. 264 of Cos. Act, 1929 (c. 23), provides for compensation to be paid in priority, unless there is a contract with insurers under which by virtue of sect. 7 of 1925 Act there are rights capable of being transferred to the workman :—Held : in view of the fact that there were " rights capable of being transferred " within sect. 264 (1) (d) of Cos. The liquidator issued a summons to have it determined whether the claims should be allowed & the judge made an order for an inquiry into the amount of damage sustained & that the claimant be permitted to prove for the sum so ascertained. The damages were so ascertained by the registrar & a proof carried in. The co. was ultimately found to be solvent, & the solr. claimed to prove in the liquidation for the balance of his bill of costs, being solr. & client costs incurred upon the instructions of the co. & its directors in opposing the petition. The liquidator rejected the proof on the ground that the amount claimed represented costs already taxed off the bill, & the registrar upheld his decision on the ground that there was no right of proof for any costs beyond the taxed costs of the petition under r. 192 of the Winding-up Rules, 1929 :—Held : the solr. was entitled to prove for any unpaid balance of costs due to him from the co., there being nothing to the contrary contained or implied in r. 192, which was concerned with the priorities of different sets of costs incurred in winding up. 6746b. Withdrawal of opposition—To motion for extension of time for registration of charge.]—The debtor co. of which applt. became the liquidator, deposited with resp. Trust title deeds of certain property to secure a sum of money owing by it to the Trust, agreeing to execute any necessary deed in respect of the property charged. The Trust did not register the charge within the prescribed time, & ten months afterwards applied to the Chancery Div. under 1929 Act, sect. 85, for an extension of the time for registration on the ground of inadvertence. The co., at the time of that application, was unable to pay its debts, & counsel were briefed on behalf of the co. to oppose the application for extension of time, but before the hearing of the application the instructions to oppose were withdrawn, an order was made for an extension of the time, & the charge was registered. An order for the compulsory winding up of the co. was made shortly afterwards, & the liquidator issued a summons in the winding up claiming that the withdrawal of the opposition of the co. was the suffering by it of a judicial proceeding with a view of giving a creditor a preference, & therefore must be deemed fraudulent & void as against the liquidator, having regard to the provisions in Bkpcy. Act, 1914 (c. 59), s. 44, & 1929 Act, sect. 265. W., who gave instructions for the withdrawal of the opposition by the co., was a director of the co. & managing director of the Trust:—Held: the onus was on the liquidator to satisfy the ct. that the dominant intention of the co. in withdrawing its opposition to the application for an extension of time was to prefer resps. &, there being no direct evidence of such an intention, an intent to prefer could not be inferred.—PEAT (SIR WILLIAM HENRY) v. GRESHAM TRUST, LTD., [1934] A. 6756a. Order made without jurisdiction.]—By the rules of a mutual marine insurance assocn., which was not registered under the Companies Act, it was provided that all persons who effected an insurance with the assocn. should be members. No ship was to be insured for more than three-fourths of its value, the person insuring paid a deposit of 25*s.* per cent. on the amount of the insurance, & in case of the total loss of a vessel, the members were to pay the loser the amount for which he had insured it rateably, according to the amounts assured to them respectively. The assocn. consisted of more than twenty members. A vessel insured by R. was lost, & the amount of the loss was referred to arbitration. R. assigned his claim to his bankers, who obtained judgment in R.'s name on the award, &, not obtaining payment, presented a petition to wind up the assocn., the petition stating that the assocn. consisted of more than seven members, but not stating that it consisted of more than twenty. The petition was served at the abandoned office of the assocn. which had ceased to carry on business, & the proper advertisements were issued. On May 28, 1880, a winding-up order was made, no one appearing to oppose. In Nov. 1881, another member of the assocn. heard, for the first time, of the winding-up order, & within a week applied for leave to appeal against it:—Held: the order having been made by a superior ct. having jurisdiction in winding up, & having authority to decide as to its own competency, must, if the assocn. was one which ought not to be wound up, be treated merely as an erroneous order, & not as an order void for want of jurisdiction, & that the proper manner of getting rid of it was by appeal.—Re PADSTOW TOTAL LOSS & COLLISION ASSURANCE ASSOCN. 6858b. Whether liable for negligence—On wrongful admission of proof.]—The H. Co. entered into an agreement for reinsuring marine risks with the L. Co. Later, it was voluntarily wound up, & B., the liquidator, agreed the L. Co.'s claim for a large sum, & paid dividends in respect of the claim. Following the practice of the co., B., notwithstanding the provisions of Stamp Act, 1891 (c. 39), & Marine Insurance Act, 1903 (c. 41), treated the agreement & the claim under it as valid. After the dissolution of the H. Co. he was advised that he should have disallowed the claim, & the dissolution was annulled, but an action to recover the money was dismissed, as no mistake of fact by B. was proved. On a misfeasance summons by a creditor of the co. :—Held : (1) a liquidator in the voluntary winding up of a limited co. is not, apart from negligence, liable for wrongly admitting a claim by an alleged creditor; (2) the liquidator did not, in the circumstances, fulfil his duty of investigating the claim of the L. Co., & was therefore liable as for misfeasance under Cos. Act, 1908, s. 215, for admitting the claim of the L. Co. since it was in fact an invalid one; (3) the Arts. of a limited co. cannot amount to a contract between the co. & its liquidator, & he could not therefore rely on an Art. absolving officers of the co. from liability except for fraud; (4) the position of a liquidator examining a proof for admission or rejection in a winding-up is the same as that of a trustee in bkpcy.; (5) in fixing the amount which a person liable for misfeasance under Cos. Act, 1908, s. 215, should be ordered to pay or contribute to the assets of the company, the ct. has a discretion, &, in the special circumstances, the liquidator should be ordered to contribute, by way of compensation, only such a sum as would enable all creditors to be paid in full with interest at 5 per cent.—Re HOME & COLONIAL INSURANCE CO., LTD., [1930] 1 Ch. 102; *sub nom. 6875a. —— Profit costs—Solicitor co-liquidator.]—One of two liquidators in the voluntary winding up of a limited co. was a solr., who acted on behalf of the other liquidator & himself in certain proceedings. The proceedings resulted in a compromise by which, inter alia, the liquidators' costs were to be paid. On taxation of the costs it was objected that as the solr. was one of the liquidators he could not charge any profit costs for the work done by him in the proceedings. The liquidators contended that profit costs should be allowed on the principle that where one of two trustees acts on behalf of himself & his co-trustee in litigious proceedings he is entitled to charge his profit costs. The registrar held that that principle did not apply to one of two joint liquidators, on the ground that it was excluded by the Cos. (Winding-up) Rules, 1929, r. 158:—Held: (1) the Cos. (Winding-up) Rules, 1929, r. 158, prohibits any arrangement for any remuneration beyond the remuneration to which a liquidator is entitled under 1929 Act, or the Cos. (Winding-up) Rules, 1929; (2) there must have been some arrangement made between the two liquidators, whereby the solr. had become entitled to some remuneration beyond that to which he was entitled under the Act or rules, & the solr. was therefore prohibited from receiving profit costs whilst acting as solr. for himself & his co-liquidator.—Re GERTZENSTEIN, LTD., [1937] Ch. 115; [1936] 3 All E. The voluntary liquidator appeared on the petition in opposition to it. On the taxation of costs the registrar disallowed certain items of costs incurred by the liquidator after the resolution but before the petition was heard, including the costs of consultations by the liquidator & of obtaining counsel's opinion. The solr. to the liquidator then brought in a further bill of costs, including items disallowed on the previous taxation, but allowable on a taxation between solr. & client:—Held: these costs, which were costs incurred by the liquidator in opposing a compulsory order, were properly allowed, in the discretion of the ct.—Re ADLER (WILLIAM) & CO., LTD., [1935] Ch. 138; 104 L. 6950a. —— Postponed to income tax on profits made by liquidator.]—A co. incorporated in 1907 owned & worked mines & transport facilities in Algeria under concessions from the French Govt. In Dec. 1925, the ct. sanctioned a scheme for the transfer to two French cos. of the whole of the co.'s undertaking & assets, except cash & assets sufficient to repay the co.'s preference share capital, & a resolution for voluntary liquidation was passed. The co.'s manager was appointed liquidator at a salary of £1,000 a year & its creditors were told that the liquidation was purely formal & they would be paid in full. The assets excepted from the undertakings to be acquired by the French cos. were not enough to repay the whole of the co.'s preference share capital &, under a provision in the scheme, payments on account amounting altogether to five shillings in the pound were made to preference shareholders in 1925 & 1926. Owing to various difficulties created by causes which included the general strike of 1926, the scheme could be carried out only by allowing the French cos. to work the mines & transport facilities by means of moneys which the co. provided by realising the ores. The amount of the disbursements which the co. had to make exceeded that produced by realising the ores, & from June, 1928, the liquidator could preserve the assets only by borrowing & by means of an overdraft granted by the co.'s bank. In 1929 an assessment under Sched. D of the Income Tax Act, 1918, was made on the co. for the year 1929-1930 ; in Mar. 1930, an assessment was made on it for the year 1926-1927 ; & in Oct. 1930, another assessment was made on it for the year 1929-1930. None of the amounts due under those assessments were paid. Before the liquidator had received the notice of the last assessment the co.'s mine had been closed down, & before the date of this summons the French cos. had gone into liquidation & the French liquidator on their behalf claimed & took possession of the assets in Algeria out of which the amounts due under the assessments could otherwise have been paid. Included in the disbursements made by the co. were sums which the liquidator had retained as remuneration & on account of travelling expenses. The liquidator stated in an affidavit that he had received no remuneration since 1931, that he had had no funds in hand since June, 1928, & that he had since Apr. 1931, spent all his assets to maintain himself & was practically destitute at the date of this summons :—Held : (1) income tax to which a co. has been assessed in respect of profits earned after the commencement of the winding up is not within the words " . . .

Dividends were paid on the preference shares up to & including the year ending Mar. 31, 1930, but not for the years ending Mar. 31, 1931, & Mar. 31, 1932, or for the period from Apr. 1, 1932, to Sept. 30, 1932, the date of the resolution for winding up. Certain preference shareholders claimed to be paid, out of the assets available for distribution, sums representing dividends on their shares for the period since Mar. 31, 1930, &/or otherwise to share in those assets in priority to any repayment of capital to the ordinary shareholders:—Held: on the true construction of the memorandum & articles of association, the preference shareholders were entitled, in priority to the ordinary shareholders, to payment of arrears of fixed cumulative preferential dividend & to repayment of capital.—Re WALTER SYMONS, LTD., [1934] Ch. 308; 103 L. By the arts. of assocn. it was provided that subject to the rights of members entitled to shares issued upon special conditions the profits of the co. should be divisible among the members in proportion to the amount paid up on the shares held by them respectively. The co. was wound up voluntarily & the liquidator having paid all dividends & debts, & returned the whole of the paid-up capital to the shareholders, there remained surplus assets:—Held: (1) as long as the co. was a going concern the preference shareholders were entitled only to the preferential dividend, but on the voluntary winding up this preference was determined, & thenceforward the preference shares retained no preference or priority over the ordinary shares; (2) according to the constitution of the co. the primâ facie presumption in favour of equality of distribution amongst all the shareholders ought to obtain, & the surplus assets, including deposit interest, would be distributed amongst all the shareholders pro rata in proportion to the amount paid up on their shares.—Re MADAME TUSSAUD & SONS, LTD., [1927] 1 Ch. 657; 96 L. An agreement for sale was entered into on Oct. 22, 1928, by which the " B." co. agreed to sell & the new co. agreed to purchase all the undertaking & assets of the " B." co., the consideration being the allotment to the liquidator of the " B." co. or his nominees of 600,000 preference shares of the new co. of £1 each fully paid & 3,600,000 ordinary shares of the new co. of 1*s.* each fully paid. On Nov. 22, 1928, the appointment of the liquidator was confirmed, & he adopted the agreement for sale. On Oct. 22 about 26 shareholders in the " B." co. held the whole of the 120,000 shares in that co. On Nov. 22, 88,000 shares out of those 120,000 shares were held by the solrs. of the " B." co. as bare trustees for the transferors, who were, as to 45,500 shares, eight shareholders, & as to 42,500 shares, the purchaser of those shares from seven shareholders in the " B." co. Shares in the new co. were allotted to the registered holders of 11,200 shares of the " B." co. in respect of those shares. The holders of the remaining 108,800 shares of the " B." co. requested the liquidator of the " B." co. to procure the allotment of the shares in the new co. to which they were entitled to persons other than themselves, & the shares were so allotted by the new co. In the case of a considerable number of shares, exceeding 10 per cent. of the total consideration for sale to the new co. under the agreement for sale, they were allotted to persons who had agreed to purchase either shares of the " B." co. or shares of the new co. to which registered holders of shares in the " B." co. were entitled. As a consequence the first registered holders of shares in the new co. were to an extent far exceeding 10 per cent. of such shares, & far exceeding 10 per cent. of the total consideration for the sale, persons who were not holders of shares in the " B." co. The Comrs. of Inland Revenue held that the agreement for sale was liable to ad valorem duty under Stamp Act, 1891 (c. 39), s. 59 :—Held : the issue of shares to purchasers from, or other nominees of, holders of shares in the " B." co. was not the issue of shares to holders of shares in the " B." co. within Finance Act, 1927 (c. 10), s. 55, & therefore the new co. were not entitled to exemption under that sect.—BROTEX CELLULOSE FIBRES, LTD. v. INLAND REVENUE COMRS., [1933] 1 K. I. co. or their nominees of 30,000 ordinary shares in the M. co. The agreement & subsequent transfers were executed as part of a scheme for the amalgamation of the P. co. & the M. co. The I. C. In 1910 the co. went into liquidation, & in 1913, the trustees having called in the mtge., the co. made default & the trustees appointed a receiver. In 1916 the co. was dissolved, the income of the property being at that time insufficient to meet the mtge. interest, & nothing was done in respect of the equity of redemption as the liquidator considered it to be of no value. 7377a. —— ——.]—In 1933, Dorman, Long & Co., Ltd., & South Durham Steel & Iron Co., Ltd. (hereinafter respectively called "Dormans" & "South Durham"), provisionally agreed that Dormans should acquire South Durham's undertaking & assets. Two schemes of arrangement were prepared, one between Dormans, its 5½ per cent. debenture stockholders & its shareholders, & the other between South Durham & its debenture stockholders & shareholders, each scheme being conditional on the ct.'s sanctioning the other before the end of 1933. On June 19, the ct. ordered that Dormans & South Durham should convene separate meetings of their interested debenture stockholders & of their classes of shareholders, to consider & if thought fit approve the respective schemes, by letter enclosing a print of the scheme & a proxy in the form settled in chambers. On June 20, a circular signed by South Durham's secretary, a notice of the meetings, & forms of proxy settled in chambers, were sent to South Durham's debenture stockholders & shareholders. The circular stated (inter alia) that a revaluation of South Durham's assets had been made by its auditors & confirmed by two named gentlemen. The forms of proxy purported to appoint a certain person as proxy, leaving the donor of the proxy to write "for" or "against" before the words "the scheme." The meetings were to be held on July 19, & a note at the foot of the proxy stated that the proxy must be lodged not later than noon on July 15. On July 3 a circular signed by Dormans' secretary, notices of the meetings ordered by the ct. of its debenture stockholders & shareholders, proxies in the form settled in Chambers, & voting cards, were sent to Dormans' debenture stockholders & shareholders. The circular stated (inter alia) that the whole of Dormans' assets had been revalued upon the basis of their earning power & that the revaluation had been confirmed by two named gentlemen. These were the gentlemen who had confirmed the revaluation of South Durham's assets. The circular stated also that the trustees for the stockholders, after careful investigation, recommended the scheme for the stockholders' approval. It did not state the figures arrived at in the revaluation, nor did it state that, as was the fact, the trustees for the stockholders, who were a bank which had financed Dormans, stood to benefit by the scheme. The forms of proxy were substantially the same as those sent out with South Durham's circular, the date of the meetings being July 27, & the proxies being required to be lodged not later that 6 p.m. on July 25.

Along the side of each voting card was written in red ink "If you are voting as proxy for other holder(s), please write the name of holder(s) on the back of this card." July 3 & July 10, H., a shareholder in South Durham, wrote to its shareholders criticising the scheme & asking them not to sign proxies in favour of it but to sign proxies against it which he enclosed with his second letter. At South Durham's meetings H.'s proxies were rejected as being in a form different from that settled in Chambers, & certain proxies also were rejected as having been lodged after the time fixed for lodging proxies. The chairman reported that, if H.'s proxies were excluded, the scheme would be carried by the requisite statutory majority, & that if they were admitted there would be a majority in number, but not the three-fourths' majority in value, in favour of the scheme. On July 19, a committee of debenture stockholders in Dormans who opposed the scheme, among whom was L., sent a circular to about half the total number of holders of £200 or more 5½ per cent. debenture stock, asking them to vote against it. Many replied that they wished to revoke the proxies they had lodged & vote against the scheme, but feared that it would be too late. At the meeting of Dormans' debenture stockholders, voting cards with the red ink sidenote on them were handed to those attending, & the chairman asked that they would record their votes on them. At the meeting certain proxies were rejected on the ground that they had been lodged after the time fixed for lodging proxies. The chairman reported that at all of Dormans' meetings resolutions approving the scheme without modification were passed. Petitions asking for the ct.'s sanction to the respective schemes came on for hearing on Nov. 22, Dormans' petition being opposed by the debenture stockholders, of whose committee L. was a member, & South Durham's by H. On the hearing of Dormans' petition L. stated in an affidavit that he had no instructions with his voting card, that by request he (L.) took a vote by show of hands on the chairman's refusing to do so & declared the resolution approving the scheme lost, & that the chairman left the room. The chairman gave evidence denying that he left the meeting before the vote was taken & another witness denied that the statements in L.'s affidavit about the meeting were accurate. The confirmation of the schemes by the ct. was sought under 1929 Act, sects. 153 & 154, sects. giving power to compromise with creditors & members & providing for facilitating reconstruction & amalgamation of cos. :—Held : (1) in determining whether a compromise or arrangement should be sanctioned, the ct. must be satisfied that the resolutions in favour of it sufficient, & misleading in its reference t the approval of the scheme by the trustee for the stockholders, & should have state the amount of the revaluation; (5) th description in South Durham's circular of th auditors' report as if it were a valuation o South Durham's assets was justified only i the report was prepared solely in order to ascertain the relative values of the assets of Dormans & South Durham, the opinions of South Durham's board were justified on an optimistic view, & the board had acted reasonably & in the best interests of those concerned.—Re DORMAN, LONG & CO., LTD., Re SOUTH DURHAM STEEL & IRON CO., LTD., [1934] Ch. 635; 103 L. The persons summoned to the meeting under the above sect. were the policy-holders of the co., & no separate meeting was summoned of those whose policies had, as distinct from those whose policies had not, matured:—Held: the insured persons whose policies had matured formed a distinct class of creditors from those whose policies had not matured; a separate meeting of such class ought to have been held under the Act in order to make the arrangement binding upon the members of that class; & the arrangement did not, therefore, operate as a release by deft. of his claim against pltfs.—SOVEREIGN LIFE ASSURANCE CO. v. DODD, [1892] 2 Q. 7551a. Winding-up of reinsurer—Claim against insuring company—Set-off.]—By a treaty of reinsurance dated Apr. 13, 1920, between two insurance cos. the reinsurer accepted a share of all insurances accepted by or renewed by the insuring co. in its fire department. By Art. VIII. of the treaty the insuring co. was entitled to retain & accumulate out of money due to the reinsurer a sum equal to 40 per cent. of the share of all premiums credited to the reinsurer in the first year, this sum to remain as a deposit to secure the due performance of the reinsurer's obligation. The insuring co. was to be entitled to retain deposit, or any balance remaining after satisfying any obligation in respect of which the reinsurer might make default, until the determination of the agreement, paying the reinsurer interest at 3½ per cent. per annum on any part of the deposit not used in manner aforesaid. By Art. IX. the agreement was immediately determinable by notice on the reinsurer going into liquidation. On Jan. 31, 1922, the reinsurer presented its own winding-up petition, & on Feb. 1, 1922, the insuring co. gave notice determining the agreement. On Feb. 14, 1922, a compulsory order was made for the winding up of the reinsurer. After all obligations under the treaty had been satisfied, there remained in the possession of the insuring co. a sum of over £8,000 out of the deposit & a sum of accrued interest. The liquidator of the reinsurer took out a summons for a declaration that the insuring co. was bound to pay over the deposit & interest in full. The insuring co. claimed to be entitled to set them off against sums due to it from the reinsurer under other treaties & policies of insurance & reinsurance :—Held : (1) the interest was a debt due from the insuring co. to the reinsurer & fell therefore within Bkpcy. Act, 1914 (c. 59), s. 31, as being one of a number of mutual credits or debts arising between the parties, & that there was therefore a right of set-off in regard to it; (2) the deposit being money handed over to the insuring co. for a specific purpose, the balance remaining after satisfying the specific purpose continued to be excluded from the course of account between the parties & could not be the subject of a set-off. —Re CITY EQUITABLE FIRE INSURANCE CO., LTD. sg. Full amount insured—No right to repayment of premiums.]—In Jan. 1930, an order was made for the winding up of a life assurance co. In May, 1930, the official liquidator of the co. informed all policy-holders in the co. that the co. would not carry out its obligations under the policies. Between Jan. & May, 1930, certain policy-holders paid their premiums as they became due to the official liquidator. He placed the moneys so received in a special account. The policy-holders claimed that the moneys should be repaid to them. The liquidator now applied to the ct. for directions as to how he should deal with these moneys : —Held : the winding-up order did not determine the policies, & as by virtue of paying the premiums the policy-holders had become entitled to prove in the liquidation for the full amount insured, in the event of the policy maturing prior to repudiation they were not now entitled to the repayment of the premiums, &, therefore, the moneys should be retained by the liquidator as assets of the co.—Re FEDERAL BUILDING ASSURANCE CO., LTD. 7622a. —— ——.]—An insurance co. carrying on a marine & general insurance business but excluding from its objects (inter alia) fire insurance business, insured, through agents in Germany, a consignment of wool whilst in transit from quay to warehouse & whilst stored in a warehouse, against all damage or loss for one month. The policy was on a printed marine form in the German language, & the risks of fire & pilferage were included by indorsement. The policy was twice renewed whilst the wool was in storage upon payment of the same premium. After the second renewal a fire occurred causing serious damage to the wool. The owners claimed under the policy & recovered judgment in Germany, & afterwards in the King's Bench Division, suing on the foreign judgment.

The insurance co. having gone into liquidation, appcts. presented a proof for the amount of the judgment, but the liquidator rejected it:—Held: the policy, though on a

In pursuance of this agreement, the S. & W. Co. paid, from time to time, the contractor's accounts, until the portion of the line required by the B. & W. Co.'s special Act to be open for traffic before the borrowing powers should arise was completed. The S. & W. Co. advanced in that way £12,000. The B. & W. 8481c. Surplus assets — Distribution between original & surplus capital.]—No provision was made in the memorandum or articles of a statutory co., which had a capital of £10,000, either for the distribution of surplus assets in the event of a winding up or for dividends, except that the directors could declare a dividend to the members in proportion to their shares. In 1902 an order, which was confirmed by statute, was made providing for an increase of the capital to £18,000 by an issue of additional shares. The order provided that the undertakers should not make a larger dividend payment than one of 10 per cent. on the original capital & one of 7 per cent. on the additional capital. There was no provision with regard to the distribution of surplus assets & there was nothing else to distinguish the two classes of capital. In 1936 the co.'s undertaking was sold & the co. was wound up. A question arose as to the distribution of surplus assets in the hands of the liquidator after payment of the debts of the co. & after paying to the shareholders the amount paid up on their shares. The surplus assets represented inter alia the proceeds of the carrying on of the undertaking since the last dividend was declared & paid:—Held: (1) as no dividend had been declared by the directors before the winding up, the surplus assets could not be distributed partly as dividend & partly as capital; (2) the surplus assets should be distributed pari passu between the holders of both classes of share capital.—Re SYSTON & THURMASTON GAS, LIGHT & COKE CO., LTD., [1937] 2 All E. 8523a. —— ——.]—A bank incorporated in Russia in 1911, with British shareholders holding a majority of the shares, established a branch in London under separate management in 1915. In 1917 the Bolshevist revolution took place, & the bank ceased to carry on any business in Russia, its last general meeting being held at Petrograd in June, 1917. In 1921 an action was commenced in the name of the bank by British shareholders to recover two sums of £100,000 & £80,000, forming part of a credit lodged by the former Russian Govt. with defts., an English bank, & alleged to have been assigned to pltfs. Pleadings were delivered, but the action lay dormant for several years, after which pleadings were amended & the A.-G. was added as a deft. At some uncertain date, either before or shortly after the action was launched, pltfs. were dissolved & ceased to exist as a corpn. at Russian law by virtue of a decree of the Soviet Government:—Held: on a procedure summons taken out by defts., the action must be stayed indefinitely, as pltfs. no longer existed either in Russia or in Great Britain.

8523d. —— ——.]—By a decree dated June 20, 1936, the Italian government purported to dissolve the Bank of Ethiopia. The Emperor Haile Selassie had left Abyssinia on May 1 or 2, 1936. In an action begun on Sept. 29, 1936, the Bank of Ethiopia made claims against the National Bank of Egypt (its correspondent in Cairo & London), & against the liquidator appointed pursuant to the Italian decree. In the action direction was made for the trial of the issue whether the Bank of Ethiopia had been dissolved or had otherwise ceased to exist by virtue of the laws of the country under the laws whereof it was incorporated, or, if it had not so ceased to exist, whether the action had been brought with its authority. On Apr. 28, 1937, the Emperor Haile Selassie, in England, signed a decree purporting to empower all cos. incorporated under Ethiopian law to hold valid meetings of their members & of their councils of administration & to carry on business outside Abyssinia. On Apr. 29, 1937, the issue came before the Ct. for trial. During the hearing there was put before the ct. a certificate from the Foreign Office showing that the British government, in Dec. 1936, recognised the Italian government as being in fact (de facto) the government of the area province on a contract made out of the province with respect to property situate outside of the province; but the pltf. foreign co. must prove its incorporation under the laws of the country in which it alleges it is incorporated.

A certificate, purporting to be under the hand & seal of the Secretary of State for a certain state of the United States of America, to the effect that the document attached thereto contains a true & correct copy of the charter of the pltf. co. is not receivable in evidence to prove that the co. is incorporated in that state. But applying K. B. rule 343, leave was given pltf. to establish its incorporation by an affidavit of said Secretary of State or of some official connected with his office who can testify as to the incorporation & verify an examined copy of the charter.—BONDHOLDERS SECURITIES CORPN. v. MANVILLE, [1933] 3 W. By a series of decrees passed in 1918 the Soviet Govt. purported to put all insurance cos. in Russia into liquidation & to appropriate their property. In the spring of 1923 C. sent a notice to the registrar that the co. which he represented had ceased to exist, & at his request this notice was placed upon the file. In the summer of the same year resps. brought an action against the co. by specially indorsed writ for payment of a sum of money claimed to be due to them in respect of certain insurance transactions. The writ was served upon C., who protested that he had no power to act for the co., & judgment was signed in default of appearance:—Held: (1) at the date of the writ the co. had not ceased to exist by virtue of the decrees of the Soviet Govt.; (2) the service of the writ on C. was valid; (3) the co. by putting on the file the name of a person authorised to accept service of process on its behalf agreed to submit to the jurisdiction of the ct., & it must be assumed that the Russian Govt. would, according to the comity of nations, recognise the judgment as effective.—[illegible] LIABILITY ASSURANCE CORPN. v. COLLINS & Co., [1927] A. 8527b. —— Company extinct—Judgment by default—Garnishee proceedings—Invalid.]—On Oct. 29, 1930, a writ was issued by applts. against a Moscow bank, hereinafter called the Industrial Bank, claiming £362,396 15*s.* as a debt & interest; an affidavit was sworn on which an order was made for service of notice of the writ on the Industrial Bank at Moscow. On Nov. 24, 1930, judgment was entered for applts. in default of appearance. On Nov. 28, 1930, applts. received a letter from the Soviet Embassy, dated Nov. 27, 1930, returning the notices of the writ & stating that they could not be delivered as the Industrial Bank went out of existence during the 1917 Oct. revolution. On Dec. 12, 1930, the applts. obtained a garnishee order nisi against resps., who were indebted to the Industrial Bank for a sum in excess of the sum for which applts. had obtained judgment. A copy of the order was sent on the same day to the Industrial Bank but was returned marked "unknown."

On the questions whether the garnishee order nisi should be set aside on the ground that the judgment was a nullity, having been signed against a non-existent deft., since the Industrial Bank had ceased to exist as a juristic person before the date of the writ, & further whether the order should not also be set aside on the ground that there was no proper service on defts. even if existent:—Held: (1) the English ct. recognised that the governing authority in Russia was, & had been since Oct. 1917, the Soviet State, & the Russian Soviet law, as to whether the Industrial Bank was in Oct. 1930, an existing juristic person, was a question of fact which must be proved by qualified expert evidence as to the foreign law & decided by the judge alone; the evidence compelled the conclusion that the Industrial Bank was by Soviet law non-existent in Russia in 1930, & therefore the judgment & garnishee proceedings must be set aside; (2) the discretion of the ct. ought to be exercised to set aside the order for service of the writ, & in refusing to treat the judgment as of sufficient foundation for a garnishee order, as the affidavit had not properly disclosed the position, & because no reference was therein made to the procedure provided for such cases by R. S. C., Ord. 11, r. 8, which, if it had been complied with would have resulted in the judge becoming aware of the impossibility of service of the notice of the writ; (3) at the material time the procedure under R. S. C., Ord. 11, was mandatory, the relevant words being "the following procedure shall be adopted"

& not as now permissive by the substitution since made by the Rules Committee of the word "may" for the word "shall." Accordingly, apart from the want of accuracy in the affidavit, the order for substituted service was made by an incompetent procedure & was a nullity. The judgment, therefore, based on such service & the subsequent garnishee proceedings failed.—LAZARD BROS. & Co. v. MIDLAND BANK, LTD., [1933] A. C. 289; 102 L. J. K. B. 191; 148 L. T. 242; 49 T. 8527d. —— —— Setting aside judgment.]—A Chilean co. was formed under Chilean law by the making of two decrees in Mar. & Apr. 1931. On Jan. 2, 1933, a Presidential decree was issued declaring that the two former decrees creating the co. were repealed & left without effect. On Jan. 19, 1933, a judgment in favour of the then pltfs. (the present defts.) was given in an action in the English High Ct. against the co. Pltfs. in the present action, members of a Liquidation Commission appointed to take over the assets lately belonging to the Chilean co., claimed a declaration that the judgment given in the English High Ct. was null & void:—Held: the effect of the Presidential decree was that the co., although it had had a de facto existence, never came into legal existence & was not a de jure entity, & was non-existent at the time when the judgment was given against it. The present pltfs. were therefore entitled to a declaration that the judgment against the co. was null & void as having been given against a non-existent deft.—BURR v. ANGLO-FRENCH 282; 49 T. L. the laws of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, which decrees had transferred its assets to the Soviet Govt., & that payment could not be demanded from any person or body of persons. Petitioner's debt was disputed & the bank opposed the petition on the ground, also supported by expert evidence, that it could not have ceased to exist as long as it had, as it claimed to have in London & Paris, branches with which the Soviet Govt. had not dealt & which it had not taken over. Pursuant to an order of the Registrar the petition had been served upon the persons registered as authorised to accept service in England, & no question was raised before the ct. as to the validity of the service :—Held : (1) the result of the Russian revolutionary legislation of 1917 & the following years was to put an end to the juristic existence of banking companies incorporated in Russia, including those which had branches established in England ; (2) apart from that conclusion, the impossibility of a branch of such a Russian bank continuing to function according to its incorporating statutes was a sufficient ground for a winding-up order ; (3) such an order might be made even if the debt of the petitioning creditor was in dispute ; (4) the Soviet decrees could not have the effect of extinguishing or transferring debts regarded in English law as being locally situate in England ; (5) the ct.'s jurisdiction was not affected by the circumstance that the Soviet Govt. which, up to the date of the judgment on the petition, had not intervened, might possibly establish a claim to some part of the assets.—Re RUSSIAN BANK FOR FOREIGN TRADE, [1933] Ch. 745 ; 102 L. 903. For the paragraph in the original volume substitute the following paragraph :—

—— —— —— —— ——.]—By the Lanchester Inclosure Act, 1773, the moors & commons of the manor of Lanchester, Durham, were divided & allotted. The Act provided that the lord of the manor & his assigns should have, hold & enjoy all mines & minerals within & under the allotments, with full & free liberty of searching for, draining, winning & working the mines & minerals by any ways or means then in use or thereafter to be invented as fully & freely as he might or could have had, held, used & enjoyed the same in case that Act had not been made without paying any damages or making any satisfaction for so doing; & also that the annual rental of a certain allotment to the justices should be applied in or towards the compensation of those allottees whose allotments were damnified by the exercise of the lord's mining rights, & that any deficiency should be made up by means of a rate levied upon all the allottees:—Held: (1) the case was governed by the decision of the Ct. of Appeal in Consett Waterworks Co. v. Ritson, No. 901, ante, which was a decision on the identical question arising on the construction of the same Act & in the same circumstances, & although the reasoning upon which that decision was founded had been disapproved of by the House of Lords in Butterknowle Colliery Co. v. Bishop Auckland Industrial Co., No. 905, post, the decision itself had not been overruled & was therefore binding upon the ct., & defts. had a right to work the mines so as to let down the surface of the land without paying damages or making any compensation to pltfs.; (2) (YOUNGER, L.J.) the decision at which the Ct. of Appeal had felt itself compelled to arrive in deference to authority binding upon it might quite well have been reached on the construction of the Act itself apart altogether from the decision by which it was bound.—CONSETT INDUSTRIAL & PROVIDENT SOCIETY, LTD. v. CONSETT IRON CO., [1922] 2 Ch. 135; 91 L. The land was conveyed to the local authority for the purposes authorised by the Public Health Acts. A plan & specifications were submitted to the Local Government Board, & subsequently the scheme was carried out in accordance with the plan & specifications. The pleasure gardens were surrounded by railings, & were not dedicated or open to the public. In 1927 the local authority resolved to utilise one of the pleasure grounds for the purpose of street widening & providing a parking place for motor cars. Objections were raised by some of the occupiers of adjoining premises, & an action was brought to restrain the local authority from carrying out their resolution:—Held: as one of the purposes for which the land was acquired was street widening, the local authority was not acting ultra vires in using part of the pleasure gardens for that purpose.—A.-G. v. SUNDERLAND CORPN., [1929] 2 Ch. 436; 45 T. of those lands due to the anticipated legal use of works which might be constructed upon the two promontories, applts. were owners whose lands had been injuriously affected, & accordingly they were entitled to compensation; further, the ct. in assessing the compensation should have regard to the anticipated use of the promontories as part of a shunting yard, not to the actual use at the time of the assessment.—ROCKINGHAM SISTERS OF CHARITY v. R., [1922] 2 A. 263a. —— ——.]—By a private Act the President of the Air Council was authorised to enter upon, take & use all or any of certain lands, & also to construct a certain new thoroughfare. By sect. 2 he was authorised to stop up a portion of a certain lane known as Plough-lane. By sect. 5, "subject as hereinafter provided the Lands Clauses Acts are for the purpose of the acquisition of land under this Act incorporated with this Act." Then followed several exceptions, which did not specify sect. 68 of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, which deals with injurious affection. Lands were taken by the President under the special Act, & the said portion of Plough-lane was stopped up.

The claimant owned a dwelling-house in Plough-lane, not the part stopped up. No lands of the claimant were taken by the President under the Act, but his premises were depreciated in value to the extent of £100, through the stopping up of a portion of Plough-lane, rendering his premises less accessible in one direction. The claimant claimed compensation in respect of the stopping up of this portion of Plough-lane. On the hearing of an award in the form of a special case stated by an official arbitrator under Acquisition of Land (Assessment of Compensation) Act, 1919 (c. 57), s. 6 (1), it was contended for the President of the Air Council that the claimant had no right to claim compensation on the ground that no portion of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, was incorporated with the special Act as regards sect. 2 thereof, which was not a sect. for the purpose of the acquisition of land, but one merely authorising the closing of a thoroughfare; & also on the ground that sect. 68 of the Act of 1845 was not incorporated with the Special Act as its provisions for "injurious affection" were not for the acquisition of land. The official arbitrator asked the following question of the ct.: Was the claimant entitled to be paid compensation in respect of the stopping up of this portion of Plough-lane? The ct. answered the question in the affirmative.—WRIGHT v. AIR COUNCIL, PRESIDENT (1929), 143 L. T. 43.
